Paris-to-London Air Trip Ends In Death for 28

Plane Overshoots Runway, Crashes Explodes in Fog

London, Nov. 1 (CP)—A "bargain" Paris-to-London air trip ended in death for twenty-eight fog persons.

They were killed in a fog shrouded British European Airways plane, which overshot a runway at London airport, crashed into a pile of pipe and exploded.

Of the 28 passengers and a crew of four aboard, two Londoners survived the crash with severe, but not critical, injuries. The survivors were stewardess Alice Sieen and William Perkins, a passenger, both of London.

Most of the passengers were of French, British or Irish nationality. Three were Americans. Most of them were taking advantage of B.E.A.'s £10 (about $28.50) London-to-Paris roundtrip excursion rate.

The two-engined Viking plane, Northolt airport because of the Northolt airport because of the swirling grey weather was making a ground-controlled (radar) landing in one of Autumn's worst fogs.

The heavy weather hampered rescue work.

Two weeks ago a B.E.A. twoengined Dakota crashed in the same area, killing 28 of the 29 aboard. The worst crash in the London district occurred in 1948, when 36 died in the collision of a Swedish airliner and a R.A.F. transport.

The crash scene was eerily lighted by headlight beams from cars and torches of volunteer workers. The fog was so dense that fire engines had to grope their way slowly toward the wreckage.

One airport fireman said: "We had some difficulty locating her because of the fog. She was a blazing mass when we got there."

Parts of the plane were scattered over hundreds of yards. One of the plane's engines was found a quarter of a mile from the main debris.

Accused Cop Offers to Extort Confession

Brunswick, Germany, Nov. 1 — (Reuters) — A former policeman, Rudolf Pfeil, 36, charged with 10 "thrill" murders, Tuesday offered to extort a confession from a co-defendant.

The court declined Pfeil's offer.

Stocky, smiling Pfeil is said to have confessed in a partly - obscene diary that he killed 30 persons. He had admitted revelling in "great pleasure" in killing and maiming animals while a child.

Pfeil offered to extort a confession from sturdy Karl Hofman, 36, charged with complicity in five of the murders. Another co-defendant Konrad Schuesser, 22, former member of the French Foreign Legion, is charged with complicity in two.

Schuesser, looking haggard, told the court today how he and Pfeil murdered two German women and threw their bodies into a well.

New Economic Relationship Seen Under ERP

London, Nov. 1 — (AP)—British officials reported Tuesday night Anglo - American talks will begin here soon to develop some new economic relationship under the European recovery program.

Treasury spokesmen refused comment on C. A. chief William C. Foster-Washington statement indicating possible suspension of free American dollar aid to Britain.

But the informants made it clear British intends to press the United States to reconsider the decision on grounds mainly that British recovery — reflected in its strengthening gold and dollar reserve position — is not necessarily permanent.

The informants said they should Americans free dollar aid be cut off, the British - led sterling area will have to continue its policy of restricting dollar spending.

One thing, nonetheless, seemed clear to the experts: that gold and dollar earnings are continuing their upward trend despite soaring prices of raw materials like wool, rubber and tin.

By Sept. 30 Britain had doubled the size of the gold and dollar reserves the year since devaluation of sterling.

King Gustav Leaves $3,000,000

Stockholm, Nov. 1—AP—The newspaper Aftonbladet said today that the late King Gustav V, who died Sunday at the age of 92, left a fortune of some 15,000,000 crowns (about $3,000,000).

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Nov. 1. (CP)—Synopsis: An intense storm off the east coast of Newfoundland caused winds of gale force at times and considerable rainfall during the night. Rainfall from a less severe storm centre occurred on the west coast. Warm sunny weather continues over regions from the lower Great Lakes southward. Cool air, however, is moving southward across the Upper Lakes with cloudiness in its wake.

Cloudiness in Northern Ontario will move into Central and Southern regions by Thursday.

PONTOON FOUND IDENTIFIED AS PART OF PLANE

Believe Woman, Pilot Killed in Crash

Sudbury, Nov. 1. (CP)— Hope faded today for the lives of Ruth Dunoon, 40, and Leo (Louis) Slivinski, 31, occupants of a light plane believed to have crashed into Lake Huron during a fog.

Searchers today cast up on a lonely stretch of shoreline two miles east of Providence Bay on the southern shore of Manitoulin Island have been identified as parts of the plane Canuck aircraft missing since Sunday. Fog hampered a search today for the man and woman and for additional plane wreckage.

Dr. C. D. Morris of Owen Sound, who had employed Miss Dunoon as his office nurse for ten years, said today he arranged for her to be flown from Tobermory, at the tip of Bruce Peninsula, to his camp near Algoma Mills, 100 miles west of Sudbury.

Miss Dunoon went from Owen Sound to Tobermory by bus and boarded the plane, which had been sent from Algoma Mills with Slivinski as pilot. The aircraft was owned by Lac Soma Airways, of which Carl Mattini is president.

Mattini said that Slivinski went to Tobermory early Sunday to take up a passenger but was later reported by telephone from Tobermory that fog made it impossible for him to take off.

When the plane did not show up at Algoma Monday morning, Mattini got in touch with Tobermory by radio and learned that Slivinski had left with a single passenger at 10.25 a.m. Sunday in comparatively good weather.

Mattini, in another place, traced the route Slivinski would have used. He spotted the aircraft parts near Providence Bay and landed nearby. He said that from various markings he could identify them positively as parts of Slivinski's plane.

He looked as if the aircraft had flown straight into the water with terrific force," he said.

When combined police and transport department officials were informed, Foot patrols were sent along the shore in Manitoulin Island opposite where the plane parts were found.

Slivinski is a former R.C.A.F. flight engineer with considerable northern flying experience. He was formerly employed by Wheeler Airlines in Quebec and Nickel Belt Airlines, here.

CRIMINALLY ATTACKED

Brockville, Nov. 1 — (CP) — Mrs. Mary Phillips, 48, of nearby Huntsville, a taxi-driver, testified Tuesday she was tied to a tree and at gunpoint, criminally attacked by three youths last summer. Two of the youths, Douglas Davies, both 17 and of Toronto, are charged with rape and with armed robbery of a service station at nearby Dwight. Trial is continuing.

Pope Proclaims Assumption Dogma Before Million People, Climactic End to Holy Year

By FRANK BRUTTO

Vatican City, Nov. 1—(AP) — Pope Pius, in the most austere act of his reign, today proclaimed as Roman Catholic dogma that Mary, mother of Jesus, went bodily and spiritually to heaven.

A crowd of nearly 1,000,000 overflowed vast St. Peter's Square and reached to Castel St. Angelo, three-quarters of a mile away.

Massed before the temporary papal throne in front of St. Peter's central door were 38 of the church's 53 living cardinals and 580 of its bishops, archbishops and patriarchs from all corners of the world.

Well to the fore were the representatives of the 40 countries with which the Vatican maintains diplomatic relations.

They had come to witness the proclamation of the first dogma into the Roman Catholic creed since 1870. The 1870 dogma declared that the Pope is infallible when he speaks "ex cathedra" (from the chair) on faith and morals. The Pope spoke this day.

A previous dogma in 1854 proclaimed the immaculate conception of the Virgin Mary.

Most Accept Creed

By establishing the dogma as part of the faith, Roman Catholics must accept the creed or risk the pain or heresy.

The pontiff began reading the papal bull from a temporary throne before the central door of St. Peter's Basilica at 9.40 a.m. (3.40 a.m. EST).

In a clear, ringing voice carried by loudspeakers to what Vatican sources said was the largest ceremonial gathering known in the history of Christendom, he pronounced in Latin that it had been divinely revealed that Mary went to heaven in body as well as in soul.

Radio facilities carried his words to all parts of the world.

As he spoke the religiously historic phrase, he hurriedly left cheers and "vivas" rose from the tremendous assembly.

Listen in Silence

But the crowd listened in deep silence as the Pope proclaimed:

"We pronounce, declare and define to be a dogma revealed by God that the Immaculate Mother of God, Mary ever a virgin, at the end of her earthly life was taken up into celestrial glory in soul and body."

Fleecy white doves were released from the soaring facade of the great Basilica, to symbolize the message was carried to the peoples of the world, the bells of St. Peter's rang out, echoed by all the bells of Rome in the deep roar of cheers from the crowd.

The solemnity began at 8.30 a.m. in bright sunshine, when the head of the-great procession conducting the papal party emerged from the bronze doors of Vatican palace.

The Pope, robed in white and wearing his jewelled mitre, was borne on his portable throne before the multitude, many of whom had been waiting since dawn.

George Bernard Shaw Lapses Into What Seems Dying Coma

Ayott St. Lawrence, England, Nov. 1 — (AP) — George Bernard Shaw lapsed into what seemed to be his dying coma today.

The 94-year-old playwright lost consciousness at 7 a. m. A few hours later his breathing became labored and heavy. At 12:20 p.m. he was still unconscious and the spark of life flickering weakly.

The old Irishman, best known playwright of modern times, suffered a relapse Sunday seven days after he underwent two operations, one for a kidney ailment and one to pin together the thigh bone he broke in a fall in his garden Sept. 9.

He is in his home, Shaw's Corners, in a ground floor sick room that had been his dining room.

Dr. P. De Pridyn called at his home at 8:55 a. m. and again at noontime. After his second call, he told waiting reporters:

"His condition is the same. There is no change."

An Anglican clergyman, Rev. R. A. Pawley, read commendatory prayers" at the bedside for Shaw's soul. He remained with Shaw 15 minutes.

Shaw, the clergyman said, was "no atheist" although he often professed to be.

"He never attended church in recent years because of his advanced age," the minister said. "But it is true to say that he was an atheist. He believed in God."

But Shaw, unconscious, was unable to hear the prayers.

Last night Shaw was reported running a nigh fever. At times he did not even recognize his longtime housekeeper.

Virginia-born Viscountess Astor, a close friend, drove out from London to spend an hour at his bedside last night, stroking his brow to soothe him.

"Oh, Nancy, I want to sleep, sleep," he told her.

WIDOWED FATHER FIVE CHILDREN FATALLY SHOT

21-Year-Old Youth Charged with Murder

South Porcupine, Ont., Nov. 1 (CP) — A murder charge was laid against Constance Perigan, 21, in the rifle-slaying early today of William Helmer, 35-year-old garage man.

Police Chief Charles McGinnis said Helmer, widowed and father of five children, was shot through the heart after he intervened in a street quarrel between Perigan and his wife home from a Hallowe'en dance.

Helmer and Ferrigan both attended the dance, but in separate parties.

Helmer, driving home with two friends, stopped to buy cigarets at a restaurant on the main street of this gold-mining town 5 miles south of Timmins. On the way back to his car, he passed a group of about six young men who were arguing.

"Hey, fight, boys. Hallowe'en is over," he is quoted as saying.

A witness told police there was a rifle shot. Helmer staggered a few steps toward the wall of a building and collapsed.

Helmer was described as one of the most popular citizens of this northwest Ontario town.

His wife died in childbirth a little more than a year ago. His father was drowned on a fishing trip two years ago. The eldest of Helmer's children is 14 years old.

Police seized a 22-calibre rifle believed used in the slaying.

Crown Drops Robbery Charge

Dundas, Nov. 1 — (CP) — A charge of robbery against Earl Miller of North Bay was dropped here yesterday when George Beer, 24-year-old implement dealer, testified Miller did not rob him Sept. 6. A charge of retaining was laid against Miller and his partner was remanded to Magistrate J. E. Robinson.

Beer testified from his Massian-built rak propeller fighter. Four of the Mustangs shot down by the jets without a loss.

A rear gunner shot down one of two other yaks that jumped from behind clouds west of Sinchon.

Visibility was hampered by smoke rolling from artillery-ignited forest fires. But six enemy jets were spotted flying south toward a U.S. 24th division tank column west of Sonchon.

Lt. Col. Royal Nurse, flight of Mustangs. Reports that American F-80 Shooting Star jets had joined in the fight were unconfirmed erroneous by a fifth air force spokesman.

Lt. Col. Nurse said one F-80 was shot down by anti-aircraft fire in a sweep on Sinanju airfield across the Yalu River boundary from Sinchon. Some other warmilla were put out of business. Others had large stocks of lumber and logs swept

Three or Four Men Shot Before Truman's House

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP) — Three men, possibly four, were shot today in a gun battle in front of the President's home, the Blair House.

Reporters who followed ambulances and police vehicles to the scene could see two men in civilian clothes crumpled behind the small bedge adjoining Blair house.

Another wounded man, also in civilian clothes, lay with his head on the Blair House steps.

There were reports of gunfire through the crowd which quickly gathered that two men, one a policeman, had been shot.

President Truman was in Blair House at the time. While police were trying to push back the crowd and determine what had happened, Truman looked out the window of the executive mansion.

Secret service men waved reporters back with the curt command "stay away, stay away." They refused to answer questions.

Three Soviet-Made Yaks Shot Down By U.S. Fighters

Reds Offer Stiff Resistance All Along Northern Front

Seoul, Nov. 1 — (AP)—American armor rammed roughshod over rallying communists in Northwestern Korea and thrust within 19 air miles of the communist Manchurian border.

Overhead, Russian - built jet fighters, flying at almost the speed of sound, were battled to a draw by slower United States F-51 Mustang fighters. Apparently neither side lost any planes in the dogfight, a spokesman said.

The swift ground thrust to Charyongwan by a tank column of the U. S. 24th Division came after fierce communist counterattacks along the Chong River were repulsed Tuesday night.

Earlier Wednesday, three Russian - made Yak conventional-type planes were shot down by U. S. fighters and a light bomber. One American jet fighter was downed by red anti-aircraft fire.

Red Korean resistance along the whole northern front was stiff. Communist cavalry swept down on allied forces.

Cavalry has not been used to any extent earlier in the war. The red Koreans who invaded South Korea June 25 were equipped with Russian - made tanks, field pieces and automatic weapons.

The use of cavalry in the Orient harks back to the Mongolian hordes that swept across the Asian plains centuries ago.

A second Chinese communist regiment officially was reported in action in Korea. U. S. 10th Corps headquarters said the regiment was identified in the northeast sector.

Rescue Unarmed

Flying through smoke-streaked skies, American F-51 Mustang fighters rescued an unarmed T-6 Texan observation plane from six Russian-built yak propeller fighters. Four of the Mustangs shot down two of the yaks without a loss.

A rear gunner shot down one of two other yaks that jumped from behind clouds west of Sinchon.

Visibility was hampered by smoke rolling from artillery-ignited forest fires. But six enemy jets were spotted flying south toward a U.S. 24th division tank column west of Sonchon.

West Oregon Battens Down Against Storm

Portland, Ore., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Drenched and flood-damaged western Oregon battened down today for a bout with another Pacific storm moving toward the mainland.

The new blow may hit late today. Forecasters doubted it would have the fury of the weekend downpour that caused flash floods in coastal valley and claimed five lives.

Flood damage in the northern California and western Oregon region is in the millions. There are no official estimates. But miles of roads are weakened and broken scores of bridges have been washed away and power and telephone utilities are just beginning to piece together their circuits and hundreds of homes have water and silt repairs to be done.

Even industries felt the brunt. Some lumber sawmills were put out of business. Others had large stocks of lumber and logs swept

Five Engineers From Romania Tell of Life Behind Iron Curtain

Manchester, England, Nov. 1 (AP)—Five British engineers who claim they were spied on and obstructed for three months while working in a Romanian textile mill are back home with a new report on life behind the iron curtain.

The five went to the mill town of Jassy, six miles from the Russian border, on a one-year job of setting up British textile machinery. Letters of complaint from the engineers caused their employers, the Platt Brothers engineering firm of Manchester, to withdraw them after three months.

They charged that conditions in Jassy were primitive and the food and living conditions unsatisfactory. One of the engineers was spat on in the street.

The five are: Norman Smith, Harry Rae, Harry Addyman, J. Hunter Mitchell and Jack Wilson, all of Manchester.

Rae said: "We were followed by secret police everywhere we went and our 'interpreter' never let us out of his sight. Eventually, we became so worried that we insisted on getting home and the British consulate in Bucharest arranged for us to fly from Bucharest to us."

The five lived in a bombed house without water or electric light. Their diet was restricted to bread, maize porridge and black bread. When all five contracted dysentery, Rae said, nothing but cabbage would do nothing for us because he had no medical supplies."

"We were hemmed in and shut off people with injuries, washed, and used again."

The field of the Platt firm said the decision to withdraw the men was British-wide, following many Romanian government officials followed a strong letter of complaint from the engineers.

The letter said: "Everything we recommended first had to be discussed at a conference incorporating all the laborers and assistants on the field.

"Usually we are ignored when we tell anyone to do a job, and the management backs up the foreman who does what he wants to do and not when we say he should do."

Cabinet May Deal with Army's Special Force

Ottawa, Nov. 1—(CP)—Cabinet at its regular session today may deal with the vexing problem of the army's special force.

Informed opinion is that an official statement may be made shortly, probably this week, about the next move for the 11,000-man brigade group.

Official indications are that the bulk of the force will train in the United States this winter and sail to Europe next year. Around 1,000 men would be detached for occupation duty in Korea.

But formally the force still is committed to United Nations action in Korea and this, authorities feel, is no time to withdraw publicly from that obligation because of resurgent red resistance.

So the statement may well sidestep any mention of "decommitment" from Korea.

At the same time, the Atlantic Pact integrated force for western Europe has not been established and any statement of commitment of the force there would be premature.

Analyze Reservoir Of Air Veterans Now Civilians

Ottawa, Nov. 1.—(CP)— In a move aimed at swift mass examination, the air force is making a new analysis of its reservoir of 150,000 male veterans now in civilian life.

Headquarters announced today that many veterans "are being asked to indicate if they wish to be on the R.C.A.F. reserve." That would put them on a list which would give the force an up-to-date idea of just what sort of help it could count on immediately war broke out.

Similarly today, letters will be mailed to all former members of the service, excluding members of the women's division: those now engaged in active service with the reserve such as members of the auxiliary squadrons; and personnel on the retired list.

The letters request veterans to state whether they wish to be listed on the reserve, and to provide information concerning their civil experience since leaving the force. Mailing should be completed by Nov. 15.

Trygve Lie's Term Extended Three Years Over Red Bloc Objections

New York, Nov. 1 (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly today extended Secretary-General Trygve Lie's term for three more years despite a Soviet bloc threat not to use the U.N.

By a vote of 46 to 5 with seven abstentions, the assembly supported the United States position that Lie should be kept in office as an international safeguard for the war he handled the Korean case. Yugoslavia joined the 46 to 5 vote. 600-a-year job the assembly rejected a Soviet resolution to toss the matter back to the Security Council which had failed to agree on a candidate after a month of consideration. The vote on the Russian proposal was nine in favor, 37 against and 11 abstaining.

An Iraqi resolution to refer the issue to a seven-nation committee for a two-week study also was rejected. The vote on this was 15 for, 37 against, and seven abstaining.

Russia's foreign minister, Andrei Y. Vishinsky, led the Russian bloc opposition to the extension. He charged that the Korean case had not been handled by the U.N. but by the United States.

Vishinsky told the assembly that when Russia objected to Lie it was "the duty of others to respect the Soviet view. Otherwise, the majority would be trampling the rights of the minority," he added.

Vishinsky repeated his denial that the Soviet Union wanted to punish Lie for his stand on Korea.

C.N.R. Engineers Honor Three On Retirement

Canadian National Railways engineers working out of Belleville honored three of their retired members at a presentation party held Tuesday night at the Oddfellows Hall on Front Street. Approximately 150 attended the social evening, which ended with a dance.

The three engineers who were retired from the service during the year were James Miller, 81 St. Charles Street; George Wilson, Chatham Street and Joseph Deyman, now living at Mimico.

With 49 years' service as a railroader to his credit, Mr. Wilson had the longest service of the three retired engineers. Mr. Wilson started with the C.N.R. at Montreal in 1901 as a call boy. Then he went on the road as a fireman and in 1907 was classed as an engineer. He joined the Canadian Northern in 1913 at Belleville and ran between Port Arthur and Ottawa before joining the Central Region in 1927. He was retired in March of this year.

Still Working

But Mr. Wilson's working days are still not over and each day sees him at his present job of tending an oil-fired boiler in the Diesel Construction Company at the air strip extension project at the Trenton R.C.A.F. station.

Mr. Deyman was 38 years with the Canadian National and Grand Trunk. He started as a fireman at Mimico and was classed engineer in 1912. He worked on passenger and freight service between Brockville and Windsor. He was a resident of Belleville for about four years from 1940 to 1944 when he returned to Mimico. He retired in August.

Mr. Miller has had railroad service in Canada, Africa and Atlantic. Born at Stirling, Scotland, he fired on the former Caledonian Railroad for nine years and came to Belleville in 1912 when he started with the Canadian National engineer and freight service. He retired in July.

Presented With Gifts

Larry Grey made the presentation address to the retired engineers with Chief Engineer Dave Fisher making the presentation. Mr. Deyman received fishing tackle; Mr. Miller, a Nonon lighter, and Mr. Wilson, a pen and pencil set.

Committee members responsible for arrangements included Albert Clarke, chairman; Neil Robb, secretary-treasurer, and Percy Kerr, as master of ceremonies. The McAvoy Orchestra provided the music for dancing with refreshments being served by the ladies of St. Andrew's Church, under the direction of Mrs. Percy Townsley.

Sidney Public Speaking Contest On Thursday

The annual public speaking contest for Sidney Township will be held in the Orange Hall, Wallbridge, on Thursday evening, November 2nd, at 8 o'clock o'clock. Early reports from the teachers indicate a large number of both Junior and Senior speakers will be competing for the honor of representing Sidney Township at the South Hastings Educational Association's finals in Belleville next week.

These events which are sponsored by the S. H. E. Association and conducted by the Teachers' Association with the aid of the boards and the township councils are being recognized for their value and getting the support which they deserve. Last year the hall was filled to capacity and it is expected that with the interest the children are showing there will be another large turnout. Anyone interested is invited to be present.

WILL RUN FOR BOARD

Ottawa, Nov. 1 (CP) — Dr. Charlotte Whitton, well-known welfare worker, firebrand speaker and writer, will run for Ottawa Board of Control in the forthcoming Ottawa Civic elections Dec. 4. If elected, the 54-year-old native of Renfrew, Ont. will be the first woman controller in capital city history.

$2,300 BRACELET STOLEN

Hong Kong, Nov. 1 (AP)—Senator Claude Pepper, Florida Democrat, reported today that a $2,300 bracelet was stolen last night from Mrs. Pepper at their hotel room. The Senator and Mrs. Pepper, who are returning from a visit from the Middle East by way of the Orient, said the bracelet contained 17 sapphires, 12 diamonds and eight other stones.

George Foster Re-Elected Head Of C.N.R.A.A.

Mr. George Foster, special agent, C.N.R. Belleville, was re-elected president of the Canadian National Railways Athletic Association by acclamation at a meeting held recently in the board room of the C.N.R. station. The re-election of Mr. Foster by acclamation testified that the members of the association were appreciative of the long hours and tireless efforts put forth by Mr. Foster and shows that the same good leadership is desired again during the year to come.

Mr. Foster and Mrs. Ed Schlievert were elected vice presidents of the association and both Mr. Amo and Mr. Schlievert addressed the meeting thanking the nominating committee and members for the honor bestowed upon them and pledging their cooperation to the aims of the association for the coming year. The following is the executive slate of officers, chairmen and their committee members for the 1950-51 term.

Question of High School Area Will Be Debated

The question of a High School area in the Bay of Quinte district is going to be debated at the Collegiate Home and School meeting on Monday next. As this district is city and rural residents it promises to be interesting and informative.

Senior leaders of the Junior and Senior rugby teams are going to be present, as an inducement to Grade Nine parents a small prize will be presented to that grade with the most parents present.

Mr. C. Templer is still in need of five violins for his Collegiate symphonic orchestra. Even if the instruments lack strings they will be acceptable as a loan and will be returned in good condition.

Hallowe'en Briefs

Troy, N.Y., Nov. 31 — (AP) — When Miss Margaret Maloney answered her doorbell tonight it was time Hallowe'en night she expected another batch of children to chant "trick or treat."

Instead, a slim, light-haired man wearing a false face and a raincoat mumbled "trick or treat." The 58-year-old spinster dropped a dime in her bed and minus at least $19.

Kansas City, Nov. 1 — (AP) — Four bandits wearing rubber Hallowe'en masks walked into a dinner party last night and took jewelry valued at $12,300 from host Louis Mayer and guests.

Troy, N.Y., Nov. 1 — (AP) — Gail Seymour, 11, blew her Hallowe'en horn too loud and landed in the hospital.

Gail, who came here from West Sand Lake, N.Y., to see a costume parade, swallowed the noisemaker in her horn. She was held at hospital for observation.

Barton, Md., Nov. 1 — (AP) — It was a real trick — In this western Maryland mountain community last night.

Doorbells rang as usual on Hallowe'en. But when the door was opened by a member of the household received a big, red apple from the caller.

The well-organized move of Barton high school students to "treat" instead of take destructive mischief out of — Hallowe'en.

Vancouver, Nov. 1 — (CP) — Conservationists speaking, Hallowe'en in Vancouver was rather quiet. One unoccupied house was burned down in Kitsilano. Fourteen sters were injured and a 550-man police force answered 175 minor calls in the city.

It was nothing like 1949 when a youth was stabbed and others wound up in hospital with injuries and a grocery store was held up.

Toronto Nov. 1 — (CP) — Hallowe'en was peaceful in the Toronto district, police and firemen reported today. Chief Inspector Robert Anderson of the Toronto police said it was the quietest ha could recall in 44 years.

20,000 Booklets Will be Purchased By Tourist Com.

The Tourist and Publicity Committee of Hastings County, the City of Belleville and the Chamber of Commerce was held in the Belleville Hotel when the council chambers to consider the draft booklet as submitted by Mr. B. Calnan of Picton. It was decided to continue with the publisher of the booklet for the coming year but the quantity will be increased to 20,000 booklets at a price of $2,400 to be borne equally by the County of Hastings and the City of Belleville.

All of the members agreed that the committee contemplated a booth at the Cleveland Sportsmen's show the same as last year, but it will be necessary to have more booklets as more than 7,000 were distributed at the Cleveland Show last year, which did not leave enough for distribution to other centres. Reeve John Kincaid of Madoc moved that 20,000 be purchased with J. Trudeau seconding the motion. Ald. Tice moved that Freeman Burrows and Ken Nobes be a committee to ratify the final draft of the booklet.

In Favor of Booth

It was the unanimous opinion of the committee that a booth be taken again at the Cleveland Show and a space rental subject to the approval of the councils involved. Warden Clarke and Rollins wanted the County Council to have the matter discussed before final approval but he was sure that it would be approved under the same arrangements as were in force last year. It is more than likely that the Belleville Sportsmen's Show will assist with a donation although it was not thought a contest would be on the same as last year.

An advertising proposition from the Amateur Radio Operators will be considered at a further meeting. The committee adjourned to meet in the week of County Council. J. H. Vancoyer, chairman of the committee presided and present were, J. J. Trudeau, Eric Denyes, Reeve John Kincaid of Madoc, Warden Clarke Rollins, L. B. Calnan, C. J. Vancoyer, Freeman Burrows, Ald. C. D. Tice and J. N. Joynt.

KILLED 10,459 REDS

Seoul, Nov. 1 — (AP)— Home Minister Chough Pyong Ok said today Republic of Korea police had killed 10,459 communist troops and captured 10,384 since June 25.

This was exclusive of reds killed by South Koreans and United Nations troops in the Korean War.

Obituary

MRS. ANGUS GILLIS (Wooler)

Mrs. Angus Gillis died in the Toronto General Hospital on Sunday, October 29, after a brief illness. She suffered a stroke while motoring home to Toronto from New Glasgow, Nova Scotia where her husband died suddenly. She was buried less than two weeks ago and was flown from Montreal to Toronto.

Mrs. Gillis was born and lived her early life in this community being Thalia Tuttle, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nelson. She was a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson of this village.

She is survived by two sons Ross and Roy and a daughter Shirley, all of Toronto.

The funeral was held this Wednesday afternoon with interment in Prospect cemetery.

MRS. JAMES O'BRIEN (Campbellford)

Campbellford. — Mrs. James O'Brien, of Campbellford, died in Belleville General Hospital this morning, November 1, at the age of 87. Born in Belleville, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Wood, and had lived in Campbellford, for the past 60 years.

Mrs. O'Brien had been in good health, and death came suddenly. She was a member of St. Mary's Church, Campbellford, and very active in church work when younger.

Her husband, James O'Brien, died in 1927. Surviving are one son, Harry, Mrs. F. H. Cook of Moose Jaw, Sask.; five sons, William J. O'Brien, Toronto; Leo J. O'Brien, Toronto; Thomas F. O'Brien, Ilcston, Sask.; Leonard Terrance O'Brien, Belleville; and George F. O'Brien, Belleville; two sisters, Mrs. Phillip Brannon, Campbellford, and Mrs. A. O. Fotestell, Stirling.

Resting at the Corrigan-O'Brien Funeral Home, 30 Moira West. The funeral announcement will be under the direct supervision of the local conservation officer who will provide anglers with coloured cards and obtain scales from fish taken.

Oliver Denies Rumor He Will Seek Leadership

Toronto, Nov. 1.—CP—Farquhar Oliver made it clear today he is not a candidate to succeed himself as Ontario Liberal leader.

Mr. Oliver, who resigned the leadership a year ago, said he wanted to clarify his position before next week's Liberal leadership convention in Toronto.

In a statement, Mr. Oliver said that while he had been urged to seek the leadership since he resigned a year ago, he had decided against such a move.

"Despite the urging of many Liberals that I should reconsider, an examination of the whole picture confirms my previous position and I will not be a candidate for the party leadership," he said.

There have been persistent reports for months that Mr. Oliver, who had remained a Member of Parliament of the Liberals since his resignation, might again seek the leadership. Two days ago in a speech near London he promised the statement clarifying his position.

Minnow Licence Holders May Have Wider Authority

Commercial minnow licence holders may have wider authorities next year which will enable them to have large storage facilities possibly in the form of spring-fed ponds.

This was suggested at a recent meeting of the Quinte District conservation officers of the Department of Lands and Forests.

The object would be to allow licensees an opportunity to harvest minnows early in the season and provide a reserve for mid-summer, the suggestion was also advanced that ultimately, the operator might turn the project into small hatcheries or rearing ponds.

The suggestion stemmed from reports that scarcity of minnows during July and August had been detrimental to the tourist trade.

Removal of minnows, which form a chief food for game fish, from their natural habitats, could in time be detrimental, it was stated.

W. H. R. Werner, in charge of commercial fishing activities for the Department of Lands and Forests outlined new proposed fishing regulations that it concentrated live bait for anglers.

Considerable interest was shown in the 1951 plans for a creel census. District biologist H. G. Lumsden, stressed the importance of data collected, saying, it was the only practical method of assessing the natural production of game fish.

Next year, the department will concentrate on a single body of water in each zone, thirteen in all. Data-collecting operations will be under the direct supervision of the local conservation officer who will provide anglers with creel cards and obtain scales from fish taken.

DEATHS

HOULE — Suddenly, at Trenton, on Monday, October 30, William Henry Houle, in his 56th year.

Funeral from his late residence, Thomas Street W., on Wednesday, November 1, at 2:30 p.m. Interment Deseronto Cemetery. C31-2t

IN MEMORIAM

BAMFORD — In loving memory of Ernest Bamford, who passed away one year ago today, November 1, 1949.

His love was honored,
His life loved and cherished,
His death remembered.
Always remembered by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Colley and Marjorie. N1

COOK — In loving memory of Ralph Cook, who died at C.F.B., Trenton, killed over Holland with his crew, November 1, 1944.

When evening shades are falling,
And twilight is quiet, alone,
To our hearts there comes a longing
If he only could come home.
Friends may think we have forgotten,
When at times they see us smile,
But deep in our hearts lies a memory
Our smiles hide all the while.
Sadly missed by Mum, Dad, sisters and brothers. N1

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to take this opportunity of thanking my many friends, my relatives, all by kind telephone, also the friends at White Lake, for their kindness during my illness and all who called at hospital and sent me cards, flowers and the many beautiful gifts. Mr. Wm. Hamilton, 18 Hamilton Street, Trent Road.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 1—CP—Industrials slipped slightly in fairly mixed dealings on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Activity was light though as prices moved cautiously into a narrow path.

Papers, steels and agriculturses showed a majority of losses. Manufacturing companies and foods gained while the rest of the board was mixed.

Base metals started ahead, and then reversed the trend and drifted lower. Key issues showed losses ranging to 75 cents. Golds sagged with senior producers trading quietly for small losses. Junior producers showed a fairly wide list of penny losses with the new Malartic mines trading the most actively following news of a new financing change.

Western oils declined strongly with leading issues losing up to 35 cents. Oil selections, transferred from the curb to the listed market today, responded with active trading but was practically unchanged.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Nov. 1 (CP)—Trading was dull at the Toronto stockyards today with sales too few to establish prices. There were 3,200 stockers included in the supply. Receipts: cattle 700, calves 550; hogs, 300; sheep and lambs, 150. Left from yesterday 5,000 cattle.

A few good cows brought $19-$20; canners down to $14.50; small lots of stockers $23-$27.50.

Calves were steady at $31-$32 for choice vealers, few tops at $33; common to medium vealers $20-$29.

Grade hogs sold at $29; sows $23 dressed.

Lambs were steady at $27.50 for good ewes and wethers; bucks $26.50; common to medium sheep $8-$13.

HOGS'

Toronto, Nov. 1 — (CP) — Hog prices were quoted today at $28 at Peterborough.

Hog prices were not established at Stratford today. Hog prices for Monday and Tuesday were $28.75 for Grade A truck hogs.

Other markets were not reported.

Death Accident Jury's Verdict

A verdict of accidental death was returned Tuesday evening by a coroner's jury looking into the death of David Woodcock, Thornton, who was killed when struck by a truck on the Belleville-Trenton highway last October 21.

The inquest was held before Coroner Dr. J. Russell Scott with witnesses being questioned by Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan.

The accident occurred when Woodcock was walking across the highway to speak with relatives. He was struck by a truck driven by James Gibson of Oshawa.

Nursing Methods Said Obsolete, Not Economical

Toronto, Nov. 1 (CP)—Apprenticeship methods discarded by the medical and legal professions as "uneconomical and obsolete" still are being used in training of nurses, the Ontario Hospital Association was told yesterday.

Gladys Sharpe, director of nursing at Toronto Western Hospital, said the system "gears clinical experience to the service needs of the hospital rather than the educational needs of the student."

Most nursing instruction, she said, is given during the first 20 weeks of the course, with the ratio of instruction to practical nursing diminishing at the end of the first year.

Miss Sharpe described a new course, introduced this fall at Western Hospital, which provides for all academic instruction in the first two years plus a year of internship for which the nurse is paid.

Another speaker, Stanley W. Martin, chairman of the accounting section of the association, said it costs Ontario hospitals between $225 and $250 a student each year—$1,250,000 a year—to train nurses.

"As most forms of educatiop in this province are today being subsidized from general taxation over the population as a whole," he said, "does it not seem rather unreasonable that only those who become ill and occupy some type of private service in our hospitals should be called upon to subsidize the education of nurses?"

Churchill Will Offer Commons Two Amendments

London, Nov. 1 — (AP) — Conservative leader Winston Churchill said today he will offer to the House of Commons tonight two amendments to the address in reply to Speech from the Throne which opened the new Parliament session yesterday.

Either, if adopted, would amount to a vote of no confidence, forcing the resignation of the government and the calling of a new election.

One amendment will deplore the government's "inadequate progress" in housebuilding. The other will attack the government for proposing to make permanent food rationing, price controls, allocation of scarce materials and numerous other wartime economic regulations.

Native of Belleville Dies in Hamilton

Hamilton, Nov. 1 (CP)—Frederic C. Ridley, 72, former manager of the main office of the Bank of Montreal here, died at his home yesterday after a brief illness.

A native of Belleville, Ont., he was once inspector of western branches, with headquarters in Winnipeg. In 1919, he was appointed manager of the bank's Edmonton branch and three years later, manager at Calgary. He retired after more than 40 years service with the bank in 1939.

Happy Hallowe'en Kids, Parents Enjoy Masquerade Party at YMCA

If there were fewer rings on your doorbell last night than a shell-out it is likely the young'sters were at YMCA enjoying an organized and constructive program which was more fun than the antiquated type. Hundreds of children with nearly as many adults packed the gymnasium and overflowed into other parts of the building. There was every conceivable costume from witches, keys, grandmothers, farm hands, witches and cowboys to the gentle fairy Bo-peeps and Cinderellas.

Parade on Street

Shortly after 6 p.m. a parade was formed on Campbell Street and headed by Al Cooper and his costumed Kinsmen Boys' Band musicians, it moved off in orderly fashion headed by a police cruiser. The route traversed was Pinnacle, Bridge East, Front, Victoria, Campbell and back to the YMCA.

The party was organized by the Y's Men's Club in co-operation with the YMCA staff and was a real community affair. Announcements in the press and at the city schools brought out a tremendous response.

In the gymnasium games, singing, contests, tap dancing, community singing, moving pictures and movies were on the program in which the children were the chief participants. The costumes were judged for the most originality and other features.

Leslie Reid, Boys' Work chairman of the Y's Men's Club was the party commander while Walter Bent of the YMCA staff was master of ceremonies.

Plenty of Sweets

Nearly five bushels of apples thirty pounds of candies and four hundred boxes of pop corn were distributed the latter being the donation of Y's Man Larry Buck and the Drive-In Theatre. Y's Man Vern Weir was in charge of the distribution.

Parade guards were well distributed over the route of the parade and in the YMCA building under the direction of Tom Hutchinson and Ron Cass to see that every precaution was taken against accidents.

It was a tired but happy throng that left the YMCA with pockets bulging shortly after 8 p.m.

Police in the various residential districts indicated that there were fewer children on the street than usual and merchants appreciated the organization of the party which offset the destructive pranks of former years.

Masqueraders Crowd Streets, Good-Natured Revelry Marks Observance of Hallowe'en

Although Front Street was jampacked with persons young and old in almost every conceivable type of costume, Hallowe'en revelries in Belleville and district were for the most part confined to innocent fun with very little malicious damage being reported.

From shortly after the supper hour until late in the evening the downtown section of the city was crowded with Hallowe'en celebrants in a wide variety of costume. Some were on their way to parties, others were homeward bound or on door to door calls looking for handouts, but it appeared that everyone was out for a good time.

On the downtown sidewalk close to 50 per cent of the people seen were in costume. Some were ridiculous to the extreme, others were gotten together as result of considerable planning but all served the purpose—that of masquerade. There were a number of adult dance parties, dozens of smaller house parties for the kiddies and a monster Hallowe'en party together at the Y.M.C.A.

Windows Soaped

This morning Front Street windows presented every evidence of Hallowe'en with the large store windows well soaped by the fun seeking pranksters.

Only a very few calls were received by the police department. On the west side of Parkwood Heights district resident, was reported damaged beyond repair; a number of the more venturesome type of youths broke some light bulbs in Centre Park and lugged away some of the park benches.

But nearby residents saw them in the act and police were able to round up the parties responsible and caused them to carry back the benches.

Trips Over Sign

In another part of the city a two-wheeled chair disappeared from a resident's yard, while in front of the Old People's Home in East Dundas Street, a highway sign was pulled up and left across the sidewalk. One of the elderly ladies from the Home tripped over the sign but fortunately was not injured.

Out in the country school houses apparently bore the brunt of Hallowe'en capers. At Cannifton a few electric light bulbs and windows were broken, while at Foxboro it was reported that the teacher's chair this morning was found hauled up the flag pole.

Whether or not there was any connection with Hallowe'en a skiff belonging to Reggie Cox, of Point Anne, was reported missing while as Wallbridge a milk can was upset, the milk being dumped over the centre of the road.

At least one mail box in the city was damaged. This was at the corner of Queen and George Streets where a parcel box was upset.

CHEQUE SENT TO FAMILIES

CIVIC CO-OPERATION

The visit of Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent to Belleville last Saturday in connection with the unveiling of the memorial tablet to Prime Minister Sir Mackenzie Bowell, was without doubt one of the outstanding events in the history of the city.

While it marked the first visit of a Prime Minister to Belleville in nearly a quarter century, it also clearly demonstrated what results can be achieved from whole-hearted co-operation of civic bodies.

The City Council, the Special Committee and the Chamber of Commerce are to be commended on not only providing an enjoyable itinerary for Mr. St. Laurent, but on the successful and harmonious manner in which it was carried out. Also entering into this spirit of co-operation were the officers of the 9th Anti Tank Regiment, R.C.A.; the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment; and the Argyll Chapter, I.O.D.E.

The program moved forward smoothly with none of the usual provoking lapses of time. The Prime Minister and party were taken quietly from one function to another with a minimum of effort. Even the uncertainty of the weather failed to cause any gaps in the schedule.

Time was when the City Council and the Chamber of Commerce could not, or did not, see eye to eye on matters of civic importance. But that attitude has disappeared during the past few years, and no better evidence of the spirit of co-operation that exists between these two bodies is needed than that exemplified in the reception to the Prime Minister on Saturday.

In community life there is need for the man who wields a shovel no less than for the man who wields a pen; need for the man who has a watering-can no less than for the man who taps a linotype keyboard. There are many jobs to be done. Working together under capable leadership, there is nothing within reason the people of any city might not accomplish.

It is the function and hope of the City Council and the Chamber of Commerce, each within its own proper sphere and through a mutual spirit of co-operation, to supply the necessary leadership for enduring progress for us all.

WARM OCTOBER WEATHER

Among the months which in the past twelvemonth have made weather history has been October which has now retired after one of the most pleasant and several times one of the warmest months in remembered history in this part of the world. Sunday set an unusual temperature in some places, up in the seventies, which was a record for several generations or more. All through the month has been milder than normal, offsetting the summer season which was cooler than usual, with scarce a spell of really warm weather. October has turned the scales in compensation for the unusually low average of the really warm time of the year.

He would be a bold prophet who would try to foretell the future weather chart. There is however something in the law of averages which may offer hope for a winter season which will please almost everyone, whatever that will be.

Now October has gone leaving pleasant memories which will help to compensate for the failings of some other months of the year.

"SPELLING AND SPELLING BEE"

The old-time spelling bee is due for a revival.

After many years in which it looked as quaint and out-of-date as the one-horse shay, the spelling bee again is coming into its own, says Chatham News. In the rural community halls pickets teams are being sent against each other; even the schools are finding a new place for this old-time diversion. The lad who can spell "apothecary," "lachrymose" and "desiccate" is in demand once more.

All this would hardly be worth notice if it were not for the fact that some of our more ardently modern educators decided a decade ago that all this emphasis on spelling was foolish and uncalled for.

Some strange educational practices grew out of this delusion, and strange skill were developed by the children.

Time was when spellin' bees were a weekly feature in both city and country schools; events that were looked forward to by both the scholars and their parents, guests of the occasion, who looked proudly on while their hopefuls wrested with "tongue twisters" that the average adult would nowadays have to look up in the dictionary.

JUST FOLKS

FRIENDSHIP'S FORTUNE

There is a fortune to be had
If you will dare to earn it, lad.
One not in stocks and dividends,
But in the love and pride of friends.

The fund of friendship yearly grows,
Though not in sums the banks disclose.
The auditor who seeks it finds
He assets banked in hearts and minds.

And how is such a fortune won?
Merely by deeds of kindness done

And always putting self aside
To help another, trouble-tried.
It's always love and never hate
That thanks the spirit truly great.
There is this trinity to love:
God and the home, the flag above.

My boy, if always this you do,
The love you give will come to you.
And when your earthly journey ends
Your fortune will be told in friends.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO
Nov. 1, 1930

Hallowe'en night has come and gone and in its wake have been left a few broken fences, ruined down highway signs, hidden away police order signs, cars with the tires all flat and cars left where they were not parked. Never in the history of Belleville was there as large a parade as last night and until the small hours of the morning those in costume roamed the streets. Police Chief Kidd stated it was the best behaved throng the police have had to deal with for years.

Mrs. Mary Halstead who has been spending the summer in Belleville and district left on Monday for her home in Melfort, Sask.

Nov. 1, 1920

The Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce will meet in this city for the annual convention on Nov. 25 and 26 and it is hoped that all members of the local Chamber and citizens as well will do all they can to make the convention a success and make the stay of the delegates pleasant. Mrs. John Elliott and a committee composed of Messrs. C. M. Reid, W. N. Ponton, H. F. Ketcheson, H. W. Ackerman, J. H. Ashley, W. J. Wills and C. R. McCreary have undertaken to see that the visitors are well entertained.

Mr. G. L. Greene of Toronto is renewing acquaintances in the city.

Nov. 1, 1910

A burglar entered Bargman's store on Front Street last night and stole jewelry to the value of about $500. Police Officer Thompson saw two men in front of the store and followed them. One of the men threw a bag to an alleyway as the officer overtook them and succeeded in capturing one of the men. The bag was secured and contained the jewelry which was stolen. The man arrested gave his home address as Toronto.

Mr. Harold Sanders, an old Belleville boy, is home from Toronto to spend Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. Douglas Hollon of the C. N. R. staff, Toronto, is home on a short visit.

Mr. E. Golding, editor of the Intelligencer, is spending a few days in Toronto.

50 YEARS AGO
Nov. 1, 1900

At 12.30 o'clock this morning the old frame dwelling on the corner of Victoria Avenue and George Street was completely gutted by fire. It was not tenanted, but Mr. John N. Lazier used a portion of the building in connection with his business. His loss will be considerable. The building, owned by Col. S. S. Lazier, was an old landmark.

Following are the vital statistics of the city for the month of October: births, 10; marriages, 6; deaths, 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Abel Pinkie, Bayside, have returned home after a visit to Toronto.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

People are always saying it is a small world. But it isn't. It is a huge world. There are thousands upon countless thousands of us who wander the vast loneliness of the Highroad, and never a friend. If you look, you can see these lonely ones as you pass in the streets, sitting in the bus, or at lunch in a restaurant.

It is only a small world when you are lucky. Then it shrinks to the boundless earth seems instantly to contract to a little place, and all the millions of men, no matter how experienced you may be at faring alone in some far end of the world, and no matter how brave or tough you may be, there is always a queer sense of weakness in your bones when you find yourself in a land where you don't know a living soul. One day in the late war, when I was supposed to be in Italy, circumstances took me to Algiers, and that perfectly familiar-looking city populated with nothing but absolute strangers, it was waiting for the crowded street when I saw my brother ahead of me.

My brother was supposed to be in Ottawa. But here he was in Algiers, walking jauntily along like a man heading for his office.

I hastened my steps and fell in beside him.

"What's the name of this street, chum?" I enquired anxiously.

And we had been apart for longer for many months, and as both of us believed impossible distance divided us, it was quite a meeting. In less than ten minutes, Algiers was not a strange city at all. The fact that it was full of Arabs and Frenchmen did not seem at all unusual. We suddenly did the earth contract, that Algiers seemed to be merely a suburb of the city in which we live, thousands of miles away. And so it remains in our memory to this day: a suburban community, no distance at all from home.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

TIMES SQUARE TALK-TALK

Talked to a smart fellow the other night, E. E. Lewis, the night-club comedian.

"Hear you turned down five offers to do a guest shot on TV," I said.

"You heard right," said Joe.

"I've grand it a lot of dough for an hour's work," I said.

"It sure is," said Joe, "but they're not buying an hour. Actually, they're buying twenty years—that's how long it took me to learn how to make an audience laugh."

"A lot of people would get to see you," I said.

"That's the trouble," said Joe. "The way I'm going now, I play to, let's say, a thousand customers a night and they each spend five bucks to see me. Op. a Big TV show I'd be seen by a million people, which means I'd be selling my act for a half a cent a head. Besides, there's no guarantee I wouldn't strike out—some pretty funny guys already have."

"Several of your routines are fire-fire," I said.

"I'd use them up in a couple of weeks," said Joe. "Playing the night-club circuit, I can test the same jokes for months because I never play for long in any one town. No, I think I'd better stick to my own racket where there's no guy named Hooper to worry about. Think I'm crazy?"

"Sure, you're crazy," I said. "A crazy as that little animal they shave after it's dead."

This afternoon Herman Levin, said.

co-producer of the show playing the theatre, dropped in to see me.

"Any idea where I can find a dozen good-looking girls?" he said.

"Casting for a harem?"

"No, for 'Bless Us All,' my new show," said Herman. "I'm willing to pay hundred and fifty a week for standouts."

"Afraid I can't help you," I said. "The pretty ones I know are all working."

"Where do you get your girls?" asked Herman.

"From all over," I said. "If I hear of a beautiful girl in Chicago, I write for her photo, and if it measures up I have her come into New York for an interview. To show you how far I'll go, a few years back Stanley Griffin sent me a picture of a girl in Sweden named Siri. It took six months to clear her with the immigration people, but the boy blonde was worth all the trouble."

"That kind of thing would take me," said Herman, "and I go into rehearsal next week."

"Next time you do a show," I said, "give yourself a little more leeway. Schedule some of your chorus calls out of town—Texas, for instance, is sure-pop in the girl department. Matter of fact, there's hardly a city in this country where a chorus call won't turn up some pretty snazzy specimens—gals who never had the carfare to come to New York."

"What you're proposing," said Herman, "is that I hit the road for several months and do nothing."

"What's wrong with that?" I said.

MacKenzie's Column:

China's Invasion Sharp Reminder To P.M. Nehru

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Communist China's invasion of little Tibet must be a sharp reminder to Prime Minister Nehru of India of the Chinese proverb that he who rides a tiger finds it difficult to dismount.

Nehru, regarded by many as the potential leader of Asia, has been pursuing a largely-neutral course in the conflict between democracies and the communist bloc. He has been advocating admission of the Peiping government to membership in the United Nations.

Consequently red China's march on Tibet has come as a jarring surprise to New Delhi, which had understood that the differences between Peiping and China would be settled diplomatically. And on top of this jolt comes word of the invasion of Northern Korea by considerable Chinese communist forces.

Unwarranted Hopes

So the Indian government now is faced with the necessity of overhauling its policy towards communist China. Apparently the present policy is based on unwarranted hopes or on a misconception of what the Peiping regime really stands for.

Some observers are speculating whether the Indian nationalists hasn't been working on the erroneous belief that the red Chinese government is of the nationalist variety and that General Mao, its head, has already become one of the world's Titoists. Nehru itself has been putting out propaganda calculated to convey this impression.

This is a position which would be calculated to please India, since Nehru and his followers hate imperialism.

What India and the rest of the world must recognize is that the Chinese mainland with its population of some 500,000,000 and its great armies represents the heart of the red regime in Asia.

Nowhere denies it.

It is from Chinese territory that the fresh invasion of Korea was sprung. The communist - led revolt in French Indo-China is being fed from the continental reservoir. It is from China that attacks on Malaya, Burma and other territories may come.

India herself is by no means secure from red assault.

TOSSED 86 FEET

Toronto, Oct. 31, (CP)—Fireman James Cousins suffered a broken back last night when an automobile struck him as he was fighting a fire and tossed him 86 feet.

Police later arrested Rudy De Marco, 34, and charged him with dangerous and careless driving and failing to remain at the scene of the accident. Cousins was rolling a hose to a hydrant when struck.

COMMUNISTS PRESS TOWARD HANOI

French doctors and male nurses, parachuted into the fighting area in Indo-China, treat a French soldier wounded in the struggle with Viet Minh rebels. French troops have fallen back under heavy communist pounding in the crucial jungle battle for Laokay, the invasion gateway to Indo-China's main rice-bowl. Laokay lies in a mountain valley near the border of communist China. So far, the French have lost six frontier fortresses to the rebels, but the loss of Laokay would be regarded as a crucial setback, posing a danger-ous threat to the important delta area and Hanoi. Communist areas in Indo-China are shown in black on the map, below. — Central Press Canadian.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

TODAY'S GREATEST NEED

Tom Paine said, more than 150 years ago, that it was within the power of the nascent American Republic to start the life of the world over again.

If that was true 150 years ago it is more true today. In spite of the discouragement of present day conditions—moral, political, economic and military—there thrills in the heart of every deeply believing Christian the conviction that strife in this world could change over night. Instead of going into ruin we could march into centuries of unparalled glory and progress.

The trouble at the matter is that we are in the chaos of this present hour because we have put God out of human life. This movement began in the Renaissance, was augmented by the Enlightenment of the 18th Century and was deepened and confirmed by the 19th century skepticism. And it has left us a generation without a soul.

What we need is not some new scheme or a more powerful bomb. What we need is recognition that God created the universe, that He still controls it, and it is ruin for us to try to rule our affairs apart from His consent and guidance.

Let us get that in mind, and the whole current of our lives will change. And we can begin to change it.

BEWARE THE PSYCHIATRIC TRICK SPECIALIST

Some readers, I am happy to learn, understand clearly what I mean by "specialist" when I refer to a trick specialist. But for the possible benefit of others—if they read this column—I'll explain that in my lexicon a trick or brass specialist is a doctor who competes with the general practitioners in the community for the patronage of the public—and competes unfairly, by making them believe he or she is somehow better trained or more learned or skilled than the "ordinary" doctor, at least in the field in which he or she pretends to specialize.

Of course this is about 98 per cent hokum. People who harbor a childish notion that a doctor has to show some such superior education or attainment in order to get the legal right to call himself a specialist should have questions. Any doctor who has a license to practice medicine and surgery (every license is so labeled) in the state or province may practise any specialty he or she chooses, without further concern of the law.

A real specialist is a doctor who has had a number of years of experience as a general practitioner or family physician and then, finding that he has a special most interested in and most successful in one field, he then returns to medical school for a course of postgraduate instruction in that field. Upon finishing this special course the doctor returns to practice among the physicians in the community that he or she is limiting practice to—whatever specialty may be. Then the doctor advises or treats only those patients that the colleagues may send or bring for his or her special help. The real specialist is not a rationalist or a psychiatrist, but is the way a real specialist builds a reputation. He or she is a doctor. Probably more than nine out of ten per cent of all the "specialists" in the country are real specialists. Most of them are trick specialists who cater to the Yankee Whoozeum principle—"Let who think that a doctor who calls himself "specialist" should know more and have greater skill than an "ordinary" doctor.

Now that I've got that really good psychiatrist, writes Miss E. L., but I don't know of one. I've been taking her for a year or so away, far away, and I don't care what happens to me if I could only straighten myself out but I don't seem to. I know if I could find a good psychiatrist who could really take an interest in me it would ease my mind...Please help me. (E. L.)

It would be a disservice to encourage Miss L. to consult even later left with hope anew burning in their very souls. They had found the "secret". So, you see, psychiatry is good—and bad—and also good people away with it!

Our greatest armor is the hope we have and the faith it creates. In the Bible it is written that faith is the substance of things hoped for. And think of planting anything so worth while as hope in the hearts and minds of others, leaving them behind to bud and bloom!

ONE MINUTE NEWS ABOUT JOHNS-MANVILLE

SECOND CUT IN FUEL BILLS!

Most everyone knows how Johns-Manville Rock Wool helps cut heating costs in winter. But here's news of how other Johns-Manville insulation for the home helps reduce your fuel bills, too!

Facts prove that you can save several tons of coal a year or the equivalent in gas or oil by having your furnace—hot water tank and heating pipes insulated with Johns-Manville Asbestos Insulation. You see, J-M insulations keep heat from escaping through cellar walls, helps send it upstairs to the radiators where you want it.

Why not have these insulations take a look at your heating system. If it is not properly insulated, talk it over with your plumbing and heating contractor. He has all about Johns-Manville Asbestocel Boiler Jacket and Pipe Covering and will be glad to explain how they can save you up to 10 tons of coal, your fuel bill!

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LEAVING HOPE BEHIND

So long as hope is alive all is not lost. Defeat is negative. Victory may still be gained. The physician who leaves hope behind with his professional colleagues is one that heals the soul as well as the body.

Elizabeth Gurney Fry (1780-1845) was an English Quaker who devoted her life to the betterment of conditions among prisoners. She was a mother of eleven children and understood the problems of others. Courageously she fought for reforms that brought about new life to those who had become outcasts and a problem to authorities. Her influence was very great and spread to many countries, because she left hope behind everywhere she went.

I had a delightful friend as a companion the past summer at my island retreat, but a few days ago I was shocked to hear he had had a serious accident from a fall that broke his neck. I went to see him. He was completely paralyzed, but his mind was clear and I talked to him as I would to one of my boys. I could do nothing for him but leave a little hope behind, and that is what I did. This is something we all can do, though we can do nothing else. Hope is the fuel that keeps courage alive.

The people in religion live in hope it leaves behind, hope that has many a time changed the course of life and given to it peace and plenty. Hope and prayer have done more to bring health and happiness to people than anything else.

One of the most beautiful books I have ever read is that one by Robert Herrick called "The Master of the Inn." It is the story of a physician who created a home for those who had lost confidence in

Steel Production At Record Levels, Still Not Enough

By FORBES RHUDE
(Canada Press Business Editor)

Canada will produce more steel this year than ever before, but it still will be less than the demand for it.

This is stated in a letter to shareholders from H.G. Hilton, president of the Steel Company of Canada, Ltd., Hamilton, accompanying the quarterly dividend payment.

Says Mr. Hilton:

"The demand for all forms of steel continued at an extremely high rate during the third quarter of the year. Barring unforeseen contingencies, it seems certain that this year's steel production in both Canada and the United States will establish new high records. (Canada last year produced 3,089,000 net tons of ingot steel.)

"Notwithstanding this, the unprecedented demand for new construction, automobiles, freight cars and other semi-durable goods, coupled with the requirements of the expanding oil industry of Canada, considerably exceed the tonnage of steel available.

"Defence orders requiring the use of iron and steel in many substantial quantities, will add still further to the pressure upon Canadian steel plants, already overtaxed through operating at a rate nearly two and one-half times the average of 1936 to 1939.

"Shortage of steel in Canada is also aggravated by inability of some Canadian consumers to obtain supplies from United States' mills upon which they have customarily depended for a portion of their needs. Imports of primary iron and steel in 1950, based upon returns for the first six months, will be nearly 700,000 ingot tons lower than in 1949, a decline of almost 50 per cent."

Insurance Payments Up

Payments to Canadian families by the 60-odd Canadian, American and British life insurance companies operating in Canada totalled more than $154,000,000 in the first eight months of the year, $17,300,000 higher than in the same period last year.

Of the total, $96,900,000 was paid to living policy-holders, and $57,400,000 in death payments. The figures are from the Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association.

TOLD TO ACQUIT

Sarnia, Nov. 1—(CP)—Following direction of Judge R.W. Treleaven, a Lambton County jury acquitted Garnet McLachlan of a charge of raping a 19-year-old Petrolia girl. The judge ruled that police evidence on identification was inadmissable and said it would be impossible for the jury to reach a guilty verdict on uncorroborated testimony of the girl.

CAYUGA ACTS AS HOSPITAL SHIP

A wounded South Korean seaman is carried ashore by a U.S. ambulance driver and his helper from H.M.C.S. Sioux for hospitalization at a base in Japan. The South Koreans were embarked in H.M.C. Ships Cayuga and Athabaskan for treatment after they had been wounded during landing operations. Later they were transferred to the Sioux when she was bound for Japan. — Central Press Canadian.

Baby Stuffed Into Toilet By Five-Year-Old

Amos, Que., Nov. 1 (CP) — Provincial Police said that a two-month baby, Royal Garlepy, was drowned Monday when stuffed head-down into a toilet.

They said the child, whose legs bore knife marks, suffered death by immersion. The knife wounds were not serious enough to cause death.

Police believe a neighbor's five-year-old child entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Irenee Garlepy when there was nobody at home and started to cut the baby's legs with a knife. Alarmed at the baby's cries, police say, the child stuffed the baby into the toilet.

At the time of the mishap, Mrs. Garlepy with three other children was at the post office.

Police under the direction of Lieut. Roger Gauthier, head of the Quebec Provincial Police at this northwestern Quebec centre, have completed their inquiry and forwarded details to headquarters at Montreal.

The family lives at Senneterre, some 55 miles from here.

THREE YEARS IN PENITENTIARY

Crowland, Oct. 1—AP—Anthony Repleu, 24, today was sentenced to three years in penitentiary on a charge of breaking into a house and stealing a wallet containing $3.

The accused was captured by Louis Pierce, and his son, after he had rifled pockets of trousers in two bedrooms.

Standard Story Exposes Authors To Limits of Law

Quebec, Nov. 1 (CP) — Judge Fernand Choquette said Tuesday that a Montreal Standard story saying that a crew member had set fire to both the cruise ships Noronic and the Quebec exposes its authors to "sanctions provided by the law."

Both the Noronic and the Quebec were Canada Steamships' Lines vessels. The Noronic burned in Toronto harbor in September 1949, with loss of 118 lives. Seven persons died when the Quebec burned Aug. 14 in the St. Lawrence River. Judge Choquette recently conducted a Superior Court inquiry here into the Quebec fire. Its results have not yet been announced.

Last Saturday, the weekly Standard carried a copyrighted, newspage story which said it had been learned on good authority that both ship fires had been set by a pyromaniac believed to have been a member of the crews.

Tuesday, news agency representatives were called to a Quebec office and were handed a statement on behalf of the judge concerning the Standard story. The statement was in French except where it quoted directly in English from the Standard story. It said this was the "second attempt" by a newspaper "to substitute itself for the court and pass judgment on this unfortunate affair." (While the Quebec probe was in progress earlier this month, the Quebec Daily Chronicle-Telegraph published a story similar to the Standard.)

The statement said that as the investigation of the Quebec fire still is "sub judice" (under judicial consideration) "such intervention is most improper and disrespectful and exposes its authors to sanctions provided for by law."

The Judge did not say the Standard was in contempt of court or if any action is intended against the newspaper.

JEWISH SCHOOL OPENED

ACCUSED OF THEFT

Whitby, Nov. 1—CP—Earl Leffler of nearby Brougham was sentenced yesterday to six months for stealing a number of sows and pigs. Leffler testified he had been drinking before trading some animals and "couldn't keep track of other stock while trucks were coming and going on the farm during a sale."

Garment Industry Growing in West

Winnipeg, (CP) — Manitoba's garment industry has grown from one small overall plant at the turn of the century to almost 200 plants producing a wide range of clothing and accessories for men, women and children.

To tell the story of the industry's method and working conditions, the Garment Manufacturers' Association of Western Canada has started a series of public tours through Winnipeg plants.

These factories during 1949 produced an estimated $30,000,000 worth of goods—an increase of 239 percent from 1939.

Reporters who took the first tour were told that everything about the Winnipeg plants is on a par with modern trends elsewhere.

R. H. Guttman, executive secretary of the association, said Winnipeg's overall and workshirt production is the largest in Canada.

In 1948, last year for which statistics are available, the city's 11 factories with 1,050 employees produced $6,000,000 worth of coveralls and shirts. Montreal was next with production of $4,780,000 in 13 factories employing 769 persons.

Mr. Guttman also reported that 18 Winnipeg factories making women's coats and suits had 1949 output of $10,400,000. These plants employed 1,378 men and women. Montreal, with 119 factories, on this type of production, turned out coats and suits worth $23,000,000.

The weak spot in Winnipeg's industry, Mr. Guttman said, is in designing. Local manufacturers must depend on outside assistance because there are no suitable training facilities in Manitoba schools and university.

ONLY WENT MILE

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 1—CP—Two westerners who came all the way to Windsor to take delivery of a new car got just one mile before they were involved in a collision which caused $1,000 damage. Abram Friesen and Alexander Erlahman of Hague, Sask., were cut about the head when the auto crashed head first into a truck driven by Dennis Girard.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Kaiser, Belleville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Lorraine Wood, to Ronald Roy Mackie, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Mackie, Belleville, the marriage to take place on November 22, at the bride's home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Vanderwater, Rosemount, are leaving for St. Petersburg, Fla., today.

Mrs. Theodore Reid, of Springbrook, underwent an operation in the Belleville General Hospital, on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Barney McNish, of Brockville, were weekend guests of the latter's mother, Mrs. S. E. Morton.

Miss A. Campbell was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Campbell, at Hillier.

Mrs. Murray Black, 40 Chatham Street, is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. Charles Smith, of Chatterton, is seriously ill in the Belleville General Hospital.

OUT-OF-TOWN PERSONAL

Squadron Leader J. C. Stacey Fair, officer commanding Academic Training School at Aylmer Air Station since May 1948, has been transferred to the School of English, Trenton, Ont.

WEDDINGS

BALL—WATT

Rev. Dr. Robert Good heard the marriage vows on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Erskine Presbyterian Church, Ottawa, of Miss Margaret Elizabeth Watt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Watt, and Mr. Allan E. Ball, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ball.

The wedding music was played by Mr. James Smith and the soloists were Miss Beverly Ball and Miss Joan Ball. Ferns and baskets of pink and white chrysanthemums were used to decorate the church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Miss Mary Young and her sister, Miss Anne Watt, as bridesmaids.

Mr. Byrne Scott was best man and the ushers were Mr. Jack Ball and Mr. Robert Watt Jr.

For her marriage the bride wore a gown of white brocaded satin and nylon, with a net ankle-length skirt. It was designed with a sweetheart neckline and short sleeves, with elbow length mitts. She wore a veil of tulle illusion, which was held in place by a headdress of seed pearls. Her triple-strand pearl necklace belonged to her mother, and she carried a bouquet of mixed Autumn flowers.

Following a reception in the church hall, Mr. and Mrs. Ball left by plane for Montreal. For travelling, the bride wore a green gabardine suit, with rust accessories, and a beige topcoat.

Upon their return, they will live in Ottawa.

Out-of-town guests included Captain and Mrs. A. W. Cunningham, Miss Jessie Cunningham, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. J. Ellwood, Smiths Falls.

WILSON—WANNAMAKER

A very pretty autumn wedding was solemnized at two p.m., on Wednesday, October 18, at the Anglican rectory at Carrying Place, when the Rev. F. C. Bezzer united in marriage Erith Irene, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benson Wannamaker, Consecon, and Ross Maxwell Wilson, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Murney Wilson, Plainfield.

The bride was attractive in a grey gabardine suit with navy accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. James Colten, who was attired in a green gabardine suit with black accessories and a corsage of red roses.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Mr. Ted Wilson, Plainfield.

A reception was held for the immediate relatives at the home of the bride's parents, which was tastefully decorated with pink and white streamers. The bride's mother received, wearing a navy sheer dress with a corsage of red roses and was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a black velvet dress and a corsage of red roses.

Following the reception, the young couple left for Wheeling, West Virginia. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will reside at Plainfield.

The bride's gift to her bridesmaid was a pearl necklace and matching earrings; the bridegroom's gift to the bride was chest of silver and to the groomsman, a lighter.

Pastel Wool Jersey

By PRUNELLA WOOD

PRETTY frocks of pale hued wool jersey, softly handled and with a definitely date-dress flavor, are important in young wardrobes. The model pictured here is typical, with its unpressed skirt pleats and worldy black velvet accent at neck and waistline.

This is a junior dress, sized from Nine to Fifteen, and is pretty at home, a refreshing surprise blooming discreetly beneath a somber winter coat when leisure hours around town are the order.

Miss Byrd Corbet Addresses Bridge St. Church on C.A.S.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of Bridge Street United Church was held in the ladies parlors last Friday afternoon with Mrs. J. E. Marsh, the president, in the chair.

Gratifying reports were given of recent activities of the different groups and plans were discussed for November activities which included the annual bazaar and tea to be held in November, also plans for assisting the Trail Rangers with their annual bean supper also to be held in November.

Mrs. Marsh reported that the Red Cross group had made and donated 171 articles up to the end of June.

Mrs. McCabe's and Mrs. Harron's group were in charge of the program. Mrs. McCabe presided. Mrs. Harold Parker gave the scripture reading from the 10th chapter of Mark. Miss Lorella MacDougal sang a solo, "I Think When I Read That Sweet Story of Old," accompanied by Mrs. Guthridge at the piano.

Guest Speaker

Mrs. McCabe then introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Miss Byrd Corbet, assistant secretary of the Children's Aid Society. Miss Corbet gave a clear and interesting description of the different phases of the work of the Society and explained the procedure under the several legal acts, the Children's Protection Act, the Unmarried Mothers' and Legal Adoption Act.

Impressively cared for children could be made temporary or permanent wards of the court, but every effort was always made to keep the family together, and only in extreme cases was the child taken away altogether from the parents and made a permanent ward of the court.

Mrs. Ralph Borden extended a vote of thanks to Miss Corbet for her most interesting account of the work and aims of the Children's Aid Society and a greater realization of its importance in the welfare of the city of Belleville and the county of Hastings.

Mrs. McCabe invited the ladies to stay for a cup of tea and a social half hour.

Deane; Treasurer, Mrs. W. R. Whiteside, Windsor.

Mrs. George W. Houston of Hamilton, 30 years a member and 17 years treasurer of the association, was presented with a meritorious certificate.

Miss Mary Wardlow, Stratford, received a life membership. Honorary life memberships went to Mrs. Fred Routley, Mrs. Harvey Agnew, Harriet Meiskleisohn, Pearl L. Morrison, Jessie Wilson, Brantford; Bertha Pickels and Mrs. J. Milton George, Morden, Man.

In a resolution adopted by the delegates, the association asked that "in the interests of health and ethics, everything possible be done to arouse public opinion to the necessity of implementing existing legislation" against the practice of spitting on sidewalks.

DIES OF EXHAUSTION

Council Bluffs, Ia., Nov. 1. (AP)—An adventurous deer bounded in and out of two homes here yesterday before crashing through the front window of a downtown department store. But the adventure cost the life of the little doe which had wandered down out of the hills near town. Police, who removed it from the store, said it died shortly afterward of exhaustion and fright.

Child Writes Candid Guide To Grown-Ups

By GENE KRAMER

Berkeley, Calif., (AP)—Many a youngster has complained about grown-ups, but few ever did anything about it until Jill Owsley came along.

At the age of 10, this neat, brown-haired girl amazed her mother by scribbling outspoken child's-eye-views of her elders.

Now, two years later, Jill, who lives in a modest but comfortable attic apartment with her mother, Mrs. Alice Owsley, is awaiting royalties from her first book.

Titled "A Handy Guide to Grown-Ups", it is a collection of her opinions on what makes grown-ups tick and how kids can get along with them.

Jill—short for Jennifer—started writing, her mother said, because "she thought she'd had a pushing around from the adults in her life.

"She saw all the books on child care I was reading and decided children needed a handbook worse than adults.

"When she was annoyed, she'd write something. Often she'd cross it out later. The book is full of the gems it contains: what is left."

"Hardly any mothers will stop talking (on the telephone) until you bother them quite a lot. I think it is perfectly fair to bother them as much as you have to. After all, they can call their friends back after you have to be in bed. Some of the ways to bother them are: Going upstairs and calling them, starting downstairs without any coat on. . ."

On the jacket, Random House suggests the book is hilarious for adults and definitively of the "Let's-be-sure-to-keep-it-from-the-kids" type.

But, Jill insists, "the publishers misunderstood. It's for kids. Of course, I guess there are more grown-ups. She wrote it when had to make money, Kids don't have as much money as grown-ups."

Mother is Typist

Jill had strong feelings on grown-ups. She wrote them down and had her mother type them. After appearing in Parents' Magazine, they were printed in book form.

Jill wants to be a writer or a psychiatrist but frankly hasn't started thinking about courses to take or what college she'll attend.

As for the book, it is hard to believe that statements like "to understand adults you need to understand a little about the way they think about money," could be written by a 12-year-old without help from her mother, or an editor.

But both publisher and mother insist the work is all her own, and the spectacled young lady makes statements just as candid in normal conversation—like "people you meet camping are different from those in motor courts."

Or on the sizes of people—"There are more adults and they stay the same size and shape, so furniture I made for them instead of kids."

For this reason, said Jill, she's glad she's growing up. It's easier than it used to be, she declared, to reach the dishes she's washing.

And "When I fry bacon it does not pop in my face like before."

It is on the note of growing up that Jill closes the book with the postscript:

"I am beginning to be sixteen next now. I am more mixed up in my feelings than I used to be. Writing this book was fun, but it seems to have gotten more mixed up as I went on. This is probably because I kept growing up myself all the time. I couldn't stop and neither could you, even if we wanted to."

Why I enjoy shopping at McNabb's

Jane and I make a weekly adventure of shopping at McNabb's.

Jane's my neighbor and we both felt that we needed more interests than those that were right around our neighborhood. So we started our shopping trips. As a matter of fact, we make a real day of it — meet our husbands at lunch downtown and usually see a lot of old friends lunching there, too. Some days it's almost like a party!

In the afternoons we shop the stores. We always visit McNabb's and seldom ever go home without a new idea about making ourselves more interesting and attractive. We often save money that way, too, because we realize that sometimes just a little change is needed to brighten our wardrobes ....

Yes, when we're out for new clothes, we find the Fashion Adviser and her staff at McNabb's a help. They just won't let us have things that don't suit us; she saves us money, too, by keeping us from buying the wrong things.

Then, too, we know we are buying quality at fair prices at McNabb's —and that's always the best economy. So Jane and I think our "day out" each week is a wonderful investment — we see the world passing by downtown and we have a grand time shopping at McNabb's.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Too young to marry?

Your daughter has set her heart on a man who's definitely, well, definitely, not for you and you'd choose for her to marry.

Maybe you feel he's not sufficiently stable to take on the responsibility of a wife and a potential family. You feel that in short time she might find herself neglected, poorly provided for. Perhaps he seems too much of a playboy, with lots and lots of charm but very little understanding. It to serve as a solid foundation for building a happy marriage. Or perhaps she has been intrigued by the sophistication of an older man, and you dread the possibility that this worldly wisdom of his might prove a dangerous rock against which her young and confiding innocence will be dashed to pieces.

Have you the right to try and interfere with your daughter's love and what if she asserts her own right to marry whom she pleases, if her determination to wake and carry out her own plans if you withhold your approval?

What, for instance, should parents do when they're confronted by such a situation as this?

"My husband and I are very much upset because our married daughter tells us she is in love with a divorced man of 38. He has two young children to bring up.

"She says that she is too young to assume the responsibility of seven such children, and we also think that the difference in their ages and the age of the man is too great.

"My husband says he will disown her if she insists on marrying this man, and I agree with him that the marriage would be most unfortunate, if not perhaps a little bit more than a thing of such opposition. Should we just let things go on as they are?"

Either may see it all in a different light herself before it is too late!

The writer of this letter has had her daughter's love and that of the suitor when she says that "Perhaps there is such a thing as too much opposition." Yes, there certainly is. There is such a thing as too much quarrelling, too many tears; too many distressing emotional scenes.

Whatever may be the reason for your disapproval of either son's or a daughter's choice of a mate, to stir up a storm over it will only defeat your own purpose in the end. You may, it is true, finally win your point. Your pleading and scolding, your reproaches and your dark prophecies of disaster, may eventually wear your children to the limit of endurance even surrender seems preferable to continuing the nerve-wracking battle.

But in winning the battle in this fashion, you are almost certain to lose the peace, as the saying goes. For your victory will have left you dearly in terms of the child's attitude toward you. In place of its devotion, trust and happy comradeship once given you so freely by that dearly loved son or daughter, there will be resentment, rebellion and an insidious suspicion that unfair advantage has been taken of the young person by the older one. And the next time, you're not likely to be allowed the chance to break up the romance. To avoid running the risk of a second fiasco, your boy or girl may not even let you know a wedding is under consideration. The first you hear of it may be when you receive a telegram or a telephone call to give you the news that the marriage has taken place. Was that earlier victory worth the price of this subsequent defeat?

And what attitude are you going to take then? Will you, by a burst of hot anger and hostility drive in deeper the wedge of antagonism already between you? Will the satisfaction your ego gives by icy rejection of the one who has disappointed you compensate in any small degree for the permanent loss of his love.

Strip such a situation to its core and what do you have. You have the necessity of making up your mind which is more important for you, a lasting exhibition of your utter disapproval, or the friendship and respect of your son or daughter. This is something you will have to decide right in the beginning, when the question of the different point of opinion first comes up. For the longer you postpone it, the greater damage will be done to your relationship with your child.

If you decide—as it is devoutly to be hoped you will—that you want to remain friends with the child at all costs, then how shall you meet the whole problem? Keep entirely to yourself your disapproval and let matters take their course? Wash your hands obviously of any part in the situation with an "All right make your own bed and lie in it" attitude?

On the contrary, let the child

Silk faille over crepe

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

TWO layers add up to an attractive outfit geared for afternoon-into-evening duty. An overdress of black silk faille is worn over a baroque sheath of black crepe. The overdress is fastened under the collar, and is held in place by the self belt. Composed of four separate panels curved at the hem edges, the outer layer swings gracefully over the inner when in motion. Except for little pockets under the belt, the underdress is completely simple.

love see that you want to take a reasonable view of things. Make a point of getting acquainted with the person he wants to marry so that you will really know him or her and be in a position to estimate his or her character fairly and without prejudice. Encourage your child to talk about his romance, thus giving you the opportunity to bring in your ideas naturally. In the course of a friendly discussion.

And if, after you have made yourself thoroughly conversant with all angles of the situation, you still feel the marriage would be unwise, say so quietly, and without emotion, explaining your reasons clearly. After that, never harp on the matter. From then on, it must be left to the young person himself. You have done all you can, and he must, in the end, make his own choice.

GIRLS MAY JOIN NAVY

Toronto, Oct. 31. (CP)—Canada's younger girls now are eligible to join the navy. The Navy League of Canada has announced that a Women's Auxiliary to the Sea Cadets is to be formed. Girls 14 to 18 are eligible. They will wear special uniforms and receive training similar to that given the Sea Cadets. They will be known as Wrenettes.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

What the wedding guest says to members of the receiving-line.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I am going to a wedding and reception soon. Am I correct in believing that the correct form is to congratulate the bride and to extend best wishes to the bride?

2. Please give me some suggestions as to what to say to the bride's parents, and to the groom's parents who will receive with them.

R. R.

1. Yes, "Congratulate" and "Congratulations" are used only to the bridegroom . . . never to the bride. For the bride: "Every good wish to you, Rosanne dear"; or "May your every wish come true"; or "My dearest love to you, Rosanne, and may all happiness be yours!"

2. To the bride's parents, say some enthusiastic words about what a beautiful wedding it was, what a lovely bride their daughter was, and so forth. To the groom's parents, also may say that what a beautiful wedding it was, how lovely the bride and groom handsome and proud their son looked as they came down the aisle after the ceremony. As we go along the receiving-line there is usually time for one or so to make some pleasant comment about the wedding or the bride and groom . . . and there usually isn't much time for originality. So say your few words of enthusiasm with a special grace of manner and tone of voice.

Good theatre manners make good sense

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a married couple take some friends to the theatre or concert, shouldn't the host, after he has given the ticket stubs to the usher, let his guests precede him down he aisle, that is, the guests directly following the usher?

Dolores K.

Not necessarily. This might seem a proper rule, but in reality it doesn't always work out as the practical thing for the host to do. It might be, and often is, much more convenient for the host to give the tickets to the usher, and then, rather-than hold up the procedure in a crowded place, follow the usher, and then wait at the head of the row to direct his guests in the order in which they are to sit. This is "having the situation firmly in hand".

Not necessary to send gift to acknowledge birth announcements

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please come to our aid to settle a discussion we are having concerning the subject of birth announcements! Our question is whether or not it is always necessary to send a gift in response to a birth announcement card, regardless of the situation you know, the parents, or whether these announcements sometimes were sent just to convey information.

In other words, is there any circumstance, social or business or professional, when it would not be necessary to send a gift when acknowledging, a birth announcement!

Louise H.

Actually, there is no circumstance, social, business, or professional, when it is necessary to send a gift to acknowledge a birth announcement. As its name implies, this card is sent merely to announce the baby's birth, to inform relatives and friends when the baby was born, and its name. If any relative or intimate friend is inclined to send the baby a present, that's a friendly gesture, of course, and generous . . . but it isn't necessary. However, it is true that a gracious person usually and quite naturally makes some acknowledgment of such an important piece of news as a birth announcement. . writing a note thanking for the announcement, and expressing congratulations and best wishes to the baby's mother and father.

RESIDENTIAL BUILDING

Ottawa, Oct. 31. (CP)—Value of new residential construction in Canada in the first six months of 1950 reached a peak of $341,000,000, up nine per cent over the corresponding period of 1949, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation said Monday.

FOR FLAVOUR WITH ZEST HP SAUCE IS BEST!

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking?

Oatmeal Banana Cookies

1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1-2 teaspoon baking soda
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-2 teaspoon nutmeg
1-4 teaspoon cloves
1-2 teaspoon cinnamon
1-3 cup shortening
1-2 cup sugar
1 egg
2-3 cup mashed banana
1 cup quick cooking rolled oats
1-2 cup chopped nuts

Preheat oven at 375 degrees. Grease a cookie sheet.

Sift flour then measure. Sift again with baking soda, salt, nutmeg, cloves and cinnamon.

Work shortening with the back of a spoon in a mixing bowl until smooth. Gradually add sugar beating until light and fluffy. Add egg. Beat well.

Mash banana with a fork or force through a sieve. Add the mashed banana, the nuts and the rolled oats to the shortening mixture.

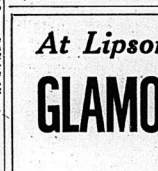
Add the flour mixture, blending well.

Drop batter from a teaspoon about 2 inches apart onto greased cookie sheet. Bake 12 to 15 minutes.

Oatmeal in early Colonial times was served by prescription only. Doctors regarded it primarily as a medicine rather than a food.

In the latter half of the 19th century oatmeal was considered one of the "brain" foods. Eat it and be smart, mothers told their children. The brain contained phosphorus, it was known. So did oatmeal. Therefore, when the brain was taxed, it was a good idea to refuel it with oatmeal.

To this day in many European countries, they would consider it eccentric if you ate oatmeal for breakfast. In Austria it is served as a soup for evening meals only.



Besides its used as a breakfast cereal, oatmeal is an ingredient in making bread, muffins, pie crust and cookies.

It's widely used for making cookies because its slightly rough texture is a fine balance to the sugar, fat and spices.

If you do not have a cookie sheet use the back of a baking pan, not the inside, for making cookies. Allow 2 to 3 inches space between each cookie since the batter expands and spreads during baking.

Women who big around extra fat padding in the form of adipose tissues are constantly being warned by the medical profession. Human steel, hooked between the internal organs, interferes with the free and normal functioning of the heart, liver and digestive organs. But thin girls also are subject to certain deplorable conditions. Usually they are suffering from malnutrition that depletes energy, causes nervousness, brings pallor to the skin. To be blessed with normal weight and measurements is to have an advantage in the pursuit of health and good looks.

Little skinny has her grievances. In public conveyances she is squeezed and crowded, sat upon by huskier sisters. If a plumpie with a figure takes a seat next to her enters a bus or street car and looks for a seat, you may be sure it will be the next fat-filled passenger, whom she will submerge with her draperies.

If there is a sudden, rapid loss of weight, there should be a reason why. Usually, it will make a check up, find out if anything is wrong physically.

If his report is favorable, and if she will follow a few simple health rules, she will be able to round out her figure, tuck away prominent collar bones under solid flesh, feel and look like a full portion of a girl, instead of half a one.

The most common cause of emaciation is a finicky, fussy appetite. Certain food elements are lacking; by sticking to certain dishes she is missing out on the necessary vitamins and mineral salts. The first step is to eat a maintenance breakfast. As she ordinarily downs a cup of coffee and nibbles on a piece of toast, the idea of a man-sized meal will throw her into a frenzy, put her teeth on edge. She can, without suffering consume fruit or fruit juice, a soft boiled egg, toast and a beverage. There is considerable nourishment in an egg. It will help her start the day right.

She should cut down on old foods and highly spiced ones, gradually add a little more fat, starchy foods and sweets to the diet. They will not only form a nest blanket over her bones, but will create energy. If appetite is meagre, she can acquire a healthy one by having more outdoor exercise.

It is during sleep that nature rebuilds, makes repairs. Hence the need of at least eight hours of restful slumber—nine are better. Social activities should be restricted to a certain extent. Some of our too-slender sisters run around as fast a fat cell can't light upon them.

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

WAY DOWN YONDER

The South, particularly the deep South of Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana, seems a strange and somehow forbidding place to the northerner.

Part of this has to do with climate. To speed out of the crisp autumn weather of New England into the muggy heat of Dixie, where everything is lush, jungle green, gives the traveller a change of clime that reacts on him physically and mentally. We find ourselves struggling weakly against an all-embracing torpor.

As I write this today from a glade just outside New Orleans the temperature is over the 80 degree mark and penetrates right into the bones. From the bayou nearby comes a high electric sound of singing insects. A sky of hot lead wonders overhead.

This has a very definite debilitating effect on the new arrival and may possibly make him more sensitive than he ought to be to the strangeness of his new surroundings.

There is, as you know, a great school of southern writers (Erskine Caldwell is the first example who comes to mind) who write of these American semi-tropics with a kind of suppressed violence. I find the first effect of the country itself, much the same as the effect of that kind of novel.

In Georgia, particularly, there are sights to give you the creeps. At one point the highway was under repair and the detour led us through some back country.

We went by small, sweltering hamlets where life seemed baked into a tableau, the grizzled citizens stumped on sagging porches staring sullenly at this intrusion, the hogs lying in the red dust, the thin hounds barking at the traffic, everything ready for a road-show production of "Tobacco Road."

By the Road

The deeper you come into the south the more you feel that you have come into another world. In this the America, you ask yourself, that boasts of its highest standard of living, of its progress and creature comforts? It doesn't seem possible.

For hundreds of miles the only habitation along the highway are the hovels of Negros. Perhaps, like me, you saw the moving picture "Pinky" and felt that a fine story was ruined by too theatrical a setting. The "Mammy's" shack in that film seemed just too tumble-down to be real. Yet we passed hundreds of them that were in far worse condition, without glass in the windows, without doors, battered, grey little hutches leaning under their age. Inside you catch a glimpse of people crowded together in one or two rooms, colored people dressed in rags.

There are other sights, too, that create a macabre mood. The beards of moss hanging from the trees, the swamps, the bayous strangling in foliage too ripe for a northern appetite, the long-eared mules dragging along carts piled high with cotton or tobacco leaves, the earth that is the color of dried blood.

Through Georgia, too, we passed many prison gangs on the road, some "colored" some "white", for segregation is carried to its final degree. Standing apart from each gang would be a guard, heavy pistol on his hip, a shotgun crooked under an arm, watching the gang from beady eyes.

And in the country you see the Negro schools, unpainted barns, some standing in the sere corn fields, all desperately overcrowded. Going by, our kids waved a greeting, as they have been doing since we set out. But the colored kids have rarely waved back. They stand and stare or turn away. And this gives you an uneasy feeling.

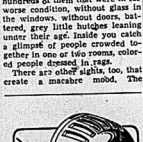
You see the other extreme, too. The magnificent Colonial homes, the plantations covering an area bigger than a city and at one we saw a yellow Cadillac convertible filled with young people swinging out of a long flower-bordered driveway, its dust momentarily obscuring a row of those sordid little shacks.

America, where all men are created equal!

Oh, brother!

On The Gulf

The most spectacular beauty spot of the south, the Florida gulf coast, is itself a rich mixture for the northern tourist.



We had our first glimpse of the Gulf of Mexico near Fort Walton, Florida. As far as we could see in either direction a broad beach stretched away, as white as if there had been a fresh fall of snow. Near the shore the water was an indescribable emerald green, deepening to sapphire blue in the distance.

We pulled in the car, took off our shoes and stockings and ran down a slope of sand the texture of Cream of Wheat.

It was like being in a dream. Not a soul could be seen anywhere on all that dazzling beach We waded into the cool water. Instantly there was a "Whoosh" and a school of dolphin surfaced, their fins cutting the blue water not more than a hundred yards offshore. Overhead a line of white pelicans flew by with a measured beat of wings.

It was beautiful beyond description and yet somehow eerie, the colors too flamboyant, the sense of space and emptiness almost overpowering, the black fins in the blue water a kind of symbol of the violence that one senses lurks behind all the loveliness of the south.

Or—who knows?—maybe I've just read too much Erskine Caldwell.

National Church For Native Race African Problem

Johannesburg, Nov. 1— (CP)— The first signs of creation of an African native church are becoming apparent since the government's policy of apartheid, or race separation, started to take effect.

Some believe that the African native, taking readily to Christianity with fervour and enthusiasm, may find in his own nationalist church a shelter for what he regards as repressive action. Others however believe such a movement might develop undesirable tendencies.

The apartheid policy is fully supported by the Dutch Reformed Church of which many colored people are members, and it also has the tacit approval of the Church of England.

Nor the president - general of the African Congress, Dr. J. S. Moroka, has given the first official lead to the trend for a native church. "There is nothing that will make you strong and a power in your own country unless you have your own national church," he said.

But the extent to which the aims of the new church coincide with the desires of the natives has yet to be proved. Many have already turned to the Roman Catholic church because of its excellent mission work.

Rev. J. B. Webb, a Methodist minister who took part in the funeral services for Field Marshal Smuts, sees nothing but danger in the creation of an African national church. He said he believes it would be likely to become more national than Christian.

Separatist Movement

A move away from the Dutch Reformed Church has already begun among natives in the Cape province. Rev. I. D. Morkel, a pastor known as "Little David" among the natives, has preached his last sermon in the Dutch Reformed Church.

Nearly 1,000 natives, some of them travelling many miles, attended his first service in the newly - created New Calvinist Protestant Church of South Africa, held in the open air near Capetown.

"The policy of unending trusteeship is no longer acceptable to us," said the manifesto of the new congregation. "As we claim to have reached maturity we feel capable of managing our own church affairs."

POPE PROCLAIMS

A mighty roar as from a sea came from the throats of the people, representing all races, classes and corners of the globe.

The roar swelled as the pontiff was carried slowly into the square before the obelisk in its centre and then up the steps to the red damask-covered throne.

One by one the cardinals stepped before the Pope, who was flanked by ranks of Vatican nobles and Swiss guards in colorful uniforms, and knelt in obeisance.

Drops to Knees to Pray

Eugene Cardinal Tisserant of France, sub-deacon of the Sacred College, then stepped forward and in Latin requested the Pope "Instanter"—immediately — to exercise his "supreme judgment" and declare "Mary, our most sweet mother" to be assumed in body and soul into Heaven.

Replying in Latin, the Pope said he wished to pray. He raised his voice, asking for guidance from God in this "most grave act."

The Pope intoned "Veni, Creator"—"Come, O Creator." Then in one of the most tense moments, he dropped to his knees to pray.

A few minutes later he began reading the Dogma Bull.

He read only the first few lines pronouncing as divinely revealed Mary's assumption into Heaven.

When a roar of approval had subsided, the Pontiff raised his voice to sing the first words of "Te Deum," the hymn of Thanksgiving. The Sistine chapel choir took up the hymn, as did the voices of hundreds of thousands.

The giant bronze bells of St. Peter's began to toll. One by one the bells of Rome's hundreds of other churches joined the chorus.

Meanwhile, in cathedrals and churches throughout the world services were being held to celebrate the event.

Speaking briefly in Italian after the "Te Deum" Pope Pius declared the world as yet has no peace, and he urged all men—the sick, refugees, the persecuted, those without arms or without work and who have no roofs over their heads—to become sons of a single mother, Mary.

World Is Divided

The world, the Pope said, is divided by hate and conflict, and the light of love, based in Christ is almost extinguished.

He described Mary as a "monument to the unity of faith."

At the conclusion he asked all to pray, cardinals, archbishops, patriarchs, bishops and the tremendous throng dropped to their knees as though a great wind were passing over the square.

In a loud voice, the Pope then recited a prayer he had composed in honor of Mary:

"We believe with all the fervor of our faith in your triumphant assumption, in soul and in body, into heaven, where you are acclaimed Queen by all the choirs of the angels and all the legions of the saints."

At the end of this and other prayers, another roar of approval.

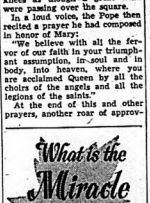
Services held elsewhere in the world at the same time as those in Rome ranged from high masses in famous cathedrals to simple ceremonies in jungle clearings and lonely islands.

A commemorative service was held on Jerusalem's Mount Zion, where the Virgin Mary is reputed to have died and been buried.

In Spain, the guns of all fortresses and warships fired 21-gun salutes.

Throughout the world the 54,000,000 members of the Catholic action, the militant lay and clerical organization of the church, took a leading role in the celebrations.

SAY PLANT WILL BE IN U.S.



Port Arthur, Nov. 1.(CP) — Mayor A. O. Robinson revived briefly Monday night what was the subject of widespread controversy here about a year ago—the Imperial Oil pipeline from Alberta to Superior, Wisconsin.

He said Imperial Oil and government officials had given assurance that the oil was to be shipped in bond from Alberta to Sarnia, Ont., and would not be refined in the United States.

"But now," the Mayor said, "a plant is being built at Superior for no other purpose but to refine Canadian oil."

The miracle of Canada is the reward of its thrifty people; it is a standard of living wrought by men and women, who believe in spending and saving wisely. The average Canadian, for example, owns his own car and his own home. He pays his bills when due. His pattern of living is excellent.

When the pattern breaks

But unexpected emergencies do break the pattern. Usually the emergency requires more money than he has available. This can happen to anyone. Then help must come from a dependable outside source.

INTERESTED IN SYMBOL OF AUTHORITY

African sign of dignity is an immense umbrella, but the Oba Alaiyeluwa Ologbegi, second Olawo of Owo, West Nigeria, is just as interested in the West's insignia of civic leadership — this massive mace dating from 1707 and shown him by the mayor of Plymouth, Eng. Basic Plans Already Exist For Civil Aviation Industry If Emergency Should Arise

Stejnlory Club, Que., Nov. 1 — CP—Transport Minister Chevrier said today that basic plans already exist to gear Canada's $40,000,000—year civil aviation industry to the needs or war should an emergency with Russia arise.

The minister, in an address prepared for delivery to a convention luncheon of the Air Industries and Transport Association said he was not in a position to give details of what would happen should war come.

But he was satisfied that civil aviation had been bout with the military—"a satisfactory basis for consultation" to weld the industry to the war effort. It would follow these lines:

1. Air reserve men, now on civil aviation, would be called up for R. C. A. F. service, but apart from that, wholesale stripping of the key personnel of essential civil air operations would not be in accord with wartime needs."

2. Surplus civil aircraft probably would be taken over by the R. C. A. F.

Civil Airlines

3. Civil airlines operators probably would be called on to take part in any necessary military airlift operations just as Canadian Pacific Airlines now are transporting military personnel across the Pacific on a charter basis.

4. The wartime system of priority in airline travel would be reinstated and "plans for such a system under the control of the Air Transport Board are well advanced."

Mr. Chevrier also dealt with the government's policy on airports and airways and said that income of less than $17,000,000 from all domestic air services in Canada in 1945 had grown by 125 per cent—to $40,000,000 to date.

The revenues of the government-owned-operated airline—Trans-Canada Airlines—for the first six months of the year were up 18 per cent from $12,000,000 to $14,000,000. An operating deficit—during the first months of 1949—of $1,000,000 was converted into a small profit.

The objective of Canada's airports and airways policy, he said, was the continued development of main airways linked together with provison of airports to serve local needs but which do not lie on the main routes.

In assisting development of smaller airports, the government would extend grants-in-aid conditional of adequate local participation. There might be cases where sizeable airports, though not on the main system would also be required regionally and these would be considered on their merits.

WOODSTOCK POPULATION

Woodstock, Nov. 1 — (CP) — Woodstock's population has increased 134 during last year, Assessor H. E. Buchanan said today. The population now stands at 14,254 and will be boosted January 1 by 448 when a portion of Blandford township is annexed to the city.

OLD BUILDING SOLD

St. Catharines, Nov. 1. (CP)—The old building which housed the Grantham township offices until opening of the new township building October 24, has been sold to John H. Flatt, a Welland lawyer, for $15,500.

The former township building is across King Street from the new $85,000 structure and has been occupied by the township since it was purchased by the municipality in 1924. Prior to that it was the Lincoln County Registry office.

WANTED TO GET AWAY FROM IT ALL

Anybody can sympathize with Anita East (left) and Nona Fay Casey who decided to leave their Los Angeles, Calif., homes to get away from the drudgery of washing dishes. They lit out aboard their horse "Smoky," but didn't get far. The sight of two girls on a horse aroused the curiosity of juvenile officer P. A. Brautovich who apprehended steed and rifters and returned them to their parents — and the dishes. Brautovich is holding Smoky's head here. — Central Press Canadian.

Admits Strangling Widowed Mother

Detroit, Nov. 1. (CP)—John D. Edmunds, 29, confessed today to strangling his widowed mother. He told police he did it because she refused to finance his debts.

"She said she had given me money for the last time," Edmunds said, after giving himself up to Saginaw, Mich., police last night.

He had been sought since the body of his mother, Mrs. Minerva Edmunds, 59, was found Monday night strangled in the basement of her home. She had been dead six days.

In a detailed confession Edmunds also told police he had squandered his mother's money, fraudulently sold the family car, sold a $16,000 cruiser left by his father for $4,000 without his mother's knowledge, and stole and pawned his mother's engagement ring.

OPEN NEW RADAR UNIT

Ottawa, Nov. 1. (CP) — The capital's new reserve radar unit —to be known officially as an aircraft control and warning unit —will be opened officially next Tuesday, the R.C.A.F. announced yesterday.

The unit, which will come under the No. 1 radar and communications unit of Montreal, will ensure that trained personnel will be available in event of war to man radar units in the regular force.

Other units have been formed in Montreal, Quebec, Ste. Anne Bellevue and Sherbrooke, Que.

PICTON

Little Damage As Hallowe'en Is Celebrated

Picton — Hallowe'en was celebrated in Picton and district last night with little serious damage being done. One of the reasons for this was the parties planned to keep the young fiends occupied. More than seven hundred took part in a parade through the town, most of them being children. The long column of gaily dressed figures were led by the bugle band from the Royal Canadian School of Artillery (AA) Later, at the armouries, Picton Business Girls Association members distributed bags of candy and apples.

A similar parade, followed by treats was sponsored in the village of Bloomfield by the businessmen. There were many parties in homes and halls which drew crowds.

Open Season Declared

Picton — For the first time, an open season on pheasants has been declared for Prince Edward County. This is being held Friday and Saturday. For a few years the township of South Marysburgh was open to hunting. Members of Prince Edward Rod and Gun Association and County Council has requested that there be no open season. For the past three years, the Rod and Gun group has raised and liberated several thousand chicks in the county and they felt that they are not yet old or numerous enough to warrant an open season.

POLICE HAD BATTLE

Toronto, Nov. 1. (CP)—Police had a battle after trailing a drug suspect last night. They said the man jammed a package down his mouth. Before they got it away from him his dentures came out and he bit them with bare gums.

Charged with illegal possession of narcotics was William Rainbow, 41. Police said the package contained ten capsules of heroin.

Minefield Still Threatens Wonsan Shipping

U.N. troops narrowly missed a major disaster when they delayed invasion of North Korea at Wonsan for a week while the South Korean troops advanced to capture the port. The waters around Wonsan were found to have one of the most heavily concentrated minefields ever known. Here, a week after the invasion, minesweeping crews are still at the job of clearing the harbor so that ships may transport war goods safely. — Central Press Canadian.

New Zealand Sees U.N. Disposition For Special Unit

By J. G. GRAHAM
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Auckland, N.Z., (CP)—There are growing predictions in New Zealand that this Dominion's special force for Korea, known as K-Force, now may be converted to a role similar to that of the special brigade Canada is training. There are forecasts that the force may be available, like the Canadian formation, for service anywhere as directed by the United Nations.

The government has denied that there has been any change in plans so far. It says the present intention is to send the force to Korea as originally planned.

However the Minister of Defence, T. L. MacDonald, said in the House of Representatives: "It is out of our hands. We do not know how events are shaping in Korea, nor do we know what further appeals the United Nations will make in regard to the force we are now training. When information becomes available it will certainly be given to the House and the public.

Under Training

The New Zealand force was raised from volunteers shortly after the appeal by the secretary-general of the United Nations, Trygve Lie, for additional ground forces for Korea. It was planned as the field artillery component of a British Commonwealth brigade and consists of an artillery regiment and auxiliary units.

New Zealand is pushing ahead with the complete training of the force before sending it overseas. Only a small proportion of the men had previous artillery experience and well under half were ex-servicemen. However, three times the necessary number of volunteers signed up in a week, so that the army authorities were able to impose a high physical standard and the men selected were well above the average in physique and general ability.

Rapid Training

A period of concentrated basic training has been followed by specialized artillery training at Waiouru, New Zealand's main artillery camp, situated in bleak gunnery training country in almost uninhabited land in the centre of the North Island. Training is being pushed ahead rapidly and all weekend leave has been cancelled to accelerate preparations.

Present plans are to send the force on final leave in the last two weeks of November and to embark as soon thereafter as shipping is available. Before then, however, the situation may have changed considerably in Korea.

When fully trained the force will be a very useful unit to aid in any United Nations formation. New Zealand was noted during the Second World War for its artillery, which introduced many improvements in technique, especially in the direction of bringing down heavy concentrations of fire with great speed on a desired area.

The lessons of the war, and subsequent advances, are being fully applied in training the present force. It is being trained and equipped with British weapons, but the possibility is being kept in view that a change to American weapons may be necessary and the training is being conducted so as to enable a rapid switch to be made.

Managers Plan To Fight Bingo With Bingo

Toronto, Nov. 1 (CP) —Ottawa theatre managers are planning to fight bingo with bingo.

They plan a city-wide bingo game, with the city's motion-picture theatres linked by telephone for the game.

The Motion Picture Theatres Association of Ontario was told Tuesday that this was the answer to Ottawa Theatres to monster bingo games conducted regularly in the capital. The Theatre Managers Association of Ottawa asked the parent association for moral and financial support for the scheme—which may land the theatre managers in court.

Theatre officials said various things might happen if they adopt the scheme. They might be prosecuted under the lotteries act. If they were, they could claim the existing bingo games are just as illegal. If they weren't, they might have a crowd-pleaser to pep up business on slow nights.

200 Prisoners Guinea Pigs For Mind Doctor

Kingston, Nov. 1 (CP) —A Queen's University neurologist said Tuesday that more than 200 prisoners—men and women—at Collins Bay Penitentiary here have voluntarily helped him in research to discover the causes of their misdeeds.

Dr. Denis N. White, assistant professor of the University's department of medicine, said he had taken tests of 127 men and 80 women prisoners.

The tests were taken by electroencephalograph, an instrument which registers minute electrical impulses generated by the brain. It records impulses between the intestines of five and 100 millionths of a volt.

Dr. White said the graphs of the men prisoners showed no abnormalities which would be considered typical of criminal types. The graphs of women prisoners showed an apparent group abnormality.

National Council of Women Protests Orders-in-Council, Asks More Women Senators

Ottawa, Nov. 1—(CP)—A protest against government orders-in-council and a request that women be appointed to the senate were included in a 12-page batch of resolutions handed today to Prime Minister St. Laurent.

The resolutions were presented to Mr. St. Laurent by a six-woman delegation from the National Council of Women, led by the council president, Mrs. R. J. Marshall, Agincourt, Ont.

Other delegates: Mrs. E. D. Hardy, Mrs G. D. Finlayson and Mrs. Milton F. Gregg, all of Ottawa; Mrs. F. E. Underhill, London, Ont.; Mrs. W. E. Graham, Smiths Falls, Ont.; Mrs. A. Turner Bone, Montreal.

The resolutions included several passed at the council's annual meeting in June at Kitchener, Ont.

One protested the "large number of orders-in-council."

"The democratic system of government is previous to all Canadians," it said, "Whereas the delegation of legislative authority, while at times necessary, is contrary to democratic principles."

Another request was for establishment of a permanent non-political advisory body, composed men of the arts in Canada.

In another resolution the council protested an increase in the annual radio licence fee on the grounds that "non-commercial must, above all else remain within the financial reach of all Canadians."

Want In-Law Pensions

It asked that pensions for dependent parents who lost sons in war services "be brought into line with pensions paid to veterans and their kin."

It urged that courts in granting citizenship, should, by appropriate ceremonies, impress upon applicants the responsibilities and privileges of Canadian citizenship.

Another resolution urged that Asiatics living in Canada be permitted to bring in wife or husband and unmarried children under 21 years.

Other resolutions asked that Indians be given the right to vote. That they be granted old-age and blind pensions and that be given more voice in the conduct of Indian education.

The council asked that funds be made available through special health grants to help the expansion of nurses' residence and teaching facilities.

It also pointed to the "lurid" nature of which it said are flooding news stands. It urged that section of the criminal code dealing with the printing and sale of such matter should be enforced.

The brief charged there are recommendations made by the Archambault report which have not been implemented. It urged that attention be given several sections of the report which are "outstanding" in amending criminal code to allow time for payment of fines; appointment of a parole officer in each province or group of provinces.

More Legal Aid

The council further recommended a more liberal use of legal aid for prisoners unable to afford it and that women be appointed to prison committees.

Another resolution asked that the government pay compensation to persons injured by explosives, radioactive materials and other dangerous things which are the property of the crown, "as payment on compassionate grounds and without admission of liability."

The preamble noted there had been a "number of instances" where children and others have been seriously injured by grenades . . . and other national defence department explosives . . ."

The council had been informed that no compensation was available to the injured party "in the absence of conclusive evidence of negligence on the part of the servants or agents of the crown."

Eastern Ontario Trade Fair Opens At Kingston

Kingston, Nov. 1 (CP) — A vast program of industrial development in Canada is taking place against a backdrop of "a growing awareness of . . . a need for strengthening to resist aggression," George J. McIlraith, parliamentary assistant to Trade Minister Howe, said Tuesday night.

Mr. McIlraith, Liberal Member of Parliament for Ottawa West, was officiating at ceremonies opening the annual Eastern Ontario Trade Fair and Fashion Show in the Kingston Armory. Mr. Howe had intended to open the show but heavy pressure of business "connected directly with defence preparedness" made it impossible for him to be present, Mr. McIlraith said.

Canada's national production in 1950 would exceed "the tremendous figure of $17,000,000,000," Mr. McIlraith said. And 10 percent of that production would be used directly for defence preparedness."

"Only five days ago," he declared, "Canada took part in an exchange of notes with the United States which, have cleared the way for a joint co-operation and co-ordination on the part of our countries in the economic defence program."

Mr. McIlraith said the people of Eastern Ontario have a full part to play in Canada's economic development. "In the space of four years since the end of the war, 20 new industries have been established in this part of the country. They employ more than 1,000 persons and have an annual production of more than $7,000,000."

ON WAY TO SHOOT ELK

North Bay, Ont., Nov. 1 (CP) —The advance guard of an 800-man battalion of hunters moved in on the nearby Redbridge elk herd at first light today.

Some 800 tickets have been issued here to shoot the elk during the five-day season which opens today and closes Nov. 25.

The Redbridge elk herd has been estimated in number from 30 to 60. It is concentrated in a small area about 12 miles northeast of here. The animals are suffering from liver flukes —a parasitic condition which does not affect the meat.

FIVE POLICEMEN KILLED

Manilla, Nov. 1. (AP)—Five Philippine policemen were killed today by three captives who snatched their guns away from them as the prisoners presumably were leading the officers to a gun cache. Meanwhile, four persons were killed, a priest was kidnapped and a municipal building was set afire in a resumption of red Hukbalahap (guerrilla) raids on Luzon cities.

Vandenberg Asked to Make Reply to Truman

New York, Nov. 1 (CP)—Republican leaders appealed today to Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan to answer President Truman's only political speech in the campaign for Tuesday's elections.

But there seems little chance that the ailing Republican veteran will feel physically able to make a 30-minute radio reply to Truman's broadcast in St. Louis Saturday night.

If Vandenberg, long a principal Republican foreign-policy spokesman, is not up to it, then other party members may be called upon. The Republicans may turn to Harold E. Stassen, a 1948 presidential aspirant.

Others mentioned include former President Herbert Hoover; Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York, twice-defeated Republican presidential candidate running for his third term as governor of New York; Kenneth Wherry of Nebraska, Republican senate floor leader; and Joe Martin of Massachusetts, minority leader in the House of Representatives.

The Republican's national chairman, Guy G. Gabrielson, was reported scurrying around for the $15,000 which would be needed to hook up one network to reply to the four-network address by Truman, cutting $50,000.

The Democrat national chairman, William M. Boyle, Jr., in a radio speech last night called for a huge vote election day to put in office "men and women who will support—not obstruct — the policies by which this nation is firmly dedicated."

An estimated 40,000,000 of the more than 70,000,000 registered voters are expected to turn out in the "greatest" balloting for 36 senators, 32 governors, 435 members of the House and scores of minor officials.

Fine Outstanding Sires Available To Breeders

Toronto, Nov. 1 (CP) — The services of five outstanding sires will be available to Canadian breeders at thoroughbred horses at the newly-organized National Stud of Canada, it was announced today.

The stallions—Teddy . Wrack, Fairairla, Fenelon, Flares and Fitzthorn—will stand at the Stud's farm property near Oshawa, Ont., recently bought from Col. R. S. McLaughlin's Parkwood Stable.

E.P. Taylor, who conceived the idea of the National Stud said it is dedicated to breeding Canadian horses which can compete with the best in the world. He said a sixth stallion will be imported from France.

He said: "This is a farm where the small horseman with a good mare or two, but no farm of his own, will be welcome."

Fenelon and Flares have been obtained on lease from William Woodward, prominent United States horseman and president of the Jockey Club, the governing body of racing in the U.S. Fitzthorn was purchased from Frank Conklin, of Brantford, Ont., Teddy Wrack and Fairairla were obtained from the Parkwood Stable which recently disbanded.

TWO MEN DROWNED

Parry Sound, Nov. 1 — (CP)—Two men were drowned Tuesday night when their truck slipped from the back of a small car ferry into Georgian Bay. Only one of the men was identified immediately. He was Clarence Dixon of Gordon Bay, 16 miles south of here.

Puerto Ricans Mop Up Pockets Of Nationalists

San Juan, Puerto Rico, Nov. 1. (AP)—National guardsmen continued to mop up resisting pockets of nationalists in Jayuya today in the wake of a mounting death toll from the worst revolt in Puerto Rico's history.

Police put the number of dead at 23—23 Nationalists, nine policemen and one National guardsman. They said 47 had been wounded in the new outbreaks in 10 Puerto Rican centres.

Governor Luis Munoz Marin said the revolt by anti-United States rebels would be cleaned up in a day or two. He termed it a "conspiracy against democracy, helped by the communists."

MILK UP CENT QUART

Brockville, Nov. 1 (CP) —Effective today the price of milk to Brockville consumers will be increased from 18 to 19 cents a quart. The move follows a recent decision by the Ontario Board of arbitration in granting an increase in the price of milk from producers to distributors.

Jersey will now sell for 21 cents a quart with buttermilk and skim milk jumping to 12 cents. The price of chocolate milk will remain unchanged.

Huron Crew Pays Tribute To the Dead

Aboard the Canadian Destroyer Huron, Nov. 1 (CP) — This warship, on a fall training cruise with other Canadian naval vessels, paid tribute to a sunken sister ship and her dead in a quiet ceremony off the French coast.

Detached from the rest of the training squadron en route from Cherbourg to Lisbon, the Huron steered a course to the spot in the English Channel where the Canadian destroyer Athabaskan was sunk by a German torpedo in 1944.

There, the Huron's officers and men paid tribute to the 129 fellow-Canadians who went down with the Athabaskan.

As the Huron came to a halt within sight of the French coastal village of Ile de Verge, the Huron's men were called to attention on deck, a bos'n's call sounded the "still" and the Hurons ensign was lowered to half mast.

One member of the Huron's crew—PO. William Topping of Elgin, Ont.—had been serving with the Athabaskan's sister-ship, the Haida, and helped to rescue the 44 men who survived the torpedoing.

Another member, CPO. Robert Williamson, of Pictou, N.S., had been serving on the Huron, which missed the action only because she had to remain in port through damage suffered the previous night.

As chaplain Gower Stone of Halifax conducted a committal service Cmdr. Madgwick, CPO. Williamson and PO. Topping carried a wreath to the Huron's side and dropped it on the sea.

Swab Children's Throats in Test For Diphtheria

Toronto, Nov. 1 — (CP)—Hundreds of throat swabs from children in Stamford township, near Niagara Falls, are being tested here for symptoms of diphtheria, Dr. J. T. Phair, Ontario Deputy Health Minister, said today.

So far, positive tests have been returned only on three boys and a girl — brothers and sister of 3-year-old John Michael Kostick, who died of the disease.

Dr. Phair said: "We are treating the situation as though it were an outbreak. Hundreds of children have been inoculated and quarantined. It takes a while for the tests to be conducted."

Veteran Writer Performs on TV

New York, (AP)—W. Somerset Maugham has started his Broadway personal appearance career with all the quiet and frank philosophy of Trader Joe Horn, the character in his hit Broadway play "Rain".

As the commentator on "Teller of Tales", a weekly television show, Maugham is proving himself a master performer as well as a courageous one. Before he agreed to appear on the program Wednesday night, the noted novelist and playwright had never seen television. And he had to overcome the handicap of a stutter.

But he spoke with engaging fluency in his first appearance. Apparently the stutter only appears when he's surrounded by admirers at literary teas and such.

Stage Royalties

Other than for his appearances as a narrator on television, Maugham is on Broadway to collect royalties from a new motion picture version of three of his short stories under the title of "Trio", a successor to the earlier successful film of four of his stories under the title of "Quartet". Maugham admittedly is interested in royalties.

Rewards Uncertain

When asked about his current labors in New York, he answered: "You remember that when Charles Dickens came to New York, and they said to him, accusingly: 'You money grubber!' Well it's true."

Maugham emphasizes the uncertain character of an artist's income, be he actor, writer, musician, painter or sculptor. He estimates he has made more than $3,000,000 before taxes from his novels, short stories, movies and plays.

"However, I averaged only $500 a year during the first 10 years that I was writing."

Maugham, who was born in 1874, has written short stories for 34 years and novels for 33 years. "I am economical in using a television performer now," he said, "and I am not working on any more short stories. As you can see, I am just idling."

Curiously, Maugham's television programs are compelling him to break with personal rule which he has long observed. That is a determination not to reread any of his works once he is finished with them and placed them in the hands of his publishers.

Pact for Action in Event Of Defence Emergency Being Drafted Says N.Y. Times

New York, Nov. 1—(CP)—A civil-defence accord among 10 northeastern states and adjoining Canadian provinces to provide action in "the event of an atomic attack or other emergency" is being drafted here, the New York Times says today.

The newspaper says it has learned the draft, result of an earlier meeting of defence officials of the various states and provinces, will be submitted to another meeting here Nov. 18.

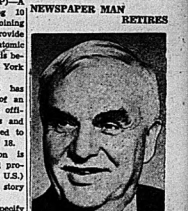
"Prompt legislative action is expected in the states and provinces involved and in (the U.S.) congress," the newspaper story says.

The Times does not specify which Canadian provinces are taking part or are expected to take part in the pact discussions. However, Ontario, Quebec and New Brunswick border on the 10 American states of which the story names seven: New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

The earlier meeting was held under the auspices of the New York joint legislative committee on interstate co-operation. At that meeting Gordon M. Tiffany, attorney-general of New Hampshire, was given the authority to name a group to write the draft of the compact, the newspaper. It adds:

Follow Recommendations

"It is understood that the draft will generally follow the recommendations contained in the federal legislation proposed to president Truman by W. Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources Board. The draft therein proposes the advance action by companies required by the constitution, to any pact between states and between states and neighboring subdivisions of another country to meet enemy attack.



"The subjects coverable under such advance congressional approval include exchange of food, clothing, medical supplies, engineering services, emergency housing, police and firefighting services, national or state guard, medical and related services, evacuation, fire-fighting, rescue transportation and construction services on broad terms."

Professor Frederick L. Zimmerman, one of the three named to draft the pact, is quoted as saying that when "one state calls on another for aid, the powers and immunities of the forces of the aiding state should be defined in law. The pact also should outline a formula for the payment of costs involved."

Zimmerman, who was not further identified, is reported by the newspaper as saying that if New Jersey or Connecticut police were called into a disaster area in which they might not have the right to direct traffic, or more seriously, to arrest or shoot looters.

The other two named by the New Hampshire attorney-general to draft the pact, the Times says, are Lawrence G. Williams, A. Nyack, N.Y., lawyer and Mitchell Wendel of Springfield, Mass. They are not further identified.

NEWSPAPER MAN RETIRES

Albert H. E. (Abbie) Coo, former managing editor of the Winnipeg Free Press, retired Oct. 31 after 50 years' service with the newspaper. Mr. Coo, a native of Fort William, is widely known for his association with amateur sport. He was an official at the 1932 Olympic Games at Los Angeles and four years later managed the Canadian Olympic team at the Berlin games.—(CP Photo.)

Sir John Dill's Statue Dedicated By President

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP) — President Truman arranged to dedicate a memorial in Arlington National Cemetery today to Field Marshal Sir John Dill, senior British representative on the combined chiefs of staff in Washington during the Second World War.

Sir John died here late in 1944 and Congress passed a special resolution permitting him to rest, as he wished, in the cemetery where the American Unknown Soldier is enshrined.

The movement to erect a memorial to the British war leader was started by Gen. George C. Marshall, Admiral Ernest J. King and the late Gen. Henry H. Arnold, who served with him on the combined chiefs of staff. A memorial committee led by Robert Woods Bliss raised funds by voluntary American contributions.

The memorial is a bronze statue of the Field Marshal mounted on a horse.

In addition to President Truman's remarks, the program for the unveiling late today called for addresses by Marshall, now Secretary of Defence, and Sir Oliver Franks, the British ambassador to the U.S.

Anthony Eden, member of Britain's wartime cabinet, travelled to the U.S. by air at the British government's request in order to attend the ceremony. Eden now is deputy Conservative party leader.

NEW LADDER ARRIVES

Brockville, Nov. 1 (CP) —The Brockville Fire Department's new 85-foot aerial ladder truck arrived here Tuesday and firemen put on a demonstration before a large crowd. Ordered following the disastrous million dollar fire which swept the business section here last November, the new fire truck will be kept at the Brockville military camp fire station but the local fire hall can be enlarged to accommodate it.

FOUNTAINS FOR CANADA

Australian Ore Is Aid to West Armament Plans

By LOUIS L. LECK
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Sydney, Australia, Nov. 1 (CP) — The world's largest deposits of high grade tantalite, a metal ore used to toughen armaments, are at Wodgina and two smaller mines nearby, 900 miles north of Perth. There the temperatures range up to 120 degrees in the shade in the height of summer.

It was 25 years ago that a man riding up to Lady Moulden, then Australia's wealthiest woman, at the Adelaide racetrack and whispered a tip which led to development of the mine.

In the Second World War tantalite from Wodgina, worth $6,000 a ton raw, was flown by air express to the United States. There smelting produced one ton of refined tantalum metal from every two tons of ore.

Australia in those days could not smelt the tantalite itself because it did not have the equipment. Now however a company is being formed with the backing of the Western Australia state government and the Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organization.

It will build smelters near Perth to treat the ore and sell the refined tantalum to all Western countries. The new plant also will extract columbium, caesium and beryllium.

Columbium is used in stainless and chromium steels to prevent decay and add toughness. Caesium is used in the manufacture of photo-electric cells. Beryllium is harder than tool steel and nearly as light as magnesium. In an alloy with copper, it is non-sparking and is valuable for tools used in gas-works or oil-refineries. It is used in x-ray tubes and as a source for neutrons for starting the ionization in the one stage of the production of atomic energy.

Mrs. G. Brydon Files Alimony Suit

Toronto, Oct. 31 (CP)—Mrs. Gertrude Brydon, 54, who charged in a court action last week that her husband was "enticed" from her by Mrs. Ruth Abernethy, now has filed suit for alimony from Brydon, it was learned today.

Both Brydon, a 54-year-old farmer, and Mrs. Abernethy, 33, widow of Harvie Abernethy, denied Mrs. Brydon's charges in the enticement case. Mr. Justice F. H. Barlow reserved judgment.

Part of last week's testimony was that, despite her charges, Mrs. Brydon never asked her husband for alimony or separate maintenance. Court officials disclosed today that an action for an unspecified amount of alimony now has been started.

3RD HILLIER

3rd Hillier—Mr. and Mrs. John Embury and son, of Niles Corners, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lloyd and sons of Cold Creek, spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Ross Benway.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Banting and family spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Will Dalnard.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tucker, of Bloomfield, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Benway.

The Hillier Institute met on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Robert Wood; several visitors also attended.

Miss A. V. Anglin, of Picton, in aid of the Children's Shelter gave an address. Plans for the hobby fair on Nov. 1st in the Hillier town hall were discussed.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Miller and boys spent Sunday with Mr. Miller's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. H. Miller.

Mrs. Wesley Wright of Hillier, spent Friday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Dalnard.

Mr. Charles Benway is ill. Dr. Sasles of Wellington is in attendance.

The school children with the teacher, Mrs. Orville Closson are planning their annual Hallowe'en party.

Bayside Community Entertains At Hot Supper

White's District.—Bayside community entertained friends from Belleville, Ottawa, Centenary, Aikens, Johnstown, Avondale, Wesley, Trenton and Wooler to a hot supper on Tuesday evening at Whitney Church. The church was tastefully decorated for the occasion and the two long tables were loaded with good things to eat. About 300 persons attended the supper and the church was filled for the program which followed.

All joined in singing "O Canada" followed by a duet by Gail Lohnes and Freddie Meyers accompanied by Mrs. Alex. Vandervoort.

Varied Program

Mr. McCallum was chairman for the evening's program and ably presented the varied program, prefaced by humorous stories. Mr. Whaley, with his accordion, and with Mr. Claude Huffman, as accompanist, soon had his hearers especially the young people joining the singing.

Miss Joan Jeffery of Aikens, contributed a piano solo, which showed much talent. Then Mr. Wilson of Trenton, dressed as a hunter with his gun and jug rendered two comic songs accompanied by Mrs. Barr of Trenton.

Mr. Ronald Jeffery, of Trenton, contributed a saxophone solo accompanied by Mr. Claude Huffman.

Miss Cunningham, teacher of Johnstown, gave a humorous reading of happenings at a ball game followed by a take-off on herself.

Messrs. Frank and Floyd Hagerman of Belleville, with their electrical guitar and loud speaker, accompanied by the piano, gave an old favorite of the former's mother followed by an encore.

Mrs. Parks of Ovondale accompanied by Jos. Duley also gave two solos.

Mr. Wm. McMillan of Trenton, favored with two trombone solos companied by Mrs. Claude Huffman, and Mr. Wilson, Messrs. Frank and Floyd Hagerman, Mr. Whaley, Gail Lohnes and Freddie Meyers each contributed other numbers which brought the program to a close.

Nearly $200 was realized from this worthwhile effort of the ladies and over $200 at the Sunday services commemorating the 100th anniversary of White's Church.

German Bruderschaft Seen Coming More Into Open As West Powers Relax Grip

By HEINZ WEISSENBERGER

Hamburg, Nov. 1 — (Reuters) German Bruderschaft, "brotherhood of former army officers and Nazi leaders," is coming more into the open as the western occupation powers relax their grip on the country.

It has sent some of its young men to north German meetings to explain their aims.

They want "a Germany independent of east and west, a third force in strife-torn Europe, a balance between the powers and a crystallization point for European renaissance."

This appears to be a long-term aim. In the meantime, members oppose a setting-up of German military forces under any western supreme command. They want a pure-bred German army within European defence forces and with German representation in a European general staff.

By digging deeply, one can discover a good deal about the hitherto secret bruderschaft now that it has reached the public-meeting stage.

Its leadership is a caste - conscious body of Hitler's former staff officers and ex - ranking members of the dreaded S. S. (Elite Corps) blackshirts. It was

Under the shock of defeat, their first thought was to make use of their esprit de corps and their battlefield comradeship as a stabilizing factor in Germany's internal struggles.

Any rallying of former soldiers was prohibited by the Allies. So the bruderschaft began to build clandestinely. Soon it spread to labor units recruited in the British zone of occupation. The heads of these units, nearly all former officers, joined with few exceptions.

The first members slowly carried their organization into the rest of Germany, including the Soviet zone.

The bruderschaft is working to create a "true elite," destined to rule by virtue of "their moral quality and ability." Their program is to "preserve the tradition of the German Reich" (leader) principle until we can take the fate of our nation into our own hands again."

Its ultimate goal is the "union of European nations between the Atlantic and the Ural mountains, out which Germany — the Reich of all Germans within its ethnographical and historic boundaries — is to be an organic part."

Trained Populace Can Survive Atom Say US Experts

Montreal, Nov. 1 (CP)—Civilization can protect itself from the bogey of present days—an atomic bomb attack.

That's the opinion of P. W. Swain, editor of the United States magazine Power and a spectator at the Bikini atomic tests. He disclosed his findings at a recent Montreal meeting of the Institute of Power Engineers.

It is the belief that a well-trained populace can survive an atomic attack.

His explanation:

"First, atom bombs would be used only against targets of tremendous importance. This would rule out a general attack against all civilian points.

"If a bomb exploded, there are three things that can kill you. They are shock wave, gamma rays and heat flash.

"The blast, or shock wave, kills indirectly by pummelling the populace with falling buildings and flying debris. The answer to this is shelters.

"The heat flashes last three seconds and anyone within a mile of the explosion will suffer badly burned hands and faces. But even a shadow can serve as some protection from this, and a well-trained populace could be trained to duck—to fall with their backs to the flash and with their hands and faces covered.

"The gamma rays are the far-ranging killers. Anyone closer than 4,300 feet to the explosion will die—unless protected by at least 40 feet of concrete. Beyond that 4,300 feet border fatality from gamma ray drops sharply."

Mr. Swain said he doubted whether atom power would be used for anything but bombs. It might have a limited use in the power field, but right now it appeared as though man had harnessed atomic power only to treat himself to new lessons in destruction.

HULL VOLANTS WIN ONE

Ottawa, Nov. 1 (CP)—Hull Volants finally triumphed after a sea-saw battle at the auditorium Tuesday night in which they defeated R.C.A.F. Flyers 7-5 in an eastern Canada senior hockey League game.

The hard-checking game saw Flyers take the lead four times, only to have Hull Volants bounce back each time to knot the count. In the third period, Roille Lanctot put Volants ahead 6-4, and then it was Hull all the way. Phil Gamma and Yves Sarrazin-Bournet added the others.

Trailing 3-2 at the end of the first period, Hull came back with two goals by Mike Grimes, former Moncton junior star, who scored them in little more than two minutes. George Sleeth was the only Flyer to score twice.

TRAVELLING CLINICS PROPOSED

Ottawa, Oct. 31—(CP) — Federal health grants are being used to expand tuberculosis diagnosis services at Sanitoria in Brantford, Kitchener, and Gravenhurst Ont., and to increase provincial T.B. control service in northern Ontario, the health department said today.

The department said this development would bring travelling clinics to many small centres not previously touched.

Expects Cuts in US Of Metals For Civilian Use

Washington, Oct. 31 — (AP) — Cuts of 20 to 30 per cent in the civilian use of copper, nickel, and aluminum in the United States will probably be ordered within the next 10 days, effective Dec. 1.

That was the word today from an official of the National Production Authority.

Last week the Authority told manufacturers of radio and television sets, washing machines, refrigerators and other appliances that there was a "tentative plan" for an across-the-board cutback in the three vital metals, which are in demand for airplanes, radar and other war equipment.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By CEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

HERE THEY ARE!

Don't look now — but on paper the 1950-51 edition of the Belleville senior hockey club appears to be the best-balanced squad in years.

Coach Maurice (Moe) Gobeil had twenty-five aspirants go through the initial practice of the season in Cobourg Monday night and from the welter of skates, elbows and legs he selected a tentative line-up that from this direction appears to be a much better squad than those of the past two or three years.

The team is made up mainly of veterans of the senior "B" wars with possibly some new blood tossed in before the season gets very old.

There will be a new face in the nets this year, that of Jack Keays, the youngster who acted as caretaker for the Trenton Flyers last year and was awarded the "Most Valuable Player to His Team" bauble, known as the Boland Trophy. This was donated by the Oldtimers Hockey Association, which was formed by Bill Green, Hank Fenn, Toots Holway, et al.

As far as is known, this season will be the first for Keays in senior company. The youngster turned in a smart performance last year with Flyers and he should fill the bill for the current senior squad.

Four sturdy defencemen will take care of the blueline job and all are well known to hockey fans here. Lou Schmidt who caught the fans' eyes with his standout performances with the Trenton and No. 6 Repair Depot teams the past two years, has nailed a permanent defence job along with Joe Nolan, Tommy Schreiger and Doug Free.

Up front, it appears that the shocking power of the team is well distributed. The veterans Vern Goyer and Timmy Williams will flank Leo Goyer in centre on one line. Keith MacDonald and Doug Day will be the wings for centre Gerry Jones, while the other line will be composed of Johnny Green on right wing, Jackie Wardhaugh left wing and the pivot man Brian Mulvihill.

This appears to be a potent scoring force with power and speed fairly well distributed. The Goyers and Williams, with their cunning and craft should account for not a few markers while the speed and checking ability of Jones, MacDonald and Day should be a large factor in the team's potency.

Johnny Green, Brian Mulvihill and Jackie Wardhaugh, however should combine both speed and scoring efforts with effective defensive tactics and this line might steal a lot of the thunder and glory this season.

THIS LAD WILL HELP

Late in November, Coach Gobeil informs us, Paul Gagnon, smooth-skating, hard-shooting speedster of the RCAF will join the team. Gagnon, it is recalled played for the Trenton Flyers last season and caught the fans' eyes with his smooth easy skating style and terrific speed. He should prove a tower of strength to the front lines.

On this squad, Gobeil places his hopes next Friday night when they meet Queen's University here in the opening game of the local schedule. The students went down to an 8-4 defeat before the Peterborough Petes' onslaught on Monday night, and they'll be all out to saw that one off.

In the meantime, Gobeil will drill his charges hard, if and when ice ever appears in the Arena. Icemaking operations, incidentally are proceeding satisfactorily and there is a possibility it may be ready tonight.

So there you have it. It would appear that the offensive strength of the team will not be weakened by the changing of lines.

The Goyers - Williams line has, to this season, grabbed the majority of the scoring honors. Let's hope they maintain their goal-getting capers. But what looks better than last year, or the year before is the added strength in the supporting lines, if they can be called by that name.

A coach can use only what material he has on hand. It is not his fault if one line is weaker than another, although there is a lot in how a coach handles and distributes his player strength.

Gobeil seems to have made a wise selection for his first experiment at least. After all, "Mose" has only seen his charges in action once, as a coach.

There is a strong possibility, as evidenced in his announced lines, that he knows the capabilities of several of the players in his charge. In any event his offensive power is well distributed and he has mixed speed and ability in such a manner as to form a very effective whole. Time will tell.

CURTAIN RISE

Friday night there is to be the customary opening - night high jinks, we are informed. The Kinsmen Boys Band will be in attendance as will Frank Follwell, M. P., Mayor Allin and other City, Y. M. & Y. W. P's. These with members of the Arena Commission and the president and executive of the Belleville Hockey Club will be on hand to pry the lid off the 1950 hockey season in this city.

CALUMETS LOSE 4-2

Ottawa, Nov. 1 (CP)—Ottawa Army took an off-stride Cornwall Calumets team 4-2 in an eastern Canada Senior Hockey League fixture before a comparatively small crowd here Tuesday night.

A first-period battle between Cornwall's Chieffie Garand and Kenny Blondin of Army set off a brisk display. Both got five-minute penalties.

Jake Brunning, veteran Army defenceman, started Army off in the first period with an unassisted goal and for the rest of the game was a primary contributor to Army's second win of the season.

Army picked up a 3-0 advantage in the second period after goals by Maynie Darch and Pete Leichnitz before Cornwall could score.

Oklahoma Team Take Along Their Own Air

(By The Canadian Press)

Most football teams take their own drinking water when they hit the road, but Oklahoma's Sooners go 'em one better. They take along their own air.

And the Sooners will have along an extra large quantity when they risk football's longest winning streak—26 victories—against Colorado Saturday in Mile-High Boulder, Colo.

Somewhat dazed by conflicting suggestions from well-meaning fans on the best ways to combat the altitude, coach Bud Wilkinson disclosed that tanks of oxygen are standard equipment for his club.

Here are a few of the suggestions which have poured in from followers in recent days:

Make all players wear nose guards because frostbite is the death if they get bit in the nose.

Bring the team in at the last minute so the players will have good old Oklahoma air still in their lungs.

Take the team to Colorado a week ahead of time so they can become accustomed to the climate.

Bring along iron lungs that they can crawl into to recuperate after long runs.

However, Wilkinson feels there will not be enough difference in climate to bother his team.

"I think it's all psychological," he said, "and the main job right now is to convince the boys they can breath just as well in Colorado as in Oklahoma."

Ben Hogan, 1950's gallant comeback kid, was voted the P.G.A.'s "Golfer of the Year" Tuesday.

Hogan was named 113 times in overwhelming support by 173 sports writers and radio sportscasters voting in the third annual Professional Golfers Association poll. Sam Snead, the 1949 award winner, was second, 3 votes behind the little Texan.

Hogan and Snead were far ahead of any other candidates. Ballots also were cast for Lloyd Mangrum, Jim Ferrier, Jimmy Demaret, Jack Burke, Jr., Dick Metz, Henry Ransom and Chandler Harper.

Hogan's comeback from a near-fatal auto accident captured the golfing public fancy as nothing had done since Bobby Jones' grand slam.

Football fans who made successful bids for Grey Cup tickets will hear the sad news within 10 days.

By then, Secretary Percy Robinson of the Canadian Rugby Union said in Toronto last night, his top-secret group of ticket-sorters will have figured out who of the 9,000 letter writers will get the 4,125 double tickets the C.R.U. has available for the football classic to be played here Nov. 25.

The ticket-sorters— their identity kept secret to protect them from personal requests for tickets—are sorting through the 9,000 letters the C.R.U. received after newspaper advertisement offered a limited number of tickets.

The University of Toronto's battered Blues may be sporting a new quarterback when they take on McGill University Redmen in Montreal Saturday.

Norm Weal, coach of Varsity's intermediate football team, has been persuaded to come out of retirement for the McGill game. A better-than-average halfback last year, he quit playing this year to coach the intermediates while attending the Ontario College of Education.

Headed by a record-equalling seven-under par 32-33—65 by Johnny Palmer, Pinehurst's championship rocked and reeled Thursday under a birdie barrage never before seen in the 48-year-old North and South Golf Tournament.

Palmer strung together seven birdies and a par to equal the event record set 15 years ago by Paul Runyan.

Palmer had plenty of company in the par-pulverizing department as his 72-hole, $7,500 total got under way.

Five 67 shooters were only two strokes off the scorching pace. In all, 18 players broke 70 and 17 others had 70 or 71, making 35 under par 72 for the 6,852 yard Country Club layout.

Les Habitants Have Five On Injured List

(By The Canadian Press)

Mid-week action in the National Hockey League finds coach Dick Irvin of Montreal Canadiens suffering from a severe case of injury blues at a most inopportune time.

Les Habitants have five regulars sidelined for their meetings of the 1950-51 season with their traditionally-bitter rivals, Toronto Maple Leafs. The Leafs lead the league with 12 points, one more than Montreal.

The cripples in Montreal's sick bay are defenceman Butch Bouchard, Hal Laycoe and Glen Harmon, and forwards Elmer Lach and Bert Hirschfeld.

Bouchard and Hirschfeld have twisted ankles, Laycoe a broken wrist, Harmon a wrenched back and Lach a cut forehead. Also a doubtful starter is Normie Dussault, who is suffering from a mouth infection.

On the surface, such an injury list in the enemy camp seemingly would make the Leafs prohibitive favorites to win tonight's game in Toronto as well as tomorrow's return engagement in Montreal.

That leaves Irvin with little cause to be optimistic. However, he'll be able to show off to Toronto fans his league's leading scorer in Maurice (The Rocket) Richard and two or three promising rookies.

Irvin reached into Canadiens' farm system for reinforcements. Bud McPhee, who has been called up from Cincinnati Mohawks of the American League, and Tolnd St. Laurent, last report from Montreal Royals of the Quebebec Senior League.

Rangers File Protest

At New York yesterday, the Rangers filed an official protest with League President Clarence Campbell on a goal scored by Montreal in last Sunday's game at Madison Square Garden.

The goal, which was scored while goalie Chuck Rayner lay prostrate on the ice, gave Canadiens a 2-2 tie.

The protest was based on the NHL rule that states a goal shall not be allowed if a player of the attacking team not in possession of the puck is inside the goal crease. Rangers claim Frank King of Canadiens was in the crease.

It was inevitable that coach Lynn Patrick of Boston would make some changes in an effort to rouse his Bruins from their winless streak. He shuffled his lines yesterday in Detroit where the Bruins scrimmaged for 50 minutes.

Patrick assigned rookie Lorne Ferguson to Kenny Smith's left-wing berth on the club's first line. Fergy, up from Tulsa, will team up with centre Paul Ronty and right wing Johnny Peirson.

Smith played on a line with Phil Maloney at centre and Certain Milt Schmidt at right wing. Dave Creighton, who had been playing with Maloney and Schmidt, moved into a line with centre Eddie Sandford and Woody Dumart at right wing.

Horne, a professional from Montreal, carded 36-39—75. They were the only Canadians in the field of 107.

The 67 group included Jim Ferrier, Canadian Open champion from San Francisco; S. E. (Ted) Bishop, former national amateur king from Weston, Mass.; Johnny Weitzel, Harrisburg, Pa.; Walter Burkemo, Franklin, Mich., 1950 Michigan Open champion, and Toby Lyons, Jamestown, N.C.

Only three strokes out of the lead were eight men at 68, headed by defending champion Dick Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. His company at that figure included amateur star Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O.

West Playoff Will be Played In Daylight

Regina, Nov. 1—CP—The Western Interprovincial Football Union executive, by way of a telephone vote that decided that the league championship should be staged daylight has quashed what appeared to have the makings of a Thunder Bay storm.

Edmonton Eskimos, who this Saturday open their best of three WIFU championship series against the league-winning Winnipeg Blue Bombers at Edmonton, wanted to play the game at night.

Edmonton this year has played all its games under the lights and their only victory over Winnipeg in four starts—13-10—was gained on home grounds.

Bombers quickly indicated they would protest if the game were played at night. Both the games will be played in Winnipeg in the daylight.

Bombers president Ralph Misener said the league general meeting called for all playoff games to start at 2.30 p.m. He said "all we want Edmonton to do is honor the schedule."

H.Zariler, league secretary Bob Gillies of Regina said the daylight decision was only a verbal agreement. Manager Al Anderson of Edmonton said he wasn't (Eskimos) Eskimos.)

Anderson said the Eskimos, who were originally third last year would start the game at 8 p.m. He said: "We'll be at Clarke Stadium at 8 p.m. Bombers will give it to us easy if they don't show up at that time."

President Jack Grogan called for an executive vote, and it was decided in favor of daylight.

Last year, Montreal Alouettes and Ottawa Rough Riders had the same argument. The Big Four executive favored Ottawa's plea for daylight play.

To bring this anti-aircraft gun into action calls for a full crew—skilled men trained to fight as a fast-thinking, fast-acting team. To train such a crew takes time: gun crews must know how to handle modern scientific equipment—electronics, radar, radio, telephone; men must work together with the closely timed co-ordination of a championship football team.

The Canadian Army Active Force needs men today . . . keen young men who can begin training immediately as anti-aircraft gunners. You can take your place at the side of the men who defend Canada by reporting for training without delay. Act now—and help make Canada strong.

Football is Fun at Western Washington College With Suit Yourself System Being Played

Bellingham, Wash., Nov. 1—AP—Football is fun at Western Washington College, where coach C.F. Lappenbusch has come with a "suit yourself" system that sounds impossible but has the players enthusiastic and opponents in a tizzy.

His defence acts like an offence and tries to stomp opponents into the ground. His offence never tries to run over the opposition but will trick them off balance and then saw them down.

But it works. Western's Vikings lost their season's first game to Pacific U. by one touchdown and have won six and tied one since then. And they hadn't been expected to worry, anybody this year in the evergreen conference.

Lappenbusch is a thinker who put his philosophy into operation on the football field. It's what he calls a "straight line" philosophy but his own name for his staple of play is "straight line" system.

His team strings along with the manufacturer who say the straight line is the shortest distance between two points. Blocker and ball-carriers don't "hit the hole," they "hit the vertical"—the line to the goal.

Wheu an enemy quarterback looks over the line he sees the Western secondary defence strung out behind the centre in single file. There's a wide-open space on either side and he'll pass into the unguarded acreage. But when he throws, half the Vikings are over there to intercept.

Can't Make Mistake

Lappy tells a defence man he can't make a mistake as long as he doesn't get in the way of a teammate. Where the only rule is "get hold of the ball" a player has a lot of leeway. He lines up where he pleases.

"Nobody can outguess us on defence because we never know ourselves what we're going to do," says Lappenbusch.

"We figure the ball belongs to us all the time. If the other team won't pass so we can intercept, we'll let them run. Any way we'll fumble.

"Offence? Anybody who can remember right, left and which way we're going can play offence."

Lappy carries the private-enterprise to such an extreme that the men do their own substituting. "A player will run until his tongue's hanging out, then sends himself to the bench," reports the coach. "After all, the player himself is the first to know when he's tired or hurt."

GOT HIS WISH

Port Arthur, Nov. 1—CP—When Ronald McHale, 18, asked for shelter in the Port Arthur Police Station last night, using the alias Ernie Sheppard, his pals quickly caught up to him.

Recognizing McHale from a police circular as wanted for escaping from Guelph Reformatory Sept. 15, Constable Cyril Wait, on the night station duty, made sure he got his wish.

In municipal court here Tuesday, McHale was remanded in custody to await an escort from the east. He said he was glad to have been serving 22 months for housebreaking and auto theft when he escaped from Guelph.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 1—(CP)—Doctors said Tuesday they believe they have isolated an outbreak of diphtheria which has claimed one life. The victim was three-year-old John Michael Kostick of suburban Stamford township. Doctors have inoculated hundreds of children in the last few days. Dr. Harry Wrong of Niagara Falls, who attended the Kostick child, said he feels the threat of an epidemic has been averted.

JUST LIKE A MAN, HE WAS NERVOUS

Peterborough CI Senior Gridders Here Saturday

By DON DOLAN

On Saturday afternoon, November 4, at 2.30 p.m., B.C.I. seniors will tangle with Peterborough Collegiate seniors in the first game of a two game total points series. This will be the first round of the C.O.S.S.A. playdowns.

The staff of Albert College has kindly consented to allow B.C.I. to use its fields for Saturday's game. In previous years when they entered the playdowns B.C.I. teams have been forced to play both games away from home. But this year thanks to the generosity of Albert College, B.C.I. seniors will have a chance to display their talents before a local gathering.

Funds Needed

Probably very few of you realize that much expense will be necessary to transport the B.C.I. team to Peterborough for the second game which will be played on Saturday, November 11. Meals must be paid for as well as damaged equipment. In order to meet expenses, tickets will be sold for this Saturday's game. Over four hundred tickets at 25c per ticket must be sold to take the team back to Peterborough. These tickets may be obtained from any member of the senior team. If you do you know who these fellows are! Well, to allow you, the public, to buy tickets, the members of the team have been given their numbers to wear around the streets of Belleville. These sweaters are red, black and white; they have a white lace up the front and possess a small white number on the back, plus a large number on the back. Please buy a ticket and come up to Albert College on Saturday.

Coach Townsend has been sending his charges through constant workouts to get them in shape for this all important struggle. From all reports Peterborough has a strong, fast team and should be a hard fought game.

Following is the probable starting line-up which coach Townsend will use against Peterborough on Saturday:

Position	Player	Number
End	Gray	22
End	Davis	6
Middle	Green	6
Middle	Moore	9
Inside	McClay	14
Inside	Adamson	11
Centre	Dolan	10
Quarter	Brown	4
Half	Dowsett	7
Half	Allen	9
Half	McBride	3
Flying Wing	Lewis	13

Subs: Cameron 24, Creegan 23, Irwin 15, Barclay 1, Ashline 17, Soule 12, Smith 20, Culbertson 18, McBrien 8, McPherson 19, Milligan 15, Kane 21.

BIG BUSINESS

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 1 — (CP)—Canada's hotel industry is big business, the Hotel Association of Canada was told Tuesday at its annual convention here. A report presented by Gladys Lockhart of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics showed a total business of by 5,847 Canadian hotels in 1949 of $55,122,000. They spent a total of $324,630,000, of which $75,283,000 was for salaries and wages.

Inkspots Lead Major "B" Race By One Point

The Ontario Intelligencer Inkspots "muck" into first place in the Major "B" (Tuesday) Bowling League at the Recreation Alleys last night, when they gobbled 14 juicy points at the expense of the Mead-Johnson team. Inkspots lead the Sacco five by one point in the standing race.

The printers also grabbed high scoring honors with an aggregate of 3010 as against the Baby-Foodeers 2515.

Sacco came through with another victory in their tilt with Shpard's Electric garnering five points as against two for the hotpoint lads. In the other game Opticals turned back the Just Us crew tacking a 5-2 defeat on the lens lads.

Al Adams was top individual scorer with a three-string of 734 and single of 327. Other top tumblers were C. Hardwick, 616; J. Moreau 617; A. Whalen, 616; E. Cooney, 662; Al Hichon, 652 and G. Thorne, 619.

The Scores:

Inkspots (14)	3010
Mead Johnson (0)	2515
Sacco (5)	2872
Hibbard's (2)	2423

FELL UNDER TRUCK

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 1 (CP)—Windsor's Hallowe'en festivities were marred by a fatal accident Tuesday night when a 15-year-old boy fell under the wheels of a heavy transport truck. Police said the boy, Gary Balkwill, was riding his bicycle and holding to the right side of the truck when he fell.

OHA Underdogs Turn Tables On League Leaders

(By The Canadian Press)

The Ontario Hockey Association underdogs turned on the league-leaders with a vengeance Tuesday night.

In both Junior "A" and Major competition, the league-leading clubs were dumped by teams from well down in the league standings.

In the major series, the shuffle left the four-team circuit in a four-way deadlock as Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen dumped Toronto St. Michael's 5-3 in overtime and Hamilton Tigers blanked Toronto Marlboros 2-0.

In the Junior group, St. Michael's won their first game of the year by beating second-place Barrie Flyers 5-3 and Marlboros moved into a sixth place tie by swamping the first-place Galt Black Hawks 9-3. Guelph Biltmores shut out St. Catharines teepees 4-0 to go into fourth place.

The Junior games left Galt still in first place, a point ahead of Barrie. Stratford is a point behind and a single point ahead of Guelph which has eight points. St. Catharines Teepees have seven and Oshawa and Marlboros each have six.

In the Senior loop, Tigers went ahead of Marlboros in Hamilton with a goal by Murray Comfort from Johnny Conik in the first period. Gord Cruikshank got the second goal in the second period.

At Waterloo, the Dutchmen trailed St. Mike's for most of the game after Gord Hanelgan scored in each of the first two periods, followed by one by John Merlico. Veteran Bill Walsh punched home two and Bingo Kampman tied it for the Dutchmen with Harvey Jackfin and Billy Flick scoring in overtime.

Lead All The Way

In the Junior games, St. Mike's led Barrie 2-0 in the first period when Joe Ingoldsby scored the first of his two goals. Bill Lee, Bill Dineen and MacDonald adding singles. In a furious last period drive, Leo Labine, Jerry Toppazzini and Real Chevrefils scored for Barrie.

The game was the opener of a Toronto twin-bill. In the second game, Marlboros held Galt scoreless until early in the third period of the free-scoring wide open game. Ron Stewart scored one and helped on three more for Marlboros. with Bill McFarland and Maxwell each adding a pair.

Chuck Lumsden, Bob Cooper, Earl Balfour and Hurst got the others. Len 'Cooke scored twice and Bob Carpenter one as Guelph the Black Hawks.

The Guelph game was the first contest of the year for Biltmores' Cliff Hurst. The referee handed out 25 penalties, 13 to St. Catharines, in the rough game.

Andy Bathgate notched two counless for Guelph and Harry Howell and Chuck Henderson scored singles.

DESTROYER RECOMMISSIONED

Ottawa, Nov. 1 — (CP) — The destroyer Crescent, recommissioned as the first destroyer to be brought out of mothballs under the navy's current expansion program, will sail from Esquimalt, B.C., Nov. 6 for her new station on Canada's east coast.

BUILDS MIDGET SUBMARINE IN HIS BACKYARD

Behind a "prefab" house in Bedfordshire, Britain's only backyard-built one-man submarine is now nearing completion. The boat has been built by Frank Russell, shown, over the last two years at a cost of $360. It is made of quarter-inch steel plate and will weigh about half a ton when fully loaded. If this vessel is a success it may become the prototype of a much heavier craft capable of descending 1,000 feet and suitable for an expedition in search of the "lost continent" of Atlantis in the Atlantic Ocean which Mr. Russell hopes one day to join. — Central Press Canadian.

Romance, Draft May Wipe Out U.S. Ski Team

New York, Nov. 1 (AP) — Romance has about wrecked the U.S. Olympic ski team and the military draft may wipe it out completely.

That's the pessimistic view of Gretchen Fraser, pig-tailed housewife who brought the U.S. its first and only gold Olympic ski medal in the 1948 Games at St. Moritz, Switzerland.

Retired from competition and here to start a drive for funds to support the U.S. ski team, which will be picked this winter for the 1952 Games at Oslo, Norway, Mrs. Fraser is downright pessimistic about American chances.

"The United States simply is too big," she says. "Our good skiers are separated from each other by hundreds of miles. Our Olympic candidates must spend their practice periods competing against weekend athletes. They're not the way to develop champions."

The Olympic beauty, Mrs. Don Fraser to the residents of Vancouver, Wash., points out that ski resorts were plentiful in Europe.

"You can take a brief ride and pass nine high-class European resorts in two hours, but you must fly clear across the United States to find nine good ones here.

Lack of good courses and lifts are the main reasons for the second-rate reputation of the U.S., she says.

How can lifts, mechanical contraptions which carry the skier from the bottom of the hill to the peak, help develop champions?

"When I trained for the 1941 Nationals at Aspen, Colo., it took me three hours to climb the mountain on skis. Now you can ride up in 22 minutes. Then I could come down the hill but once each day. Now you can make 20 runs a day."

Mrs. Fraser said that Paula Kahn and Brynhild Grasmoen of the 1948 team now are house wives, and that Andrea Mead of Vermont is about the only one sure to regain her place on the team.

Hollywood, Nov. 1 — (AP) — Bryan Foy was back in the stir again this week.

I hasten to add that Foy is a law-abiding man. He is also Hollywood's No. 1 expert on prisons.

Foy will make a prison picture at the drop of a hacksaw. Among those he has brought to the screen are: "Crime School," "Road Gang," "Alcatraz Island," "Murder in the Big House," "Roger Touhy, Gangster" "Blackwell's Island," and "Canon City."

When I saw the producer at his office, he was preparing to leave for Folsom, where he will make "The Folsom Story" in Californ-

AT THE CAPITOL — Johnny Sheffield stars as "Bomba, the Jungle Boy," in Monogram's "The Hidden City," opening Thursday at the Capitol Theatre for its first Canadian showing. On the same program, "Desert Vigilantes," starring Charles Starrett and Smiley Burnette.

AT THE McCARTHY — Roddy McDowall and Walter Pidgeon are seen in a dramatic scene from "How Green Was My Valley," the 20th Century-Fox screen classic, closing today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. Acclaimed as one of the greatest pictures ever made, the film, directed by John Ford, and based on Richard Llewellyn's beloved best seller, won six Academy Awards.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

There Is no law of bridge that prevents you from gambling for a slam. Unless it is some law of diminishing returns. Or the law of self preservation with an irate partner.

We are discussing this deal:

NORTH
♥6 5 2 –
♦8 6 3
♣K 10 6 3 2

WEST
♠J 9 2 –
♥10 8 7
♦K J 9 4 2
♣J 9 8

EAST
♠10 8 6 4
♥K Q 9 7 3
♦K 10 7 5
♣Q

SOUTH
♠K Q 5 3
♥A Q J 4
♣A 7 5 4

The bidding went like this:

South	North
1 S	3 C
3 H	3 NT
4 NT	5 H
6 C	Pass

Four notrump is the ace and king probing convention. In other systems it is used at the whim of a player. Regardless of how many aces he holds. Or what other values he may be sure of.

In Horse Sense a player who uses it says he has discovered three distinct facts. He has learned of 12 tricks in his pair. He knows what will be trump. He holds two aces and a king or better.

South has the ace and king requirements. His unshown support in clubs tells him that can be trumps. As for seeing 12 tricks he did not discover quite that many.

The north club takeout showed three tricks. His three notrump bids forced and promised no more. South has eight and is thus shy one trick of slam. The system warns him that slam may be a gamble.

In answer to four notrump, five hearts is Horse Sense for one ace and one king. Opponents are thus known to have two kings. If fearful of slam, south could end at five notrump.

That south was willing to chance small slam in clubs was his own idea. That he made it is incidental. That he took 13 tricks is lucky. Main point is that rule told him what to expect.

Action, Thrills Galore in

"Beau Geste", "Bengal Lancers"

One of the greatest action pictures of all time, Paramount's "Beau Geste" returns today, as a double-thrill program on the Belle Theatre screen.

A rousing, exciting story of the French Foreign Legion and the forgotten men who serve it, the thrill-packed film stars Gary Cooper, Ray Milland and Susan Hayward. Brian Donlevy, Robert Preston, J. Carroll Naish and Donald O'Connor head the featured cast. "Beau Geste" is from the best-selling novel by Percival Christopher Wren.

"Bengal Lancers" Action-Packed

Gary Cooper, Franchot Tone and Richard Cromwell head the cast of Paramount's blazing adventure hit, "The lives of a Bengal Lancer", announced as the second outstanding screen attraction on the same program.

The memorable, excitement-filled picture deals with a gallant band of fighting men whose heroic exploits on the field of battle are emblazoned on the pages of history. The grand old man of the screen, C. Aubrey Smith, Sir Guy Standing and Akim Tamaroff are included in the supporting cast.

The Belle news of the world is an added attraction on the same program.

Continuous shows will be presented today, Thursday and Friday at the Belle Theatre from 1.30 p.m. Patrons enjoyment is enhanced with plenty of free parking in the rear of the theatre.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK By R. J. SCOTT

Little Benny's Note Book

I was walking along with Puds Jenkins just walking along, and Puds said G, look, she must of lost her dog and she probably don't know how to whistle for him.

Evening some lady walking up and down holding a empty dog leash attached to a leash and looking all directions and calling, "Here Rudolph, here Rudolph."

Being a little lady with a worried expression, and I said to her, "Did you lose your dog, lady?"

Yes I did, the lady said, I tied him outside the market because the stupid people there wont allow dogs inside, as if little Rudolph would do any harm in a market or anywhere elst. Oh dear, I wish you boys would help me find him, He's a little brown dockahunt with a long body and short legs, she said, and Puds said, Supposing we find him and then cant find you?

I live at 666 Oleander Avenue, the lady said, and me and Puds started to walk around whistleing to see if a brown dockhunt would come running to see if we meant him.

Which none didn't, and I said, Hay, Puds, where would you go if you were a dog and got lost?

I'd go home, Puds said, and I said, G, that's just what I was thinking.

And we hurry up ran around to 666 Oleander Avenue, and who was sitting on the front steps but a little brown dockhunt probably named Rudolph, and we patted him and he didn't bite, so we picked him up at different ends and ran back to the market with him, and the lady was still there, and she grabbed him and hugged him, saying, Oh, you found him, where was he?

He was sitting on somebody's frunt steps, I said, and she gave us a half a doller between us without asking us whose steps.

Making us feel lucky.

HONOR PRIME MINISTER

Prime Minister St. Laurent was given an honorary degree of doctor of laws at a convocation at the University of Toronto. Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, right, chancellor of the university, confers the degree while Leonard Smith places the hood over the Prime Minister's shoulders. — (CP Photo.)

PUZZLED PAULUSE

Three-year-old Pauluse, Eskimo from Clyde Harbor, Hudson Bay, took a first good look at civilization (Montreal), and burst out crying. Headed for the Indian hospital at Caughnawaga, Que., where doctors hope to straighten his deformed spine, the tears ran down his cheeks as he posed at the buildings and busy streets from the Arctic ship Superintendent Paulose is shown with Nurse Mildred Steele of Beechy, Sask., who accompanied him on his trip. She later left for the west to marry an R.C.M.P. officer. — (CP Photo.)

EXPELLED FROM CZECHOSLOVAKIA

Among the many Germans expelled from Czechoslovakia were 344 nuns, members of the congregation of the "Charitable Sisters of the Holy Cross," who passed through the tiny border village of Furth in Bavaria, having been barred by the Czech communist regime from continuing their traditional teaching activities. The nuns, who many aged to bring with them most of their equipment, hope to continue their charitable works in Germany. This aged nun, unable to walk, is carried by German Red Cross workers on her arrival at Furth. — Central Press Canadian.

LITTLE EVIDENCE IN THE TRIAL OF "BURMA DOCTOR"

Trial of Dr. Gordon S. Seagrave the "Burma Doctor" in Rangoon, has so far resulted in little evidence of treason, the charge laid against him by the government. A legendary figure in Burma, the U.S. surgeon is accused of having aided the Karen rebels and to have influenced members of his staff to aid the rebels and ignore government orders. If convicted he could suffer the death penalty. — Central Press Canadian.

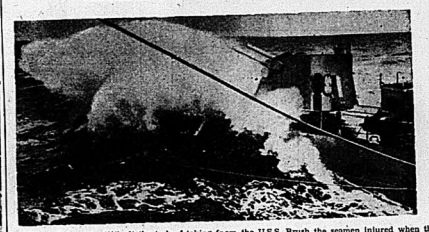
NEW DIVING LUNG PROVES SUCCESSFUL

Tests of a new French diving lung, made at San Pedro, Calif., apparently succeeded despite the unexpected interference of a 12-foot shark. At left, diver Terry Coe wears a lung which features a compressed air tank on the back. At right, Jacques Yves Cousteau, co-inventor of the new-type device, wears a rubber and fabric suit, equipped with the webbed-feet used by the French. —Central Press Canadian.

JOURNEY'S END

It's a happy journey's end for these three adventurous Britons, who sailed from England on Aug. 28, 1949, aboard their 40-foot auxiliary cutter Content. They're shown docking at coast guard pier nine, New York. Their actual sailing time was only five months, while the balance of the time was devoted to earning money along the way to finance their voyage to the new world. — Central Press Canadian.

POSTED TO JAPAN



Arthur R. Menzies, 34, has been appointed head of the Canadian liaison mission in Japan. Chief of the External Affairs Department's American and Far Eastern Division, Mr. Menzies was born in China and received some of his education at the Canadian Academy in Kobe, Japan. He has been with the department for 10 years. —(CP Photo.)

BRAKEMAN KILLED IN ONTARIO FREIGHT COLLISION

Collision of two freight trains caused this pile-up of cars at Woodstock, Ont., and caused the death of brakeman Jack Valentine of Hamilton. He was killed when a box-car toppled over on top of him.—Central Press Canadian.

STRUCK MINE, HALF SINKING, BUT MAKES PORT

Heavy seas make difficult the task of taking from the U.S.S. Brush the seamen injured when the vessel struck a mine off the North Korean coast, tearing a 75-foot wide hole in her side. Although flooded in several compartments and in constant danger of sinking, the Brush was brought 475 miles to port by her crew. — Central Press Canadian.

LABOR ENTERS CIVIC POLITICS

C.I.O. and A.F.L. trade unions have united to support the election of Ford Brand, president of the A.F.L. Printing Pressmen and Assistants' union, to the Toronto board of control. It is the first time in the history of the labor movement in Canada that the two largest divisions of labor have supported a single candidate. — Central Press Canadian.

AIRMAN IN KOREA

Sqdn. Ldr. R. H. Lowry of Toronto, 30-year-old surgeon and pilot with the R.C.A.F., is believed to be Canada's first airman to set foot in the Korean war zone. At last reports, he was on the Pyongyang front, helping to evacuate American wounded by air. The R.C.A.F. didn't even know he was there.—(CP Photo.)

PROPERTY FOR SALE

The Victoria Trust and Savings Company
Administrators Of The Estate Of Arthur Clarke Frost
Offer For Sale By Tender

The Valuable Real Estate located on Herchimer Ave., and Dundas Street, East, in the Township of Thurlow, adjoining the City of Belleville, formerly owned by the late Arthur Clarke Frost.

To facilitate the sale of the property, it has been divided into three parcels (according to a plan which may be inspected at 160 Front St., Belleville) as follows:

Parcel (1)—On the west side of Herchimer Ave. (south of Bridge St.,) Frontage 115', Depth 288'. On this property stands a solid brick, slate roofed, 8-roomed dwelling.

Parcel (2)—A vacant plot 112' x 221' running in a southerly direction from the rear of Parcel (1), and being in the rear of the Stapleton and McCoy properties on Herchimer Ave.

Parcel (3)—The North-Westerly corner of Dundas St. East, and Herchimer Ave.
Frontages—Dundas St. E., 290'.
Herchimer Ave., 279'.

This parcel containing nearly two acres and adjoining Parcel (2) is located on No. 2 Highway. It would be an ideal site for a service station, large garage, transport terminal, motel, super-market, or for light manufacturing or other commercial enterprise.

Tenders will be received at our office for any or all parcels until November 4th., 1950.

The highest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.

Successful tenderers will be notified by registered mail that their tenders have been accepted, but the notice of acceptance shall not constitute a contract for sale. The successful tenderers will be required to execute an Offer to Purchase, in standard form, and to pay 10% of the tender price in cash as a deposit and the balance in cash on delivery of the deed.

I Hear Adventure Calling

By Emilie Loring

"That's her singing," Mrs. Digby whispered as they started up the stairs. "She turns on the radio, then sings to the music. Her voice is real pretty. Here we be." Her raised hand stopped halfway to the brass knocker. "I hope I don't lose her trust for doin' this."

Song and violin stopped abruptly. The door opened in response to her hesitant knock.

"Mrs. Betsy, I was just coming down—" Fran saw Jaffray and put her hand to her throat. "Have you come to tell me—"

"I've come to save you from starvation." Her hand dropped in response to his steady, amused voice. "Mrs. Dig tells me you have not eaten since the sailing marathon. Hop out of that orange colored lounge coat. Sports togs will do. I'm not dressed for a night spot. Make it quick."

"Won't you come into the living room?" He shook his head at the reluctant invitation.

"I'll stay here in the hall and smoke while Mrs. Dig helps you. I've a lot to say. Speed, gal, speed."

She vanished. Betsy Digby rolled her eyes at him and giggled.

"I didn't think she'd go. You an' General Patton with your surprise attack," she whispered before she closed the door behind her.

Came the sound of a car stopping. Steps on the porch. A bell rang inside the partment. Close to the door Myles heard Mrs. Digby's heavy, tread across the living room floor. Her voice, apparently at a speaking tube:

"She isn't home. No, I don't expect she'll be back till late. No, tell Miss Gene she didn't leave a message for her. Who's speaking? Mrs. Len Digby, the caretaker. Yes, sir, I'll tell her to phone Miss Sargent soon's she comes in. Good night, sir."

Myles heard Betsy's diminishing tread; steps on the porch; the start of a car. Had Gene Sargent given up the plan to go to the Country Club? Why was she so anxious to contact Fran? Because of that "jam" Mrs. Betsy had heard mentioned? Had Jimmy Sinclair been with her? They'd gone. So far as they were concerned his evening with Fran was safe from interruption.

A great red moon was rising from the sea. It laid a glittering crimson path to the rocky shore. Myles stopped the open maroon convertible.

"Now, aren't you glad you came?"

"Yes, I've never seen a more perfect night."

"We do these things well in the State of Maine.' He started the car. "Warm enough?"

"Yes thanks. The salty breeze is like velvet against my face. My white sweater and cardigan are so warm I didn't need the topcoat you insisted I take. Because with you because I suspected from your voice that you had something to tell your 'confounded responsibility.'"

"Right, but not about the subject uppermost in your thought. No news. As to the confounded responsibility, believe it or not, my shoulders are becoming used to the load. It doesn't seem so heavy. I'd miss it if I had to drop it. Gene told me that you sold four pictures this afternoon."

"Placed them, Major Jaffray, placed them. We don't sell pictures at the Sargent Gallery. Where and when did you see Gene! Sorry, I shouldn't have asked that."

"Why not? No secrets in my life—from you. She and Sinclair dropped in at Shore Acres after dinner on their way to the Country Club. While there she indicated that you were worried about your finances. What goes?"

"Nothing that you can help about."

"Haven't been getting into debt have you?"

"I? Rebecca Hardings nèee in debt! Pardon my surprise, I forgot that you never met the 1857."

"I've not met her, but from Ken's account of his battles with her I feel that I know her from A to Z. A just, hard-bolled, extraordinarily successful career woman. Would you like an advance on your income? Is there a deadline you have to meet? It's a long way to September fifth." He had made it easy for her to slip him the thought the ring on her finger which flashed in the light from the instrument board. She was silent so long that he prompted, "how about it? Give me the bill and I will pay it."

"If you really mean that you want to help, advance me a-a-thousand dollars. I prefer to pay my own bills."

Suspicion stiffened to conviction. She wanted the money to help Gene Sargent out of that jam. If rumor were true Gene was in a chronic state of jam. If Fran began to supply the funds to pay her debts, she would make it easy for her to continue gambling.

"Sorry, no can do right off the bat. A thousand dollars is a lot of money. I will have to check the accounts and see what I can do."

"I want it now, or not at all. So forget it. Where and when do we eat? I'm famished. You did invite me to supper didn't you? I haven't made a social blunder in reminding you, have I?"

He loved her quick change from grave to gay, loved the challenging voice, the laughter in her eyes as they met his. What had caused the change? She was positively friendly. She couldn't have a thousand dollar debt worrying her, she was asking for money to help Gene Sargent. There had been the suggestion of tears crowding behind her eyes when she said, "I came because I thought you had something to tell me." If only he had good news for her, but no report of Ken or his activities had come through the 'secret channel they had prepared.

"Certainly we eat. Too late for lobster?"

"Never too late for lobster in Maine."

"That goes double with me. See that rope of red, green and blue lights ahead That's the pound."

At a scrubbed table in a screened porch they waited for their lobster to be boiled. The lash of the tide against the rocky shore, low voices from another table, the sound of a distant automobile horn occasionally, broke the evening silence.

"This is a no-license county," Myles reminded. "What will you have to drink that you may have?"

"Hot coffee. License or no license means nothing in my young life. I don't drink."

"Aunt Becky again?"

"No. Frances Phillips this time. Believe it or not, I have done some, thinking of myself and considerable observing." She shook her head at a menu presented by a waitress in the regalia of a bouncing mate. "Nothing but the lobster and a roll."

While they waited they talked of this and that, but conversation languished as they concentrated on the excavation of warm, pink meat from fire-trucked lobsters to the accompaniment of "S-wonderful" from a juke box.

"It is wonderful, it's luscious." Fran dabbed her fingers in the water of a glass bowl and dried them. She smiled at the female bosun's mate who had cleared away the shell debris and was setting a pot of fresh coffee on the table. The waitress laid a check face down beside Myles, murmured "thank you," and departed. Fran shook her head at the silver case he offered.

"I don't smoke You may charge that up to Aunt Becky. Early in my career she said so. I meekly conformed."

"She isn't here to say 'No' now."

"Now I don't, care to. Perhaps that is the advantage of not commencing young?"

"You don't impress me as being a meek person. Quite the contrary. You didn't hesitate to tell me where I got off."

"I said I was sorry if I had been so waspish, didn't I?" She remembered that she had decided to make him aware of her and smiled, engagingly, she hoped.

"You did. My apologies. I was meanly trying to get even for that 'confounded responsibility' crack a while ago. Now that the subject that was 'definitely closed' has been reopened, give me a break. Tell me why you are. I hope it is were, now, though I don't quite trust that smile of yours—so dead set against me."

OPP Try to Trace Roving Hdqtrs. Of Gamblers

Toronto, Nov. 2 (CP) —Ontario Provincial Police are making efforts to trace the roving headquarters of a gambling syndicate in Windsor, it was reported last night.

Police headquarters here indicated that Sergeant Neil Tomlinson, assigned to the task, had made some progress in checking accounts and receipts of Windsor business firms.

Tomlinson, head of the anti-gambling squad, spent last week in Windsor. It was reported he had obtained documents received and paid by a man said to be head of the gambling ring.

It was reported that Tomlinson was trying to get information about operation of the betting race track information to Windsor. Its pickup point is said to move every month or so to evade detection by police.

It has been reported here that race information is relayed to Detroit and Toronto and some other centres from Windsor. The Toronto Globe and Mail said in a newspage story today Toronto bookmakers would be virtually put out of business if the Windsor wire closed.

In another development linked with Windsor's vice and gambling probe, Judge Thomas Lynch Cochrane, chairman of the reorganized Windsor Police Commission, conferred yesterday with Attorney-General Porter.

Mr. Porter said the discussion dealt with police matters in Windsor, including possibility of demotions for two senior police officers the commission retired last week—Chief Claude Renaud and Deputy Chief W. Ira Neal.

The Attorney-General said Judge Cochrane, whose home is in Brantford, had that no new avenues of investigation into Windsor conditions have been launched just now because of lack of concrete evidence.

King of Elk Herd Shot at Red Bridge

Red Bridge, Ont., Nov. 2. (CP) —Despite cold, rainy weather hunters today again trampled through the bush and swamps in this tiny Nipissing district hamlet in search of elk.

Wednesday about 350 hunters spent all day in the bush and bagged six elk and two deer—both of them spikes.

One buck shot just before dusk is believed to be the king of the elk herd. It stalked slightly more than 1,000 pounds.

Red Bridge is 15 miles northeast of North Bay.

SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

Wellington, N.Z., Nov. 2—(Reuters)—Opposition leader Peter Fraser, Conservative Party spokesman in hospital, has shown "a general unmistakable gain," a bulletin said yesterday.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Nov. 2—(CP) — Synopsis: Temperatures dropped rapidly in southern Ontario this morning as cool air swept in from bordering states. A few widely scattered thunderstorms occurred about an hour in advance of the cool air. These will not continue, but there will be scattered rain showers in southern Ontario during the morning as the cool air pushes eastward. Strong winds accompanied the arrival of the cool air and storm warnings are being displayed on Lake Huron and Georgian Bay.

Widespread snow and rain which occurred during the night throughout northern regions is expected to continue today.

By STERLING F. GREEN

Washington, Nov. 2. (AP)—Two Puerto Rican revolutionaries were felled in a blaze of gunfire at President Truman's home yesterday as they tried to shoot their way in and assassinate him.

One was shot dead by return police fire. The other was dropped, wounded, on the steps of Blair House and will probably recover to face a murder charge.

Spared by the heroism and smoking guns of White House police, the President was grave but calm. He planned to hold his weekly press conference today, as usual.

But the Secret Service reinforced its guard around him, and roped off part of the busy block on Pennsylvania Avenue which fronts Blair House, a white-painted brick stone.

Three police were brought down in the fusillade before the would-be assassins were stopped. One of them, Pvt. Leslie Coffelt, is dead last night.

For this, a murder charge was filed against Oscar Collazo, 37, of New York, who blasted his way to the very doorstep of Blair House before he was dropped, his chest riddled with bullets. Maximum penalty for murder in the District of Columbia is electrocution.

Other Was Killed

The other gunman, Griselio Torresola, was killed. Shot through the head, he died close to the second-story window where the President, lay napping in the temporary executive mansion, hard by the White House itself.

In the youthful Torresola's pocket were two letters, signed with the name Pedro Albizu Campos, head of the Puerto Rican Nationalist Party—violently anti-American—which attempted a revolution in the island possession this month.

One of the letters, dated Sept. 21 from San Juan, told Torresola that "the delegate"—who was not identified by police—"will accord you all the necessary co-operation so that your mission may be a triumph."

The Nationalist Party, a tiny group numerically, seeks complete Independence for Puerto Rico. It has been on the U.S. Attorney-General's subversive list as advocating unconstitutional overthrow of the government since last year.

No Hint of Participation

Island officials have said the party got support from some communists, but there was no hint of communistic participation in the assassination plot.

King Congratulates Truman, Pope Expresses Joy at Escape

(By The Canadian Press)

The King today sent a message to President Truman congratulating the President on his escape from assassination in Puerto Rican revolutionists yesterday.

The King's message, one of many arriving in Washington from world figures, said:

"I am indeed glad to hear that the dastardly attempt on your life has failed and I send to you my sincere and thankful congratulations on your providential escape."

From the Pope came a message expressing "Great joy" at the President's escape.

Earlier Canada's Prime Minister, Louis St. Laurent, sent Truman a message saying that all of the President's friends in the Dominion were "vastly relieved" that he was unharmed.

Newspapers throughout the world headlined the abortive assassination attempt.

The right-wing Paris newspaper, Aurore, its front page covered with pictures of Truman, said: "Let this dramatic incident be a lesson to promoters of fanaticism."

The communist newspaper Humanite headlined the story saying, 'On the eve of the election campaign, the White House Secret Service did a fine job for Truman."

One of the most puzzling reactions to the shooting news came from Buenos Aires, Argentina, where Andrei Y. Vishinsky, head of his country's delegation at the United Nations at New York, is.

He was asked by reporters if he had any comment. Vishinsky spread his hands in a gesture and said: "A strange question". Then he walked into the U.N. Assembly hall.

There was no news or comment in Soviet newspapers today on the assassination attempt.

AIM 40 DIVISIONS ON WEST FRONT IN EUROPE BY '53

Seek Solution Of German Rearmament

By MAX BOYD

Washington, Nov. 2—(CP)—Defence Minister Jules Moch of France says the Atlantic Pact countries plan to have 40 divisions on "the western front" in Europe by 1953.

He disclosed this goal last night during a press conference in which he expressed the opinion that France will never drop it opposition to the inclusion of German military units as large as divisions in western Europe's defence forces.

Moch told reporters that France will provide half of the ground forces also called for in Atlantic Powers plan to station on Europe's western front. He said additional defence forces are planned on the Europe's northern and southern fronts, but gave no hint at the possible size of those forces.

Presumably the western front would be primarily in Germany, the northern front in Norway and Denmark, and the southern front in Italy.

German Rearmament

Moch expressed hope that the 12 Atlantic Pact members will be able to agree on a solution of the German rearmament question, despite the present deadlock between U.S. and French plans on that subject. State Secretary Dean Acheson predicted at an earlier conference that some way soon will be found to settle the issue.

The French government wants to limit German military units to the smallest possible size. The United States contends that divisions, up to about 20,000 men each, would be the smallest practical German units.

Truman Takes Walk as Usual

Washington, Nov. 2. (AP)—President Truman took his usual early morning walk today through streets which 17 hours earlier echoed with the blasts of would-be assasins' guns.

Apparently unshaken by the gunman stepped briskly down the Blair House walk at exactly 9 a.m.

Six Secret Service men fell in around him as he reached the sidewalk.

BRAVE GIRL HONORED

Toronto, Nov. 2 (CP) —Silver Cross for life-saving has been awarded to 10-year-old Yvonne Lelievre of the Second Kirkland Lake Brownie Pack, the Canadian Girl Guides Association announced today.

Vivian received her year-old niece from a burning house seconds before the building collapsed last July 21.

September Cost-of-Living Index Will Indicate Effect Of Anti-Inflation Moves

Ottawa, Nov. 2. (CP)—Housewives will get a chance tomorrow to see how successful the government has been in waging its battle against inflationary prices.

At 3 p.m. E.S.T. the Bureau of Statistics will release its survey of September living costs as compiled in its official cost-of-living index.

After seven leaps in 1950, the index in August stood at an all-time high of 169.5, with prices reached in five of its six subgroups—food, rent, fuel and lighting, home furnishings and miscellaneous.

Compiled on the basis that 1935-39 prices equal 100, the index has jumped 6.7 points in a year—from 162.3 in August, 1949, to 169.8.

Most of the upward push has been in food prices, though there have been small upward movements in all other sub-indexes, even in clothing, the only subgroup that has not yet reached a peak.

Living costs are climbing, too, in the United States. The U.S. government's consumer price index for Sept. 15 showed a 1.6 per cent from the previous month and stood at 174.3, 5.9 per cent more than the 1935-39 average and only 0.4 per cent below the record high of 174.5 in August and September of 1948.

Food Prices Up

Food prices in Canada have been steadily advancing since mid-December, 1949. August the sub-index stood at 218.8, marking an 11.8-point gain from 207.0 a year ago.

Rents Inching up Steadily

Rents in Canada have been inching up steadily since 1933. In August the sub-index stood at 135.5, a gain of 11.6 points from 123.9 last year.

Fuel and lighting costs have been climbing since May, 1949. This sub-group in August stood at 140.8, marking a 9.3-point advance from last year's 130.1.

In a brief climb since May this year the home furnishings and service group was boosted to 171.1. In August last year the index stood at 157.2.

The miscellaneous group, which includes transportation costs and medical and personal care, has advanced steadily in the war and post-war years. In August the sub-index stood at 132.8—3.9 points higher than 128.9 last year.

The clothing group started moving down to a two-year low in August, 1949, and has started climbing again. In August the index stood at 192.5, a gain of 1.2 points from 183.5 last year and lower by 1.8 points from the peak of 194.1 in September last year.

George Bernard Shaw, 94, Century's Famous Playwright Dies, Broke Thigh Bone Sept. 10

Ayott St. Lawrence, England, Nov. 2.—(AP)—George Bernard Shaw, the century's most famous playwright, died today at the age of 94.

The life of the flippant Irishborn wit who amassed a fortune by poking fun at the shortcomings of this civilized age, flickered out at last at 4:59 a.m. (11:59 p.m. EST Wednesday).

A tumble in his garden Sept. 10 while pruning a tree proved the undoing of the self-styled Napoleon of drama. He broke his left thigh bone and was taken to Luton hospital to have the bones pinned together. A bladder ailment complicated his condition. A minor operation eased the trouble and he was discharged on Oct. 4, but suffered a relapse Sunday.

Mrs. Alice Laden, his housekeeper at the brick cottage, "Shaw's Corner," announced the death by sorrowful telephone call into a coma at 3 a.m. yesterday.

"A little while later a manservant found a ladder against the garden gate. Handwritten on the back of Shaw's own writing pad and pasted to a thin card, it said:

"Mr. Bernard Shaw passed peacefully away at one minute to five o'clock this morning.

"From the coffers of his genius he enriched the world."

Funeral plans were announced this morning. Shaw's body will be cremated after a private service at a crematorium in northwest London. The service will be held at 4 p.m. (11 a.m. EST) Monday.

His friends expect his ashes to be mixed with those of his wife, Charlotte, who died in 1943, and scattered over the Shaw garden.

Only two nurses were with Shaw at his death. Dame Sybil Probyn hurried into the house 20 minutes later. F. E. Loewenstein, the playwright's long-time biographer, told reporters Shaw died peacefully without regaining consciousness.

The author of 55 plays, five novels and countless essays—the best of which were turned out after he was 40—Shaw was credited by many critics with reviving British drama after its golden age of Goldsmith and Sheridan. No stickler at to modesty, Shaw considered himself the successor to Shakespeare — and even as his proponent on the Bard of Avon.

Fabian Socialist

As a political propagandist he espoused the cause of the Fabian socialists and helped lay the foundation of the present labor party.

He claimed to be a Communist and an atheist. But if he was a Communist, the brand was not orthodox. Some of his comments, if made in Russia, would have landed him in Siberia.

His atheism also was questioned. He once declared, Religion is always right . . . Science is always wrong."

The quizzical sage, whose bushy eyebrows, goatee and beard and unruly white mane were known to millions, kept the pace of the world for 50 years by his mastery of the studied insult.

Though his career spanned the years from the Victorian to the atomic age, he never lost the knack of getting at institutions needling the pretentious or questioning the world's most cherished notions.

Always Attacked The Phony

The self-described "journalist, critics, playwright and agitator" never let up in attacking the socially wrong or the phony. As Britain dramatized the exposed slum housing, prostitution, drug addiction, short-sighted politicians. Shaw's barbs ranged over other fields from religion and education to doctors and tax collectors.

He made enemies, of course. He may have amassed more wealth than any playwright in history. Estimates of his worth range from about £100,000 to £400,000 and up.

Canada Needs Law Against Communism

Ottawa, Nov. 2—(CP)—Canada needs a law against communism, George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said Wednesday.

"There should be in our criminal code a provision aimed at preventing the communists within our borders from selling our country down the river," Mr. Drew told the St. James United Church Men's Association.

Communism could be defined in a law, and with full justice to those concerned, Canadian courts could convict or acquit on the evidence presented. He added that an anti-communist law should protect Canada not only from self-declared communists, but from those who seek to put them in the same category.

CANADA MAY SAVE MONEY ON KOREAN MILITARY COSTS

May be Tagged In Reconstruction Field

Ottawa, Nov. 2 (CP) —Canada is liable to save money now on her estimated multi-million-dollar military costs in Korea, but she can expect to get tagged for a helping financial hand in another field—reconstruction.

It is not yet clear what Canada or Canadians as individuals will do in the relief, rehabilitation and rebuilding of the ravaged peninsula but officials are certain of one thing: It's going to cost Canada something.

The first supply bill, once roughly set by Defence Minister Claxton at $50,000,000 for the months ending next March 31, appears to have been over-estimated for the simple reason that it does not now appear that the majority of the army's special force will be going to Korea.

That bill was based on the assumption that the navy's three destroyers would keep on operating, that the RCAF air lift would continue, that the $10,000-man special brigade would cross the Pacific and get into action.

With an announcement on the destination of the main part of the force expected shortly, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent might told reporters after a cabinet meeting that part but not all of the special force will go to Korea

Train Winter in U.S.

This tied in with authoritative reports that a small force of 1,000 or so would go to Korea and that the bulk of the 11,000 man force would train in the United States for the winter. The men going to Korea will go in an occupation role, and some of them may be engineers to help in rebuilding bridges and towns.

That is the possible role for Canada in the rehabilitation. The broader picture, however, can't take shape until the conditions drafts final plans for the job.

A seven-member U.N. commission for the unification and rehabilitation of Korea has been established, and the General Assembly soon will soon consider establishment of a functioning body called a reconstruction agency, to carry out the plans.

Canada thus far is not represented, but the functional body will be the U.N.R.R.A. with which U.N.R.R.A. and other U.N. agencies work. In the hill, a special UN committee has been meeting in private trying to decide on that body's make-up, yet clear whether there will be assessments or voluntary donations.

But, regardless, when Parliament meets early next year one of the bills on its docket will arise from the rebuilding of Korea.

Same Old Story in Air Force; Men Beef But Do Bang-Up Job

McChord Air Force Base Wash. on Nov. 2 (CP) — It may get new aircraft and devise new technique, but the air force hasn't changed since the war.

Sample comments gleaned from groups of RCAF 426 Thunderbird Squadron operating on the Korean air lift:

Aircraftsman: "There's too much brass sitting around doing nothing."

An officer: "Those Joes are supposed to get...15 minutes for breakfast but they usually wangle 25"

An erk: "I want to get home and get some skating in."

An NCO: "I want to get home and see my wife."

An officer: "I want to get home."

The usual beefing means, of course, that the RCAF is doing its usual bang-up job.

The Thunderbird Squadron 'cocupies two or three little corners

Rescue Attempts Fail to Break Through to Men

Division Commander Says Regiment 'Very Badly Hurt'

Seoul, Nov. 2 — (AP) — American troops gave up tonight a day-long fight to rescue nearly 5,000 soldiers surrounded by communist forces in Northwest Korea.

The trapped men were ordered to attempt a break-out on their own. They faced terrific odds . . . and grinning, furiously-fighting reds who turned captured American guns on the surrounded U.S. force.

Some Americans already had escaped the trap. It was slammed shut last night by overwhelming communist forces including Chinese red troops in strength.

The regiment . . . one-third of the U.S. 1st Cavalry Division . . . was cut off near a dry river bed four miles southwest of Unsan. This is the area where the reds have made their strongest fight of the North Korean campaign. Unsan is 66 air miles north of Pyongyang, former red Korean capital.

Maj.-Gen. Hobart R. Gay, division commander, said the regiment had been "very badly hurt."

A spokesman told A P correspondent Tom Lambert the rescue team ran into a "stone wall" of resistance.

Americans who escaped the trap said there were many Chinese reds in the enemy force.

A Chinese prisoner said the force included 3,000 Chinese red soldiers.

Chinese Soldiers 'Crazy'

Lambert quoted an American platoon sergeant as saying the Chinese soldiers were "crazy." The sergeant added:

"They would stand right up in front of you, laughing to beat hell. We killed them by the hundreds. Still they kept coming."

The reds launched their attack at sunset against the division's lead regiment. A spokesman said the regiment was spread out in a "pursuit situation."

Communist forces smashed at the Americans from the north, east and west. They were equipped with bazookas, automatic rifles and sub-machine guns.

In vain the men fought road to the south was cut. The battle raged throughout the night.

Meet Heavy Fire

At daylight an allied rescue team, including other 1st Cavalry division units, set out on a rescue mission. It ran into heavy enemy fire at Yongsong, about five miles southwest of Unsan.

The rescue team's 20th Infantry Regiment, silent all morning, came to life in the afternoon and directed allied warplanes in strikes at the enemy. But the men never found out how to break through.

The red's hot onslaught was their heaviest—and mightiest—on their redoubled fight to block approaches to the Korean-Manchurian border.

A U.S. 1st Army corps spokesman said the situation was "very serious" in the entire northwest sectqr.

U.S. Population Now 150,697,361

Washington, Nov. 2 — (AP) — Final, official figures today put the 1950 United States population at 150,697,361.

This census tally, taken every 10 years, reflected a shift in the population that will cause seven states to gain and nine to lose seats in the 435-member House of Representatives scheduled to be elected two years from now.

The total population figure was calculated as of April 1. It showed an increase of 19,028,066 since the 1940 census — the greatest gain for a 10-year period in the country's history. The increase was 14.5 per cent.

House seat gains will be seven for California, two for Florida and one each for Maryland, Michigan, Texas, Virginia and Washington. Losses will be three for Pennsylvania, two each for Missouri, New York and Oklahoma, and one each for Arkansas, Illinois, Kentucky, Mississippi and Tennessee.

WINTER VISITS COCHRANE

Cochrane, Nov. 2 — (CP) — Winter made spectacular entrance last night with thunder and lightning and snow, reported in some areas had reached eight inches by this morning.

Snow plows were sent to clear highways. No roads are reported closed but driving is heavy.

HYDRO CAPITAL OUTLAY

Toronto, Nov. 2 — (CP) — The Ontario Hydro Commission's capital expenditure since 1945 amounts to $454,354,238, Chairman Robert H. Saunderson told the Premier Frost in a special report yesterday.

So far this year the commission has spent $131,00,000; in 1949, $146,810,980; 1948, $93,387,664; 1947, $44,533,849; 1946, $18,420,720; 1945, $19,901,125.

Creamery Butter, Cheddar Cheese Output Off in '50

Toronto, Nov. 2 (CP)—Production and supply of creamery butter and cheddar cheese in Ontario have lost ground this year, the provincial Agricultural Department said today in its monthly dairy report.

Creamery butter output in September was 6,460,000 pounds, 12.3 per cent less than in the same month last year. Production for the first nine months of 1950 was 54,653,000, compared with 59,646,000.

This year's September cheese output was 3,250,000 pounds, a decrease of 19.2 per cent from that of September, 1949. Production for the January-September period declined from 67,222,000 pounds in 1949 to 57,962,000 pounds in 1950.

Creamery butter stocks in Canada Oct. 1 were 6,000,000 pounds, compared with 76,910,000 pounds a year ago. Canadian cheese holdings totalled 34,315,000 pounds at Oct. 1, against 37,152,000 pounds at Oct. 1, 1949.

Local Issues May Settle Many Elections

Washington, Nov. 2.—(AP)—Politicans agreed today that the absence of any strong national trend indicates new governmental forces may be settled on the basis of local issues in next Tuesday's election.

Belying the signs that have swelled toward a heavy vote Leslie L. Biffle, democratic secretary of the senate, told a reporter that in a personal survey he found stalned at the six-cent price and would be unaffected by this reduction.

Officials of Rowntree's and Patterson's said prices of their bars are being considered.

A drop in the price of cocoa beans was given as reason for the drop.

Biffle, whose surveys in 1948 pointed to the possibility of president Truman's election, said the most forecasters were picking Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York as the victor. Biffle also noted the lack of interest in both democratic and republican communities.

Victor A. Johnston, field director for the republican senatorial committee, said that he didn't find any strong national trend and believes several close senate contests will be decided largely on a local basis.

Biffle agreed that local issues are likely, to be controlling in some contests.

Senator Owen Brewster of Maine, who heads the republican committee, said at a press conference yesterday, however, that he feels more confident that the Republicans are on the winning trend than he did a week before the 1946 election when his party took control of both houses of congress.

Biffle contended that all reports indicate the Democrats will pick up one or two seats in the senate, where they now outnumber Republicans 54 to 42. Thirty-six senate seats are at stake Tuesday.

Brewster countered with the claim that the Republicans are "sure" of picking up a net of four seats and have a chance to annex eight. A gain of seven would give the Republicans control of the senate.

FIRST CENSUS

The first general census of Britain and Ireland in 891 showed a population of 16,345,646.

No Elaborate Precautions Taken To Guard Canada's Prime Minister

Ottawa, Nov. 3, (CP)—Canada, with no record of any recent assassination attempt against leading political figures, takes no elaborate precautions for the protection of the person of her Prime Minister.

Unlike President Truman—target of an unsuccessful assassination attempt in Washington—Canada's Prime Minister St. Laurent was unguarded when shook hands with crowds in streets of this capital and travels without police escort when he tours the country.

The RCMP are on 24-hour guard at the East Block of the Parliament Buildings, site of the Prime Ministers office, but their function is more to guard the building than the Prime Minister himself.

Ottawans daily see Mr. St. Laurent walking from his home unescorted from his office, to his apartment, a half-dozen blocks from the Parliament Buildings. In Washington, by contrast, Mr. Truman cannot walk a dozen yards from his residence without a trailing escort of Secret Service guards.

The only time Mr. St. Laurent travels under guard is when he visits a foreign land. By international custom, a visiting dignitary admits to whatever protective arrangements the government of the country he is visiting thinks necessary.

If Mr. St. Laurent makes an official visit to the United States, he is protected by the U.S. Secret Service men. However, it does not apply if a Prime Minister is visiting on his own.

As for the Governor-General, who represents the King, the R.C.M.P. keeps a 24-hour guard on Rideau Hall, his residence in the capital, but here again it is as much for the protection of property as the Governor-General.

When the Governor-General travels by train, the RCMP or the provincial police of the province visited maintain a guard over the vicregal railway car if it stops overnight.

Municipal or provincial police generally accompany the Prime Minister and the Governor-General when they visit other Canadian cities, but their function generally is to clear the way through traffic.

The only political assassination in comparative recent Canadian history was that of Thomas d'Arcy McGee, one-time federal minister of agriculture, who was slain one night in 1868 as he walked home after Commons speech, which he attacked the Fenians. His assassin was captured and later hanged.

CAMPBELLFORD

Trip to Holland Told in Detail To Kinsmen Club

Campbellford—A large number of Kinsmen and guests gathered at the Town House on Monday night to hear a talk on a recent trip to Holland, given by Jack Wilmink. The guest was introduced by Kinsman Gordon Walroth.

Mr. Wilmink was born in Holland and has resided in Campbellford for the past 19 years, being employed for the past quarter century by the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario. He returned home to Holland at the request of his aged father, who had not seen his son since he left his native land 25 years ago. He said his trip to Amsterdam, Holland, from Malton Airport took only 10 hours on a Dutch Air Lines craft.

Mr. Wilmink described Holland as a land of flowers, and told how Rotterdam had been damaged by bombs and some of the bitter experiences of the Dutch during the war years. The German army was fairly well behaved generally, during the occupation, but the S.S. troops were terrorists, he told Mr. Wilmink's brother as one of their victims. He was executed for leading an underground activities.

Mr. Wilmink visited many places of interest during his stay, including the large tower of Utrecht. He said it was a strange experience to see some some of his closest relatives when he arrived at the airport, and hardly recognized them after the span of 28 years. He praised the Dutch for their cleanliness and glass constructed schools, but said that he felt on his return to Montreal, that Canada was his home.

Speaker Thanked

President Don Hazell thanked the speaker, and it is expected that he will be asked to give a talk on ornithology, on which subject he is well versed.

An initiation ceremony will take place this week at the home of the president when the following will be admitted to the club as full fledged members: Dr. Dante Pere, Douglas Gibson, Bob Cage, Borden Robertson, Jack Tinney and Bruce Grills.

Kinsman Jack Edmunds presented Kinsman Lyle Barry with an engraved cigarette lighter on behalf of the club members, on the occasion of Lyle's move to St. Catharines to manage the Maher Shoe Store. Lyle has been manager of the Campbellford store for many years.

In response to a request, the club voted ten dollars to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind party.

14 Entrants Take Part In School Contest

Campbellford— The Oratorical contest for Grade eight pupils of Separate Schools was held on Thursday last in the High School auditorium. It was well attended by an enthusiastic audience of friends, teachers and parents.

Olga Healy captured first place among fourteen contestants, with a well delivered and interesting address on "Flower Symbolism". Olga was presented with the Fraser Tropny by Dr. F. G. Robertson, M.D.

Mrs. Morley Petherick, on behalf of the school board, presented the cup for second place to Lalidia MacDonald, who spoke on "An Autobiography of a Dog". Kathleen Sargisson won third place with an address on "Soil Erosion". She accepted the Campbellford Town Council Cup from Reeve Ralph J. Locke. Father Moloney then presented to each of the contestants, a book as a memento of their talks.

Mr. Hector McArthur presided as chairman for the evening.

Among the other speakers were Joan Yenta, who spoke on "Alexander Graham Bell"; Tommy Holmes who spoke on "British Columbia"; Donna White gave a talk on "Pioneer Life in Ontario"; Dick Beatty talked on "Thomas Edison"; Jason Fields on the life of "Syl Apps; Bobby Pettifer spoke on "Alexander Graham Bell"; Barbara Smith told of her "Impressions of Quebec"; Kathleen Braham on "Tuberculosis", Francis Ricks spoke on "Forestry", Joyce Yenta on "Rubber"; and Lillian Vilmaz on "Jack Miner and His Birds".

An interesting musical program was interspersed with speeches. A number of solos, both vocal and instrumental were presented.

Mrs. A. C. Newman extended thanks on behalf of the sponsors, the Home and School Association, to the chairman, judges and scrutineers.

Council Outlines Pension Plan To Employees

Campbellford — All members were present at the council meeting held on Monday night in the council chambers, with the exception of councillor Maher.

Permission was granted the Canadian Legion to hold a Poppy tag day on Thursday, November 4.

The pension plan for town employees was explained, and the council decided that the plan embraces all town employees, and provides that they may pay the full amount themselves, or pay it in conjunction with present employees. Participation is compulsory with those employed in the future.

Council chairman after Mayor Ayrhart named the court of revision which consists of the following: Chairman, Reeve Ralph J. Locke, Dep. Reeve Oscar Mason, Councillors Free, Kingston and Lapsee. There were only two appeals, one of which, that of Mr. Grant Anderson was left until next year, when if consistent with Mr. Anderson's claim, an abatement will be allowed. Mr. Claude Fairman addressed council re his assessment, and the court of revision was adjourned to view the property.

Council then resumed its session, passed the pay sheet, and adjourned.

Kinsmen Sponsor Shell-Out Party

Campbellford—A large crowd of children and adults, estimated at upwards of 400, packed the Edgewater Park Pavilion on Tuesday evening to attend the huge shell-out party sponsored by the Kinsmen Club of Campbellford.

Prizes were given for the most weird, most comical, and the prettiest costumes in various age groups of both boys and girls, in addition to lucky spot prizes.

Just about every type of costume imaginable was to be seen in the throngs of children who paraded and marched around the hall.

After the judging, the children were treated to a movie and treats.

Kinsman Forrest Dennis was master of ceremonies for the affair, and was ably assisted by other members of the club.

The club sponsors the shell-out party each year in Hallowe'en, and each year it grows in size. The aim of the club is to keep the children off the streets where unsupervised, they may get into serious mischief.

The fact that Tuesday is "open night" in Campbellford, and the streets were crowded with shoppers, did not deter some of the merry-makers from leaving their mark for posterity in the form of blotches of paint and soap smearred windows in the business district.

Up to midnight, no serious damage was reported.

Puerto Rico Liberated in '98 From Spanish Overlords by U.S.

By ROBERT EUNSON

New York, Nov. 2 — Puerto Rico was liberated from her feudal Spanish overlords by the United States in 1898. Yesterday two sons of that tiny Caribbean isle tried to murder the American president.

Standing in a dim-lit New York tenement, the wife of one of the would-be assassins demanded in defiant tones:

"Why should I be sorry? We are both members of the nationalist party."

Why did Oscar Collazo and Griselio Torresola race for the steps of Blair House, guns blazing and murder in their hearts?

How did it happen that the Collazos and 200,000 other native Puerto Ricans reside in New York City?

What is the nationalist party?

To answer these questions, it is necessary to delve back into the history of Puerto Rico, discovered by Christopher Columbus just 457 years ago — Nov. 3, 1493.

Conquered by Ponce de Leon

The island, 100 miles long and 35 miles wide, was conquered in the name of Spain by Ponce de Leon in 1509. The island was settled in the 16th Century by Spanish overlords who destroyed the native tribal structure and exploited the people.

Just following the Spanish-American War, Puerto Rico was ceded to the United States by the Treaty of Paris on Dec. 10, 1898.

Sanitation improvements and smallpox vaccination reduced the death rate so remarkably that the population doubled in 50 years to 2,000,000. Added to this average population and coffee crops was a remunerative sugar. Although sugar is a seasonal industry, it provided employment for 20 per cent of the population.

Puerto Rico had a governor, appointed by the president of the United States, but recently Puerto Ricans were empowered to elect their governor. The island has its own legislature.

Seeds of Nationalism

The seeds of nationalism were growing, however, and Puerto Ricans were restless for independence.

An Act of Congress in 1917 made them American citizens, but without the right to vote for president. They were given only two appeals, one of which, that of Mr. Grant Anderson was left until next year, when if consistent with Mr. Anderson's claim, an abatement will be allowed. Mr. Claude Fairman addressed council re his assessment, and the court of revision adjourned to view the property.

Council then resumed its session, passed the pay sheet, and adjourned.

Russia Charges U.S. Used Jap Soldiers in Korea

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—Russia charged in the 13-country Far Eastern Commission today that the United States used Japanese soldiers in the Korean fighting.

The Soviet representative noted that the charge had been made previously by the North Korean communist regime. He said Russia joined in the protest sent to the United Nations by the North Korean foreign minister.

Reciting the North Korean charge that Japanese troops took part in the fighting at Seoul and in the Cholwon sector, Russia demanded that the commission find this was a "gross violation" of the Potsdam declaration and of the Big Four Powers policy for keeping Japan disarmed.

CONSUMER CREDIT CONTROLS

The imposition of consumer credit controls by Finance Minister Douglas Abbott is going to make a great deal of difference in buying methods. The American way of a dollar down and a dollar a week had almost reached its peak when the government stepped into the situation.

Not the least of the problems connected with the new ruling is the conflict it will make with provincial legislation. Mr. Abbott, in effect, overruled any provincial credit regulations with his 20 per cent down (except for automobiles)where it is 33 1/3 per cent and 18 months to finish payments.

Mr. Abbott has stated publicly that if there should be conflict between federal and provincial credit rules, "the federal regulations must be observed notwithstanding the provincial law." The cause is that where the two do not conflict, compliance with the provincial statutes will not exempt persons from obeying federal laws at the same time.

Quebec and New Brunswick, in particular, have their own Conditional Sales Acts to control installment buying, and both are easier on the consumer. The obvious solution then, is to comply with the stiffer regulations of the two (which in almost every case will be federal,) and in that manner stay out of trouble.

Whether or not such regulations are a contravention of civil rights is another angle. In wartime, such measures could be enacted because of emergency, but it is thought now that the opposition to the government may in short order end buying rules because of what may be considered peacetime.

Certainly the federal-provincial question will come up at the December conferences between Ottawa leaders and provincial heads, but there seems to be no great cause for alarm.

Th view that the new regulations will preserve stock by eliminating many buyers would seem to be a good one. Eventually they will accumulate enough money to purchase the goods, regardless of the terms. At any rate, the move made by Mr. Abbott will ensure a tighter economy and eliminate fly-by-night finance schemes by individuals which were endangering the economic well-being of the country and its people.

DIGGING AND PICKING POTATOES

There are men and women who remember the October days of long ago when they helped to harvest the potato crop. Many farmers had a simple, workable and efficient system of economics; they raised a sufficiency of crops for home use plus some extra so they had a surplus to sell for welcome cash money. Men figured an extra 50 bushels of potatoes meant $25 and in the 1900 era $25 was a very respectable sum. Good farmers planned to have a few tons of hay to sell each spring to better provident neighbors and a few barrels of long-keeping Northern Spies and Golden Russets to sell at the general store, says Ottawa Journal.

Men folks did the potato digging but sisters were usually pulled out to help pick up the potatoes on a Saturday afternoon. Digging potatoes is not the worst job on a farm — a 12-year-older definitely preferred to dig spuds rather than clean out calf pens or haul dressing — but wielding the heavy potato hook for a time or four rows stretches out pretty monotonous. The frost-blackened vines were pulled by hand; then the hill was laid open with a six-tined digger. Even a young young man felt a certain satisfaction in opening a hill and digging out half a dozen or more big, smooth Green Mountains, Irish Cobblers, Dakota Reds, Beauty of Hebron, Black Chenangos or American Wonders.

The potatoes had to be picked by four o'clock before any of the evening chores fell. It was back-wearying work, filling half bushel baskets with the potatoes and emptying the basketfuls into burlap bags. One could work picking potatoes bending over from the waist; one could drop to his knees and pick hilum along out of crab fashion. Either way one got a first-class, painful crick in his back and a nagging ache under his shoulder blade.

Just before chore time the horse was hitched to the farm wagon and the filled bags were hauled to the barn floor. The potatoes were sorted over then the best were sold to customers in the village; medium-sized ones went to the house cellar bins for family use; small ones were cooked with corn meal for the pigs. There was nothing spectacular about digging and picking potatoes; but when they were all safely under cover it generated a comfortable feeling of success with one of the farm's major crops.

I have often maintained that fiction may be much more instructive than real history. — John Foster.

JUST FOLKS

'FREE' MEAL"

A little minnow on a hook	All women eagerly will look
A "free meal" to a fish must look,	For none they don't have to cook.
Yet who observes the ways of men	And men will surely be on view
And women folk, discovers when	For meals for which they get no check.
For club or lodge or church to guarantee no vacant chairs	The ordinary meeting call
And make a full attendance sure,	By many is not read at all,
A "free meal" is the magic lure.	But everyone this news will see:
	"Come Thursday night. The dinner's free!
Church members persons seldom see	For members only!" And a few
Will be on hand when supper's free.	Will ask to bring a friend or two,
Free food, as gaudy flies for trout,	So great this lure, it seems to me,
Will always bring the people out.	To fish we must related be.

THE PACKSACK
By GREGORY CLARK

At a recent gathering of newspapermen, advertising men and railroaders in Montreal to honor Walter Thompson, the retiring publicity chief of the Canadian National, the dinner opened with the two national anthems.

Everybody sang God Save the King in English. But when O Canada, sung in French in the sonorious tones, it was sung in both French and English, for there were a great number of French Canadians among the five hundred present.

There seemed to be a sort of Tower of Babel quality to the sound. For an instant, at about the middle of it, one appeared to falter, as most of us present paused to listen to the curious effect of a familiar song being sung in two languages.

But when it picked up again, there can be no denying that those singing it in French were doing it far better than the rest of us in the English choir. After the banquet, I congratulated a French Canadian on the fact.

"Give us no credit," he delared. "The French words of O Canada were designed to be sung. The English, in fact, must have a phrase in it that lends itself to song. The gentleman who made the English version must have been thinking of something else than singing when he wrote it."

As doubtless he was. There was a good deal of political controversy over the anthem at the time the English version was written. And you cannot write singing words while you are picking your way to safety from stone to stone.

When you come to think of it, how could anybody sing the words "our home and native land"?

"Our words," the French Canadian noted, "come out like trumpets. Your words are more adapted to the violin."

And apart from its sacred association with church music, the pipe organ is a pretty gloomy and morbid instrument. The radio uses it as incidental music for murder thrillers.

CHARACTER HAS TO BE GROWN

Every flower-grower knows that roses are hard to grow. They get black spot. The beetles seem to favor them above every other beetle viand. Roses cannot be grown in all kinds of soil, and even in the best of soil a great deal of care and fertilization are necessary.

Probably most people would say that roses stand in the very forefront of beautiful flowers. And roses are hard to grow. Of course, there is nothing astonishing about this since almost everything in life which is worth while takes effort and involves plenty of disappointment and sacrifice. Business success comes hard. No matter how great one's mental endowment may be, it takes time. Some are for, some against more sold for separate schools; some dealt with courses of study, others with teacher training and administration almost everything having to do with schools and their course of study. It has received 46 memoranda and 39 special reports on educational matters.

Its members brought a varied background to their task. They represented local school boards, universities, adult education groups, labor management, teachers, libraries and women's organizations. They came from four religious groups.

Held Many Meetings

The commission held public and private meetings in Toronto. It travelled through northern Ontario to get first-hand knowledge of educational conditions and requirements there. Committees and individual members visited schools in other provinces in Great Britain, Europe, parts of the United States and western Canada. They were also asked special studies at places in southern Ontario.

During the last five years the commission's work has been the foundation for the government's policy. It was established in line with a provincial election campaign pledge of George Drew, National Progressive Conservative leader, when he was Ontario party leader and provincial premier. Liberal and C.C.F. party speakers have twitted the government on the length of time the commission has taken in preparing its final report.

In December, 1949, the commission made its interim report, released by the government, recommending establishment of an emergency teacher training program to head off a shortage. It also recommended academic qualifications and payments of teachers be improved. Teachers' organizations strongly opposed the recommendations.

The government put into effect this year one of the recommendations in the interim report establishment of a selection committee to interview and evaluate qualifications of candidates for teacher training. Queen's University, Schools, not only as to academic standing but also as to health, character and citizenship.

Letter to the Editor
Offers Solution For Front St. Bottleneck

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer,

I have often wondered why the block-long traffic jam on Front Street near the two gangways leading to the riverside parking lots watching the traffic in and out and have wondered whether there could not be some different system in handling the traffic at these points.

I would like to suggest that one-way traffic enter at the Kresge corner with the east side of the Woolworth store and that no-left hand turns be allowed when entering from Front Street into these ways. In this way everybody would be in the line of traffic and would not be crossing other traffic causing tie-ups on Front St.

This would not inconvenience people coming into the city from the west or from Prince Edward county. It would be no hardship for these people to cross Front Street and proceed up Pinnacle to Victoria and then down Front Street to enter the gangway. On occasion people will drive around the block more than once to find parking space.

I have also pondered why the city did not keep the right-of-way crossing the footlights gangway. When the larger transports could enter the Belleville Hotel gangway and would not have to tear down the buildings on Front St. to get in back of the stores.

Walter Aselstine,
27 Grove Street.

A lot of poor dumb—geeks—people still live—at least they continue breathing — although they have lost many or most of their teeth and have not had the missing teeth replaced with dentures.

Some of these defectives excuse themselves for this neglect by protesting they can't afford the necessary dentistry—meaning, usually, not unless they forego such luxuries as radios, television receivers, automobiles, cars and whatever other fancy things can be had for a "few pennies a day."

Others go toothless, or with many back teeth missing, because they are ignorant of the physiology and hygiene. They imagine that by holding their teeth carefully they can conceal their affliction from ordinary notice. Knowledge about the function of the teeth, they spend on nostrums through the years and time they will, would have cost to keep all of their teeth in good functioning condition and have functionally efficient dentures installed to replace missing teeth. Nostrums for "indigestion", "acidity," "gas" and other manifestations of ill health are each.

Then there are a smaller number, let us hope, still breathing who became edentulous by dodging the pain of the visit of a dentist. In the second and third decades of the present century the principle of focal infection—which was and is a sound, scientific principle—was widely and unexploited by many physicians as a malicious method of frightening patients to have most or all their teeth removed. And unfortunately there were many dentists who carried out the order with-out scruple. The operations were inferiorly complex of the dental profession. They grit their teeth about it, the dentists whose skill and service are as great and as valuable as the skill and service of any physician or specialist, in my judgment — but nevertheless it is regretfully true that And I believe the dentists will continue to be handicapped in this inferiority complex, that is to say, consciousness of their inferiority to physicians (another fallacy), even your teeth can stand only a little stress! Even every reputable dentist first acquires the degree Doctor of Medicine and then takes whatever postgraduate training his or her chosen specialty may require. Dental schools in Baltimore schools have already taken the first steps in leading the dental profession over to the parent medical profession, and I hope in the rank and file of the practitioners may not permit petty pique to hinder this return to the medical profession of which all good dentists belong.

The principle of focal infection was and is not just a theory. It was established firmly enough by the work of distinguished men as E. C. Rosenow and Frank Billings in Chicago. These physicians and other investigators working with them or along the lines Rosenow laid down, found many cases chronic, obstinate or recurring inflammation — or more than one inflammation due to a kind of silent septicemia or slow blood-poisoning, a transportation of a filth colony, germs from which a little old focus of infection, say in the tonsils, or at the root of a decayed tooth, in one of the nasal sinuses, a distant inflammation of the joints, the invasion activeley—anaphylactic or allergic reaction.

TODAY'S TALK
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE OUTSTRETCHED HAND

There is something very significant and inspiring about an outstretched hand. It is the symbol of a hand of another, in cordial greeting. Call it a mere formality, if you will, still it carries a barrier which is removed by it. After all, it will forever remain as a symbol of good will.

Boxers, entering a contest, shake hands, and they do the same at the conclusion of the bout are able to do so! The custom is to keep alive the spirit of good sportsmanship Wherever we meet our friend we put out our hand in greeting to him. It's a custom which I hope long endures.

The outstretched hand is not alone an instrument of friendliness, but of succor and hope. In an emergency that hand reaches out to defend a fall, and ministers signify it as a call for prayer. And often reaches out that hand to guide the aged across difficult places.

We have a painting that has always been an inspiration to me. It is of two youths climbing a high hill. It is by the fine arm of record artist Eugene Higgins, and is called "The Helping Hand." That is what this hand of ours should always be—a helping one, and forever ready to give service when needed.

There is a custom among tillers of the soil, still in use, this helping hand to one another at certain times of the year, and it results in great good coming from all. Not only should these hands of ours be used to help ourselves but often lent to help others. It amounts to a kind of democracy in understanding.

In that story in the Bible of the Good Samaritan there was the outstretched hand to which caused that stranger to stop and reach with his hands to the unfortunate lying there, to his own beast and transporting him to a safe place of care and comfort. It is an endless number of ways do these outstretched hands of ours give forth good to help the unfortunate, to give them a lift or to smooth a fevered brow. On many a battlefield and in millions of homes and hospitals.

Tabernacle Church Holds Silver Jubilee Tea, Bazaar

One of the most attractive afternoon teas and bazaars of the autumn season, was that held yesterday afternoon in the assembly rooms of Tabernacle United Church in commemoration of the silver anniversary Jubilee.

Approaching the assembly room, was an avenue of plumy pines which pepped at the entrance door, wended their way down the stairs, and spreading out, fanned both to the left along the orate booths, and to the right outside the main tea room. Here, amid this fragrant bower, were the conveners: Mrs. F. R. Harback, Mrs. W. D. Emberly, president of the Comrade Club; Mrs. W. Judge, president of the Woman's Auxiliary, and Mrs. C. Lockyer, president of the Keen Age Club.

Around the large assembly room; which had taken on the appearance of a Christmas festival, were the various booths, each decorated in keeping with its displayed merchandise. The first booth presented the Country Store, nicely landscaped with evergreen trees at each side of the entrance, while boughs of the same, intermingled with colored lights, ran across the lintel. Inside there was everything a country person could want, socks, red bandana kerchiefs, mitts, braces, and oiled slickers hung from the accustomed line, while on the counters could be seen canned fruits, vegetables; the old cracker-barrel filled to the brim with soda biscuits, pictures, candies, apples, potatoes, and of course the ubiquitous lantern, comrade of dark nights. In charge of this was Mrs. J. A. Charlton, who also was postmistress of the post office seen at the rear of the store.

Fine Baby Booth

The next booth was that set aside especially for the king of the home, the baby. This was a dream in pink and blue, and the lordly stork was seen to be about his business bearing a precious bundle to some waiting house. There were tiny pink and white bootees, little white dress, bonnet and bootees all in wool making a lovely gift for some little stranger; tiny colored berets, little animals, soft and cuddley, one of a Peter rabbit, one a donkey, and another a kangaroo, and many other needful garments too numerous to mention. The convener was Mrs. G. Stanton with her coconvener, Mrs. C. Alexander and their assistants.

Bountiful Array of Cakes

Moving on from this, the booth of homecooking came next with its vlance of cut-outs depicting all manner of cakes, lovely to behold, but not half so good looking as the genuine articles below showing a bountiful array of chocolate and coconut cakes, cup cakes, dressed in pink, and white, with dabs of shredded coconaut on top; tea biscuits, hot rolls, buns, chiffon cakes, date loaves, cookies raisin squares, tarts, pies, and cripies made into tempting square cakes, Macaroons, pickles and chili sauce. At this booth it was needful to have a special accountant, Mrs. T. Skeggs, who handled the change. Mrs. J. Thompson was the convenor assisted by several helpers.

Craft Shop

While up on the platform, the craft shop, which was directed by Mr. E. Schilevert; Mr. A. Nayler; Mr. W. H. Judge and Mr. R. L. Johnson, was the next booth of interest. This showed a variety of fine handcraft including plywood magazine stand; neatly-turned corner brackets to hold those little ornaments unsuitable for any other spot; smoker stands formed in the shape of a black cat, on whose tail tip reposed the glass tray for autos; toy animals, and one made like a donkey to hold cigarettes, a rather startling and ingenious contrivance; a child's sled, sleeve boards, toy doll cribs and high chairs; lovely molded Grecian pottery bowls, and samples of confectioner's decorating on two large, square cakes. A fine exhibit of workmanship by which many customers were drawn.

At the right of this, and down on the floor proper, was the delicious and enticing candy array of the convenership of Mrs. G. Wamboldt, and her co-convener, Mrs. J. Todd, aided by the C.G.I.T. This booth was prettily decorated in blue and white, with blue and white baskets, innumerable baskets, emblematic of the C.G.I.T. colors, all containing shorsels of fudge, maple cream, chocolates, divinity fudge and other toothsome tit-bits.

Canopied Rectangle

In the centre of the assembly room, was a canopy of red and green bands and under this canopy four tables placed in the form of a large square, each side a booth having its own particular merchandise, and all four sides doing a splendid business. On the east side, was the handkerchiefs, some decorating two Christmas trees, again reminding one that fancy fancy Mrs. A. Townsend was in charge of this.

On the north side of the rectangle was the novelty booth in charge of Mrs. F. Izard, whose merchandise included pretty, lacey bridge scarves; pin cushions, knitting bags, pot holders knit tea cosey, oven mitts, perfume, a rolling pin, glass beads and wash clothes.

On the west side, was an exceptionally fine display of linens, towels, terry cloth towels with crocheted edges, all in soft green, and pillow slips, some appliqued, others worked in colored silk stitch, and some in plain white. All beautifully done, and a fine gift for some one. Mrs. E. Cornish and her assistants were kept busy here. And on the south side, under the convenership of Mrs. F. Davidson and Mrs. E. Elliott was the apron booth, displaying many lovely aprons in a multitude of patterns, and for many occasions; some for heavy duty work, others for breakfast, and others for that dainty afternoon cup of tea.

Another booth, seen for the first time at a bazaar, was that of the magazines. Here, one might order by renewal, or new subscription any magazine under the sponsorship of the Davis Agency, including the Ladies Home Journal, Saturday Evening Post, Country Gentleman, and many others. Always an acceptable Christmas gift, the appreciation of which lasts through many a long day. Convening this was Mrs. H. E. Parker.

Dainty Tea Rooms

The tea rooms were two in number both daintily appointed with their white covered, guest tables, and long tea tables; that in the first room, was resplendent in a snow-white crocheted snow-flake pattern, centred by a crystal bowl of bronze baby mums, and flanked by silver candle holders with tall ivory tapers, and silver services. That in the other tea room had an ecru Scotch lace cloth, centred with bronze baby mums in a crystal bowl, with silver candle holders, tall, white tapers, and silver services. On each little guest table, was a silver cream and sugar.

Those who presided at the tea tables were: Miss Jane Smyth, Mrs. M. P. Duff, Mrs. M. Buck, Mrs. G. Ashley, Mrs. R. Gross, Mrs. Winters, Mrs. Graydame, Mrs. A. Fisher. Those replenishing: Mrs. S. McGuire, Mrs. R. Pascoe, Mrs. C. Finkle, Mrs. L. Walmsley, Mrs. W. Innacotti. Those who served: Mrs. A. Bell, Mrs. E. Robson, Mrs. E. Barlow, Mrs. G. Fenn, Mrs. D. Brown, Mrs. G. Stewart, Mrs. E. Ashley, Mrs. L. Spratsett, Mrs. J. Buchanan, Mrs. R. Edmondson, Mrs. E. Bass, Mrs. D. Mott, Mrs. J. Walmsley, Mrs. E. Boulton, Mrs. J. Cornell, and Mrs. S. Jose. Those in the kitchen, who also served: Miss E. Mossman, Mrs. R. Eldridge, Mrs. L. Wannamaker, Mrs. R. Irwin, Mrs. E. Jerome and Mrs. C. McBride.

The treasurers were: Mrs. M. Cummings and Mrs. F. E. Greenleaf and the convener of the tea rooms was Mrs. H. Moorman with her co-convener, Mrs. C. Moll.

An artistically arranged bazaar and dainty tea, Mrs. W. Innes-credit to the conveners, and to all who assisted in making it such an outstanding success.

Pupils, Teacher Entertain Mothers At Hallowe'en Party

Rawdon—Miss Marie Vanderburgh, teacher at the Soarr School at Wellman's entertained the mothers to a Hallowe'en party at the school on Friday afternoon.

The school was nicely decorated for the occasion and a good program was enjoyed, and a variety of games which included bobbing for apples.

The children served refreshments to their mothers and all enjoyed a delightful afternoon.

Club Activities

PAST GRANDS' CLUB

The Past Grands' Club held their October meeting at the home of Sister Edith Bradshaw, with Sister Ethel Duffin as cohostess. The meeting opened in regular form with Sister Edith Utman, president, presiding. Twelve members and several visitors were present.

Sister Aileen Vandewater kindly offered her home for the next meeting and the program committee will be Sisters Marion Heath and Edna Fox.

Presentation Made

Sister Evelyn Bailey was presented with a gift by the club as she has moved to Peterborough. She thanked the members and invited them to call on her when in Peterborough.

The program consisted of readings by Sister Fox, Burkitt, Heath and Bailey; piano solo by Sister Williams; contests by Sisters Utman and Meggisson.

The co-hostesses served bountiful refreshments of sandwiches, pickles, olives, cookies, ice cream and strawberries.

Sister Vanderwater thanked the co-hostesses for the lovely refreshments and also the program committee for the fine program presented.

TABERNACLE W. G.

The Tabernacle United Church Women's Guild meeting was held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. G. Stanton, Geddes Street. Mrs. H. R. Gibson presided. After the treasurer's report, it was decided to send a donation of $8 to the Unitarian Relief to purchase two dozen diapers.

The devotional period on the subject of "Peace" was conducted by Rachel Fox. Peace is not possible to attain unless the individuals and the nations want it enough to pay the cost. Regardless of what peace costs, it cannot compare with the cost of war. Civilization, democracy and Christianity cannot continue in a continual state of war.

The Korean situation was the topic of discussion led by Mrs. Hazel Thompson assisted by Miss Alice Reasman and Mrs. Fay Mills. The division of Korea by the 38th Parallel, at the Potsdam Conference was an unwise division. North Korea, which is under Russian domination contains the majority of the industrial part of the country, while South Korea, which is occupied by United States, produces most of the food.

The population of Korea is extremely large compared to her size, over 75 per cent being peasants. For the past 40 years it has been under Japanese domination and the native Koreans have not had any opportunity at self government. It was the hope of the United Nations to raise their standard of living and improve conditions so that they would be self supporting, and self governing.

Soviet Policy

What is now being defeated in Korea is not just the North Korean aggression, but a deeply laid, patiently pursued, utterly single-minded and purposeful Soviet policy of five years standing. When the present conflict is over, she will need considerable financial help to rebuild her shattered towns and rehabilitate millions of her people.

Civil war is also in progress in Indo China between the communists and the nationals. It is still under French domination. During October, the French have been forced to give up a number of their forts along the border. They have concentrated on saving their capital Hanoi on the Red River with its seaport.

The United States has committed approximately $300 million for aid in South Eastern Asia. A social policy must be initiated, self-rule is not merely something presented with a charter, but a status to be earned and a responsibility to be accepted.

If the struggle against communism is to succeed, it must be as a by-product of a positive effort on behalf of the Asian people. It must be inspired by an ideal; a broad and bright vision of the future; that will find an instant response among the disinherited of the largest of the continents.

Following the discussion period, refreshments were served by the hostess committee.

Don't forget that when putting white clothes away for the winter months, wash them unstarched and unironed to keep them white. Light colored cotton clothing should be stored in the same manner.

St. Michael's Music Studio to Present Evening Musicale

Every so often the name, St. Michael's Music Studio, comes into the spotlight, bringing with it an enjoyable evening of musical entertainment. This time, that well-known name brings to the music lovers of this city, on Sunday evening next, a program presented by the artist persons of the studio.

This musicale is well calculated to give you a pleasant Sunday evening of unforgetable enjoyment. The memorable music of the great masters and well-known composers will be performed by artists, all of whom are prominent in this city. They are proud to be given an opportunity to render a repertoire of pleasing numbers for such an appreciative audience as the people of Belleville represent.

The evening musicale will be presented at St. Michael's Academy Auditorium, on Sunday, November 5th., at 8:15 p.m. •

W.I. Sponsors Hallowe'en Party

Mountain View—A Hallowe'en party, sponsored by Mountain View Women's Institute was held on Saturday evening in the garage of Mr. Stanley Barber and Sons. Judging of costumes proved quite a task. Ladies' prize went to Miss Mildred Hall and the men's to Mr. Ken Motley. Children's prizes went to Delbert and Allen Snider. The door prize was won by Mrs. Charles Waterhouse.

Music was provided for round and square dancing after which refreshments consisting of pie, doughnuts and coffee were served.

MARSH HILL

Pine Grove W.I. Entertains at Banquet

Marsh Hill — Last Friday evening, the ladies of Pine Grove W.I. served a banquet in the Marsh Hill School to the teacher and pupils of Marsh Hill and their parents, with the members of the softball team as honored guests. Mrs. Lawrence Ketcheson, trustee of the school area, with Mr. Ketcheson were present.

The tables were laden with all the good things to eat, and were tastefully decorated with Hallowe'en colors.

Mr. J. A. Warren, supervising principal of the Sidney School Area, spoke a few words to the ball team.

Mrs. J. I. Good, teacher at Marsh Hill school, thanked the Institute members for the banquet they had provided and also for the supplies for the first aid kit, and the parents for the support they had given the pupils while they were playing ball.

The pupils provided a short program of choruses with Miss Grace Pitman, music teacher, at the piano.

Four pupils who have left Marsh Hill School, Sharon and Lorne Maxwell, Bob and John Neals, were called to the front and were given gifts from their former school friends.

Dr. Ralph Vandervoort, of Stirling, gave an interesting talk on the care of teeth and also showed x-rays of different types of teeth.

Mr. M. Davies of Oak Lake, showed educational and entertaining pictures.

Marsh Hill — Mr. and Mrs. Blake Ketcheson of Moira, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Campbell, Thursday.

Mrs. Bertha Sayers and Mr. Harold Sayers of Belleville, were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Finkle.

Mr. and Mrs. Boulter Johnston and granddaughter Janet Ann Johnston, of Harold, were guests on Friday of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Finkle.

Mrs. Ed. Bartlett, Miss Nellie Bartlett and Milton Badgley, of Belleville, were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Allyn Finkle.

Sorry to report Mr. Charlie Smith is a patient in the hospital.

Mrs. C. M. Finkle, of Foxboro, spent Monday with her aunt, Mrs. Robt. Campbell.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. John Brown attended the anniversary supper at Springbrook United Church Monday night.

Miss Lois Mitts spent Monday night with Miss Barbara Brown.

Musical Couple Get Royal Boost

London — (CP) — Queen Mary has given encouragement to two music composers, Mr. and Mrs. William Webb of Fulham. Mr. Webb is a former Saskatoon, Sask., newspaper man.

They have received from Queen Mary's Lady-in-Waiting a letter saying that the Queen Mother was pleased to accept Mrs. Mary Webb's song "Twilight Tapestry," which has been accepted by publishers and broadcast.

While Mr. Webb composing the lyrics and his wife writing the music, the couple have composed 20 pieces of music ranging from classical to novelty numbers.

An accomplished pianist, Mrs. Webb gave many concerts for charity during the war, but did not become a composer until her husband became ill two years ago.

On his release from hospital he was told he would be unable to work, and it was then that he and his wife decided to try composing music.

Alimony Costly, Bouquets Cheaper as Clue to Bliss

Winnipeg (CP)—That husband of yours may not be the best or most handsome specimen on two feet, lady, but there's a way to make your wedded life a lot more acceptable.

"It's no farther away than the tip of your tongue," says Provincial Psychiatrist Dr. J. Pincock.

The key to domestic bliss? Brag about the guy, do it where people can hear you. If you look hard enough, you can find something in him to brag about.

But Dr. Pincock says you should be cautious: Don't extend the bragging to a point where it becomes boring.

The psychiatrist gave his advice at a Young Couple's Club. And he had some advice for husbands, too. He said they should remember anniversaries and show other common courtesies.

"A bouquet costs something," he said, "but it's a lot cheaper than paying alimony."

Marriage failures, the doctor continued, are usually due to "emotional or other personality failures."

"No marriage runs itself; it must be managed."

How to Avoid Spats

Spats out of proportion to their cause could be avoided if couples of their difficulties would understand each other's moods. By remaining calm, one partner could "usually" bring the angry one around to apologizing.

A union of two persons both used to having someone make decisions for them is a sad affair, said Dr. Pincock. Equally difficult is a marriage of two dominant individuals because each is convinced the other is bossy.

Knowledge beforehand of these traits would make for intelligent adjustments.

Incompetent housekeeping, inefficient use of leisure-time and unfair division of labor were secondary causes of marriage failures.

The ideal in marriage—what he called "a democratic co-partnership"—was achieved in about one-third of all marriages. Husbands dominated in a little more than one-third of marriages; wives in a little less than one-third.

Dr. Pincock said the wife-dominated marriages "show a particularly unhappy situation."

Couples could have different interests but if they loved one another they could solve most of their difficulties.

"After all," said Dr. Pincock, "I'm a believer in romance."

Amazing "FLOATAWAY" Action SAVES WASHING...WIPING...SCOURING

Yet! Dishes and glasses shine—even without wiping!

It's true! You simply let dishes stand in warm Dreft suds for 2 minutes—give a swish of the cloth as you rinse—and you're through. Yet!—your dishes and glasses shine—even without wiping.

Dreft's self-washing suds save washing, save wiping, save scouring. In fact, while Dreft is washing your dishes you can be doing other things . . . like putting food away in the refrigerator, or sweeping the kitchen floor.

Even pots and pans soak clean without scouring. That's because Dreft's amazing "Floataway" action gets under grease . . . floats away grease as no soap ever could. Even stubborn grease rinses away without scouring.

Yet self-washing Dreft is one of the mildest suds in the world. Leaves hands beautifully white and soft. Try new self-washing Dreft today.

PRACTICALLY WASHES YOUR DISHES FOR YOU

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking?

Liver always needs a light hand.

If you sear it over a fierce flame or keep it too long in the bubbling pot, the delicate tissue will lose its flavor and become leathery.

Liver may be cut from lamb, veal, beef or pork. The nutritional value is substantially the same in each case. Lamb or pork liver is less popular because of its stronger flavor.

The thin outer membrane and tubes may be removed before cooking. But extra care should be taken not to tear the liver. Like chopped meat, liver should be used within 24 hours after it is purchased or it may spoil.

Although the cost of liver is high per pound, it is low per portion because of the lack of waste, fat etc.

Use caraway seeds to give an appetizing aroma and flavor to a brown sauce served with liver. The sauce should not be strained but should be skimmed of any trace of fat on the surface. This is a Viennese sauce popular with any of the "variety" meats such as kidneys, sweetbreads or liver.

Calf's Liver, Caraway Sauce.
Serves 4.

2 tablespoons vegetable or bacon fat
1 lb liver sliced thin
1-4 cup flour
1-2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
1 tablespoon flour
1 cup boiling water
1 teaspoon meat extract
1 teaspoon caraway seeds
2 tablespoons dry white wine
Melt vegetable or bacon fat in a saucepan over a small flame.

Dip liver in combined 1-4 cup flour and salt. Pat off excess flour. Brown liver about 3 minutes on each side. Remove liver from pan. Let fat remain in pan.

Add chopped onion to pan, and saute until onion turns yellow.

Remove pan from flame. Stir in 1 tblsp. flour, gradually stir in boiling water. Add meat extract and caraway seed. Return to a slow flame and simmer 10 minutes.

Add the wine. Add salt and pepper to taste. Add brown gravy color if desired. Put liver in hot sauce for a minute just before serving.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Trouble with dad over going out

Dear Miss Fairfax:

We are two sisters, 17 and 18 years old, and we're still not allowed to go out with boys. The other girls our age are allowed to go out, and they are always telling us how much fun they have.

Our mother is dead, and some of our relatives seem to have talked Dad into not letting us go out. They think we're too young.

Recently a dance was held by a church organization in our town, and we weren't allowed to go because it wouldn't be over until 12 o'clock. You can imagine how we felt when our friends called to see if we were going.

We try so hard to co-operate with Dad, but he'll never listen to our side of the story. He thinks he is always right.

D.

Dear D.:

I agree with you that girls of 17 and 18 should be allowed to go out on evening dates reasonably often, but I realize, too, that many parents feel as your father does.

What I am going to suggest is that the next time something comes up you would like to attend have one of your friends who is going call your father in advance, and ask if you girls can't go along, too. Sometimes, when the suggestion comes from someone outside the family the parent's judgment is more ready to give permission. Be sure, though, that you pick a friend who has nice manners and who will speak respectfully to your father.

Don't mind if you can't always stay until the very end of a party. Your father might be more willing to let you go places if you were willing to be home at any time he says. If he wants you to be home early, promise you will, and keep your promise. If you show him that he can depend on you in this way, he'll probably be more lenient with you as time goes on.

Let him wonder a bit!

Dear Miss Fairfax:

A boy with whom I have been going for a while has my class ring. I haven't seen him for quite a while now, and I don't know whether he is still interested in me or not.

Should I ask him for my ring back, or should I wait until he gives it to me? My girl friend thinks I should wait. But what if he doesn't return it and I never get to see him? Should I call him and find out what's going on, ask for my ring, or just wait?

M. M.

Dear M.M.:

Why don't you write him a note and ask him if he's still interested in having the ring? Tell him that if he isn't, you'd like to have it back. I think this would be a better way to handle the matter than calling up to ask what the score is about your friendship.

If you do it the way I suggest, it will leave him wondering whether you've lost interest in him or not, always a good idea in such circumstances.

Wife Preservers

Don't overload your washer. It requires more time to get each wet wash load clean, and it's more economical to wash two smaller loads at a time in the washer to avoid overloading the machine, and for best results.

BEAUTY

Teeing to the pulchritude mark

Get acquainted with your feet.

"The twinkling feet, so small and sylphlike" were the poet Byron Where are the twinkling feet today? Shuffling along in loafers, maybe. Or bolsted up on spiked heels. Not twinkling, but twinging like all get-out. Once again we must assail the gentle reader with rebukes against foot abuse. Think of the time and effort you have lavished on your complexion, your hair, your fingernails. And, if you the the average woman, you have let your poor feet go a-begging—not for style and elegance, perhaps, but for comfort, health and common sense. A little thought to foot care will make many a woman a happier creature and a more charming companion. Pedal pain throws one completely out of form.

Unless the feet are in a healthy state, the walk is affected; posture is wrong, because the body is thrown out of alignment; and efficiency is lessened. It is impossible to go about the day's activities with enthusiasm if even one small corn is protesting. You are conscious of it every minute. Your face will be clouded and muscle-drawn. Of what use then is the glamorous makeup?

If you have any feeling of kindness toward your feet, you will take the time and the trouble to find shoes that provide ease. Flexible leather soles are essential for comfort and freedom of movement. It is not necessary to sacrifice style for health; you can have both. Roominess of stockings, as well as shoes, is of first importance. Cleanliness, of course, is a basic need. That mean that the feet should be frictioned with a brush during the bath to remove dead skin scales and stimulate the blood streams.

If the flesh smarts, a three-minute massage with mineral oil will quiet the burning skin. This lubricating treatment will tend to keep calloused spots from forming, though, since they are caused by pressure or friction, the real need is a change of shoes —those that one has been wearing do not have correct contour. When buying shoes, tell the salesperson about your special afflictions. He will know what has brought them about, will give you the type of shoe that will do away with them.

To make a good beginning toward foot hygiene, get acquainted with your feet. Tonight, before you go to bed, take a good look at them; learn to appreciate them as you should. For right there, below your ankle is a piece of anatomic engineering the like of which you can rarely find in the outside world. Bend your foot; twist it; turn it; see how smoothly it moves, how strong it is. Treat it with respect.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

The responsibilities of godmother and godfather

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My nephew is to be christened within the next month, and I am to be godmother. Please tell me what are the obligations of the godmother (particularly concerning clothes) and of the godfather.

Phyllis V.

At the christening, you, the godmother, stand as sponsor, or as one of the sponsors, for the child, and, in the service, make the proper responses and promises. It is usually the godmother who holds the child during the christening, and who gives the child's name to the minister. You should pronounce the baby's name very distinctly, for the name the minister repeats is the child's legal one.

The child's godparents really stand in the position of being the child's "best friends", his or her guardians in the event of the loss of the parents. The responsibility a godparent assumes is a moral and spiritual one; to take special interest in the child's life, in his religious training, in his education and career; and if ever advice and help are needed, to give this according to his or her ability.

It is customary for a godparent to give the child a christening gift, and usually, too, a godparent makes a point of "remembering" important events in the life of the child, birthdays, graduation, school or business or professional promotions.

It is not the godmother's responsibility to buy the baby's christening dress, but, if she wishes to, she may suggest this wish to the baby's mother.

Placing of centrepiece on buffet table

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We have recently moved into our new house. We have no dining room, and we are planning to do most of our entertaining by having Sunday evening buffet suppers. I've been making my plans for the buffet table setting, placing our rather long French Provincial refectory table, to be used as the buffet table, against the long wall of the living room. I like very much to make artistic centrepieces, and I am wondering if, under the circumstances mentioned above, I should place the centrepiece in the middle of the table, as in a usual setting?

Grace T.

No. When the table is placed against the wall, as you plan to do, the centrepiece is placed close to the farther edge of the table near the wall. This placing gives more room for the items of the buffet service, a most desirable convenience.

RAWDON

Rev. J. E. Griffith Tells Conference Of 'Basic Needs'

Rawdon — The annual convention of Stirling, Rawdon and Marmora Council of Christian Education was held in Mount Pleasant - Rawdon United Church on Friday last. A large vase of chrysanthemums decorated the piano.

Mr. A. W. Drew, of Deloro, president, presided at both sessions. The theme was "Evangelism in the Church, School". The opening worship was in charge of the Rev. A. E. Baker, St. Paul's, Stirling, after which the usual business routine was carried out.

In the reports of the various Sunday Schools by the superintendents, the following highlights were noted:

Wellman's have all the children participating in reading the Scripture and they have introduced modern music in the service which creates interest.

Carmel said over one half of all school children in the district attend Sunday School.

Bethel reported that progress is noted with increased attendance.

New Sunday School

A new Sunday School at Spry Settlement, which was instituted this year has a roll of 50 members with 40 attending regularly. They raised $80 and their supplies cost $70. They have a large adult class and it is an inspiration to visit this Sunday School.

Rev. J. E. Griffith of Castleton, outlined the various books which were on display and spoke on:—"Evangelism and Christian Education".

Rev. H. C. Vaclavik dedicated the offering.

The tables in the church hall were attractive with flowers and Mesdames Sharp, Smith, McKeown, Spencer and their committee served supper to 60 guests. A vote of thanks was tendered the ladies for their sumptuous repast.

Evening Service

Rev. H. E. Beare, Springbrook, conducted the evening worship with Mrs. Ross Hoard in charge of the piano.

An interesting playlet "The teacher visits the Home" was demonstrated as follows:—

Mrs. West, the mother — Mrs. Burton Morton;

Miss Apathetic — Bobby's Sunday School teacher for Beginners—Mrs. S. Hoover and Miss Enthusiastic — Bobby's teacher, one year later — Mrs. Den Heath.

This aptly portrayed the value to the children of a good Sunday School teacher, who is interested in her work.

Miss Ruth Linn sang "In the Shadow of the Cross", and Miss Betty McConnell contributed a piano solo.

Mr. A. Cottrell, of Marmora, presented the resolutions which included a few special items for next year's program, such as delegates in 1951 to give salient features of year's work. The usual vote of courtesy was extended to officers, speakers and hostess church.

All Sunday schools are to be informed that this council desires that Temperance Education be be stressed once monthly.

In the roll call of 16 Sunday schools there were four absent.

Officers Elected

The officers elected are as follows:

Honorary presidents — Mr. A. Cottrell, Mr. C. Tummon and Mr. George Williams; president — Mr. A. W. Drew; vice president — Mr. Fred Houchin; secretary treasurer — Mrs. Harry Brown; executive — Mrs. C. Clancy, Mr. J. Baker, Mrs. W. Elliott, Mrs. S. Hoover, Mr. F. Houchin, Mr. H. Hagerman, Mr. F. Beckett, Mrs. Jasod Baker, Mrs. Don Heath and Rev. George Young who gave the dedication for another year of service.

An invitation to convene at Carmel United Church in October, 1951 on the Stirling charge was accepted.

Rev. J. E. Griffith of Castleton, gave an inspirational address on the theme "Reach, Teach and Win" from the standpoint of evangelism in the home and the support followed up in the Sunday School.

The home is so important because it it the basic institution. It is important to live a Christian life in a non-Christian world, and the so-called modern culture is drifting away from the Christian Faith and carrying the church with it.

Basic Need Today

The basic need today is good homes where the child will be reared in a good atmosphere. Then it is easy for the child to love God and to enjoy harmony and beauty in the world.

The speech of mother and father in the home has a bearing on the child and parents should be on guard at all times.

The child should be given a sense of security in the home and the re-creation of the family altar would do much to create better homes. The speaker emphasized the mother's great privilege to teach the child the meaning of love, both for his home and for Jesus.

He warned parents not to let their children get all their education outside and that mother and father should always be available to help the child in his daily worries and so build a strong structure for facing the world when they grow to be adults and later theirs adults and take their places as men and women.

Mr. Griffith said if he were on a school board he would hire no teacher who wasn't an avowed Christian to teach in the public schools.

His message closed with an appropriate story portraying the value of a good home with Godly parents.

SHOW GOES ON

St. John's Nfld. —(CP). —The Musgravetown fair was held as scheduled, although the building burned down the night before the opening. During the night the exhibitors, mostly loggers and part-time farmers, decided the show would go on in three smaller buildings. Despite loss of some exhibits, it was a big success.

LONG SERVICE

A postal service has been operated since the earliest days of settlement in North America.

Quinte Police Ladies Aux. Holds Hallowe'en Party

On Friday evening a regular monthly meeting of the ladies Auxiliary Quinte Police was held at the home of Mrs. Peter Thomson, Dundas St., with the president, Mrs. Clair Hayes, presiding.

Preceding the business meeting a Hallowe'en costume party was held, prizes for the best costumes being awarded to Mrs. J. MacDonald and Mrs. H. Reid. Judges being Mrs. E. B. Ashley and Miss MacKay.

After the business of the evening was dispensed with the ladies participated in games and competitions, winners of these being Mrs. J. Balzz and Mrs. R. Milligan.

Dainty refreshments were served from tables tastefully arranged with bronze and yellow chrysanthemums and yellow and black candles.

Post Office savings accounts at more than 1,600 Canadian post offices are limited to $5,000 total credit.

Mr., Mrs. M. Holton Feted, Presented With Gifts

On Friday evening 75 relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Holton, R.R. 5, Belleville, to honor their son, Mack and his bride, the former Georgina Eden, of Toronto, on the occasion of their recent marriage. Mr. Edgar Ray presided as chairman for the festivities.

The convivial evening was ushered in by a hilarious charivari, followed by the reading of a unique address by Mrs. Gilbert Sills, in which each one present had added an adjective, without knowing what had gone before, describing Georgina's and Mack's courtship, which strangely proved not only truthful, but mirthful as well.

The young couple, were then adorned with hats, Georgina with a dark, ordinary one, while a tin pudding dish served as Mack's, the trimming of which consisted of tiny kitchen gadgets such as pie crimper, can openers, bottle brushes and other assortments suspended from the edges.

Mrs. Gordon Garrison made the presentation of a crystal set in corn-flower design for six on behalf of those present, as well as a pair of matching crystal candle-holders.

Following the presentation, refreshments were served, and the charivari gang, whose antics had added spice to the preliminaries were awarded the means of procuring ice cream and other dainties.

Spends Fifteen Summers As Camp Counsellor

Montreal, (CP)— When Mrs. Ruth Horstein agreed to supervise a non-profit camp in Ontario in 1935, she didn't realize that she had accepted a job that would keep her busy every summer for 15 years. But that's how it ended up, and she wouldn't change her position now for the world.

Since she became interested in camp work, Mrs. Horstein has done practically everything from teaching crafts to consoling lone-some moppets. She even dibbed in as a cook when the regular cook took an unexpected vacation. "After all, I am a housewife and I know how to cook," she laughed.

Mrs. Horstein feels there are a lot of women who are anxious to have their children attend camp, yet are unable to arrange it for financial or other reasons. The answer, she believes, is for the mother to take on a position as counsellor and take the children along.

She however she warns that certain qualifications are necessary. When Mrs. Horstein first took up camp work, she enrolled in child psychology courses at McGill, studied arts and crafts and any other thing concerned with camp work.

In her opinion, an older woman has an advantage over a junior counsellor, especially when it comes to discipline. "She is more understanding, and not as easy."

Mrs. Horstein believes that it is more often the parents who are to blame for instability in a child than the child itself. "We need confidence in youth," she said. "They are the backbone of our country, and we should do all we can to help them."

BEVERLEY WEDS

Beverley Van Horne, last spring's runaway heiress, hit the news again Friday when she married James Robert Beattie of St. Jovite, Que. — without telling the Montreal social set. Last spring the bride was a McGill University student — disappeared and was found by a widely-publicized search, working in a Vancouver restaurant. Mrs. Beattie is a great-granddaughter of Sir William Van Horne, famed Canadian railroad builder. The couple are shown just after their quiet wedding at St. Patrick's Church in Montreal. — (CP Photo.)

Whitehall Notebook:

Officially Cost of Living About Same as Last Year, Unofficially It's Murder

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Nov. 2—(CP)—Officially, the cost of living in Britain is just about the same as it was a year ago. Unofficially, it's murder.

By most reports — from co-operative societies, Independent Labor Party, free - lance statisticians and organizations of housewives — it seems established beyond reasonable doubt that prices have soared perceptibly in the last 12 months.

Everybody agrees on it — except the government. During the year, the Labor Ministry's official index of retail prices has hardly moved at all. It now stands at 114 — just a notch above a year ago.

Doing Up

So the British patience is wearing thin. The retail prices index is generally regarded as being dead as a dodo. Workers whose wages vary with the official figures doubt its accuracy.

The current issue of Man and Metal, journal of a steel union, says all the evidence is that living costs have risen and are rising.

Recalling that last April the government produced statistics to show that a tax on gasoline would make motoring cheaper, the magazine comments:

"For some, no doubt, this sort of thing has its humorous side, but the man whose wages are reduced by these Alice-in-Wonderland statistics can be forgiven if he doesn't see it."

The Financial Times, which opposes the government, tartly called the index a "statistical abstraction of limited value" and went on to say why. The newspaper said the statistics are based on out-of-date information about spending habits and place too much stress on unimportant factors — cost of private travel, for instance, is based on the cost of running a motor bicycle.

Shrieky-a Step-Cap

Government officials would probably admit the index isn't perfect. For one thing, it's known as an "interim" index. It was put into effect as a stop - gap three years ago when the old index, based on 1904 expenditure, was scrapped. This substitute scale is drawn up on information obtained in an inquiry into working-class family budget in 1937-38.

Critics have pressed from time to time for something more up to date, but the last reply was that manpower could not be spared for another inquiry "just yet."

C. J. Kaufman New President Rural Association

Hamilton, Nov. 2 —(CP)— Charles J. Kaufman of Tavistock is to be the next president of the Ontario Rural Hockey Association.

When executive members of the O.R.H.A. met here Wednesday to accept nominations and amendment changes to the constitution Kaufman's name was the only one presented as successor to John B. Robertson of Lynden who occupied the chair during the 1949-50 season.

The organization, which began in 1930-31 now is Canada's fastest-growing amateur sports body. And it is expected that at the annual meeting to be held in Galt shortly many more applications for berths in the senior, intermediate A and intermediate B sections will be received.

Last year 16 clubs fought it out for the senior crown while six leagues, comprising more than 60 teams, were entered in the Intermediate A group. Fourteen leagues competed in the intermediate B section.

Robertson, who will vacate the chair at the annual session in favor of Kaufman, presided at Wednesday's gathering.

Other officers for the coming campaign, all elected by acclamation, will be:

First vice president, G. Ronald Stewart Barrie; second vice-president, A. W. Quait, Thamesford; third vice-president, Ross Fewster, Ingersoll; secretary treasurer, Horace D. Overden, Wainfleet; O.H.A. executive, Member J. J. (Tiny) McFayden, Galt; executive— Otto J. Harawick, Bolton; Jack Peatsy, Kitchener; Dave Found, Orono.

The new president will name three more names to the executive.

U.N. Assembly Moves Toward Arming Itself With Broad Powers to Halt Aggression

By TOM OCHILTREE

New York, Nov. 2 (AP)—The United Nations General Assembly moved today toward arming itself with broad powers to discover and combat aggression when the veto hamstrings the security council.

It is scheduled to ratify formally an American-backed plan for collective security on a world-wide basis, and to approve a request that the five nations powers try again to settle their differences.

American delegate John Foster Dulles repeated yesterday that the United States is ready to talk peace with Russia at any time. He said, however, that the possibilities of success are limited because the United States will not be a party to the Russian program of violently coercing people to submit to "the Soviet brand of imperialist communism," He said:

"The issue on which we part is the issue of whether freedom and diversity shall be systematically replaced by enforced conformity with the pattern of Soviet totalitarianism."

Cannot Give Way

"That basic issue does not concern merely, or even primarily, the United States. If the United States gave way, the smaller nations would first pay the price, for they cannot survive unless there is collective support of a system of tolerance. That is the basic issue from which stem the particular controversies that create the danger points."

The veto-free system of collective security for which Dulles spoke has been overwhelmingly approved in the assembly's 60-member political committee. That assures the resolution's ratification by the assembly itself.

The plan calls for a peace patrol to check on the world's trouble spots, for the calling of emergency assembly sessions on 24 hours notice and for member countries to earmark some of their military units for use by the United Nations in time of crisis.

The Soviet Union already has served notice that it will make an all-out fight against the plan.

Indian objections to the extension of the term of Secretary-General Trygve Lie were pushed over yesterday when the assembly voted to give him three more years in office. Only the Soviet bloc voted against the extension, despite Russian warnings that Moscow will ignore the Norwegian and refuse to deal with him.

Unified Army Aim

Rome—(AP)—Foreign ministers and their deputies from the 13 countries of the Council of Europe gathered here today to try to weld a unified army strong enough to stop Soviet aggression.

The debate probably will focus on whether and how to include German troops in such a Western defence command. That was the issue which stalemated the Washington meeting of defence ministers of most of the same countries earlier this week.

The idea of a 50-division West European army was proposed by Britain's wartime leader, Winston Churchill, at sessions last summer of the European council's consultative assembly at Strasbourg. There it met stiff opposition from Scandinavian and British labor members.

Support of Most Members

Since that time, with modifications made under the spur of the Communist assault upon South Korea, the general plan for a united army has won the support of most members whose ministers are meeting here.

But while the United States and Britain have called for the use of German troops, perhaps in whole division strength, France and some of the smaller countries have withheld approval.

The ministers have been directed to try to reach some decision on the Schuman coal-steel pool-plan and other economic and social proposals which grew out of the consultative assembly's meetings last August.

SETTLED OUT OF COURT

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 2 (AP)—A $62,000 Supreme Court damage action against Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, and Donald Garfield Emerson was settled out of court Wednesday for $11,823, Joseph Kutchinski received $10,000 and William Pokopchuck receives $823. Costs of the action were set at $1,000. The action arose from a collision in April, 1949, between a car driven by Prokopchuck and a car driven by Emerson and owned by the Ford Motor Company.

VOYAGE UNNECESSARY

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Nov. 2 (Reuters) — Apartment dwellers without work in Prague are being told to give up their apartments to make way for working people with jobs in the capital, it was disclosed today.

Town authorities are also checking the Prague housing situation to see that the one-room-a-person rule in force in this overcrowded city is more strictly applied.

Major Expansion Rail Facilities Being Planned

London, Ont., Nov. 2 (CP)—A major expansion of rail facilities at Sarnia to keep pace with the growing industrial output is being planned by Canadian National Railways, John A. Murphy, London divisional superintendent said today.

In addition to new tracks in the yards, a large re-arrangement of existing facilities will be made to cope with the new demand.

Work will start shortly on the new spur line from Sarnia to Froomfield to serve the new factory of Canadian oil which will be built next year.

So that both steam and diesel locomotives may be turned faster a large "Y" section of track will be built into the new section of the yards.

Mr. Murphy said Sarnia had become one of the heaviest freight loading centres in southern Ontario and facilities were strained with present production.

The new freight sheds at Point Edward to handle goods from lake vessels will be completed early next year and new tracks laid in this area have expanded facilities for train traffic to the north of the city.

BROADWAY DIMS LIGHTS

New York, Nov. 2 (AP)—Bright signs of "roadway were blacked out early today as a tribute to playwright George Bernard Shaw, who died in England at the age of 94.

Shaw's death was announced shortly after midnight. Several minutes later the brilliant lights of the Great White Way were switched off.

Three Puerto Rico Men Arrested

New York, Nov. 2 — (AP)—Three men, one of whom is the self-proclaimed leader of the Puerto Rican nationalist movement in New York City, were arrested by secret service agents today.

They were seized at the apartment of Oscar Collazo, one of the two men who tried to assassinate President Truman yesterday. Collazo's wife, Rosa, is held in $50,000 bail on a charge of conspiring with her husband.

Those arrested were:

Juan Pinto-Gandia, 42, who served six years in federal penitentiary for insurrection in Puerto Rico and was released in 1943. He was at one time a lawyer and now is the self-proclaimed leader of the nationalist movement in this city.

John Correa, 42, sporting goods manufacturer. He was reported as having a loaded 32-calibre pistol in his possession, for which he had a licence.

Juan Cortes Cordero, 71, uncle of Mrs. Collazo, who resides in the Collazo apartment. He is a ship's cook and part-time minister.

All three were identified as natives of Peurto Rico.

DENOUNCED AS 'BOGUS'

London, Nov. 2—(Reuters)—Prime Minister Attlee last night denounced as "Bogus" the forthcoming communist-backed "Peace Conference" in Sheffield, England. In a speech at the Foreign Press Association dinner here, he bitterly attacked communism and accused adherents of the coming form of causing bloodshed and disturbances all over the world.

Mining Activity Assists Development Northern Area

Prince Albert, Sask.—(CP) — A detailed picture of northland development—new schools, hospitals, air strips, docks and hotels —was given here recently by resources minister J. H. Brockelbank.

The minister had just made a one-week inspection tour of northern Saskatchewan.

His said the LaRonge area, 150 miles north of here, shows definite promise of becoming a mining centre and a jumping place for settlements farther north. Tourist traffic had increased through the area.

A cross-strip at La Ronge airfield was being built. A repair depot, nose hangar, ramp and dock were being constructed at the seaplane base used by Saskatchewan government airways.

A government barge service was linking Pot Black and Ile a la Crosse, Beauval and Buffalo Narrows. Buffalo Narrows had become an industrial settlement with a fisheries operation and fish-filleting plant. There was a new hotel and two extra schoolrooms had been provided.

At La Loche, near the Alberta border, a mission sawmill was making lumber for local use. The town had a hospital and school.

Hunt For Uranium

Goldfields, hot-spot of Saskatchewan's uranium hunt, is in "process of resurrection after being out eight years," Mr. Brockelbank said. A hotel had opened. Because mining and prospecting was on the increase, a resident geologist had been sent there by his department.

At Nicholas Mines, near Goldfields, a 30-to-50 man crew had cut roads. Electricity was being piped from Wellington Lake power plant, built during the earlier boom days of Goldfields by Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company.

Eldorado, where more uranium is sought, a new cookhouse and cafeteria had been built for about 150 men. Two underground shafts had been cut to reach pitchblende deposits.

A road linking Stony Rapids with Nisto Mines, on Black Lake, in the extreme north, had been completed. Buildings at the mines were being winterized to permit year-round operation. At Stony Rapids, an airstrip had been completed, along with a dock for barge traffic on Lake Athabaska.

A new hospital and school had been erected at Sandy Bay, near the Manitoba boundary, to serve the area around the Island Falls power plant which produces electricity for Flin Flon, Man.

Agriculture was progressing fast at Cumberland House, in eastern Saskatchewan at about the same latitude as The Pas, Man. about 150 acres were being farmed now.

"Miracle Mile" Issue Defeated In Close Vote

Edmonton, Nov. 2—(CP)—Edmonton ratepayers yesterday voted "no" to a $25,000,000 scheme for a streamlined civic centre.

They rejected a scheme whereby a group of New York backers would finance a project making an undeveloped four-block area in the heart of the city into a "miracle mile."

There would have been a large civic auditorium, parking space for 1,800 cars, parks and modern office buildings.

But although 60 per cent of the voters favored the plan, a majority of 60 3-3 per cent was needed.

That vote was the main issue. Election of five aldermen was regarded with fair interest, but some aldermen expressed more concern over the outcome of the miracle mile than in their own re-election.

For four months the plan has been the topic of violent debate. Civic officials, newspapers and radio stations took sides on the matter. Citizens discussed it on street corners. On election day an aircraft flew overhead with a streamer urging voters to reject the scheme.

Some 18,000 of an estimated 33,000 eligible voters cast ballots.

Waldensian Ch. Protests Dogma

Rome, Nov. 1 (AP) — In the shadow of St. Peter's Basilica and virtually surrounded by gathered thousands of faithful Roman Catholics, the Waldensian Church of Rome held special rites today in protest against the Pope's proclamation of the Dogma of the Bodily Assumption of the Virgin Mary.

The Waldensian Church was founded in the valleys of Piedmont in 1170 by a group of dissenters from the early Roman Catholic Church. It was one of the predecessors of the spread of Protestantism through Europe.

The ceremony today took the form of a special rite of adoration of Jesus, to reassert the pre-eminence of the Savior in the Christian religion.

A spokesman for the Waldensian said the ceremony "was a protest against the proclamation of the dogma of the assumption of Mary." Similar ceremonies were held in other Protestant churches in Italy, the spokesman said.

BRAZEN ATTEMPT

The U.S. communist party voiced "profound shock" in a statement issued by William Z. Foster, national chairman. "The communist party rejects and condemns assassination," he said.

In the island uprising, more than 30 persons have been slain. And, just before the afternoon sortie on Blair House, two blazing gasoline bottles were hurled into a crowd at the Puerto Rican Labor office in New York.

The threat of assassination effort was the first conspiracy legally a plot involving two or more persons—to kill an American president since John Wilkes Booth shot Abraham Lincoln a mile from yesterday's gunplay.

But yesterday the Secret Service was on the job, and its uniformed corps of White House police bore the brunt of the battle.

Badly Wounded

But two of the force, Pte. Joseph H. Downs, 44, and Pte. Donald T. Birdsell, 41, lay badly wounded. Both Birdsell's knees were shattered. Downs was in "critical, very serious" condition with chest and stomach wounds.

In another hospital room, the wounded Collazo was sullen. "Oh, just political," he said when asked why he came here from New York two days ago to make the attack.

U. E. Baughman, Secret Service Chief, told reporters there was no previous record on either Collazo or Torresola. And Washington's police chief discounted a report that a third Puerto Rican was to be picked up.

"We are going to investigate very carefully before doing any picking up," he said.

But in New York, police ransacked the tenement blocks in the Bronx area where Collazo and his wife—described as a "quiet couple" by their neighbors—lived.

Thirteen Detained

Thirteen persons from the area were detained for questioning. Mrs. Collazo was held in $50,000 bail and charged with conspiring with others to injure the president. She was arraigned early today and held pending further inquiry or grand jury action.

The stout, 42-year-old Mrs. Collazo talked freely about her husband, who polished pocketbook frames for a living.

She said Collazo told her, before departing Tuesday, that he was "going to Puerto Rico", and added: "We must be free. We can no longer be slaves of the United States."

The President was "the calmest man in the place" when, awakened by the shots, he peered out a window and saw dead and wounded police and attackers before the yellow-brick official residence in which he lives during extensive repairs to the White House.

"Get back, get back," a policeman shouted. Truman did, but remained cool and undisturbed.

He kept a date to attend a memorial service at Arlington National Cemetery half an hour later. His face was tightly drawn as he told a group gathered to honor the late Sir John Dill, British Field Marshal:

"It is important to the peace of the world that peoples understand each other and have full faith in each others' sincerity."

FIELD FOR DIESELS

Montreal (CP) —A leader in early development of Diesel-Electric rail transport, Canada remains a natural field for its further development, says I. I. Sylvester, Diesel application engineer. Canada now has 372 diesel-electric locomotives in service or on order, he said.

SHAW

Though he continued write prolifically, it was evident of late that the razor-sharp mind which drove him to the peak of fame after years of unrewarded effort was running down.

A Vegetarian

A tee totalling, non-smoking vegetarian who lived on quantities of soup, fruit and juices, Shaw said a man could not hope to reach a state of intellectual maturity in less than 150 years.

Born in Dublin July 26, 1856, of an impecunious Protestant family, Shaw went to London when he was 20. He took up journalism and became a music critic. Even in late years he liked to play the piano and sing in his squeaky but lusty voice.

For years his writings brought him no recognition, but most of his outstanding plays poured out after he was 40. These included "Candida," "Arms and the Man", "Caesar and Cleopatra" and "Pygmalion."

He was over 60 when he produced three generally regarded by the British as his best—"Heartbreak House," "Back to Methuselah" and "St. Joan."

Won Nobel Prize

He was 69 when he won the Nobel prize for literature.

Intimates said he began losing his zest for life when his wife died in 1943. He was past 40 when he married his "green-eyed Irish heiress," Charlotte Frances Payne-Townshend. She had been his partner in the rise to fame. They had no children.

His romantic correspondence with Ellen Terry, the noted British actress, became famous in literature. They exchanged endearing letters for years but never met except publicly in theatres.

One of his friends and one of the last callers at his bedside was American-born Lady Astor, a determined Conservative and member of parliament.

Lady Astor will be the only visitor received at the cottage today.

John L. Bailey Celebrates 89th Birthday

Rawdon—Mr. John L. Bailey, one of Rawdon's pioneers, who resides at Mount Pleasant, on the fourth concession of Rawdon, celebrated the 89th anniversary of his natal day on Saturday last.

About 25 neighbors and old friends gathered at his home Saturday evening and spent a few hours in his company.

During the evening, Rev. H. C. Vaclavik paid tribute to the life of Mr. Bailey who has resided here for over 60 years and who was nearly always in attendance at church and Sunday school as long as health permitted.

Mr. Bailey received cards and letters of greeting, gifts and a bouquet of chrysanthemums and was most thankful for the delightful affair held in his honor.

Special Birthday Cake

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Sine, assisted by Mrs. Irvin Reid and Mrs. Allan Reid served refreshments topped off with a special birthday cake made and decorated by Mrs. H. C. Vaclavik and all sang "Happy Birthday", Mr. Bailey.

Mr. Bailey resides with his daughter, Mrs. Clifford Sine, and he has one son Morley, in Windsor.

Prince of Wales H&S Assoc. Guests At Tea, Art Exhibit

Monday afternoon the home of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Watson, 12 Orchard Drive, was the scene of a most charming tea and art exhibit. This was one of the first events held for the newly formed Prince of Wales Home and School Association.

Before tea was served, the guests viewed Mrs. Watson's fine oil portraits and scenes in watercolors, china paintings on glass and sketches of elderly people.

The guests were then invited to tea in the rooms tastefully decorated in keeping with the season of pumpkins and witches.

The hostess assisted by Mrs. Dollard and Mrs. Clarke Dodd, poured tea and served a light repast.

The prize of a painting from Mrs. Watson's collection was drawn for by little Iva Dollard, and won by Mrs. L. King.

The guests departed after a pleasant and interesting afternoon.

St. Paul's United Church Observes 54th Anniversary

Bancroft — The Rev. J. I. Mackay of Montreal, Superintendent of Missions for Quebec and The Eastern Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church of Canada, was the guest speaker when St. Paul's United Church of Bancroft observed its 54th anniversary on Sunday October 28th.

At both morning and evening services, the speaker stressed the need for more volunteers to enter the missionary services of the church. To prove his point, he gave examples of work that's being done by men and women in different sections of Canada and showed where the lack of helpers prevented further expansion.

The choir, under the direction of Mrs. Ray Watson, provided special music. Donald Landry sang a solo "Bless This House".

Monday evening the annual anniversary supper was served in the church basement. The Women's Association Afternoon Auxiliary catered to a crowd of over 200.

Community Chest's Objective Is One Annual Appeal With All Agencies Beneficiaries

It plans laid down at a committee luncheon yesterday meet with success, the Community Chest Campaign here will be one of the shortest funds-raising enterprises ever held in the city.

Only two canvassing committees were formed under the new system as laid down by the Wells Organization, which is laying the foundation of a systemized campaign which will be carried out in the future.

One is the Special Names Committee, and the other the General Solicitation Committee.

The first - named committee has completed the majority of its work. Today 100 canvassers, armed with cards, etc., called on residents allotted to them by their team captains.

Expect Quota to be Reached

It is expected that by Saturday at the latest the allotted quota of $25,000 will be subscribed.

There will be no house-to-house canvass or pay-roll deduction in this year's campaign, it was announced by Campaign Chairman John Deacon at the luncheon. The committee this year will be confined to "special names" and the middle - bracket donors.

The main effort of the campaign committee this year is to induce all benefiting agencies in the city to become part of the Community Chest. At the present time, only three agencies are included, the YMCA, Children's Aid Society and the Victorian Order of Nurses.

The object in including all agencies in the Chest, is to eliminate two more appeals to the public during the course of the year. Under the Community Chest system, in which all agencies are included only one appeal is made annually.

Funds obtained through the Community Chest appeal will not go directly to the member agencies.

Budget Committee

A special budget committee consisting of Judge J. C. Anderson, Brigadier Fraser Fulton, Arthur L. Young, and other prominent citizens will study the requirements of the various agencies estimate their needs and allot whatever amount is found necessary to carry on the agency's work.

As Chairman Deacon pointed out in his address yesterday, it is felt the money should be handled and distributed by those who give it.

The quota of $25,000 is not to be raised for the benefit of the YMCA, VON and CAS alone, Mr. Deacon pointed out. Primarily it was set to increase the standard of giving in the city. If the contributing public can be educated, to give double or nearly double their usual contribution in one annual appeal, instead of giving small amounts to five or six appeals the Community Chest will be a success.

Mr. T. Jessup of the Wells Organization, said that if the Community Chest is successful as is said down is a success this year, it will not be a question of forcing outside agencies to "come in." They will want to "come in," he said.

'Feasible Thing'

"It is the feasible thing to do, because it has been such an unqualified success in large centres" he added. He named several cities where the one-appeal for all agencies has been found to be the proper method.

Mr. Lorne McDougall, chairman of the General Solicitation Committee outlined the activities of his group. The quota of $25,000 must be reached, he said because outside organizations usually have their campaigns in the spring. "If some of the agencies want to come in the Community Chest they will of necessity be forced to meet the annual appeal. Part of the $25,000 quota will be used to tide them over until the annual Community Chest campaign is held in the fall.

"That is one reason why $25,000 has been set as the 1950 quota," he pointed out.

Mr. Jack Walton, campaign treasurer told the meeting that expenses of the campaign had been pared to the minimum. The cost of operation this year, including that of the Wells Organization, will not be any greater than that of previous years where the campaign was handled entirely by local citizens.

Chairmen and committees are: General Chairman, John Deacon; Evaluation Committee, Jack Trudeau; Publicity, Freeman Burrows; Finance, Jack Walton; General Solicitation Lorne McDougall. Members of the Steering Committee are: J. J. Trudeau; F. F. Fulton; W. H. Finkle; A. L. Francis; G. A. Freeman; Jamieson Bone; J. N. Yanover; Lorne McDougall; N. E. Edwards and P. C. McGuire.

Facilities Not Sufficient To Cope With Attack

Toronto, Nov. 2—CP—None of the likely targets of atomic bombing in Ontario if war broke has enough hospital facilities to cope with an attack, the executive secretary of the Canadian Hospital Council said Wednesday.

Dr. Leonard O. Bradley told the annual meeting of the Ontario Hospital Association that mobile hospital units, hospital trains and temporary hospital wards under canvas would have to be rushed into action in case of an attack.

Dr. Bradley said it had been predicted that the most likely targets in Ontario would include Toronto, Niagara Falls, the Welland Canal, Hamilton and Sault Ste. Marie.

If Toronto were attacked, hospitals at once away as Belleville, and Guelph would have to be called to handle casualties from the city.

Dr. Bradley said that hospital costs probably would continue to rise next year but "hospital costs are not entirely to blame."

"There is no other package in the community that gives as much for the money paid out. Blue Doe is in a better position than ever before to pay its hospital bill and we must admit that more are doing so—that is, collections are higher."

Not in Charge Of Car While In Snowbank

Toronto, Nov. 2 — (CP) — The driver of an automobile stuck in a snowbank is not "in charge of a motor vehicle," the Ontario Court of Appeal ruled yesterday.

The court upheld an appeal by Isaac Williamson, 45, against a drunk driving conviction. Williamson was convicted last January by Magistrate E. R. Elder of Oshawa of being in charge of a motor vehicle when drunk.

Williamson's appeal was dismissed last May by County Judge D. B. Coleman. But the Appeal Court ruled that, since the car could not have been moved without being towed, it could not be considered a motor vehicle.

(The Canadian Press erroneously reported yesterday that Williamson was acquitted by Magistrate Hobbs, and that a subsequent Crown appeal against acquittal was upheld by Judge Coleman.)

Williamson was arrested in his car after running into a snowbank. The ignition key was turned on, but the engine was not running.

Mr. Justice J. B. Aylesworth, in delivering the Appeal Court judgment, said "that the appellant was intoxicated there was no doubt, but the Crown has failed completely to establish that the appellant . . . had care or control of a motor vehicle within the meaning . . . of the Criminal Code."

Inspect Possible Sites for Airport

Kirkland Lake, Ont., Nov. 2 — (CP) — An airport to service Kirkland Lake and district may be built seven miles east of here near Highway No. 66.

"Both Canadian Pacific Air Lines and the RCAF are anxious to see an airport in this part of the country," Roy Thompson, past president of the Kirkland Lake Chamber of Commerce, said at meeting last night.

Two Department of Transport engineers have been touring the district during the last week, inspecting possible sites, he said.

Shaw's Death Takes Precedence in U.K.

London, Nov. 2 (Reuters) — The death of George Bernard Shaw took precedence over the attempt on President Truman's life in today's London evening newspapers.

Only one of the three, the Star gave Truman top-of-the-page headlines—and then they were shared with news of the playwright's death.

Presidents and Top Leaders Of Nationalists, Commie Party Rounded Up in Puerto Rico

By JAMES FOWLER

San Juan, Puerto Rico, Nov. 2 — (AP)—Police seized the presidents and top leaders of the nationalist and communist parties today in a widespread round-up begun by Puerto Rican authorities a few hours after the Washington attempt on the life of President Truman.

Pedro Albizu Campos, president of the Nationalists, was routed from his besieged home with tear gas and surrendered without a shot being fired. His house was under siege since Monday when a nationalist uprising—reported to have been egged on by the communists — erupted suddenly.

San Juan was virtually under a state of siege today. Police blocked off roads in their hunt for nationalists and communists.

Albizu Campos and other nationalist and communist leaders were whisked to police headquarters for intensive questioning. It was learned that some 600 nationalists and communists in all have been rounded up, 300 of them in the metropolitan San Juan area.

Among those arrested were:

The communist party president, Cecil Andrus Hobby.

The communist party secretary, Juan Santos Rivera.

The president of the General Union of Workers, Saez Corales. Governor Luis Munoz says the union is a communist front.

Campos Arrested

Pablo M. Garcia Rodriguez, executive vice president of the Sugar Producers Association. The police say Garcia is a communist.

Governor Munoz Marin said he has cabled President Truman, notifying him that Albizu Campos has been arrested.

While there was no shooting involved in the capture of the nationalist party president at his home, sporadic firing was heard in the capital today. The city holed up for the emergency. Residents of East Rua and Puerta Di-Ochawa of being in charge of a motor vehicle when drunk.

Williamson's appeal was dismissed last May by County Judge D. B. Coleman. But the Appeal Court ruled that, since the car could not have been moved without being towed, it could not be considered a motor vehicle.

(The Canadian Press erroneously reported yesterday that Williamson was acquitted by Magistrate Hobbs, and that a subsequent Crown appeal against acquittal was upheld by Judge Coleman.)

Expositor Marks 60th Anniversary Of Ownership

Brantford, Nov. 2. (CP)—Commemorating the 60th anniversary of the ownership of the Brantford Expositor, by the Preston family the company last night tendered a complimentary dinner to the newspaper's staff.

Mrs. W. S. Preston, president, her sons, John C. Preston and Peter M. Preston and other members of the immediate family were at the head table.

Six employees with 40 or more years' service were presented with engraved silver plates. All staff members received iscribed wallets as souvenirs.

The Expositor was acquired in 1890 by the late T. H. Preston, father of Mrs. Preston, a successful journalistic career in Winnipeg and other centres. On his death, in 1924, he was succeeded by his son, the late W. B. Preston.

Independent possession of a newspaper for so long a time by a single family is rare in Ontario, said H. B. Christie, veteran editor.

W. German Police Drive Off Mob Of East Berliners

Berlin, Nov. 2 (Reuters) — A West-German police squadron 200 strong, armed with truncheons and fire hoses, today drove off a mob of some 800 East Berlin "peace fighters" outside a courthouse in the British zone of the city.

The crowd was shouting communist slogans such as "Tommy, go home".

Police made several arrests, and some persons were injured, one a woman.

Police cleared a space outside the courthouse, where a 28-year-old East Berlin "peace fighter", Werner Byszio, was being tried. They cordoned off a large area and combed nearby houses for communists.

Inside the courtroom several dozen police kept order.

Byszio was arrested six weeks ago and charged with illegally distributing communist literature in West Berlin.

ORIENTAL RESEARCH

Moscow, Nov. 2. (Reuters)—The Soviet Academy of Sciences has ordered complete reorganization in the field of Oriental research because its workers have "failed to produce important works on Oriental problems today." The academy's monthly magazine, Vestnik, reported today that the Pacific Ocean Institute will be liquidated. Nothing was said of what will happen to the workers.

Father and Son Face Charges Of Receiving

Brantford, Nov. 2 (CP) — A Brantford father and son face charges of receiving stolen bonds, and three youths have been charged with breaking, entering and theft, police said today, after a safe robbery here last week at the real estate office of P. J. Harvey.

The thieves stole a small office safe containing $2,100 in registered bonds, about $50 in cash, some cheques and valuable records. Bonds valued at $600 have been recovered.

In custody are Lloyd Johnson, 59, his son, James, 19, and Kenneth Hunter, 18, Samuel Skater, 20, and Leonard Smith, 16.

The father and son appeared in court yesterday and were remanded in custody with bail set at $2,000 each.

TIMELY TOPIC

Grand Falls, Nfld. (CP) —Officers of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police begun a series of special lectures to students. The first talk covered respect for public property. It followed an outbreak of damage to insulators on telephone poles.

Judge Cochrane Chairman Board Of Conciliation

Ottawa, Nov. 2 (CP) — Judge Archibald Cochrane of Brampton, Ont., has been appointed to act as chairman of a board of conciliation in a dispute between The Canadian Press, National News-Gathering Co-operative, and the American Newspaper Guild. The board will deal also with a dispute between CP's Radio News subsidiary Press News Limited, and the Guild.

Judge Cochrane's appointment was announced by the Labor Department in the absence of a joint recommendation as to a chairman from Herbert Orliffe, Guild nominee on the board, and Gordon R. Munnock, K.C., company nominee.

CHAMPION ORATOR

Guelph, Nov. 2. —(CP)—Michael Hamilton, 11-year-old son of Canada's Minister of Reform Institutions, W. E. Hamilton, is champion orator of Guelph's public school. He defeated three other contestants last night to decide Guelph's representative in the Wellington County finals.

I Hear Adventure Calling

By Emilie Loring

"It is still sea." She abandoned the role of Circe. It wasn't her line. Her eyes were on the fragment of the roll she was crumbling.

"You mean that? Why? If you dislike me so much why did you come out with me?"

"I hoped you had news—"

"I thought it was you." Gene Sargent greeted them gaily. Myles rose and frowned at the man beside her whose eyes were on the girl seated at the table.

"Told you and Sinclair come up through the floor? I neither saw nor heard you till you spoke. Thought you two were going to be Country Club."

"We went. No one there, all gone to the square-dance party in the Town Hall, to benefit the firehouse. Blake suggested we try to get Fran to go with us so we broke the speed law getting to the gallery. Then we discover that she was out. Passing this point we saw you through the screen and decided we would try to round up two more partners for the dance and found the need for one day. Join us, please, Myles."

"Sure, I'm all for it. I'll take Fran back and then meet you at Town Hall."

"Why not give her a chance to say she'll come along?" Sinclair demanded belligerently.

"You can't expect for me after the day I've put in," Fran declined emphatically. "I don't even drive me home, Blake, then Mr. Jaffray will be free to go with Gene? Come on, Myles, let's go."

"Boy, that's the thought of the day. Mean it, sweetheart?"

"Nothing of the sort. Cut in 'When I start out with a lady I see it through.' Come on, Myles."

As the two girls preceded the men, Myles heard Gene's tense whisper.

"Did you get, Fran? I'm desperate, remember."

On the below the rocky cliff in front of the gallery Fran stretched at full length to dry her wet swim suit.

The sky was cloudless blue. Her eyes followed the seagull in a foraging, screaming gull to the top of a jade green wave before they closed. Lucky her day off had followed the work and excitement of the preview of the Eckhard painting. Gene was right, she did plunge into whatever the undertook up to her elbows. Why couldn't she take things calmly? Tim't your nature kid. Ken once had answered when she had asked him the question.

Ken. Where was he? If she could only know he was safe. She must not think of him. If one did she might show her anxiety and betray his mission. Myles Jaffray had said, "even in this small place there may be prying ears." That settled it. Exit Ken from her thoughts.

The faint moan of the bell buoy sounding, the lazy, languorous lap, lap, of the tide would lull her to sleep if she didn't watch out. The balmy ocean breeze would apply an extra coat of tan her skin was sufficiently brown now. Thank goodness she didn't burn to lobster red.

Lobster! The word set off a flashback. Last evening Myles Jaffray had left her at the door with a curt "good night," she had raced up the stairs snapped on the light in her living room, flung her coat on a chair and herself on the broad couch. She heard a car start. Why had he waited all this time? What could she do about the thousand dollars Gene needed? Sell some bonds? Judge Grimes could get them from her deposit box if she sent an order. She couldn't betray Gene's need to Myles Jaffray, he might be in love with her, perhaps he had decided to stop "loving and leaving" to marry and settle down, it was quite evident that she was crazy about him. Had he heard the whispered "did you get it Fran? I'm desperate—"

When she opened her eyes the room was bright with daylight. The lamp was burning. Outside the door Mrs. Betsy called:

"Ready for your breakfast dearie?"

Her thoughts reverted to, last evening. Why had Myles insisted on bringing her home if he did not intend to speak to her on the way? Had he been angry when she declared that she still disliked him? Naturally. How would she feel if the same thing had been said to her? She had racked her brain for a contribution of small talk to break the silence but nothing came. He must think her dull. Miss Trasle had said that was a surefit for a man's interest—maybe so, but she had not talked about herself.

The conclusion brought her up sitting. The abrupt movement sent the two white gulls who were rocking placidly on a blue-green wavelet into the air mewing shrilly. She brushed sand from her bare legs and the bailerina skirt of her amber satin swim suit. Thank goodness skirts were top fashion again.

She played jackstones with five pebbles as her thoughts returned to Myles Jaffray. Had he brought her home last evening because he realized that the moment he had suggested she had regretted it? So far he had given an uncanny knowledge of what she was thinking. Why had he been sure she wouldn't go to the dance in aid of the firehouse? That answer was easy. He didn't want her. When it came to that, why should he? She had been consistently disagreeable to him.

Five gulls floating on the water rose with shrill cries and flew out to sea. What had frightened them? Someone on the cliff? Right. Men's voices. She hitched back nearer the rocks where she couldn't be seen from above.

A small piece of rock rounded down and landed on the sand beside her. The speakers must be on the bench near the edge of the cliff directly overhead. The wind and beach were the property of the Sargents. Were the persons above trespassers or members of the family?

"You may leave it for me to inspect." She could recognize Henry Sargent's booming voice were it broadcast from one of the recently discovered magnetic poles.

"I know that you have proof that it is genuine." The loud impatient response evidently was in reply to a comment too low for her to hear. "I haven't forgotten you discovered it in the attic of a Southern plantation that it had been in the family for generations, but I want time in which to examine it myself."

A murmured protest?

"Of course it will be safe. It is fully insured from fire or theft the moment it enters the building behind us. If I decide it is a Corbeille, as you three times aren't many of them—one sold in England recently for £5,850—I'll hand over a check—it's a crackling big sum to pay."

A mumbled interlude.

"Of course I won't mention it till the deal is completed. Do you think I'm a rookie in this business, that I don't know there are other galleries that—" of the rocks—no parties today. I'm not working—back there I saw a crab in a tide pool, I'm much interested in crustaceans, crawled down to look at it and lost my direction. Like to see it, Miss?" He drew a reddish object from his right pocket and dropped it on the sand.

Fran clapped her hands over her ears. She had been listening to what was not intended for her to hear, and how she had listened! Her ears had been stretched, "eavesdropping" was the word. Ken was right, she did plunge into whatever she undertook up to her elbows. Why couldn't she take things calmly? Tim't your nature kid. Ken once had answered when she had asked him the question.

Ken. Where was he? If she could only know he was safe. She must not think of him. If one did she might show her anxiety and betray his mission. Myles Jaffray had said, "even in this small place there may be prying ears." That settled it. Exit Ken from her thoughts.

Fran's eyes were on the grotesque thing backing toward the water, but not her mind. Why should imagination tie his sudden appearance to the conversation she had heard above? Had he been crouched near listening? In his brown outfit he would have been undistinguishable from the rocks. That was a crazy supposition. Why would a man, late head butler in a "near palace" in Belgium, now accommodating as a waiter, be interested in the sale of of a painting?

"Perhaps you'll be good enough to set me straight, Miss."

"Where do you want to go?"

"To where the artists hang out. I hear theres quite a bunch of them."

"Follow this sandy beach till you come to steps cut in the rocks. Mount those and you'll see a path that leads along the top of the cliffs to the Inlet, the artists' colony."

Her suspicion nerve tingled again. Had he been eavesdropping for a purpose? Was he a scout for another gallery? "Are you interested in painting Barth?

"Only because there were many famous paintings in the house where I was butler, Miss. I don't claim to know one artist from another. I like pictures but I don't understand surrealist stuff. That was a pretty exhibition in the Sargent gallery yesterday. Took a look at it after I cleared up. Had a little talk with the artist. I'd say the paintings had a lot of what my Belgian employer called 'atmosphere.' I'll be moving on. Thank you for directing me, Miss."

Fran's eyes followed the man as he picked his way along the sand, his large shoes leaving miniature pools in their wake. Who was he? What was he doing in this small town? Henry Sargent hadn't liked having a strange man serving as a waiter yesterday.

"I don't like it," he had scolded. "I don't like having a person working here of whom I know nothing. There's a fortune in objets d'art small enough to be slipped into a man's pocket, to be picked up."

She remembered what the elevator boy had said about the man in gray the day she had called on Judge Grimes. "Looks to me and the super as if he might be the finger man of a gang."

Myles hadn't been, but this one time butler, Dunkirk casualty, accommodator, might be here to collect data as to the value and location of marketable treasures That was a cheery thought when she was often alone in the gallery for hours at a time.

"Hi!"

Fran looked up in answer to the hail. A small, black-haired girl in a checked pink and white gingham playsuit was dropping from rock to rock down the cliff. She held her breath. Suppose the child fell and hurt herself? How would she get her up? She didn't fall. She was as sure-footed as a chamois. In a final leap she landed on the sandy beach.

"Hi!" she said again. Standing with feet spread far apart she stared at Fran.

"Hi yourself. Where did you come from?" It wasn't necessary to ask. She was a small edition of Gene Sargent, the same dark eyes, the tipped down corners of what otherwise would be a lovely mouth. She was Malcolm and Ben Sargent's child. Mrs. Betsy had said she was the spittin' image of her aunt.

"I live at Rocky Point. Like to have me keep you company?" Her eyes strayed to the basket before they resumed their staring regard of the girl on the sand.

"Yes, sit down, won't you?" Fran slipped out of the beach coat.

"Peepers, you're a honey in that swim suit. Got what it takes haven't you? Shall I get the lunch?"

"How do you know there is a lunch?"

"Do I look like a dumb bunny? I'm almost eight and in the fourth grade. Awful smart for a kid who's been dragged from school to school, my teacher said. You wouldn't have knitting in a basket covered with a white cloth would you?"

"Right. Get the basket and we'll see what Mrs. Betsy packed for us."

"Okay, sister."

She had the basket on the sand before a diving gull reached the water. On her knees she watched eagerly as Fran spread a large white napkin.

"Is there enough for three?" she inquired anxiously.

"Three? Where do you get three?" Fran stopped in the process of filling a paper plate with wax-paper packages of sandwiches. "You haven't a twin up your sleeve, have you?"

"No, don't be goosity, it's Tweedledee, remember him in Alice, dont you? Hi, Tweed, you can come."

In response to the hail a nose, bedotted black eyes and twitching black ears, white eare-appointed above a rock, another suthinitative "Hi!" and a fox terrier landed in one leap on the sand, barely escaping the spread napkin greatly shook it back again, and my patience was rewarded. So why cant you try the same sister, with your lighter? she said.

Because for one thing, it has no electric cord, and for another thing, it's a woman's werld, pop said.

And he stuck his lighter in his pocket and got in back of the sporting page.

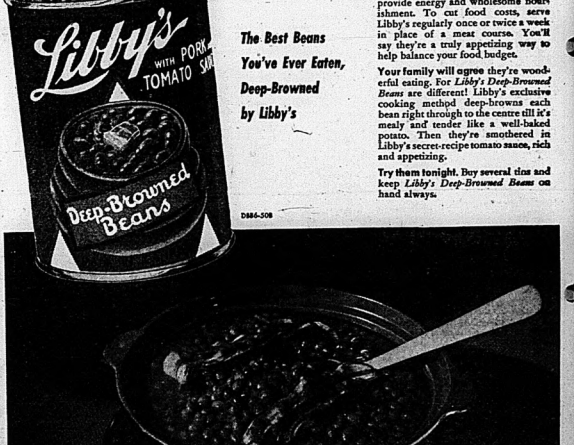
Little Benny's Note Book

Pop's thumb got tired trying to make his cigar lighter werk, and he said to me, I guess I'll have to get a new fangled lighter back to the shop where I bawt it and have them repair it.

Now William, you can probably fix it yourself, I'm a little ordnerry patience, ma said. Why should you be a slave to this machine age any more than I am? she said, and pop said, When did you win make it freedom, Feet sake?

I started my sewing machine running this afternoon, for one thing, ma said. It stopped as deed as a door nail, and I supposed a mere man like you would of telephoned to the sewing machine shop in a panic and had them send a repair man, but I was determined to make it work again with my own head and hands, so I kept tinkering with it and trying this and that, till at last I succeeded, she said and pop said, What did you finally do to give it a kick?

I found out what was wrong by the process of elimination, that's what I did, and that's how you can fix your lighter with a little patience, ma said, and pop said, But yee gods, I've been munkeying with it for 5 solid minutes.



Oh 5 minutes, I must of spent half an hour on my sewing machine, ma said. I worked the starting lever, and I took the belt off and replaced it again half a duzzen times, and I oiled it in every possible nook and cranny, and at last I decided by the process of elimination that there was only one thing I mite of overlooked." So I investigated, and now the trouble was fix'd, the electric cord had slipped out of the wall socket, so I promptly stuck it back again, and my patience was rewarded. So why cant you try the same sister, with your lighter? she said.

Because for one thing, it has no electric cord, and for another thing, it's a woman's werld, pop said.

Voters to Decide Some Odd Issues in U.S. Elections

New York — (CP) — The United States elects a new Congress Tuesday Nov. 7. But many local issues also will be decided.

In 26 of the 48 states, the voters will register their decision on such diverse topics as prohibition — an old favorite — veterans' bonuses, gambling, old - age assistance, schools, bond issues, tax-aid legislation and civil rights.

The New Hampshire electorate will be asked if they approve removing from the state constitution "the provision that the value of money shall be computed in shillings and pence."

Marylanders will be asked to approve a constitutional amendment to exclude debts resulting from alimony and decrees from the law prohibiting imprisonment for debt.

A referendum in Arkansas would make it unlawful to permit livestock to run at large on highways.

Daylight Saving

And an Oregon referendum would prohibit daylight time — unless the governor proclaimed it to conform with adjoining states.

An Arkansas proposal would prohibit the manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquor in the state, and the possession of more than one quart of such liquor at one time. A similar proposal in Arizona would authorize local option on prohibition.

Oregon "dry" would prohibit the sale of "promotively" advertised liquor, while South Dakotans are being asked to prohibit the sale of food and alcoholic beverages in the same establishment. That proposal was turned down two years ago.

Four states have gambling issues. Massachusetts votes on a referendum for a state lottery which sponsors say would produce $50,000,000, of which $20,000,000 would be used for liberalizing old-age assistance benefits. The remainder would go for prizes.

Both Arizona and California have proposals to legalize gambling, the former under state control, and the latter under a licence system. Montana will vote on legalizing slot machines.

Will Organize To Set Up Civil Defence Groups

Toronto, Nov. 1 (CP) — The Ontario government will immediately set up an organization to work with municipal authorities in establishing civilian defence groups, Premier Frost said today.

He said a report from New York that three provinces and 10 states were to be linked in an over-all civil defence plan was "news" to him. Ontario officials conferred yesterday with representatives of New York State, but he knew of no over-all plan.

"We are awaiting some direction from Ottawa," he said. "The plan mentioned has not been discussed with us by anyone."

Earlier, provincial secretary Arthur Welsh, head of Ontario's civil defence organization, confirmed the New York report.

Mr. Welsh said division of costs is one of the main points under discussion. Ontario had not been represented at all meetings but "has had contact with them."

Co-operation between the United States and Canada on matters of civil defence has been discussed chiefly on the federal level he said. The Ontario government, however, has discussed problems with Michigan and New York, particularly in relation to joint action between Niagara Falls, Ont., and Niagara Falls, N.Y., and between Detroit and Windsor.

MARMORA

Marmora — Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Charlton, of Belleville, visited Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hawley on Tuesday.

Mr. John Clairmont of Oshawa, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Clairmont.

6,000 Words Inscribed on Six Sheepskins

Vatican City, Nov. 1 (CP) — The skins of six sheep supplied the parchment for the Papal Bull on which is inscribed the assumption dogma.

The document, on 26 sheets of parchment, each 15 by 20 inches, contains about 6,000 words. Each four sheets required one sheep skin.

Five months were needed to compile and prepare the document under the direction of the Apostolic Chancellory.

It is contained in a blue leather envelope bearing the seal of the Pope, a dove holding an olive sprig in its beak. The cover contains a dedication of the Daughters of Mary Associations which paid for the making of the document. After it is signed by the Pope and other church authorities it will be placed in the Vatican's secret archives.

The term "Papal Bull" comes from the "bulla" or leaden seal which fastens it.

CENTENARY

Centenary—Friends of Mrs. Blythe Lehman are sorry to hear of her illness. All wish for her a speedy and complete recovery. Tom Gard's Note Book

It's time to wind up the gardening season for another year. It hardly seems possible that winter is just around the corner and that some seemingly plants require mulching again, but my youngest handed his sixtee up from the basement yesterday — a sure sign, if there ever was one.

Roses call for special attention. Bedding roses can be treated as illustrated in the diagram. Something new for mulching hybrid teas and hybrid perpetual roses, as well as many bedding plants, came to my attention last year. Glass-fibre insulation that contains little plastic or resin water-proofing material was spread as a blanket over the plants. Hybrid perpetuals were wrapped in burlap and then covered with the insulation materials. This mulch allows free circulation of air and permits water to pass through to the soil. I certainly intend to try it myself this year.

Table-leg Lamps

This winter promises to be a pleasant one. New neighbors moved in next door and the man of the house—Herb—has a marvellous home workshop. He seems to have all the tools that an amateur could ever hope to master. Just yesterday Herb was showing me a smart pair of lamps he was making out of old oak table legs. Evidently a niece of his was being married and as my scrupulous gift would cost a small fortune, he was putting his talent to good use.

Serviette Rings

Seeing Herb's tidy workbench shamed me into pushing my way through the debris of my own for a general housecleaning job. Imagine my surprise to find that my youngest had taken over a small corner and is making a set of serviette rings for Mother's Christmas present. The idea was picked up in a handicraft period at summer camp and he's taking no chances on not having them completed in time—maybe I should take the hint!

STRAIGHTENED: "I am a young man of 24 in business with my father. He is a fine man but old-fashioned. Definitely he will not listen to any of my new ideas I present. My disposition is suffering, indeed I am on the verge of a nervous breakdown. Can you suggest what I must start to weather this storm and make an effort to control myself?"

Wouldn't it do both you and your Dad good if you were to move over for a while? Given a rest from one another you probably would see him in a different light. Certainly, it's getting neither of you anywhere to be partners in name only with this growing antagonism.

THE BIG HOUSE: "I am an elderly widow with a large house. Both for financial reasons and for company for myself I would like to take in a boarder. Where is the best way to go about it to advertise and receive applications? How can I check on the character of the people coming into my house?"

Why not try referrals? People who can give you adequate references will not only be glad to find a landlady so meticulously careful.

NUISANCE REMINDER: "I am an 18-year-old high school graduate and have been married for a year to another paper work. My family have the misfortune that their correspondence are fast-living people and are endeavoring to involve me in their affairs. I am tempted to tell them they are no concern."

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The senior game between the Belleville team and Queen's University scheduled here for tomorrow night has been postponed, arena officials inform us. In its stead both city teams will take to the ice for some much - needed practice, the Junior B's for their inaugural workout and the seniors for their second appearance on skates.

Bill Cook's boisterous buckaroos will trot out on the ice at eight o'clock when Coach Smiley Meronek will put his charges through 90 minutes of strenuous workout. While the junior management has been making strenuous efforts to provide a squad which it is hoped will be comparable to the teams from Oshawa, Lindsay, Peterborough and Port Hope, all of which have had pre-seasonal training under their collective belts, no definite decision has been made yet as to the selection of the squad.

Manager Cook informed us today that all positions on the team are wide open and any youngster of Junior age will be welcomed to try out for the squad. Since new faces will be needed for the contest, among them Clarence "Chief" Henbawke of Ingersoll, seasoned junior hockey player who played Junior "C" last winter. The Chief is a rugged youngster and appears to pack plenty of punch. However it is too early to say just what Manager Cook and Coach Meronek have under their player belts, but Friday night should reveal just what material will be available for the Cookies for their tour this winter. Remember, Junior "Bs" practice from 8 to 9.30 Friday night.

The senior squad, we are informed by arena officials, will take to the ice at six thirty o'clock tomorrow night and each week thereafter until Monday. The team leaves a date with the Peterborough Petes come Monday evening, and the way the Petes are traveling, the local squad will have to be in form to cope with the visitors' speed and ability. However, it is not much to worry about at this stage of the game. Monday's game will be a severe test for the Belleville squad inasmuch as they will be up against one of the best (todate) teams in the group, and their performance will give the fans some idea of what is to come.

However, without starting to alibi, in all fairness to the Belleville team, it must be said that, while they will tack as many practices under their belts as possible between now and Monday, they will be up against a squad that has had the benefit of not only many practice sessions but a few exhibition games as well. Selah.

It is quite likely that Coach Moe Gobell will throw his three lines, as selected in Cobourg last Monday night in action. We are informed that he has several plays to work out and between now and opening night on Monday he hopes to get some sort of perfection. In any event, "Moe" will give the boys plenty of practice work between now and Monday in order to get them into some sort of shape for the tough grind ahead. There is lots of room for players of senior calibre on the team, and the coach will welcome any who want to try out for the squad. The time, 8.30 tomorrow night at Memorial Arena.

FOR THE HONOR OF BCI

Remember this, you football fans, "a red sweater and twenty-five cents".

That's it. If you see a big husky bloke sporting a red football jersey, laced at the neck and blg white numbers spread all over the chest coming at you, start reaching. Not for a handkerchief or a gun, but a silver quarter that nestles in your pocket, or purse.

For the big huskies, believe me brother, some of 'em bulli along wrestling lines, are members of the Belleville Collegiate Institute senior football squad which battles with their ancient enemies from Peterborough C. I. here next Saturday afternoon.

We may as well be frank. These youngsters need money. At least the team they represent does. And all it costs you is one twenty-five cent piece for which you will receive a ticket for the Saturday afternoon football joust between BCI and PCI at Albert College Field.

It's like this. The BCI gridders, senior, junior, and from peewee to squirts, are, you might say, orphans as far as a gridiron is concerned. Last year they were forced to play both games of the playoff series away from home. This year, thanks to the generosity of Albert College, the Church Street pigskin toters, will be able to play their home game here.

But, honor bound, they must play one game at Peterborough. And it costs money for transportation, meals, etc., etc. Actually the team is "broke". The money derived from the sale of tickets for Saturday's game will help defray expenses for the squad's trip to Peterborough.

So, if you see a big husky coming at you garbed in a red sweater, start reaching, podner. And smile if you offer an excuse.

It is only 'two bits', one measly 25-cent piece. How about it, fellas?

LAST NIGHT'S STARS

(By The Canadian Press)

Max Bentley, Toronto, whose two goals and two assists sparked the Leafs' 5-3 victory over Montreal Canadiens.

Maurice Richard, Montreal league-leading goal-getter, who scored two more although the Canadiens lost to the Leafs.

Maurice Richard's Playing Only Bright Spot as Canadiens Lose to Toronto Leafs 5 to 3

(By The Canadian Press)

Montreal's undermanned Canadiens lost a 5-3 decision to Toronto Maple Leafs in Toronto last night, but a gallant performance by Maurice (Rocket) Richard almost enabled them to overhaul the National League hockey leaders.

The fiery Montreal right-winger pumped in two goals in less than two minutes of the last period and threatened around the Toronto net on most of his team's infrequent attacking splurges. Richard's efforts were the only bright spot for Canadiens in a game that threatened at times to become a rout.

The teams meet again at Montreal tonight, with the second-place Canadiens striving to cut down Toronto's three-point lead. The third-place Detroit Red Wings entertain New York Rangers, and the Boston Bruins are in...the cellar with three points in the New Yorkers' five, face the Black Hawks at Chicago.

Tonight's Toronto - Montreal clash may turn out to be a scoring duel between Richard and Toronto's Max Bentley, tied for top place in the league scoring. Richard has nine goals and three assists and Bentley four and eight, for 12 points apiece.

Playing without defencemen Hal Laycoe and Eddie (Butch) Bouchard, centre Elmer Lach and winger Bert Hirschfield, the Montrealers were weak defensively last night, particularly when short-handed. Toronto's first three goals came when they had an edge in manpower.

Tops Scoring Parade

Bentley topped the scoring parade, scoring two goals and assisting on two others. Tod Sloan, Harry Watson and Sid Smith were the other Leaf marksmen, while Calum MacKay gave Canadiens a 1-0 lead in the first period on a long shot that bounced past goalie Turk Broda. Sloan's goal was scored earlier in the second period while Montreal's Vern Kaiser sat out a penalty.

After Leafs rode out a hooking penalty to Bill Juzda without allowing Montreal to register a shot on goal, Canadien's Doug Harvey was thumbed for hooking in the last minute of the second period and the Leafs broke loose.

Bentley finished off a play with Gardner and Howie Meeker with a pretty scoring stick-handling to make it 2-1. Then Watson flicked home defenceman Jimmy Thomson's relay from the blue line at point blank range. Bentley also got-ting an assist.

Rookie Jimmy Lewicki set up Bentley's second goal ,shifting several Canadiens out of position to put the tricky Leaf centre in the clear.

Richard put Montreal back in the game, blazing a shot past Broda unassisted and tipping the puck in on a scramble for his second counter.

Montreal's efforts to tie the score died when Smith beat Gerry McNeil in sinking fifth goal on a breakaway with captain Ted Kennedy with barely two minutes left.

McNeil was busy, handling 39 shots against 19 for Broda.

Hockey's Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press).

Maurice (The Rocket) Richard scored two goals Wednesday night but it wasn't enough. Toronto's Max Bentley also scored twice and picked up two assists to move into a first place tie with Richard in the National Hockey League scoring race.

Both players now have 12 points, Richard's total being made up of nine goals and three assists and Bentley's consisting of four goals and eight assists.

Four players are tied with eight points and three with seven points.

Fern Flaman of Boston continues to be league goal man with 35 minutes in penalties while Turk Broda of Toronto is shutout king with three to his credit.

Buffalo Bisons Move to Front Of E. Division

(By The Canadian Press)

Buffalo Bisons last night moved three points ahead of Hershey Bears at the head of the American Hockey League's eastern division parade by whipping the New Haven Eagles 9-3 before 3,337 Buffalo fans.

Cleveland Barons, meanwhile, took over top spot in the western division from the idle Cincinnati Mohawks by blanking the St. Louis Flyers 2-0

The only other game scheduled ended in a 4-4 draw between Springfield Indians and Pittsburgh Hornets. Springfield now is a single point behind Hershey.

Pete Leswick got two goals and two assists for the fast running Buffalos while Ab Demarco got one goal and four assists. George Pargeter and Hugh Currie counted twice each. The other winning goals went to Paul Meger and Bob Dawes.

Leswick, Demarco, Meger and Rudy McLenahan were given all-star awards for the 1949-50 season in a ceremony before the game. McLenahan got two assists.

Ray Manson and Wally Stefanow counted the New Haven goals.

Johnny Bower, Cleveland netminder, racked up his first shutout of the year as Cleveland won before 5,217 home-town fans. Bower blocked 39 St. Louis shots.

The Barons' victory cut short a string of five Eyer victories. Ray Cornelio and Joe Lund scored the Cleveland goals, both in the first period.

Keith Allen's goal late in the last period gave Springfield their tie and the teams went through a scoreless overtime session before 3,200 Springfield viewers.

Allen was the top scorer for the winners with two while the other Springfield markers went to Harry Pidhurney and Ed Ford. Frankie Mathers, Pete Backor, George Gee and Ray Hannigan were the Pittsburgh snipers.

Terrific Aerial Attack Staged By Brockville

Smiths Falls, Ont., Nov. 2 (CP) — Brockville Collegiate staged a terrific aerial attack in the first quarter Wednesday to pile up an easy 29-6 victory over Smiths Falls in the first game of a home-and-home series for the Eastern Ontario Secondary Schools Association football championship.

Final game of the total - point series will be played next Wednesday in Brockville.

Reg Companion and Ron Birrell each took passes for touchdowns converted by Bill Carberry in the first quarter and Bill Miller took another in the third.

Bill Hunter scored a converted major for Smiths Falls in the third frame, but Miller crossed the line again in the fourth and Jerry Burns added another, both converted by Carberry.

McGILL INDIANS WIN

Ottawa, Nov. 2 — (CP) — McGill Indians swamped Ottawa's Carleton College 41-1 to take their fifth straight win in the Ottawa — St. Lawrence Football Conference and their 13th undefeated start since the loop was formed last year.

It was Carleton's fifth straight defeat.

Stocky Ross McBride led the scoring with two touchdowns and three converts, while Hank Sliwka added two more majors on passes from quarterback Don Williams. Other touchdown scorers were Len Shaw, Cec Findlay, Ray Hamelin and Lionel Quinn.

Carleton's Bruce Gibbard's attempted field goal in the second quarter went wide, but was good for a point.

Jim Konstanty Most Valuable Player in N.L.

New York, Nov. 2 (AP) — Casey James (Big Jim) Konstanty has won the National League's most valuable player award to become the first relief pitcher ever so honored.

The bespectacled, rubber-armed right-hander, whose great burning in the clutch won the first flag in his 9 years for the Philadelphia Phils in 1950, made a runaway of the race. There was virtually no opposition.

The 33-year-old native of Worcester, N.Y., received 18 of the 24 first-place votes of a committee of the Baseball Writers' Association of America. The only surprise was that two writers failed to name him in their 10-player ballot.

Gran Hamner, a team-mate of Konstanty, and New York's Eddie Stanky each received two first-place votes. The other two went to Stan Musial of St. Louis and Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh.

Musial, three-time M.V.P. award winner and last season's league batting king finished a poor second to Konstanty in the point total. He collected 326 points to 158 for the Cardinal slugger. Stanky, second-base spark plug of the Giants, was third with 144 points.

Del Ennis Fourth

Philadelphia's Del Ennis, in fourth spot, was the only other to top the century figure. The league's runs-batted-in leader had 104 points. Kiner, who paced the home-run hitters for the fifth straight season was fifth with 91.

Shortstop Hamner and pitcher Robin Roberts of the Phils took sixth and seventh respectively. Then came Gil Hodges and Andy Snider of Brooklyn, and Sal Maglie of the Giants.

Jackie Robinson of the Dodgers, last year's winner, finished 15th, collecting only 23 points.

It was a real Cinderella story for the veteran Konstanty, who had been knocking around professional baseball for 10 years with only moderate success. It was just a few years ago that Big Jim was on the verge of quitting the game for good after his release by the Boston Braves. Prior to that he had failed to make it with Cincinnati Reds.

Caught on With Leafs

Konstanty caught on with Toronto, where he first began to work for his current boss, Eddie Sawyer. When Sawyer moved up to manage the Phils in the summer of 1948, he wasted little time bringing up Konstanty. It turned out to be the best move Sawyer ever made.

The former Syracuse University all-around athlete appeared in 53 games in 1949 and won nine while losing four. Those nine were shunted into the background last season when Jim toiled in 74 games, a league record, all in relief. He wound up with a mark of 16-7, third high in the league.

In addition, Konstanty was credited with saving at least 25 games for the Phils, who won the pennant on the final day of the campaign from Brooklyn. Never known for his speed, Jim mastered a deceptive palm ball to go along with his fine curve and faultless control that stymied the league's best hitters.

His great work during the regular season won for him the right to pitch the World Series opener. It took a brilliant two-hit performance by New York's Vic Raschi to bring about a 1-0 defeat to Konstanty. He appeared in two more series games, both in relief.

Sarcastic Letter Written by Coach On Retirement

(By The Canadian Press)

The scalping season for unsuccessful football coaches is off to a roaring start. Regina indicate that at least one senior mentor won't be back next season.

Officials of the Regina Roughriders have announced that Fred Taylor, former university of Alabama backfielder is through.

Grant's release came as no surprise, although he didn't hide his bitterness in a sarcastic farewell letter released simultaneously with the club's announcement.

"I sincerely hope that the next coach you get will have the same opportunities I had," the letter said. "It will be a pleasure to try to get imports to come to Canada to play football for half the money other teams were paying their boys . . .

"I know that anyone who comes here will be able to add loads of color to the team and win all the games."

Grant steered Roughriders into the playoffs in his three seasons as coach but the team never did reach the Grey Cup finals. They were beaten last Saturday by Edmonton Eskimos in the Western semi-final.

Branch Rickey has a job—he isn't saying where.

Commissioner A.B. Chandler let the cat out of the bag yesterday when he quoted Rickey as saying in a Cincinnati committee meeting:

"We of the major league teams . . ."

A reporter immediately asked: "What major league team?

Does Rickey still have a job?"

Chandler replied:

"Yes, I know where he's going, but I can't tell you."

Rickey remained non-committal when asked about Chandler's remark.

However, others at a meeting of the major and minor league executive councils hinted that Rickey might be bound for Pittsburgh.

Rickey severed his connection last Saturday with Brooklyn Dodgers.

The signing of star halfback Royal Copeland to a 1951 contract with Calgary Stampeders has been announced by president Tom Brook of the Western Football Conference club.

Copeland who played for Toronto Argos before joining the Calgary squad this season, gained an average of 4.5 yards each time he carried the ball, rolling up total yardage of 442 yards. Brook gave no details about Copeland's contract. This season his salary was reported unofficially to be near five figures and he was generally recognized as the highest-paid football player in the west.

Tournoi, first son of the famous French stallion Tourbillon, is being brought to Canada to the newly-organized National Stud.

Tournoi will join five other outstanding stallions at the Stud's Farm near Oshawa, formerly the Parkwood Estate of Col. R. S. McLaughlin. The Stud recently was organized by a group headed by Toronto industrialist E. P. Taylor.

Teddy Wyrick, Fairairs, Fenelon, Flares and Firethorn also have been acquired by the farm.

The stallions will be available to Canadian breeders of racing thoroughbreds.

The eastern Canada junior football finals will be held in Montreal Nov. 11 or 12 on a field to be selected by Quebec-Ontario representatives, it was announced Wednesday night by Myer Insky, Canadian Rugby Football Union vice-president.

Clarence Campbell, President of the National Hockey League, said Wednesday that television is causing uneasiness among hockey executives.

"No one knows what it will do to the whole entertainment industry—and that includes hockey," he told the Electric Club of Toronto. The club is made up of personnel from electrical firms.

"We're trying to plan the best ways to harness television to our advantage, but so far we don't know," he said.

Baseball's great Joe DiMaggio and Frank (Lefty) O'Doul, manager of the San Francisco Seals, were showered with bouquets of flowers Wednesday night when they arrived in Tokyo by plane from the United States.

The Yankee Clipper and O'Doul who has made several baseball trips to Japan, were greeted by a throng of Japanese baseball fans, movie stars and U.S. soldiers when their plane arrived.

DiMaggio, big gun of the world's champion New York Yankees, said he planned to "talk a lot of baseball" on visits to U.S. army camps and hospitals.

The dean of American League shortstops, Luke Appling, dropped off the Chicago White Sox roster yesterday to sign up as manager of Memphis Chicks.

The 43-year-old, at 41, ended a 20-year record breaking career as a big league player to move into the brain trust section of the class-AA Southern Association.

Johnny Palmer clung to his North and South Open golf tournament lead at the halfway mark yesterday, but his margin was whittled to a single stroke.

While Dr. Badin, the shot-maker was posting a two-under par 70 for a 135 total after his record 65 of Tuesday, Jim Ferrier of San Francisco carded a 69. This, added to his first round 67, elevated Ferrier from a five-way tie for second place into sole ownership of the position.

In third place with 137, two strokes back of Palmer, was 42-year-old Willie Turnesa, White Plains, N.Y., professional, who made one of the day's three holes in one to shoot up into contention. He had a 67 yesterday.

REVERSE JUDGMENT

Toronto, Nov. 2— (CP) — An automobile stuck in a snowbank cannot be deemed to be in control of a drunk driver, the Ontario Court of Appeal ruled Wednesday.

The ruling reversed a judgment by County Judge D. B. Coleman of Whitby who, after hearing an appeal by the Crown, convicted Isaac Williamson of being in charge of a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

The Appeal Court, in upholding the decision of Magistrate F. S. Ebbs of Oshawa, ruled that since the car could not have been moved without being towed, the driver could not be considered to be in charge.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

There is a controversial bridge point that goes on and on. It is the fanatical warning: Don't make an immediate takeout to the two level if your hand contains less than two honor tricks.

Two honor tricks means two aces, or A K in one suit, or an ace and two kings, or an ace and a king and queen, or K Q and K Q, or A J 10 and a king, or A J 10 and two queens.

Also two honor tricks means four kings, or Q J in four suits, or a king and Q J in three suits, or two kings and Q J in two suits, or three kings and Q J, or — oh heck, I forget what all else.

Lacking two such honor tricks, they tell you, first bid no-trump even if you have a biddable suit. In other words, first lie to your partner. Hide the fact that you have a biddable suit.

Due to this a responder often has a biddable suit that he fails to show. Partner is not aware of it until too late. Is this what they call good bridge? No wonder they have arguments.

Horse Sense has no rules that make a player lie to his partner. We tell the truth to each other as all good partners should do. If we lack enough for a bid we pass. With enough we fear no true bid.

An opening one bidder expects only two tricks in the hand of his partner. With no more than that, partner should pass. With more he should bid if he has at least two big cards among them.

South opens with a spade when north holds the hand as shown here:

♠A 7
♥9 5 2
♣K 10 6 3 2

First we reply with two clubs to show the biddable suit. But the hand lacks two honor tricks, they wail at this. But me no buts.

Two high cards (aces, kings, queens) are enough. To wait for two honor tricks means only one thing. Responder fears the opener lied. Fancy that. Every time partner opens his big mouth assume he is a liar and protect yourself accordingly. Is this a system?

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 2 — (AP) — The wiry, deeply - tanned man who was pushing equipment around the movie set was Harry Moran.

"Been at the studio (Universal-International) 30 years," he said proudly. But though he worked so long in the glamorous industry, fame never touched him — until his young daughter began playing tennis.

Young Miss Moran is named Gertrude, also known as "Gorgeous Gussie." She parlayed a pair of fancy pants into international fame. I asked Moran what his attitude was toward his daughter's sporty attire.

"I approve," he replied. "After all, the pants have gotten her a lot of publicity and put her in a position she can get a $75,000 contract for a professional tennis tour."

By Chance

The panties occurred quite by chance, he declared. "She only posed in them to oblige the British designer who made them for her," he said. "And after she posed in them, she got to play in the middle court at Wimbledon which is usually reserved for champions. Right in front of the Queen and her daughter."

Gussie's latest outfit — leopard shorts — are the real McCoy, he added. "When she was touring in India, some man shot the leopard and gave her the skin," he said. "There was a lot left over after the shorts were made from it."

Tennis Belter

Despite Moran's long association with the movies, he has advised his daughter against them. "I have told her to stick to tennis, which is something she knows well," he said. "I've seen too many come and go at this studio. It's a tough business."

LEATHER MISNOMER

I was standing outside of Puds Simkins's house talking to Puds and Sam Cross and Glasses Magee, and Glasses said, Hay Puds, what's that funny noise coming out of your house?

That's my father snoring on the sofa in the living room, Puds said. If it sounds that loud with the window closed, I guess you can imagine how it would be if it was open, he said, and Glasses did. Oh boy, I always thawt my father was the world's loudest snorer, but I got to hand it to your father, he's the champeen.

Sure, gosh, nobody ever stays at our house all nite unless they've got ambitions to stay awake all nite waiting for my father to stop, Puds said, and Sam Cross said, Aw, when it comes to soring, my father would make yours sound like a sick mosquito.

Aw, bring him around some time and make him prove it, Pud, said.

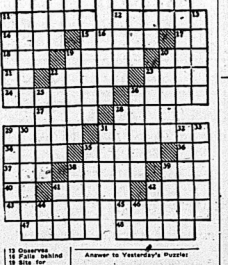
Sam Cross being the most famous liar around, and he said Okay, if you dont believe me just call me up on the telefone some nite about 2 in the morning and as soon as I lift up the receever you'll think you made a mistake and called up a sawmill next store to a boiler factory, and that'll be my father snoring

Stomach Upset, Had Aches And Pains---Tells of Relief

Got Awful Gas, Distress in Pit of Stomach, Headaches, Backache, Dizzy Feelings; Got First Relief by Taking Syntona Says This Man.

Dr. JOSEPH [illegible]

"For 3 years I suffered from stomach troubles with rheumatic pains in my limbs, joints and muscles and couldn't get anything to really help me until I began taking Syntona Herbal Compound," said Mr. Joseph B. McCollom, 305 King Street, London, Ontario, in a recent report.



"I would get awful gasey pains in the pit of my stomach, would belch up bad sour liquids, and got sick bilious attacks and dizzy feelings. Headaches and backache made me short of breath. I'd get dizzy feelings and dark specks floated before my eyes. Backache and the rheumatic pains were becoming so bad I couldn't get my proper sleep at night.

"I was trying a number of things without getting any better so one dreary day while walking home from church with a friend he told me about Syntona. Next day I got some of this medicine and in less than a week I noticed a big improvement.

"As I continued taking Syntona the trouble in my stomach cleared up, backache and rheumatic pains went away, and now I am free of dizzy spells and the spitting headaches I used to get. I eat hearty meals, sleep well and feel much better and I think anybody suffering as I did should certainly give Syntona a trial."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST. Find out how it can help you, too.

Why, my father got a special medlie in the war for winning a whole battle by delibritly going to sleep so the enemy would hear him snore and think our artillery was still firing while we were waiting for more ammunition on account of having ran all out of it. So how's that for snoring? he said.

You meen how's that for lying, Puds said.

Being a good anser and the end of the subject, on account of Skinny Martin coming out with his football just then.

DOGS PROVE EXPERT ON FIRST 'COON HUNT

Presence of raccoons around Jordan, Ont., led local hunters to train 'coon dogs. On the first trial hunt, the dogs readily followed the scent and became so enthusiastic when their quarry was treed, they tried to climb up to where the 'coon was perched. — Central Press Canadian.

SUMMER GAMES IN NOVEMBER

Golf links, tennis courts and baseball parks had plenty of patrons in many sections of Canada as record hot weather allowed the sporting gentry to continue their summer games. This photo, showing Anne Piper and Dave Adams, sporting summer clothes on Winnipeg golf links, was duplicated in most other provinces during the hot spell. But the weatherman doesn't promise it will happen again this year. — Central Press Canadian.

EASIER THIS WAY

Rule books frown on ideas like this when the game is for keeps, but anything goes when the game is just for fun. The totem-pole act was put on by a couple of six-foot-six Harlem Globetrotters in New York, just to show how easy it would be to snare baskets if the players were twice as tall. — Central Press Canadian.

PIGEON S.O.S.

Johannesburg. (CP)—A homing pigeon brought back an S.O.S. from the sea which saved the Durban fishing boat Valk. The pigeon, normally carried to bring reports of the catch, was released when the boat broke down in heavy seas. The tug went out and put the Valk in tow as she was nearing the rocks.

PATIENT FISH

Cardiff, Wales. (CP)—W. E. Mallett was fishing for sea trout in the Usk river in South Wales when he hooked a salmon. His line caught under a rock on the far side of the river. Lacking a boat, he drove six miles for assistance and returned to recover the line and land a 44-pound salmon.

HUNTERS GIVE UP PHEASANT SCHEME

Plans to make Niagara Peninsula another Pelee Island, the pheasant hunters' paradise, will be abandoned at the end of this year's four-day hunt. A sportsmen's association tried to collect enough funds to augment government re-stocking and keep a plentiful supply of birds on the peninsula, but found costs too high. Here a trio of birds, the last of 600 released from a farm this year near St. Catharines, takes to the air. — Central Press Canadian.

Sportsmen believe that within a year or two the pheasant population in the Niagara Peninsula will be so depleted from poachers, predators, and weather conditions that open pheasant shoots will pass into history. Sportsmen financed the raising of these birds held by Game Overseers Roy Mums and Roy Arbuthnot, but have decided to discontinue the practice. — Central Press Canadian.

Oshawa Generals Win in Overtime From Hurricanes

(By The Canadian Press)

Goalie Glenn Hall of Windsor Spitfires probably is a few pounds lighter today.

He lost weight in the third period of an Ontario Hockey Association Junior "A" game in Windsor last night when Stratford Kroehlers fired 19 shots at him in a furious last-period attempt to catch the Spits.

Hall let two past him but Windsor won 4-2. The victory moved the Spits into a sixth-place tie in the standings and left Stratford still in third place.

In the other junior clash, Oshawa Generals beat Waterloo Hurricanes 5-4 in overtime and went into a fourth-place tie with Guelph Biltmores.

There were no senior games scheduled. The next senior game is Friday when Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen play the Marlboros at Toronto, in junior games Friday, Galt is at Guelph; Oshawa at Barrie, Toronto Marlboros at Stratford and Toronto St. Michael's at St. Catharines.

Spitfires went into a first-period lead on John Offidani's goal. Jim Anderson and Eddie Litz added tallies in the second period, with Erwin Grosse getting another early in the third period.

Then Stratford went to work. They put the pressure on all the way but Hall kicked them all out but shots by Doug Williams and Gord Myles.

Waterloo, newest entry in the 10-team league, have yet to win in seven starts. They have tied one.

Until midway through the third period, it looked as though they might win that one.

Charlie MacDonald put Hurricanes ahead 3-2 in the first period. He scored once from the opening faceoff and again on a ganging attack midway through the period. Murray Dunnette added another in the second.

Alec Delvecchio came back with one for Oshawa in the second and Rio Caron scoring at point-blank range late in the period. Delvecchio and Lou Jankowski each scored for Oshawa to tie the score in the final after Gerry Horton scored for Waterloo.

Bobby Attersley scored unassisted for the Generals in the overtime period.

Player Crashed Heavily to Ground During Line Play

Phillip Utting, 18 of Woodstock Ont., a student at Albert College here, rested comfortably in hospital today after suffering what at first was believed to be a broken neck.

Utting, a member of the college senior football squad was playing with his team against Picton on the college gridiron, when he crashed heavily to the ground following a line play.

He was rushed to Belleville General Hospital where X-rays revealed his injuries to torn ligaments and muscles in the vicinity of the neck vertebra.

Dr. Cronk attended the injured youth. His condition today was reported as satisfactory by hospital and college authorities.

ONE KILLED IN WRECK

This is the aftermath of the railroad wreck that killed a brakeman and tied up traffic on the C.N.R. main line at Woodcock, Ont., Wednesday morning, when a high-balancing through freight pulling out from a siding three blocks from the Woodcock station, Box-cars were hurled through the air and one toppled over a trestle to smash onto the roadway 50 feet below.—(CP Photo)

PICTON

Factory Improvement Contest Sponsored by Quinte Makers Won by J. Barnett, Waupoos

Picton — James Barnett of Waupoos factory was winner of Quinte Cheesemakers' Association Factory Improvement competition. He had high score in workmanship and in curing room and cheese on hand, and ranked high in each of the divisions. He received the Gold Trophy donated by H. J. McFarland. His total score was 931 out of a possible 1000 points.

The Canadian Bank of Commerce Trophy for best outside conditions at factory was won by Bert Jones, maker at Black River.

Donald A. Harvey, maker at Bloomfield, won the Bank of Montreal trophy for best inside and boiler room conditions.

Mr. Barnett also won the T. Eaton Co. (Picton branch) trophy for the highest average score on cheese.

Daily instructor E. W. Henderson's trophy for highest percentage of first grade cheese was won by Harold Steenburgh at Wooler, who had one hundred percent first grade. Herb Atherton, Royal Street, was runner-up with 99.06 percent. Ten out of 18 factories had better than 95 percent first grade cheese, an improvement over previous years.

Judges in the competition were C. K. Lackner, Director of Dairying for Ontario, J. M. Bain, Chief Instructor for General and Western Ontario and Dairy Instructor Henderson.

Annual Banquet Held

These and other awards were presented last night when the annual banquet was held. The parish hall was filled to capacity with 363 seated.

Dr. C. S. Slack president of the Chamber of Commerce, presided. Mayor William Henley extended a welcome to the town. A. W. Sinsman led in a sing-song.

Major G. T. Walmsley K.C., Crown Attorney, was guest speaker, and stressed the danger of communism. He was introduced by John Arnaud and thanked by T. J. MacArthur.

Through the generosity of H. J. McFarland, a group of Toronto entertainers presented an outstanding program. Artists in attendance were Mildred Morey, comedian and singer; Marjorie Daines, pianist, Frank Palmer, baritone, the Videoettes, bell ringers.

Highly Commended

Cheesemakers were highly commended on their record by C. K. Lackner and J. M. Bain as well as by A. L. Gibson, head of the dairy division at the Kemptville Agricultural School. Mr. Lackner expressed the belief that now that requisitioning of cheese for export has ended, that there will be a higher price for milk for cheese factories next season.

Gifts Presented

Gifts were presented Messrs. Lackner, Bain and Henderson, in appreciation of their services by the Association president, Bert Jones.

Awards presented included: Most improvement over 1949, Ed. Card and Ted Fleming, Quinte.; Best Jones, Black Creek; George Gallagher, Elmbrook.

Curing room and cheese on hand, J. Barnett, Thomas Wannamaker, Herb Atherton, Harold Steenburgh, Ed. Card, Don Deline, Bert Jones, Lester Wyatt, E. W. Madams, A. Carleton.

Workmanship: J. Barnett D. Harvey, B. Jones, M. Sandford, G. Gallagher, H. Atherton, L. Lewis, Card, Fleming, T. Wannamaker, L. Wyatt.

Card: Fleming, T. Wannamaker L. Wyatt.

Inside factory conditions: D. Harvey, J. Barnett, T. Wannamaker, M. Sandford, Bert Jones E. Card, L. Wyatt, G. Gallagher, H. Atherton, D. Deline.

Outside factory conditions: B. Jones, J. Barnett, M. Sandford, D. Harvey, G. Gallagher, E. Card, T. Wannamaker, L. Wyatt, L. Lewis, H. Atherton.

Perfect Record

Harold Steenburgh, maker at Wooler factory, had a perfect record for first grade cheese with 100 percent. Other high scorers were Herb Atherton, Waupoos, 99.06; Bert Jones, Black Creek, 99.02; Don Deline, Acme, 98.94; James Barnett, 97.50; Lyle Lewis Rogers, 96.96; Lester Wyatt, Mt. View, 96.96; A. Carleton, Sidney, 96.66; Thos. Wannamaker, 95.98; Maurice Sandford, U.E.L., 95.88; Ed Card, Ted Fleming, Quinte, 94.99; Jack Ackerman, Riverside, 92.89; Cyril McKeown, Weller's

High Average Score

High quality of cheese made in this district was also revealed in the high average score for cheese, including all grades and specials. Top scores were: James Barnett, 93.5, Harold Steenburgh, 93.4, H. Atherton, 93.3, Don Deline, 93.1, Thos. Wannamaker, 92.8, M. Sandford, 92.2, Bert Jones, 92.2, Lyle Lewis, 92.2, Ed. Card and Ted Fleming, 92.2, A. Carlton, 92.2, Leslie Wyatt, 92.2, Harold Henderson, 92.2, George Gallagher, 92.2. All other average scores were over 91.5. A total of $180 in cash was awarded in prizes in this class.

The competition has resulted in Prince Edward district cheese factories becoming models for others, as well as improving the quality of cheese manufactured.

SAME OLD STORY

A few men have brought their families to Tacoma and occupy units of a federal housing project there. But nearly all the men see their families when leave rolls around or the annual leave plane—one goes every two weeks—puts them down in Winnipeg or Montreal.

The Canadians work longer hours than the Americans. The Yanks knock off work at 4.30 p.m. and work only a five-day week. The Canadians work nine days in a row and then get a 48 or 72-hour pass, depending on how busy maintenance is.

When the squadron operated from Montreal it used only six aircraft. Now it is keeping 12 flying.

After every 100 hours in the air, a North Star gets a routine inspection. At the end of 400, it gets a major overhaul that normally takes a week. In the major the engines have to be torn down the instruments taken apart, the airframe gone over inch by inch.

In 5,000 flying hours there have been only minor mechanical failures.

In Montreal, the squadron put 70 hours of air time on each plane in a month. The figure now is just triple—210 hours a month.

All this has kept the maintenance men on the jump. A plane leaves every day at 10 a.m. for Tokyo. A crew is gone about a week. By the time a plane has made the circuit twice, it has come into the hangar for the one day inspection. Another six trips and it needs a major overhaul.

There isn't much mixing with the Americans although the RCAF isn't to say they don't get on well together. They do.

"The Americans have done everything possible for us," one officer said. "There are some beefing about the first barracks we were in, so the Americans gave us better ones right off the bat."

The Canadians occupy their own little corner of the messes. Even when the Americans and Canadians take their morning and afternoon breaks for coffee in the same canteen, both groups have their own clusters.

The men get more money down here than at home—$30 a month more for an LAC—but most of them say it doesn't go as far as what they were getting at home. The officers get $4.50 a day subsistence allowance, but have to buy all their meals and extras.

They say the people of Tacoma and Seattle have been wonderful to them.

One of the big grouses has been the weather—it has rained almost constantly here for nearly two months.

$25,000 Damage To Stores, Apts. At Bancroft

Bancroft, Nov. 3 — (Special)— A raging fire of unknown origin caused $25,000 damage here last night to two stores and two apartments in one block. Don Wilson, whose store was completely gutted by the fire, was overcome by smoke and had to be taken to hospital.

The fire started about 6.30 p.m. in the building owned by Ross Viscoff, of Peterborough, and was under control by 7.10 p.m. Wilson was fined from the blaze by William Ellis, foreman at the Baptiste Lake dam construction site, when he failed to come out of his store after rushing inside in an attempt to save some of his stock.

Wilson's store was completely gutted and the Treasure Shop suffered smoke and water damage. In one of the two apartments, William Lavalee had just unpacked his furniture yesterday afternoon prior to taking up residence. His new furnishings were a total loss.

Also gutted was the apartment of William Trotter.

Made Second Attempt

Reports were that Wilson had already made one trip into the store to try and save some of his stock. He made a second attempt, and when he failed to come out, Ellis went in to find him sprawled on the floor, overcome by the dense smoke. Ellis pulled Wilson out and had him sent to the Red Cross Hospital at Bancroft by ambulance.

Bancroft is 72 miles north of Belleville, and is the jump-off spot for fishermen going north. Wilson's store is located on the east side of Hastings Street, the road leading to Maynooth and eventually Algonquin Park.

Six are Injured In Side-Swipe, Head-on Crash

Hamilton, Nov. 3- (CP) —Six persons suffered slight injuries when one car sideswiped another and plowed head-on into a third in the Queen Street entrance to Hamilton cemetery early today.

George Johnston of Brockville was admitted to hospital with face, mouth and leg injuries.

Dismissed after receiving first aid treatment for minor injuries were Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Wright of Albert G. Robertson, 21, all of Hamilton, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Crosthwaite, of Stoney Creek.

Wilfrid Moore said the Toronto bound car driven by Johnston crossed the centre of the road sideswiped his car, and bounced off into a third car driven by Crosthwaite.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Nov. 3 (CP)—Synopsis — Moist cool air which entered Southern Ontario yesterday morning is now widespread over North America, with only fringes of the continent on the southern Atlantic and Pacific coasts enjoying warmer temperatures.

Cool weather is expected to continue throughout Ontario today and Saturday relieved by occasional intervals of sunshine. Rain and rain widely scattered showers and snowflurries will enter southern and central regions this evening. Frost is expected in southern regions tonight.

WE ARE NOT GOING TO REPEAT ERRORS OF 30'S--PEARSON

Tells Vishinsky 'This Is Assembly, Not Purge'

New York, Nov. 3—CP—L. B. Pearson, Canada's External Affairs minister, told the United Nations general assembly today that the world should not allow a repetition of the betrayal of collective security as happened in the 1930s.

He spoke just before the western-backed anti-aggression plan was ratified by the assembly.

"We are not going to repeat the mistakes of the 1920s when collective security was betrayed and when states fell one by one before the aggressor."

Mistakes of June 1950

"We are not going to repeat the mistakes of June, 1950, when we were not organized to carry out quickly the security obligations we had undertaken when we signed the (U. N.) charter."

He maintained that the anti-aggression" proposal would not, "as some feverishly critics in Asia have stated," organize the assembly for war.

He said that it would not be enough for a few countries to take action without full support of the majority or part of national forces.

Pearson spoke after a series of Russian-block speeches against the plan forced postponement of a scheduled debate on human rights violations in Russia's Balkan satellites.

At one point Pearson criticized Andrei Y. Vishinsky's debating methods and told the Soviet foreign Minister "this is the general assembly and not a purge."

The Canadian minister, head of the dominion's U. N. delegation, referred to Vishinsky's attack yesterday on U. S. delegate John Foster Dulles during the assembly debate.

Vishinsky called Dulles a warmonger and a falsifier of facts. The Russian was censured at the 1945 San Francisco conference. Nasrollah Entezam of Iran, who warned the delegates that the U. N. is not a place for personal attacks.

When the assembly prepared today to ballot on the anti-aggression resolution, its adoption was considered certain in view of the overwhelming approval the proposal received in the 60-member political committee.

Found Guilty Of Truck Theft

Sudbury, Nov. 3—(CP)—Jack B. Mowers, 31, of Toronto yesterday was convicted of stealing a truck which he had been used out of and driving it to North Bay. Mowers remanded to next Wednesday for sentence.

Mowers was captured in North Bay by provincial police when he tried to sell the truck to a garage there. Becoming suspicious when Mowers produced no registration slip papers, the proprietor called police.

Mowers said he had come to Sudbury from Little Current and was "North Bay men."

Bright Meteor Stirs Wide Area of East North America, Rocket Reports Discounted

Ottawa, Nov. 3 (CP) —The dazzling meteor that streaked across eastern Ontario, Quebec and northeastern United States skies last night was a "fireball"—one of the brightest kinds of meteors known—that apparently burned itself out in mid-air, Dr. Peter Millman said today.

The Dominion observatory meteor expert, swamped with telephone calls, said he now was in the midst of plotting the course of the planetary fragment which appeared to have moved from a north to south direction.

Only two meteors are known to have fallen in Canada in recent years. One was of stone and iron, recovered from a Benton, N.B., farm on Jan. 15, 1949. Now on display at the National Museum, this meteor weighs about three pounds with a length of six inches and a thickness of three inches.

Another, was located in 1939 near Dresden, Ont. It weighed nearly 100 pounds, purchased by the University of Western Ontario at London, a fragment was presented to the National Museum and is on display here.

The occurrence—at 7.35 p.m. EST—gave rise to wild reports of all descriptions among thousands of residents who saw it. Today, astronomers—confident it was a meteor—placidly set about the business of collecting reports which eventually would indicate just how large the meteor was, what parts of Canada made it affected, and just how rare it might be.

A welter of early reports indicated the phenomenon was seen within a radius of at least 150 miles, and that it lit up that area "like daylight." It was seen at Ottawa, N.Y., and the startled motorist at Quebec City so that he stopped his car suddenly. Quebec is nearly 300 miles from Utica.

The brilliant light had its first detailed reaction in telephone calls to newspaper offices, police, and anybody else who cared to listen. Radios blazed with fantastic reports.

People thought it was lightning, a flying saucer, an atomic bomb, an exploding airplane or — the usual persistent report — a rocket flare set off by the R.C.A.F. at nearby Rockcliffe air station.

Not Rockcliffe Flare

The latter rumor had its basis in the fact that a rocket flare here has been doing experimental work in night photography, using a special type of flare. Many Ottawans, who saw the whole sky light up as though dawn had broken, put aside first reactions of a Russian atomic bomb to conclude that it was a Rockcliffe flare.

This idea turned to wonder and awe when it was reported that the phenomenon had also caused "daylight" in Montreal and parts of New York state. But dominion observatory expert Dr. P. M. Millman said the flash as a meteor is—"definitely."

While residents here were frantically trying to find out what had happened, Dr. Millman, top meteor expert at the observatory, took it calmly. He went to work leaving his competent, 16-year-old son, Barry, to help him. He set astronomical observations—to get details from anyone who saw it.

Reports that an R.C.A.F. "rocket" had caused the disturbance were pooh-poohed here by Dr. Millman. These official reports stemmed from an official of the Colonial Airlines at Syracuse, N.Y., who said the United States air force had informed his company that the R.C.A.F. had warned airlines they would be sending up flares for the next three or four nights.

Senior air force officials here said emphatically that no flares had been sent up last night.

Substantiating the meteor theory was the fact that the light was not accompanied by any sound. This is typical of meteors but not of rockets.

Just Big Meteor

Meanwhile reports from the observatory, Ottawa and from meteorological officials at Montreal backed up the proposition that it was just a big meteor and nothing more.

Most observers saw it was a bright whitish-blue light which turned pink and left a trail of orange sparks behind.

Reports are not unusual, although one of this size is not often seen. They are usually pieces of matter thrown into the earth's gravitational field from space, and many fizzle from the intense friction caused when they hit the earth's atmosphere. Usually, they disintegrate before reaching the ground.

It is believed this meteor did not frighten police in the area of Lancaster, Ont., near Cornwall, investigating strange lights which had fallen there. An extensive search failed to substantiate this.

Dr. Millman is anxious to hear who went to the movie—is asking residents who saw the meteor to write in and tell him. He also wants to know about the color; in what part of the sky it was seen; in what direction it moved, and where it came from. These reports, sufficiently numerous, would enable him to plot the meteor's course.

He asks that those who saw it send him the details at the Dominion Observatory, Ottawa, and adds that no postage is necessary —letters can simply be marked, "O.H.M.S."

Woman Admits Heating Coins To Give Children

Miami, Fla., Nov. 3 (AP) —A middle-age woman who handed nine children in a "trick or treat" incident Hallowe'en night may escape prosecution if she apologizes properly.

Herbert Shapiro, assistant county solicitor, said yesterday he had prepared an information charging the woman—who was not named —with "disturbing and tormenting" the youngsters.

He said she now is suffering from "a case of conscience."

"We are going to give the woman a chance to contact the parents of the children and make apologies," Shapiro said, "if they agree to drop the charges, none will be filed."

Shapiro said the woman admitted heating the coins in a pan and offering them to the children after they were invited into her house to play, while she prepared a "treat."

CANADIAN DOLLAR

New York, Nov. 3 — (CP) — The Canadian dollar was unchanged at a discount of 4 3/8 per cent in terms of United States funds in opening foreign exchange dealings today. The pound sterling was unchanged at 2.80 ¼.

Hopes are Revived Feeble-Minded Man Still Lives

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Nov. 3. (CP)—Sight of a stranger crossing a farmer's field, and theft of five loaves of bread from the farm house have revived hopes that a 43-year-old feeble-minded man may still be alive. Police Chief Shaw said he has given up.

Provincial police who led volunteers in a week-long search for Thomas Hughes, missing since he was unable to find a single clue to explain why he had disappeared.

Hughes had disappeared. He was last seen by his aged parents who lived in a farmhouse Oct. 21. He failed to come to the house for lunch and has not been seen since.

His parents and neighbors believe he wandered into the surrounding bush and was lost. If this happened he was last lightly clothed to withstand the bitterly cold nights of recent days.

WILL OPEN BRIDGE

Wallaceburg, Nov. 3 (CP) — Highways Minister Doucett of Ontario will formally open the new $600,000 bridge over the Sydenham River here Nov. 23. The bridge will be an important connecting link on No. 40 Highway between Chatham and Sarnia.

BOMBAY-LONDON PLANE IS MISSING WITH 48 ABOARD

Craft is Long Overdue, Possible Crash Feared

Geneva, Switzerland, Nov. 3— (AP)—An Air India constellation plane carrying 40 Lascar seamen and crew of eight was long overdue here today on a flight from Bombay to London, and may have crashed in an Alpine snowstorm.

A spokesman for the line in London said the four-engined plane, chartered by a British shipping firm, was bringing the Lascar (east Indian) seamen to Britain to join a cargo ship.

The spokesman estimated the plane had only enough fuel to keep it aloft until 2:30 p.m., GMT (9:30 a.m., EST).

Other Grenoble, France

Authorities at Geneva airport said the plane left Cairo at 1 a.m., GMT, (8 p.m., Thursday, EST) on the long last leg of its flight to Geneva, where it was due at 10.30 a.m., GMT.

The plane's last radio contact with Geneva airport was at 9.43 a.m. GMT when the pilot indicated his position was over Grenoble, France, 65 miles south of Geneva, GMT was the Greenwich Mean Time.

No immediate report from the plane did not worry officials.

The weather over the Alpine region between Geneva and Grenoble was heavily overcast with frequent rain showers and snow at higher altitudes. A general storm was sounded throughout the Alpine region covering parts of Switzerland, France and Italy.

A flight control official at the airport said it was astonishing that there should be no news of the plane after five hours, despite the comparatively short distance remaining for the flight.

"It is possible," an official said "that the pilot's last received position report may have been based on a navigational error."

Truman Visits Wounded Guards

Washington, Nov. 3 — (AP)— President Truman paid a unheralded visit today to two White House guards who were shot down Wednesday in blocking an attempt to gain entry to the mansion.

On leaving, Truman told reporters, the two guards "are getting along fine."

Tests Show Dead Woman's Kidney Working Perfectly in Another Body

"At this stage the matching or donor and host is not complete, but seems good. We have but efforts to match more closely donor and host by tissue typing are being made with excellent results by workers at Presbyterian Hospital in Chicago.

In the kidney graft, the doctors made no effort to match tissue. The donor, a 40-year-old woman of the same blood type as the typical build as Mrs. Tucker, had died 12 minutes earlier from a brain disorder.

Mrs. Tucker was suffering from a progressive polycystic kidney condition that had destroyed function in her left kidney and made her right kidney 90 per cent useless. Mrs. Tucker's new right kidney has been working during the surgery.

In the subsequent tests, a dye was fed to Mrs. Tucker's bloodstream. One function of a healthy kidney is to remove impurities from the blood, X-ray pictures showed the dye passed through both of Mrs. Tucker's kidneys, but was somewhat less in the transplanted kidney than in her own. However, this showed the grafted kidney had taken hold and was working.

The report was made by Drs. R. H. Lattier, J. W. West, D. McNulty, E. J. Clancy and R. P. Murphy of Chicago.

Counter-Attacks Drive U.N. Forces Back in All Areas

Much Equipment Including 13 U.S. Tanks Lost to Reds

Seoul, Nov. 3 — (AP) — Allied forces struggled in a drenching rainstorm tonight to rescue remnants of two trapped American regiments on the sagging United Nations line in northwest Korea.

The downpour hurt the Allies more than it did the resurgent North Korean reds and their Chinese communist comrades. It meant potent U.N. airpower would be curtailed, if not stopped until the weather clears.

A combined Chinese and Korean red counter-attack had sent the U.N. forces reeling back in virtually every sector of the flaming northwest front. The reds, at one point, were only 47 miles north of their fallen capital of Pyongyang.

One U.S. withdrawal—on the west central front—included a tanked spearhead 50 miles back from its forward advance point 15 miles south of red China's Manchurian border.

No Movement

After the downpour Friday evening, allied forces neither advanced nor retreated.

There was movement on the northwest front but AP correspondent Jack MacBeth said U.S. 1st corps spokesmen described it merely as "jockeying for position."

One south Korean unit was reported in contact with the enemy in the Unsan area. Army spokesmen did not elaborate.

The reds had dealt the allies serious blows throughout the area. Much equipment was captured by the reds, including 13 American tanks.

Only U.S. marines in the northeast were on the offensive. And their thrust was blunted by fierce, swirling snows.

U.S. eighth army headquarters called the situation "very serious". A U.S. 1st corps spokesman said it was "not so bad as it could be and not as good as we would like it."

Says Action Defensive

However, Gen. MacArthur's spokesman in Tokyo described the battle, which developed here as a large-scale enemy defensive action and not a counter-offensive. The U.S. cavalry regiments are cut off there.

The spokesman said U.N. forces still retain the initiative in north Korea.

The intelligence officer said reinforcements, reorganized units and withdrawals had changed heavy parts in the red assault.

Poor Visibility Cause of Landing On Small Lake

Lac Au Saumon, Que., Nov. 3. (CP)—A float-equipped Norseman plane, on a flight from Newfoundland to Toronto, landed on the lake in this small Matapedia county village at 5 p.m. E.S.T. Thursday because of poor visibility.

Only passengers aboard the small craft were its pilot, J. Justin of Toronto, and R. Rutherford of Oshawa.

The pilot said he was "amazed" to learn the plane had been reported missing after 3 hour weather between her and Mont Joli airport, 60 miles west, was the only reason for the landing.

The pilot declined to say who owned the plane but said it was on its way from Newfoundland to Toronto. He said the craft would "take off first thing in the morning".

The plane was reported missing by R.C.A.F. research and rescue centre at Halifax when, after stopping at Charlottetown for refuelling, it did not show up at Mont Joli several hours later. Mount Joli was a scheduled stop on the plane's flight plan.

THEFT OF HEIFERS CHARGED

Electric Current Imitates Flow Of Blood, Reveals Hidden Trouble

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Editor)

Kansas City, Nov. 3 (AP)—The University of Kansas Medical School is using an electric current to imitate the living flow of blood.

This is a new step in medicine, in which the electronic devices are adapted to reading hidden troubles in the heart, arteries and veins. It has been used in experiments on dogs.

The blood stream is an enclosed river filled with many currents. Each current causes a change in pressure. A new electronic needle measures these pressures and changes them into electric current. The needle is faster than anything available.

Looking at the behavior of this electric current is to the medical scientists like being able to see the real blood river. They cannot see whether the blood flow has the strength of heart beats and the slowing-down of pools of the weak. The mass of the blood, something that may vary with illness.

They can read the elasticity of arteries, and to bottlenecks caused by malformations or disease. They can measure how much friction impedes the flow.

It is hoped that any disease of the blood stream can be detected and that hardening of the arteries can be detected earlier.

Y's Men's Club Hears Talk On Gideon Society

Cecil Roberts, Field Secretary for Eastern Canada of the Gideon Society addressed the Y's Men's Club at the Y. M. C. A. last night. He reviewed the work of the society which had a membership of 16,000 business men in North America whose endeavor in the 51 years of the movement was to distribute Bibles in hotel rooms to prisons and school children. Over eighteen million Bibles have been thus distributed. As an auxiliary arm of the Church, he stated, that the society believed in the Church as the representative of Christ and the Bible the revealed word to the churches. In spite of criticism, the society had flourished, and remained the greatest force for good in the world.

The speaker was introduced by A. J. Hannah and thanked by Spencer Wonnacott.

A report on the Radio Auction indicated that merchants are pleased with the broadcasts and is being made which at this date would be the largest amount. Vice-chairman Roy Best urged the completion of the solicitation by November 10.

The community Hallowe'en party for children was reviewed and voted a real contribution to the city.

Large Meteor Flashes Over City

The extraordinarily bright light believed to have been a large meteor, which swept across a wide area of Ontario last evening was seen plainly in the Belleville area according to local residents who happened to observe the flash. The flash of light which apparently lasted for two or three minutes was stated to have lit up the countryside "just like daylight."

Provincial Police traffic officer Ivan Tinkess of this city said he was patrolling No. 2 highway near Shannonville when the light swept across the sky. He said the horizon at the side was clearly visible in the bluish white light which started as a glimmer, rapidly reaching its peak and then diminishing.

The officer was unable to tell in what direction the meteor was travelling.

C of C Directors Approve Placing Referendum Before Electors on Gas Franchise

Chamber of Commerce directors at a luncheon meeting yesterday approved in principle the placing of a referendum before the city electorate pertaining to the granting of a franchise to supply natural gas to the city.

The company the Eastern Gas Syndicate was represented at the luncheon by Messrs J. E. D. Stuart, and G. M. Winton. Mr. Stuart outlined the aims and objectives of the company, and its proposed activities.

City Council in committee meeting last night, approved the placing of the referendum before the public.

Mr. Stuart in his remarks to the directors said that he represented a group of Canadian business men acting as trustees for a company to be incorporated. The purpose of securing franchise at this point, he said, is because the law prohibits the formation of the company until the franchises are secured.

Contest Twenty Pieces

Twenty cities and towns between Windsor and Montreal will be contacted with regard to the securing of franchises. Already eleven of this twenty have consented to place a referendum before their electorates.

The company proposes to pipe gas from Windsor to Montreal, supplying communities en route. The gas will be brought into Canada from Texas via Windsor, but eventually natural gas from Alberta will be used.

"Several plans have been formulated to bring this gas into Ontario by other concerns", Mr. Stuart said, "but this company was interested only in bringing it to points east of Toronto."

Installation costs, etc, in fact all expenses of bringing the gas to Belleville will be borne by the company, the citizens thereby will not have to expend one cent. The cost to the consumer has not been established yet, but it must be agreed to by the city and subject to approval of the Natural Gas Commission.

Franchise Equitable

"The franchise," Mr. Stuart said, "is equitable and has been examined by the city solicitor. It is a ten-year franchise with an escape clause. If the company fails to install same at any time, it will become null and void."

"In western Ontario", he said, natural gas is manufactured gas, preferably natural, working with hydro as the provided "open seasme" to industry. It is cheaper, better and cleaner both in domestic and industrial use.

Natural gas will supplement hydro and working with it will be part of the answer to the power problems of Ontario.

At the conclusion of Mr. Stuart's remarks, the directors endorsed a motion approving in principle the placing of the referendum before the electorate.

In the course of other business, Chamber president Bruce Lattimer read a letter from Mayor Jack Ailis expressing the appreciation of himself and council for the fine co - operation and assistance given by the Chamber in the reception of Prime Minister St. Laurent.

Read Letter From P.M.

President Lattimer also read a letter from Mr. St. Laurent in which the Prime Minister voiced his sincere appreciation of the luncheons tendered himself and Mrs. St. Laurent.

The directors approved and will forward a resolution to the Ontario Chamber of Commerce asking that body to petition the Ontario Hydro Commission to change its policy regarding the operation of retail departments, which sell electrical appliances in its branch offices. The resolution was presented to the Chamber by the Electrical Appliances Association of Belleville.

The Chamber will sponsor an advertising project suggested by the amateur operators of the city at an estimated expense of $40. The money will be spent to purchase "Q. S. L." cards which will be supplied to the operators. These in turn forward them to other operators in all parts of the world with whom they establish contacts. The cards carry material advertising Belleville and its attractions.

Ald. B. Lattimer Receives Photo Of Prime Minister

Alderman Bruce Lattimer, president of the Chamber of Commerce and Mrs. Lattimer are in receipt of a handsome photograph of Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent forwarded personally by the nation's first citizen in appreciation of the reception accorded them during their visit here last Saturday.

Mrs. G. Kayser, descendant of Sir Mackenzie Bowell also received a like photograph.

In an accompanying letter, Mr. St. Laurent expressed the sincere appreciation of himself and Mrs. St. Laurent for the fine hospitality accorded them while in Belleville especially at the luncheons held at Hotel Quinte and the Queens Hotel where Mr. and Mrs. Laurent, Madame Mathieu Sanson, her daughter, were guests of the Chamber of Commerce.

Two New Toronto Boys Give Police Bit of Trouble

Two young New Toronto boys, aged 12 and 13 years who ran away from home gave local police a bit of trouble yesterday before they were handed over to their parents and on their way back home.

About four o'clock Thursday morning a Bonnett Ave., resident reported prowlers in the district. Provincial police investigated, and found the two young boys who were lodged in the women's police cell at the police station awaiting their parents.

It was not in the cells, and in the early afternoon the desk officer left the small trap door in the cell block open. The boys pushed open the door open and reaching through unfastened the bolt and escaped.

Disappearance of the lads was discovered when the desk officer noticed a draught and investigating found the north door of the police station open and the cell block empty. The boys were picked up about an hour later on Zwick's Island and were later turned over to the parents of one of the boys.

Public School H. & S. Association Holds Colorful Hallowe'en Party

Bancroft—The second annual Hallowe'en party of Bancroft public school Home and School Association again threw a capacity crowd of youngsters and their parents when all the elementary school pupils of Bancroft and Faraday township were treated to a free party in North Hastings Community Centre.

A monster parade came first. Led by a sound truck and flanked and guarded by police cruisers the children moved from Bancroft public school to the arena by way of Flint and Hastings Streets and Station road. In front of the school children were the Bancroft Boy Scouts, setting an example of rhythmic marching for the rest to follow. Next came several groups representing the rooms of the village school and the rural schools.

Indian Scouts Passed

Five clowns from Bancroft Lions Club provided an hilarious touch to both the parade and the performance in the arena. They added a colorful touch to the costumed throng of witches, goblins, Indians, Chinamen, twins, tramps ballet dancers, drum majors, scarecrows, soldiers, animals, Japanese, fairy tale characters, cowboys and just plain people with false faces. Easily the hit of the evening was an Indian squaw and her papoose.

As the costumed groups paraded around by grades three judges Mrs. C. F. Hillyard, Mrs. A. Grayling and Donald Tanner gave prizes, provided by Bancroft Home and School Association, the three most striking and original costumes in each grade. This was followed by motion pictures shown by Whitney L. Martin.

On the way out, every boy and girl was given a large bag of assorted candies and fruits, provided by parents, merchants and clubs of the community.

While this was taking place the older boys and girls were treated to a social dance, sponsored by the Athletic Society, in North Hastings High School.

Search Continues In Toronto For Missing Bride

Toronto, Nov. 3—(CP)—Police seeking a missing bride today investigated a tip that she was directed to a hotel on Bay Street in central Toronto by a streetcar motorman. However, the hotel staff said they could not recall the woman, Mrs. Fred Jaworski, 22, ever being there.

Mrs. Jaworski disappeared in Toronto last Saturday, two weeks after her marriage to a resident of the Sudbury district of Levack.

Relatives said she is a diabetic subject to spells of unconsciousness.

She travelled to Toronto from Mattawa where he has been employed by a Hyde construction camp waitress, in an automobile driven by a friend of her husband. She planned to take a New York Central train from Toronto to Welland, enroute for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Evariste Lauzon.

The friend said he saw the woman boarding a street-car for the Union Station at 1 a.m. Saturday. Fears Received

A pencilled postcard to another friend here, postmarked 8.30 a.m. Saturday, said:

"I have met a taxi-driver who will take me to Niagara to stay. I am in Toronto and, boy, am I having a good time!"

She also wrote that the Union Station was closed and she could not get a train to Welland that night.

When she did not arrive in Welland, her parents got in touch with her husband. He came to Toronto to get police aid in the search, then went to her parents' home in Welland.

"I don't know where to turn next," he said today. "I've tried everything I can think of and I've no idea where she is."

He said he and his wife worked together at Levack for 14 months. During that time, she made regular trips home to Welland Junction.

The woman, the former Huguette (Pat) Lauzon, is five feet four inches tall, weighs 115 pounds and has light brown hair. When last seen, she was wearing a brown checked tweed suit, a light blue sweater and carried two navy blue suitcases trimmed in white.

Marois Present Iroquois Gift From Royal Grace

Ohsweken, Ont., Nov. 3 (CP) —A piece of smoothly-polished "greenstone" taken from the grave of a Maori king was presented to the Six Nations Indians at a ceremony yesterday at the Iroquois council house here.

The gift from the New Zealand natives returns the honor of a gift of "snow snakes", taken to new Zealand last year by David Smith, 12-year-old son of a Six Nations teacher.

The Iroquois called the Maoris relic one of their most significant gifts since 1712, when they received a British and commonunion plate from Queen Anne of England.

TAKEN INTO CUSTODY

New York, Nov. 3 — (AP) — Mrs. Carmen Torresola, 21-year-old widow of slain assassin Griselio Torresola, was taken into custody last night, it was learned today.

The young woman had been the object of an intensive police search since her husband was killed by gunfire when he tried to storm Blair House in an attempt to kill President Truman Wednesday.

It was reported Mrs. Torresola may be charged with conspiracy to injure the president.

Meeting Favors Community Centre For Village

Madoc — A meeting of all local organizations in Madoc and vicinity was called for on Monday and was well attended. Jack Kincaid acted as chairman and C. L. Ross secretary.

Major Roy Neyler was called upon to explain why the meeting was called. As a member of the Community Club of Madoc, Joe explained that the club had in mind for some time that a sports centre was very much needed. It was his belief that no one organization should sponsor this project but all work together and form a committee as such. Several spoke on behalf of the organization they represented: Mrs. Ken Nicol for the Women's Institute, Mr. Jack Baker, Home and School Club, Mel Flane, the Legion, J. Watson, Kiwanis, H. Tate, Elks Club, W. E. Connor, Bowling Club, W. Rothwell, principal of Madoc Public School, Norse Tomlinson, Hungerford Township, Elliott Burris, Jr., Farmers.

On motion it was decided that a Community Centre be formed and a committee comprising the presidents of each club with of the village council to pass a by-law to form a Community Centre in Madoc village. The centre would start with a good floodlight playing field suitable for all sports and buildings to be added as soon as possible.

Licence Saves Deer for Driver

Port Arthur, Nov. 3 (CP)—A Fort William motorist has found out that it is some compensation to have a hunting licence when your car kills a deer on the highway.

L. J. Gagnon reported to provincial police that his car had struck and killed a deer on the Nipigon Highway east of here. Damage to the car was estimated at $150. Because he possessed a hunting licence for the current year, the motorist was allowed by fish and wildlife branch officials to keep the deer.

TWEED

Re-Elect Officers Federation Of Agriculture

Tweed.—On Wednesday evening the annual meeting of the Hungerford branch of the Federation of Agriculture was held in the township hall, Tweed, with a good attendance.

Mr. Bernard Hunt, president, was in the chair and Mr. James Lajoie acted as secretary.

The officers were re-elected for the coming year. Meetings will be held during the winter at Stoco, Maribank, Tweed, Thomasburg, Sulphide, Bogart and Actinolite.

A resolution prepared by Mr. Harold Varty was endorsed and will be forwarded to the County Federation for approval and will reach the federation's principal office in Toronto.

Seldon Homan of Plainfield, president of the Hastings County Federation, and Ronald Longwell, vice president, were both present and gave interesting addresses.

Two Gun Clubs Object to Dogs In Hunting Deer

Sudbury, Nov. 3 (CP) —Dogs will be banned for hunting deer in Ontario if a resolution the Copper Cliff Rod and Gun Club and endorsed last night by the Northern Fish and Game Protective Association wins the support of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters.

The question of banning dogs for hunting deer has been a perennial one before Ontario sportsmen for many years. It has failed to win universal support in the past and has never been brought in as a general resolution by the Northern in its presentations before the Ontario Legislative committee on game and fish.

MacArthur Says UN Forces Still Retain Initiative

Tokyo, Nov. 3—AP—MacArthur's intelligence spokesman today characterized the battles in the Unsan-Onjong area of northwest Korea as a large scale enemy defensive action and not a counter-offensive.

He said United Nations forces still retain the initiative in North Korea as a whole.

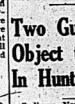
The spokesman listed 12 divisions and five brigades still existing as organized North Korean army units. But, he added, many of the units, especially the brigades, are greatly under strength.

The last intelligence estimate of total North Korean strength still operating was 26,000. This has been "revised upward considerably" the spokesman said, but did not give the figure. It does not include any "other elements," he said, obviously meaning Chinese Reds.

Total North Korean casualties as of midnight, Nov. 1, were placed at 336,000. This figure includes 135,000 prisoners.

"The officer said the Unsan-Onjong action is a major battle and it will take time for U. N. forces to smash the attackers, British,' American and South Korean forces ran into stronger resistance in the north than was expected.

Why the reds picked the Unsan area to hit back in strength is still not clear, intelligence said. For are the communist capabilities yet fully ascertained.



The spokesman said the situation in the Unsan-Onjong area is "better today than it was yesterday."

Shorter lines of communications and supply, reinforcements plus reorganized units previously smashed, and winter weather all have given the reds great advantages, the intelligence officer pointed out. He said the North Koreans are still receiving supplies from across the Yalu River "as they have from almost the beginning of the war."

GIVEN ONE YEAR

ATTEMPT ON U.S. PRESIDENT

Law-abiding nations received a shock on Wednesday when an attempt was made on the life of President Truman of the United States while he was resting in the temporary White House in preparation for his appearance at Arlington Cemetery to pay honor to the memory of the late Sir John Dill. Early news however quieted the fears lest horm should have come to Mr. Truman, the unfailing attention and devotion of the White House guards preventing what might have been a tragedy of world proportions.

President Truman is one of the great global figures because of the role he is destined to play as representative of the United States in world affairs at a critical time in history.

The White House guards earned the highest praise for their alertness and for preventing an attack on the President. Their devotion and fidelity to duty when the two gunmen raced towards Blair House which was the President's home at this time have earned the respect and praise of the whole world of nations. One of the guards gave his life in his devotion to the duty he had of protecting the life of the President. The other guard escaped being struck by one of the intended assassins and safeguarded Mr. Truman. One assailant was killed, the other was taken prisoner.

The guard who died in the defence of the President earned the undying praise of his country and of the free world for his courage and his service to the President in one of the critical periods of his life.

The men bent on assassination were early identified as Puerto Rican revolutionaries.

Had injury been done to the President at this time it would have been a calamity, not only to the United States but to the world, Mr. Truman occupying as he does a position of the greatest importance in the United States and in the United Nations as well as in the entire world.

WHAT DO YOU LIKE?

Heavyweight championship fights have been many people's mileposts for a long time; father can calculate how old Willie must be because the lad was born right after the second Dempsey-Tunney go, the long-count one. The succession of World Series marks out the years in a more orderly fashion for most of masculine North America, Babe Ruth's pointing to where he would place the homer, and then placing it there, being the high tide of interest. Football games, hotly run, thread the autumn days and nights together for many. Hockey games overlap football and occupy Canadians almost to summer.

Some radio programs, like Charlie McCarthy, are a weekly main event in a number of estimated homes throughout the cooler months, and others, like Twenty Questions, fill up a half-hour for some people the year around. Parts of each day for other carefully estimated numbers are dedicated to comic-strip characters such as Dagwood, Blondie, Joe and Pogo.

The church is a durable link from childhood to old age for more people than might be presumed (although for fewer than shown in the statistics), hauling folk up their feet again that the salmon's footing was uncertain. New Prass and Robert Frost are bedside companions of a grateful few, and Eliot and Auden of a few others; the good painters, sculptors, essayists, philosophers, musicians and architects of the ages have their ardent devotees, and only poets the distinction not being overly set upon by fans. As for novels, there are many people just treading water until Hornblower sails by again, so they may tie their lives to some more advantageous mooring, and others who have come in and settled down at Jalna. Newspaper columnists have a place at some time of the day in most homes, the more serious of them helping, along with the editorial writers, to lay the reader's course through the unhappily years.

Milestone fight and dance and sing and love through the seasons in company with their favorite movie stars, feeling a smug regret when the star fades to become almost as obscure as the fan. Service clubs, lodges, political parties, women's and charity organizations link the years for vast numbers; one married couple, who served together on a children's shelter board for decades, remembers the date of Vimy Ridge because the news came at a shelter meeting.

No doing long human interest stories today but keep many personal associates whom he does not know as has Winston Churchill. Millions have strung their lives on his for what seems a long time. Although he might be a vexing fellow at steady close range, this awesome, amusing, greateat man on earth has spiritual room-mates everywhere. Even on the bench of a second division club, he rates not so far behind some cosmicostic or a pedigreed poetry, though vaguely, with the new hay, a game of cards, the girl down the street or what's for dinner?—The Printed Page.

JUST FOLKS

BUSINESS MAN ONLY

He paid close attention to business. He stayed Long hours at his desk lest a buyer get in a mess.
He chose very carefully people
he trust;
Insisted on references, knowing
he must.
He kept a keen eye on whatever was done,
But seldom he asked who was training his son.

He knew through bad management money is lost;
That before there's a profit
there has to be cost.
He knew to keep track of each dollar and cent

And to prosper in business takes patience and time,
But this he forgot, till his fortune was won,
He had also the business of raising a son.

No chances he took with the money he'd made,
The idlers and wasters discovered were frpd.
He studied their characters,
families, too,
And even the church they attended he knew.
He was careful with money,
but gave up his son
To strangers, believing no harm would be done.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

There is a turtle type of person whom neither protest nor criticism can touch. Very often, these people actually look like turtles. They have the expressionless eye, the phlegmatic mien, the stolid movements of the turtle.

You will encounter them often in traffic. They are driving a car at the end of a line with the utmost stoginess. They drive slowly. They veer, wide in the turns, and never with a very slight veer would have done. Your modest tools to assert their right of way mean to make not the slightest impression, when they come to an intersection and the lights change, is to drive at speed long before they need to. They finally stop their car with a terrible jerk. It is only a turtle stops.

When the lights turn green, it takes them a moment to collect their wits and transmit the order to proceed, and then they drift reluctantly. Enraged, you blow the horn loud and furiously under their tail. With supreme indifference, they proceed in their own slow, slowly, jerkily. You attempt to pass them. You fail, due to their methodical progression and their wide overlap. At the next red light, you manage to run up alongside them. You turn and glare.

Not only do they ignore you, they are totally unaware of you. They are turtles.

You will find this turtle type in the most unlikely circumstances: aires, civic employees of the front counter level, civil servants of the lower rank. In a small bare desk outside the door of the man you want to see, you also amongst the newspaper city editors.

For the turtle has found a place in existence where he can beat out a basic role to play amongst us humans. It is against their solid shells, their tough hides, their thin cold blood and their shelled countenances that the hysterical element amongst us can beat our silly wings in vain. It would be a dithery world, in fact, without them.

GIVE AND TAKE IN LIFE

Have you ever watched a ferry going into dock? It bumps into the piling and the great piles that have been driven into the bottom of the harbor sway back and forth as pressure against them is exerted or relieved. It is the capacity of this piling to adapt itself to the situation by the force which makes satisfactory landing possible. A rigid piling would break the ferry to pieces. Yet there must be some firmness to hold the boat, else there could never be a landing.

The whole thing is indicative of what continutes desirable personality. People who are really attractive and get somewhere in life are people who know how to be firm and yet how to be sufficiently yielding to keep their friendships from breaking up. The person who is only firm is a hard and unpliant. The person who is only yielding is despised as a worm or a jellyfish. It takes a combination of firmness and yielding to create attractive personality.

Briefly stated, we have to be firm on principles and yielding on policies. If we adopt either firmness or yielding as a permanent policy, we never come into happy landings. Give and take make social relationships, but give and take are not be haphazard but according to a well-thought-out formula.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

MY FAVORITE JOLSON STORY

In Miami some winters ago, Al Jolson stopped in for a quick one at the bar of the hotel where he was staying, and as if on cue the juke box began playing his recording of "Sonny Boy." When the machine clicked off, a plain-tab-looking woman in the back row stood up and said, "Lend me a couple of nickels, Mac. I can't get enough of that song."

Jolson pushed a quarter down the bar. "The next five are on me," he said.

The woman looked over and her face lit up. "Why — you're Al Jolson!" she said.

"Sure," said Al, "and you knew it the minute I came in. What's the idea of the corny routine, sister?"

"I just had to talk to you," said the woman. "I've been sitting here all afternoon hoping you'd drop in."

"What's on your mind?" asked Al.

"My husband is in a jam," said the woman. "He's the desk clerk in this hotel and he was on duty the other night when you checked in and left a package with him to be put in the safe. Yesterday he heard about a sure thing at Hialeah and put a few thousand dollars out of your envelope and bet it on the horse he fancied. The horse thing came in fifth."

"Was your husband ever dipped into the safe before?" asked Jolson.

"Never," said the woman. "In fact, he never bet on a horse until yesterday and he's sick about it. He did it was because our son is getting out of high school next June and one of his pet hates set on sending him to college."

"And you thought that by playing 'Sonny Boy' you could softsoap me out of a thousand bucks?" said Al. "Well, I don't soft-soap that easy. Go and get your husband — you're both coming with me."

A few minutes later the couple were in a cab with Jolson, and it was all over but the fingerprinting, but instead of heading for the police station, the hackie drove out to the South Miami dog track. There Al led the husband to a pari-mutuel window and handed him five one - hundred - dollar bills.

"This makes fifteen hundred you owe me," he said. "Bet the five C's on No. 4 to win — I got a tip on him this morning."

No. 4 ran so fast it darn near caught up with the mechanical rabbit, and when the clerk cashed in his tickets he was handed $3,000 — the odds had been five-to-one.

"I'll take my fifteen hundred," said Al, "and let this be a lesson to you, sister. Don't bet on what you gotta bet, bet the dogs.

Al Pall, radio and TV broadcast in New York, Jolson was buttonholed by a young man as he was leaving the track.

"I don't suppose you remember," he said to Al, "but years ago you gave me my folk out to the Miami dog track and helped me with tickets. You gave me cards. That money made it possible for me to go to college."

"Sure, I remember," said Al, "and when you write your mom tell her she still owes me some dough."

"I never heard about it," said the young man. "What was it?"

"A quarter," said Jolson. "She was playing a juke box and ran out of change."

MacKenzie's Column: United Nations Relaxes Ban On Franco Spain

By DeWITT MACKENZIE

The action of the United Nations in relaxing its three-year-old ban on Franco Spain will be received with mixed emotions.

Proponents will welcome it as evidence of an increasingly liberal attitude under which the democracies have been playing ball with numerous dictatorships while keeping thumbs down on Spain to the bad lad of Europe.

Opponents can get solice from the fact that the U. N. action does not recall the ambassadors in question of the regime.

Moreover, while Spain will be allowed to join organizations affiliated with the U. S., Madrid cannot become a member of the parent organization. It will be recalled that the original resolution was adopted by the U. N. because the Franco government was deemed a Fascist creation which had come to power with the aid of Hitler and Mussolini.

Spain Isolated

As long ago as last January, State Secretary Dean Acheson announced that the United States was ready to support a move in the U. N. to lift the ban against Spain. He also said Washington was "quite prepared to consider" the establishment of credits to Spain covering specific and economically justifiable projects for which there was "a reasonable prospect of repayment."

It was understood at that there had been no basic change in the United States attitude but that the revised policy was based on "certain essential facts." These were in substance:

1. There was no sign of an alternative to the current government.

2. The internal position of the regime was strong and had the support of many who, although they might prefer a monarchy to a republic, are chief of state, feared that chaos and civil strife might follow any change in the government.

3. Spain is a part of Western Europe which should not be permanently isolated from normal relations with that area.

Wide approval

This American attitude was reflected in the wide approval among U. N. members. As a matter of fact, many of them had been pressing much attention to the ban on Spain, and the measure hadn't received much.

Moreover, the U. N. has come to recognize that the ban has been detrimental to U. N. projects in some ways, since it has prevented Spain from joining world organizations, which should be worldwide.

So at long last the U. N. has come around to the view that, all things considered, it is best to ease the ban on Spain. Of course there is vigorous opposition, especially by Russia and her satellites, who are fighting the change because Spain is anti-communist. But the "ayes" have it in the voting.

Letter to the Editor

Remembrance Day

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer,

May I make use of your newspaper to remind the citizens of Belleville and district that again we have a duty to perform in proper observance of "Remembrance Day."

In two world wars, from which we have emerged victorious, 100,000 Canadians have given their lives that we may remain free. One day in the year, in Canada, we are asked to wear a poppy to show they remember. This annual Poppy Day in the year, we are asked to pause but for a brief moment to honor our dead.

In our purchasing and wearing a poppy we not only pay our tribute to those heroes spiritually, but we also contribute to a fund which perpetuates projects that fight for freedom.

These poppies manufactured in Canada by disabled veterans only are distributed by the Canadian Legion. Your purchase of the poppies not only provides employment for sightless, limbless veterans, but they have also a supreme sacrifice. The funds raised locally are used locally for the welfare of ex-service men and their children. The profit from the sale of wreaths and poppies goes into the local Poppy Fund, which is administrated by a joint committee of the Canadian Legion, Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans; Canadian National War Veterans Association; Canadian RCAF Wing.

Therefore I make this appeal to every citizen, in Belleville and district: On Saturday, November 11th, purchase a poppy and wear it in commemoration. On November 11th, every veteran to parade with his comrades. Every club, school, business, and industry to parade as a group bearing their colors. And all those citizens not participating in the parade to be present at the cenotaph at 10:58 a.m.

Let us therefore, each and every one, gather on Remembrance Day to be present at the service to help keep alive the memory of the sacrifice made by our Glorious Dead in their terrible struggle to provide us with a life of freedom.

Max Matthews, Pres.,
Canadian Legion, Br. 90.

UNDIAGNOSED HEMORRHOIDS

About one-fourth of all the patients who eventually come under the care or observation of a real doctor for "piles" are found, on examination, not afflicted with piles at all. They have entirely different rectal condition which is not relieved or perhaps aggravated by the nostrums popularly used for "piles."

By a "real doctor" I mean a doctor who does not take the patient's word for it, but makes a proper examination to determine what ails the patient. Of course the examination includes inspection of the interior of the anal canal with headlamp and speculum. Only by such visual examination can any doctor find out whether the trouble is piles or something else.

Any doctor who strings a customer along with treatment for posterior or other nostrums purporting to be good for piles, without having determined first that the trouble is piles, is trading on the customer's credulity. On the other hand, a good many semi-invalids suffer more or less discomfort from the condition "sciatica," "stomach trouble" and subject themselves to all sorts of hard to watch medication and dieting for these complaints when in fact the source of all the trouble is unsuspected internal piles.

The patient may have internal piles which never bleed at all although the other symptoms of internal piles in most instances is bleeding. Usually I feel free when I'm up there, but em told me....(G.R.—Mike, or is St Mary, just likes to air his or her experiences. Forget your "high blood pressure" and live where you like.

At Last a Reader Reports

I wrote you about ten months ago that I was ill. I followed the advice in your booklet and so far have had no trouble. I know this is faster than you advise, but I feel more than I have for years and I really get enough to eat. (Mrs. C. M. V.)

Answer—That's the kind of a reader reporting results and not asking for anything! Mrs. Grundy will say a bit too much to lose, as a rule. For the booklet Rules for Health send self-addressed envelope and inclose 25c in coin.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

GREAT COMPANIONS

We have the blessed privilege of creating our own companions. I glance at the rows of books in my library and feel the friendliness of each one, as I recall the pleasure and profit I have gained from them all, at one time or another. The authors are my friends, have been illuminated anew to me as I have gloried in their written books.

And looking out upon the cluster of friends in my home, there, too, I see my friends, the great companions of every day. Reading of the writings of Richard Le Gallienne at breakfast I noted the sentiment: "Let us not look at ourselves but onwards, onwards to the ideal life of man, and take strength from the sight of the rising of the sun in the east. Let us labor to make the heart grow larger as we become older, as the spreading branches make shelter."

The dog has been well named "man's best friend." Why is that? Because of his silent understanding, his loyalty, and his endless devotion under all circumstances. A great companion is this dumb creature, loved by writers and children, in fact by everyone. Outstanding and inspiring are the instances of devotion and sacrifice by this trusty animal.

We all have our favorite companions among our human kind—a selected few through the years of a lifetime, but the list is always open to those under every circumstance of life. Ilbelieve I can say that the greatest human enjoyment are those who can number no friends among their acquaintance. A friend, you see, is something special, not merely someone you have met or come to know casually. A friend is an intimate companion to the mind, though often unseen.

And I value not upon the cluster of friends in my home, there, too, I see my friends, the great companions of every day. Reading of the writings of Richard Le Gallienne at breakfast I noted the sentiment: "Let us not look at ourselves but onwards, onwards to the ideal life of man, and take strength from the sight of the rising of the sun in the east. Let us labor to make the heart grow larger as we become older, as the spreading branches make shelter."

The dog has been well named "man's best friend." Why is that? Because of his silent understanding, his loyalty, and his endless devotion under all circumstances. A great companion is this dumb creature, loved by writers and children, in fact by everyone. Outstanding and inspiring are the instances of devotion and sacrifice by this trusty animal.

Grand International Auxiliary Holds Annual Tea, Bazaar

Yesterday afternoon the annual bazaar and afternoon tea of the Grand International Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen was held in the IOOF assembly room, Front Street, where the reception committee, Mrs. A. Clarke, the president, and Mrs. R. Orne, welcomed the many guests who thronged about the spacious room, with its attractive booths.

After passing the customs officers, Mrs. W. Taylor and Mrs. H. Drury, who were seated immediately inside the lower door, one was then free to roam at will, and select whatever the heart longed for, which was soon satisfied, for on the first booth with its rainbow of scintillating flowers and fringed valance of scarlet and yellow, were many fine articles. These consisted of exquisite web-like lacey doilies; embroidered pillow slips both with clusters of flowers, and embroidered "Ifs" and "Hers"; an ecru crocheted apron with border of pink edged with a narrow band of green; a lovely little gift, quite out of the ordinary. Then there were tiny pot-holders knit in shades of grey, red and wine, and green; bottle ends in finely worked linen; chesterfield sets in crochet centrepieces; dainty handkerchiefs with crocheted edge, and beautiful wine-colored tufted cushion which would be drawn by a lucky winner. This booth was convened by Mrs. R. Sargent, and her co-convenors, Mrs. M. Boyd, assisted by Mrs. J. Elliott, Mrs. Signaisse, and Mrs. H. Leavitt.

Dream Bassinette

At the novelty booth with its skirt of yellow, and green fringe were little dresses for dolls; note paper with floral motifs for the people; cuddley toys; hot mats crocheted in daisy shape in white and delph blue; tea pot stand in green and white; dainty bathroom slippers made from figured oilcloth with padded soles; coffee and tea cosies, and at the left corner, a dream of a doll's bassinette in pink and white, with sheep, dotted muslin frill, edged with pink satin ribbon, and peeping over the side was a tiny doll. This little piece was to be drawn for. One can just see the delighted little girl who gets this as a gift for Christmas. Mrs. W. Callaghan, with her co-convener, Mrs. W. Graham, assisted by Mrs. W. Fairbairn were in charge here.

Three-Tiered Christmas Cake

Passing around the room, the next booth was of the Homecooking, and as always surrounded by a bevy of eager buyers. At one corner sat a three-tiered christmas cake, in pale yellow with pink trimmings; and in order were the pies, cakes date loaves; chocolate iced cakes, one loaf cake was delicious looking with its soft, white icing; then there were tempting bran muffins; daisy topped little petit fours, centred with raspberries; ruby red apple jelly; balls of chocolate-coated popcorn; tiny tea biscuits, Chinese chews and delectable potato salad whose very aroma induced pangs of hunger. All in all, a tempting booth of dainty foods. Over this array presided the convener, Mrs. H. Brown assisted by the co-convenor, Mrs. J. Gray and committee, Mrs. A. Buck, and Mrs. J. Fisher.

At the children's booth with its criss-cross bands of pink and blue and its long balloons, were little clothes hangers for tiny garments; pink and white bootees; bonnets; mitts, pyjamas, embroidered bibs, warm, woolly slippers made in the fashion of little bunnies. Standing in the centre, was a brown and white Fox terrier with pink eyes, silkily barking at every passerby; a superb little dog, exhibiting a child-like personality. As an added attraction to this booth, was an Ayers pink blanket edged with wide satin binding, and guarded by the crescent and star insignia of the G.I.A. with the mystic letters P.B.H.W. Mrs. N. Boyd and Mrs. E. Pigden were the conveners, assisted by Mrs. G. McGee, Mrs. H. Bateman, Mrs. E. Kerr, with G. Wilson and Mrs. J. McIntyre.

Colorful Grocery Baskets

On to long, low table reposed the colorful grocery baskets containing jello, soap, canned goods, sugar, tea, and many other items. These were in charge of Mrs. B. Robinson and her co-convener, Mrs. W. R. Wensley, and would be given to the holders of the lucky tickets.

The next booth with its array of lovely aprons was doing a fine business, and the pretty aprons were soon becoming less and less in number. There were aprons with blue backgrounds with roses rambling over them; lovely pale organdy ones with blue embroidery borders with matching pockets; aprons made from Terry towels, and pink aprons and others made from unbleached cotton with colorful edges. In charge here were the conveners Mrs. K. Bunnett and Mrs. W. Hammett, assisted by Mrs. C. Hensley and Mrs. D. Fisher.

Lovely Tea Table

Upstairs was the tea room, its entrance marked by two pedestals surmounted by pumpkins filled with grapes, apples, oranges and bananas, a vivid reminder of the recent Hallowe'en; while in the tea room were the little quartet tables, each with its white linen cloth, solitary candle, either in yellow or black as the case might be, a lingering bit of the sight of witches and goblins, and the long, lovely tea table, gleaming with its silver service its tall tri-branched candelabra holding two yellow candles and one black one. And in the centre, the silver bowl filled with beautiful bronze - gold mums.

Presiding were: Mrs. J. Reid; Mrs. W. Smith, vice-president of the L.A. to the B. of R.T.; Mrs. J. Elliott, Mrs. Fairbairn, president of the L.A.B.F.; Mrs. R. Johnston president of the CNRAA; Mrs. R. Wensley; Mrs. J. Barlow; Mrs. D. Fisher and Mrs. J. Elliott. Those serving Mrs. C. Fisher, Mrs. M. Petty, Mrs. S. Maxwell, Mrs. F. Farson, Mrs. A. Stiles, Mrs. D. Van Stone, Mrs. L. Quirt; while those replenishing plates, preparing lunch and tea were: Mrs. H. Batchelor, Mrs. N. Cathers, Mrs. W. Muir, Mrs. P. Welch and Mrs. J. Cunningham.

The treasurers for the tea were Mrs. F. Grant and Mrs. L. Wood. The conveners for the tea room were Mrs. P. E. Kerr, and the co-convener, Mrs. J. Jerome. The treasurer for the bazaar, Mrs. R. Brown, and the tea and bazaar convener and co-conveners were: Mrs. W. A. Morgan, Mrs. R. Muirhead, Mrs. A. Clarke.

A dainty tea, and attractive bazaar, nicely convened, and a credit to all who assisted in making it so.

TWO ARRESTED

Toronto, Nov. 3 — (CP) —Two youths today were charged with armed robbery following the holdup of a west-end grocery store last night.

Police arrested Manuel John Cleveland, 18, and an unidentified juvenile in a downtown parking lot after one of the youths pulled a gun on an attendant. They said Cleveland had a 32-calibre revolver when arrested.

The pair were nabbed less than two hours after two youths held up Sam Picbolo and robbed his store of $10.

POINT ANNE

Fifty Friends Present Bride, Bridegroom With Many Gifts

Last Wednesday evening, a shower was held at the parish hall, Point Anne, in honor of the recent bride and bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Bradshaw, nee Eva Gilmour, when about 50 friends from the Islington Road community, were present.

The evening was spent in cards and an enjoyable get-together, after which the bride and bridegroom were given seats on the platform, and following the reading of an address by Mrs. J. Simmons, Mr. William Reed made the presentation of a collection of lovely gifts. Both Eva and Maurice expressed their thanks most graciously for the kind wishes extended to them as well as for the gifts received.

Refreshments were served later by the ladies, after which all joined in wishing them much happiness in their life together.

BURR'S

Hallowe'en Social Proves Successful

Burr's—The Hallowe'en social was held on Tuesday at Allisonville Hall. Many masqueraders provided much merriment, those in costume were asked to march to piano music supplied by Mrs. Will Soble while the judges, Mrs. A. Poulter, Mrs. A. Fox and Mr. C. McFaul chose the prize winners.

Among those selected were, Mrs. Val Squire, Mr. Arnold Foster, Miss C. Tait, Mrs. Murney Parks, Mrs. F. Osterhout, Martje Kooger, Carole Hough, Wayne Soble, Lois Squire, Ronald Hough, Philip Edwards, Peter Diggins and others.

Seasonal Program

Miss C. Tait and pupils favored with a seasonal program of song and verse.

A pianol port table proved popular, netting over $9.

Refreshments and a social time brought a mirthful evening to a happy ending.

Rev. A. Poulter presided over the gathering. A collection of $17 was taken.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. Robert Bird, of Eldorado, is a patient in the Bellleville General Hospital.

WEDDINGS

ARMSTRONG—DILLON

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized in Holloway Street United Church on Friday, Oct. 27, by the Rev. Sidney E. Larman, pastor of the church, when Joan Mae, daughter of Mrs. William A. Dillon and the late Mr. Dillon, became the bride of Douglas William Armstrong, of Bancroft, son of Mrs. Douglas Armstrong and the late Mr. Armstrong.

The bride was becomingly gowned in a wine ensemble with blue accessories, and corsage of blue carnations. She was attended by Mrs. Arthur M. Hewitt, sister of the bride.

Mr. Arthur Hewitt, of Bancroft, attended the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, a reception for the immediate families was held at Golden Acres Inn, Kingston Road.

Out-of-town guests included, Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Dillon, Missray Dillon, of Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Walton, of Brantford.

Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong will reside in Sault Ste. Marie.

STAPLEY—REILLY

Beneath an arch of evergreen boughs, entwined with white heath, by potted 'mums in colors of pink, scarlet and wine, and interspersed with tall tapers, the autumn wedding was solemnized in the Presbyterian Church, Belleville, on Saturday, Oct. 21, at 1 p.m. when the Rev. John L. Abbott, pastor of the First United Pentecostal Church, Toronto, united in marriage Miss Ethel Irving Ceremony, Myrtle Esther, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Reilly, Bath, and the late Mr. William Donald Stapley, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Jason Stapley, Canniton Road, Thurlow township.

Mrs. Arnold Reilly provided the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. John L. Abbott, of Toronto, who sang, before the ceremony, "The Wedding Prayer", and "Because", during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her bridal gown of heavy, white satin fashioned on princess lines flowing into a long train. The sleeves were long and tight-fitting, ending in lily points over the hands. Her full length veil of silk tulle illusion was caught by a halo hat encrusted with seed pearls and orange blossoms. She wore a single strand of pearls and carried a crescent bouquet of yellow roses and white 'mums.

Mrs. Garnet Lindsay, of Belleville, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, becomingly attired in lime green taffeta, featuring a fitted bodice buttoned up the front and full skirt of matching net over taffeta. She wore a beret-heart headdress, matching mittens, and carried a shower bouquet of yellow and rust 'mums tied with lime green tulle.

Mrs. Douglas Handcock, of Belleville, cousin of the bridegroom, was senior bridesmaid, wearing a gown of pink taffeta with sweetheart neckline and flared net overskirt. She wore double strang of pearls, picture hat and matching gloves and carried a shower bouquet of yellow and scarlet mums tied with blue satin ribbon.

Miss Eunice Reilly, of Belleville, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid, gowned in ice blue taffeta with sweetheart neckline and fitted bodice, accordion pleated skirt with over peplum. She wore matching, sweetheart picture hat and gloves similar to those of the matron of honor, with a double strand of pearls, and carried a shower bouquet of wine and yellow colored 'mums.

Miss Gale Stapley, and Miss Margaret Rose Lott, both of Belleville, cousin of the bridegroom and the bride, respectively, were flower girls. The former was gowned in mauve taffeta, and the latter in pale yellow, in frocks of similar design. Both wore matching picture hats and gloves, and carried Colonial nosegays of 'mums.

Mr. Morley Akey, of Point Anne, cousin of the bridegroom was groomsman, and the ushers were, Mr. Donald Reilly, of Frankford, cousin of the bride, and Mr. Denzal Akey, of Point Anne, cousin of the bridegroom.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Lott. The bride's mother becomingly gowned in navy blue with black accessories and corsage of red roses, (who because of illness was unable to receive), was assisted by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Lott, wearing grey with navy accessories and corsage of red roses and the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in grey with wine accessories, and corsage of red and yellow roses, received the guests.

A three-tier wedding cake topped with white and pink baby 'mums, and baby's breath, centred the bride's table, flanked with white cathedral tapers in silver holders.

Following the reception, the young couple left by motor for Toronto and Niagara Falls, the bride travelling in a pink tailleur, gown with navy topcoat, navy accessories, and corsage of red and yellow roses. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Stapley will reside in Belleville.

Guests were present from Bancroft, Port Hope, Weston, Wellington, Frankford, Toronto, and also the principal of the Bible School the young couple had attended during the past fall and winter, the Rev. Samuel Sleeves and Mrs. Sleeves, June and Donald, from New Castle Bridge, N.B.

BARTON—CLARKE

Pink and white 'mums and evergreens made a lovely setting, on Wednesday, Nov. 1st., at 2:00 p.m., at United Church, Campbellford, when Marilyn Lorraine Clarke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Clarke, became the bride of Murray Donald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Barton, of Havelock, Ont. The Rev. D. Mansell Smith was the officiating clergyman.

Mr. Charles A. Howey provided the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her bridal gown of white slipper satin with floor length veil of tulle. She carried a cascade of American Beauty roses.

Miss Everett Mcdonald, aunt of the bride, was matron of honor, wearing a gown of yellow nylon net over taffeta with matching headdress and gloves. She carried mauve and white 'mums.

Miss Helen Owens, of Belleville, cousin of the bride, was senior bridesmaid, wearing a floor length gown of pink nylon net over taffeta, with matching headdress and mitts. She carried a bouquet of variegated 'mums.

Miss Barbara Clarke, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid, gowned in blue taffeta with matching headdress and gloves, also carrying variegated 'mums.

Mr. Edward Barker, of Havelock, was groomsman and the ushers were Everett Mcdonald, of Campbellford, and Randall Anderson, of Havelock.

The bride's gift to her matron of honor was a sunburst necklace; to her senior bridesmaid, also a sunburst necklace and to her junior bridesmaid, a gold bracelet.

The groom's gift to his groomsman and ushers were gold tie clips.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where her mother received in a becoming gown of navy blue tissue faille with grey accessories, wearing a corsage of pink rosebuds. She was assisted by the groom's mother, attired in blue jersey, wearing a corsage of pink rosebuds.

Mrs. Otto Sargisnon, Mrs. Charles Southworth and Miss Thelma Owens, all aunts of the bride, served a dainty repast to about sixty guests, coming from Toronto, Havelock, Belleville and Campbellford.

For travelling to Niagara Falls and points south, the bride chose a skipper blue suit with black topcoat and accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Barton will reside at Havelock, Ont.

Harmony Studio Club Holds Meeting

HARMONY STUDIO

The monthly meeting of the Harmony Studio Club was held on Monday night at the home of Mrs. Veley, with 18 members and several visitors present. Owing to the illness of the president, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Veley presided. It was decided to hold the following meetings on the last Wednesday of each month.

During the evening the members were favored by piano selections by some of the junior pupils. Beverly Hardwick played "Trumpets" and "Lullaby", Shirley Becker—"The Little Song" and "Sonatina", Marilyn Brickman—"Happy Farmer" and "Fir Tree".

Lois Bradshaw gave a brief account on the life of many famous composers, followed by a selection by Joan Chumbley—"Little Minuet", and one by Louise Harris—"Prelude," also "Sonatina In F" by Mary Catherine Clare.

A musical evening was brought to a close with "Dance Caprice" and duet rendered by one of the members, Bob Reid.

A game was enjoyed by everyone. Refreshments were served.

ST. ANDREW'S W. G.

The regular monthly meeting of St. Andrew's Women's Guild was held on Tuesday evening in the Sunday school hall. In the absence of the president, Mrs. W. Taylor took charge of the meeting which was opened with a devotional period.

Following this several items of business were discussed and the usual reports accepted.

The program was in charge of Mrs. W. N. Ponton's group. Mrs. J. G. Hornsby gave a very picturesque account of a recent motor tour through Quebec and New Brunswick. This proved very interesting as Mrs. Hornsby explicitly described the beauty of scenery of eastern Canada.

On behalf of the Guild, Mrs. J. W. Kinnear thanked Mrs. Hornsby for her delightful talk.

Refreshments served by Mrs. Burrows and group brought the meeting to a close.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

He's super-sensitive about his divorce

DEAR 30, a heart-broken, disconsolate female feels that life's over for him. The girl he married when he was 23 was only 16 years old at the time, and he feels that the reason their marriage broke up was because "she was still a child and I was too settled in my ways."

Now, divorced and disillusioned, he says: "I don't think anyone has ever been as lonely as I am, or has lost interest in life as I have." A veteran of the last war, he came home wounded and in bad nervous condition, none of which was helped by his marital troubles. Besides this, he is super-sensitive about his divorce, and has sold himself the idea that when a girl finds out he is divorced, it is all over between them.

But don't know what to do about it. Naturally, this is true. "Life is empty and so lonely I just don't care what happens to me. Really, I think I have one of the worst things mankind suffers from. And why must people who are divorced be treated as though it was all their fault? It may strange to you, but when I was married, I loved to work, for I had a family that counted on me and depended on me for support. Now that I have no one but myself to look out for, it gives me no sense of responsibility."

The most encouraging thing about this man's attitude is that he realizes that he is too conscious to work for acts as a balance-wheel for a person. It stedies him to know that others depend on him. So, in spite of all his loneliness and depression, there is something still within him that will serve as a foundation on which to rebuild his life, if he can only see it that way. If he can, he becomes wholly irresponsible person of his divorce, he would have a different story.

It think he is quite mistaken in his feeling that his divorce makes him undesirable in the eyes of women. On the contrary, almost any unattached man in his age group, whether he is bachelor, widower or divorced, can, if he goes about it the right way, have a wide circle of friends and a very good time indeed.

The trouble with this man, of course, is that he has lost his self-confidence. What he should do is to forget himself, or himself in a derogatory way, and keep reminding himself of what I have just said—that unattached men are actually in great demand. He should create opportunities for meeting people, such as joining clubs, meeting out at church with planned activities for young people, and finding a hobby groups where he can take up something into which he can put his energy and his interest. He lives in a large city where there are many such opportunities. If he doesn't know how to find them he should go to a Y.M.C.A. secretary and ask how to locate them. He should approach the minister or some other official of a church, and ask what social program the church has in which he could take part. He might try out several different churches along these lines until he finds one that meets his needs in this respect.

It will take initiative and determination for him to work out his problem. But if he is willing to make a start, I am quite sure he will soon find life opening up for him in a happier way than he ever dreamed possible.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

Questions about college introductions

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a freshman at college, and next month my mother and father are coming here to visit me for the weekend. I'm uncertain about several forms of introduction. Will you please help me?

1. How should I introduce my mother to a man professor?

2. How should I introduce my father to a woman professor?

3. How should I introduce a classmate (or other college friend) to my parents?

Patricia M.

1. First, Patricia, let's correct the wording of your first question . . . you should introduce the man professor to your mother. There is a double rule about this: (a) a man is introduced to a woman, and (b) everyone is introduced to your mother. Say, for example, "Mother, this is Professor Robbins—my mother, Mrs. Martin. (I suggest in this case you add your mother's name, since the professor may not at once recall your surname.) This same form is proper when you introduce a woman professor to your mother. Avoid using the form "This is," you being in your introduction, say, "may I present" or "may I introduce"

2. When you introduce your father to a woman professor, mention her name first, saying "Professor Seymour, may I introduce my father, Mr. Martin" (Your father's name is mentioned for the same reason of name-identification to the professor.)

3. "Mother, this is Mary Hall, a classmate of mine who lives in my house" . . . or "Miss Forbes is my father, (or 'may I present my father')."

(You will, of course, use the title customarily used by and for the professor . . . "Professor," or "Dr." or "Mr." or "Miss.")

Type of tie to be worn by bride's father

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am the father of the bride, and am to give my daughter in marriage at the wedding at 3:30 in the afternoon. Please tell me what color tie to wear.

J. P. C.

Since you are to give your daughter in marriage, you are part of the wedding party, and so you should wear the same type of tie and the same color tie as those worn by the other men in the wedding party. As a matter of fact, the groom usually supplies the ties for the men in the wedding party, so that there will be the much-to-be-desired uniformity. If the men in the wedding party are to wear formal day-time attire, the ties the groom selects will probably be four-in-hand ties, probably with dark background, and with narrow white or gray stripes or figured white or gray small dots or figures. If the men in the wedding party are wearing dark-blue business suits, the same type of tie is also appropriate, or the same kind usually worn with a business suit.

Postponed Housewarming

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We have lived in our new home for nearly a year, but, due to circumstances, we were unable to have a housewarming. Would it be proper to have it at such a late date?

B. F. J.

Yes, indeed, this would be entirely proper! Your relatives and friends, those to be invited to the housewarming, will naturally understand the reason for the postponement, and will be delighted that you and your husband are now able to plan this festive occasion to welcome your relatives and friends to your new house and to "show them through."

Greet your hostess first

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been invited to large reception to be given by a friend of mine in honor of a friend of hers whom I know only slightly. When I arrive should I greet my friend, the hostess, first, or the guest of honor first?

Myra L.

It is extremely important that you first greet your hostess. . . she will probably be standing first in the line anyway . . . and then the guest of honor.

TELEVISE OPERATIONS

Toronto, Nov. 2 (CP)—The new Hospital for Sick Children here will be the first in Canada to televise operations regularly. Television screens in three rooms will enable 750 persons to watch an operation performed in a different part of the hospital.

Lovely Looking in Record Time

If you have to get ready for a hurry-up date, a bath is a fine pep-per-upper. Cream face while in the tub and the moist air will bring color to your cheeks.

By HELEN FOLLETT

THERE comes a time, now and then, in the life of every young woman when she must look her best at short notice. You may have had a hurried day, things going wrong, small irritations arising. You gaze into the mirror with horror at your erstwhile presentable self looking all pulled out. Then you get a telephone call. Friends are passing through town. Won't you have dinner with them? Maybe have fun afterwards, go to the theatre or dancing. You had intended to go to bed early.

You look just so much time. Will you put a cold compress over your weary eyes and relax, or will you have a hot bath? Choose the bath that is restful at first, taking the stress out of your bones, and stimulating afterwards.

Cream your face when you're in the tub. Oil and moist air will bring coloring to wan cheeks. You will be surprised at the fresh transparent appearance of your skin. Dull eyes will come to life and sparkle. Know why? Because of the stimulation of sluggish circulation. Fatigue slows up the body processes. Your warm bath has caused the blood streams to pick up arm march.

A Rub Down

A rub down with a coarse towel should follow, then a brisk friction with eau de cologne, bath water or a fragrant bath tonic to make you smell sweet all the evening long.

Remove the cream from your face, apply an astringent with pads of absorbent cotton, apply a foundation cosmetic to you won't have to patching up a synthetic complexion during the social festivities. Powder and directions carefully. Many women never read directions on cosmetics, so do not get the full benefit of them.

Apply powder lightly, add more if necessary, then get a smooth even film by using the powder brush, the little item that should be included in every girl's beauty equipment.

BEAUTY

To dye or not to dye

"Strange", said the beauty operator, "are the different reactions of women when they see the first white hairs in their heads. Some go into a panic. This happens especially to wives whose husbands look younger than their years; they don't want to be taken for their boy's mama. Others think nothing of this change in appearance. They know that white hair is fashionable, that premature greyness doesn't really mean much, if the complexion remains fresh, youthful and blooming.

"They come in here for consultation and advice—those who would resort to dyeing. If they once make up their minds that they will not tolerate mousy tresses, you can't talk them out of it. The charge for these treatments is considerable, and well should be, as only an expert can make a thoroughly satisfactory job of it. The customer usually insists that the new color should be the color of her original locks, which is usually the color at the ends of the shafts, always lighter than the growth close to the scalp.

The customer usually wants her locks dyed to their original shade

"That would be a mistake. The correct shade is about six inches from the scalp. Of course she does not stop to think that, as the color of her hair has changed, so has the tone of her complexion. Nearly always the complexion darkens somewhat with the years.

"While it may be possible for a woman to touch up a few grey hairs here and there, it is next to impossible for her to change the color of the entire growth especially if the grey-and-all kind. That requires the skill of the specialist, if the color is to be uniform. Timing is important. Selecting the right mediums for dyeing calls for a bit of thinking.

"Since the platinum frenzy some years ago, less bleaching has been going on. The golden-headed girl is deeply distressed when her hair goes dark at the roots. It first changes to a copper or drab tint, as time goes on it may become a light brown.

"In many cases the one-time towhead will endeavor to do a little touching up with peroxide. She is pouring trouble on her head, as she will eventually realize. The bleaching can be accomplished competently and satisfactorily by one who understands chemicals and their effects.

"The first treatment does not end the project. The new growth that appears must be touched up, and one application must not overlap the old one, lest the shafts become lutelike and break."

Fashion Flashes

SENSIBLE, that's what it is, this adding a matching skirt to the fur-lined, fur-trimmed coats. Navy blue broadcloth is lined and collared in matching American broadtail for a handsome topper that comes with its matching skirt.

AMID ALL THE COLOR in hats, the white hat is a handsome standout. White panne velvet for a small, rounded beret, outlined with pearls, and a spray of simulated white algrettes at the side.

ENCHANTING with a seed-pearl bandeau for the brow is a stocking decorated with "clocks" of seed pearls. Another pair of hose has fine seed pearl flowers at the instep.

AN IDEAL choice for the busy woman who likes to be well-dressed on a sensible outlay is the well-handled dress with its own jacket. Navy, black, brown or purple for a one-piece dress, the bodice of silk crepe dyed to tone with the wool and the matching, fitted jacket. Dress has cartridge pleat detail at the shoulder, the theme being repeated on the jacket pockets.

WATCH OUT for the tunic, for it seems that it is on its way in, both in suits and dresses. It started in this season's Paris collections. Seven-wedding gown for a slim, fitted coat that is part of a suit of navy cheviot. Jacket has long collar lining over the bust and curved tier pockets.

THE WHISPER that you'll hear at many a gathering this Fall is likely to be of taffeta, for this fabric is first for afternoon dresses. Parchment beige silk taffeta for a handsome dress with an upflung frame collar, long tight sleeves and much skirt fullness in back.

A SALUTE to Schiaparelli for a new and clever neckline. On dresses of taffeta, the neckline buttons from the shoulder line high to the back. When pressed, the neckline is unbuttoned at the side to fall in two points towards the opposite shoulder.

WILL TAKE EXAMS

Melbourne, Australia, Nov. 3—(Reuters)—Jack Edward Laurie Scott, 17, for 10 years a prisoner in an iron lung, plans to take his matriculation examinations in five subjects this year. He will write with a pencil held between his teeth.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking?

Potato chips may seem like a sack of nothing, but the annual output in the last 14 years has risen from 45 million pounds to 300 million pounds.

When you eat potato chips, you are also eating the fat used to make them. Each ten pounds of potatoes made into chips absorbs about one pound of fat.

The art in chipping potatoes is to make a product which is crisp but not greasy to the touch. The variety of potatoes, maturity, age, as well as kind and temperature of fat are so variable that the job is best left to professional potato chippers rather than the housewife.

Sweet potato chips never became popular. The English fish and chips are fish and French fried potatoes. When you see Saratoga potatoes listed on a menu the chef is merely using another name for potato chips.

Potato chips are a time saver and an excellent team mate with fish or seafood. They should be warmed slightly in the oven, and served in a napkin-lined bowl from which all the members of the family can help themselves by hand.

Serve warm potato chips with breaded fried filet of flounder and a cold tangy egg sauce.

Fried Filet of Flounder, Egg Sauce—Serves 4.

1 1-4 lbs. filet of flounder
2 tablespoons salt
1-2 cup flour
1-4 cup catsup
1 slightly beaten egg
1 cup sifted bread crumbs
Vegetable fat or lard
1 cup mayonnaise
1 chopped hard-boiled egg
2 tablespoons cream
1 teaspoon vinegar
1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley

Place flounder in a mixing bowl with 1 cup cold water in which salt has been dissolved. Soak flounder 3 minutes. Remove. Drain. Wipe dry. Dip filets in flour.

Combine slightly beaten egg and catsup.

Dip filets in catsup mixture. Dip filets in bread crumbs

Heat a little of deep fat until fat thermometer registers 375 degrees or until fat is hot enough to brown a 1-inch cube of bread in 60 seconds.

Fry filets until brown on both sides, 4 to 6 minutes. Drain on absorbent paper.

Make a cold sauce by combining mayonnaise, egg, cream, vinegar and chopped parsley. Pass dressing at table.

Legion Auxiliary Sponsors Dance

The Ladies' Auxiliary Canadian Legion were the sponsors of a Hallowe'en dance at the Saco Club rooms Tuesday night, the hall was suitably decorated for the occasion. A large crowd was in attendance. George Gullliver entertained with his accordion and C. Thorn, and pianist supplied music for dancing. Refreshments were served by the ladies. Mr. Hans Amyot was master of ceremonies for the evening. Winner of the door prize was Mrs. D. Bradford. Costume prizes were won by Miss Rose Prindle, Lianora Beattie, Mrs. C. Haley, Mrs. Bob Copeland.

A prize was donated for the oldest couple in the hall, Mr. and Mrs. Colleton being the lucky winners, Mrs. Randle was the winner of a lovely cake.

Says Europe Holds No Hope For Young People

Toronto, Nov. 3—(CP)—Europe holds no future for young people, Mrs. J. E. Houck of Brampton told the 48th convention of the Central Ontario Area Women's Institutes today.

Mrs. Houck and 25 other Canadians recently made a seven-week tour of Europe following the International convention of the associated countrywomen of the world in Copenhagen. Reporting on her tour, she said:

"There is no opportunity for a young man to get ahead in Europe. Over there, to be a waiter is a career. If you are born into a certain status of life you stay there."

BUT WHAT DOES THE CHICKEN THINK?

Technicians Rosemary Peplinski, left, and Olive Newton of the University of California, Los Angeles, medical school, are studying one of the three-winged chickens used in skin graft studies here. The third wing, transplanted from another chick from egg to egg before birth, is attached to the chicken's breast. Researchers are trying to determine why a chicken wing can be transplanted before birth, but not after birth. The answer may be a big help in the progress of surgery. Chicks involved in the experiments grow up to be healthy hens and roosters, except that half of them have three wings and the other half only one. — Central Press Canadian.

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

PLEASANT CHAINS

Today I went to write something a little sentimental about my wife and about wives as a tribe. I never appreciated what a fran goss through until that fateful day when we made the decision to hit the open road in this outsize packing case. That's when my education began.

You know, certain blunt friends of ours, learning of the plans for this trailer tour, were of the flat opinion that it would end in divorces, at the best, headaches at the worst.

They pointed out all the obvious dangers. No escape from each other or from the kids. We'd have to rely exclusively on each other's company. We'd go bugs in a 20-foot box with two energetic children. And so on. You will end up barking at each other like chained dogs," one predicted.

Well, we've had a few angry yaps, at that. But on the whole I'd recommend a trailer trip for any ailing marriage and for a number of reasons.

For one thing, it's life in which literally everything is shared, the good times with the bad.

It seems to me that one of the great causes for unrest in most marriages is that the partners never really understand what the other half contributes. Few wives have any real understanding of the strain that goes with most jobs in these worrisome times, never really appreciate the wear and tear on the nerve centres of their breadwinners. And nine out of ten husbands are pathetically ignorant of the energy and devotion it takes to keep a home running, whether it's a mansion or a two-room job on a back lot.

Being chained together, in effect, is a drastic solution, but it does produce a new respect for teamwork and for what each of the parties involved contributes to a marriage.

My wife and I agree, and find it curious, that we never felt so close in the sheltered, snug backwaters of the suburbs as we have in hopping from one town to the next, from one minor crisis to another.

The Challenge

I said I wanted my tribute to be to wives in general because I'm convinced that most wives would react to this cockeyed, roaming life as she has. In the first place, being a gypsy just doesn't come naturally to most women and it hasn't come naturally to her.

For me, the trip was like a gold-engraved invitation to make like a beachcomber, as it would be for most men. My razor comes out reluctantly only when some social occasion demands it (and there are mighty few of them when you get beyond the orbit of your home town), a grease-stained sweat shirt, an old pair of flannels and sneakers are my uniform for weeks on end. I revel in the joy of letting myself go to pieces sartorially.

But with a wife—with my wife this sort of life is not an invitation but a challenge. She wages a constant, determined war against dirt and dust, struggles endlessly to keep the kids looking their best. The whole instinct is that of the mother wren, to keep the nest spic and span.

Wherever we've stopped in the trailer camps I've seen women at this kind of thing, holding homes together by sheer hard work. There are exceptions, it's true, but most women don't give in.

We've seen some of these caravans, broken down and crammed with children, and you'd think a woman would just say the heck with it and give up. But it seems that the worse the conditions, the more determined women get to fight for respectability and cleanliness. It's a trait that's altogether feminine and altogether wonderful.

When I think of the couples I know who have broken up or are breaking up, folks who have everything for comfortable living, and then compare them with some of these trailer - dwellers who are making happy marriages out of the grimmest conditions, I wonder if maybe the best tonic for a happy marriage isn't adversity.

Give those failing partnerships a little shot of mutual misery and they might heal pretty rapidly.

Never. Still.

Since we've been closested this way for nigh on to six months now, I've had a more or less constant box seat at that long run performance known as Woman's Work Is Never Done. It's something every young husband ought to know.

A housewife is like a squirrel on one of those circular cages. There's just no end. In a trailer you get a kind of digest version of this ceaseless work, the beds, the meals, the dishes after meals, the cleaning and dusting and washing and polishing, more meals and dishes, the children to be washed and fed and so on and so on, like getting down on my knees and offering thanks that I was created one of these and not one of these.

The performance with the kids, too, is something to exhaust you. The husbands who get our children in small and usually pleasant episodes never know what it takes in psychology, energy, patience and downright selfishness to live with the lot around the clock.

In short, I just had never realized before what a truly remarkable creature I got for a five-dollar wedding ring and a promise. When we get back to civilization I am sure going to be good to her. Why don't you be good to yours?

Workers Doff Caps, Say Shaw 'Was a Good Man'

Ayott St. Lawrence, England, Nov. 2 (Reuters)—Farm laborers on their way to work early today were the first of this sleepy village's population of 90 to know of George Bernard Shaw's death.

They halted at the gates for a moment and with doffed caps gazed at the message there. About his genius some had little knowledge, for many of the Ayott people had never read his works or seen his plays.

"He was a good man," the farm workers murmured.

Then they rode on to their fields.

The 65-year-old village postmistress — Mrs. Isobella Lyth —recalled why the playwright decided to live in this village, seven miles from the nearest town, and lacking a single store.

Looking for a new house, Shaw read a tombstone inscription in the local churchyard, saying of a woman of 80: "Her life was short."

He decided this was the place for him.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON OF THE WEEK.

We Have Our Choice

By ROY L. SMITH

It is a basic principle of history that any people can expect to rule themselves or be ruled by some other people.

It is a mistaken belief of many that the strong are destined to rule the weak. That, however, is not true. It has happened again and again that the weak have ruled the strong, because they had learned to discipline themselves.

It is one of the remarkable facts of history that a people accustomed to living together on an island have become a great world power. This is notably true in the case of the English and the Japanese. Compelled to build their life and culture inside narrow limits they learned to discipline themselves, and once disciplined they were prepared to rule.

The Break-down of Controls

From every quarter of the globe there comes disquieting news of the break-down of ancient standards and controls. The influence of the family as a controlling force in human affairs is an extremely serious matter. Children who do not learn to submit to discipline inside their home will never become citizens after they leave their parents' fireside.

It is only partially a result of war that it is followed by a wave of lawlessness. It is perhaps inevitable that, having committed all the powers of men to the terrible task of destruction, their training in diabolism should show itself when a conflict is over.

The Drinker is a Slave

When all the propaganda has been squeezed out of the argument, one simple fact remains. Those who drink alcohol drink it for the sake of its effect upon the nervous system.

Being a narcotic primarily, it is taken into the blood stream because it benumbs the nerves, perceptions, and mental functions, making it impossible for the drinker to perceive the world about him in any realistic fashion. For the period during which he is under the influence of drugs he feels a sense of freedom from fear, responsibility, anxiety, and self-conscious weakness. He does not worry about facts; he is not anxious because of the realities of life.

It is true, of course, that once the effects of alcohol have worn off all his troubles stand waiting for him, some of them having grown perceptibly in the meantime.

The Sunday School lesson for November 5: "Overcoming Temptation," (Temperance), Matthew 4:1-11; John 2:1-15; Romans 13:12-14; I Corinthians 10:13-13; Hebrews 4:14-16.

The drinker is one who is unable to face facts and needs an escape. Lacking the courage to solve his problem he takes refuge in a bottle. One of the odd aspects of the case is the habit men have of pointing out the drinker as the "he man," when as a matter of fact he is a sissy who "can't take it" and seeks an escape.

Modern Life Demands the Disciplined

Modern life is becoming increasingly mechanized. Never since history began have so many people depended upon machines and mechanics for their very life.

Gigantic factories fill the highways with automotive vehicles that crowd the roads almost bumper to bumper.

Therefore the importance of sobriety increases. Every drinking driver is a potential killer. Yet the strange fact is that the psychological effect of alcohol is to encourage the driver that he is a better driver when he has had "a couple drinks." Every sober driver is at the mercy of the drinking driver.

Laws in the union and every province in Canada shows a ghastly record on the highways as a result of drinking on the part of drivers. Hundreds are killed and thousands of injured are reported in a single day.

Only a few weeks ago a half-drunken pilot was arrested for jeopardizing the lives of the fliers by taking a plane aloft while under the influence of liquor. As the skies become darkened with aircraft the problem will increase in seriousness.

Greater Than Communism

Frightful and terrifying as is the promise of communism, the problem of alcohol is even more serious. A nation of drinkers is in jeopardy of its life unless it is able to discipline itself and its citizens.

The chronic alcoholic is a pitiable figure who deserves all the help that science and a tolerant people can offer. But it is dangerous to forget that the alcoholic is seldom so serious a menace behind the wheel of an automobile as is the drinker who has drugged his perceptions and reactions to the point where he is still able to operate his car but quite unable to control it in emergencies.

Unless the people of this nation are able to discipline themselves in the matter of alcohol consumption then something or someone else will take over and discipline them.

Worse than the menace of communism from the outside, is the danger of weakness on the inside induced by our unwillingness or inability to discipline ourselves.

I Hear Adventure Calling

By Emilie Loring

She sat with her feet tucked under her. The dog licked his chops and hitched toward the white napkin. She slapped him.

"Mind your manners, Tweed. Hal Haines my dog, too, but gee, you should see Tweed bare his teeth and hear him snarl when he comes into the room. My nurse says the dog has more sense than some humans she knows. I guess she means mother."

"Divide this package of sandwiches with Tweedles. I know his name but I don't know yours." Fran successfully switched the subject.

"I'm Pat Sargent, I know who you are. You're the new salesgirl at the gallery."

She hadn't thought of herself as being a salesgirl, but perhaps she was just that.

"In case you care, I am Frances Phillips, Fran to my friends. Now that we have been properly introduced will you have a drink of milk?"

"Sure. There are two paper cups. I guess you were expecting a beau." She held a fragment of sandwich high above the dog's head. "Speak for it, Tweed." The terrier's ear-piercing yelp set the gulls a-wing.

"Mummy told Aunt Gene that Mr. Sinclair was nuts about you. The little girl's eyes and voice were sly. "She said she'd better help him get you or you'd snitch Myles Jaffray from right under her nose. I kept quiet as a mouse in the corner, they didn't know I was in the room. Aunt Gene was mad, she turned red as a boiled lobster, she said, 'Something tells me if Hal doesn't come across quick, you'll make a play for Myles yourself, Matilde. When I want your advice, I'll ask for it. Till then—'

"Let's talk about you, Pat. Like school?"

"Sure. That's a dumb question. How could I be kind of my class if I didn't like it? My God, this little cake—"

"Pat! You shouldn't use that word like that."

"What word?"

"God. Haven't you learned the Ten Commandments in Sunday School? Remember the Fourth, 'Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain?'"

"Jeepers, Mummy's always using it, especially when she breaks a fingernail. I guess you're what nurse would call a spinsterish prim, like Miss Tassie, but I like you a lot. You're kind of warming, make me feel cosy inside, if you get what I mean. Everyone else thinks I'm a problem child, but you don't seem to. If you say I shouldn't say—my—the devil, here comes that fat Morrie Grove to spoil our picnic."

Fran looked up. Morrison Grove in white slacks, crimson Jersey and sunburned face of equally high visibility was descending the cliff on low.

"Mind if I join you?" he called. "Saw you from the water." He puffed slightly as he jumped to the beach. The dog accompanied his every move with a shrill bark. "Thought perhaps you'd like to go for a spin and stop for lunch somewhere, Miss Phillips. For Pete's sake shut up that pooch, kid."

"Thanks for the invitation Mr. Grove, but I have a ticket for the matinee. Mr. Morrison Grove Miss Patricia Sargent."

"You don't have to be so polite, introducing us. I know him." Pat bit into a cake. "I guess he's the beau you were expecting, Miss Fran. I know when I'm not wanted, I'll shoot along. Mummy says the girl who gets Morrie Grove has her sympathy. He's a tightwad. Better watch your step, Come on, 'Tweed.' From halfway up the cliff she called:

"Thanks for the lunch. I'll be seeing you."

The two on the beach watched the girl and dog leap from rock to rock with the agility of goats and disappear. Morrison Grove flexed his fingers.

"I'm a man of peace—usually—but there are times when I am sorely tempted to wring that brat's neck, and this is one of them."

"Come back here against the cliff in the shadow out of that blazing sun and your blood pressure will return to normal. Sit down and finish the sandwiches."

"Did you get anything to eat?"

"I did. That child made my heart ache, I got the impression that she isn't wanted and knows it."

Grove settled back against the cliff and accepted the sandwiches Fran offered.

"This sure is heaven. Don't worry about the kid, her grandparents adore her, they'll straighten out life for her. A little bird is whispering that Hal Andrews has declared he won't marry the mother if the child is included in the transaction."

If that happened, would Matilde keep the child or was Gene right, would she let Hal Andrews go and try for Myles Jaffray, Fran wondered before she observed "that doesn't sound as if he cared much for the mother."

"He cares for no one but himself. He had had the loveliest wife in the world, and he'—Grove cleared his husky voice. Better for Pat if she isn't dragged into that setup, the two will lead a fighting cat and dog life. While we are still on the subject of Matilde and her affairs, I am not a fightwad. Once in her youth—her family lived here—I took out Matilde. She indicated orchids. I hadn't the money to buy them and refused to take the hint. That kayoed me with her. What Ben Sargent, the grand fella, saw in her stymied me. She was pretty but what else?

"Let's not spend time on this perfect day thinking of unpleasant persons and events. Was that your launch that whizzed by a while ago?"

"Yes. Recognized you through binoculars and decided to ask you to come for a spin. Landed at Rocky Point pier. Sinclair had parked his snappy blue roadster and was just setting out in a dinghy. He had the nerve to ask if I were looking for you and before I could reply 'What business is it of yours?' he volunteered: "If it is Miss Phillips you're looking for-She left town in a bus this morning for parts unknown —to her landlady." I knew better because I had seen you here. I didn't let on to him, though.

"Mrs. Betsy is an accomplished but harmless prevaricator, I've discovered. I told her that if anyone called for me to tell them that I was incommunicado for twenty-four hours. The word not being in her vocabulary she translated it to suit herself."

"Now I've butted in and spoiled your day."

"I am glad you came, I mean it. Look at the gulls. They scent a picnic. They are settling down like a white and gray cloud on the blue water. I adore this place."

"It suits you. You're a dish in that swim suit."

"Suppose we cut out personal remarks, Mr. Grove."

"For the love of mike, what's that to turn you to ice? Haven't you been told before you're a knockout in that rig?" His honest incredulity made her protest seem silly.

"Just between you and me this is the first time I have worn it. I've been wearing an old one—so characteristically New Englandish to save something for best."

"The dimples are flashing again. That takes a load from these old shoulders. Thought for a minute you were mad at me. My remark was respectful admiration. Modern version."

"We'll settle for respectful admiration. How's the political campaign going?"

"Swell. Jaffray came out flat that he is not a candidate and the G. G. A. swung to me."

"I'm glad. If you are re-elected it will mean Washington again. Won't your business, profession, or what have you, suffer while you are away?"

Agents Move on Many Fronts To Nip Any Offshoots of Plot To Kill President Truman

Washington, Nov. 3. —(AP)— Federal agents fanning out from dozens of two fanatics who were felled, one of them shot dead, at the steps of his official residence.

But the guard around him was increased, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation and Secret Service men moved swiftly in an attempt to track down any of the pair's accomplices who might be dangerous.

Did Not Take Walk

Truman did not take his usual early morning walk, but there was no indication he passed it up because of concern for his safety. He had worked late last night on the political speech he will make in St. Louis tomorrow night. Yesterday morning Truman did take a walk.

After working in his office for a while, the president walked from the White House to nearby emergency hospital to visit two guards who were wounded in defending him. Just what he said to them was not disclosed. Reporters were not permitted to accompany him to the hospital room.

In New York, the F. B. I. took into custody the 21-year-old widow of Griselio Torresola, 25, a would-be assassin who was killed in front of Blair House. It was learned the young woman was picked up when she visited her home. A search had been under way for her since Wednesday.

There are indications that a federal grand jury investigation into the assassination plot may be made in New York. Subpoenas were issued for three Puerto Ricans—one a convicted revolutionist —after they were arrested at the apartment of the other conspirator, Oscar Collazo.

If the trio had any role in the plot it was not made clear.

There were no indications that any charges were placed against them.

Held Without Bond

Collazo, 37, was arraigned formally in Washington on a murder charge and held without bond for a hearing Nov. 21.

The murder charge stems from the outgrowth of the fatal injury to Leslie Coffelt, one of the White House policemen and Secret Service agents who turned back in a volley of bullets the attempt of Collazo and Torresola to storm the executive residence. Two of Collazo's colleagues were wounded.

Collazo is reported by agents who have been questioning him to consider himself a martyr to the cause of Puerto Rican independence. Both he and Torresola belong to the Nationalist Party, which is violently anti-U.S. and favors immediate independence for the Caribbean island.

Officers who sought to piece together what may be behind the story said the pair apparently hoped to kill the President and start a revolution in the U.S.

Meanwhile, the drive against the revolutionists in Puerto Rico brought in the Nationalist Party's leader, Pedro Albizu Campos, a key figure in this week's bloody revolt against rule. He was taken into custody were leaders of the communist party. The revolt itself has collapsed.

Conservatives Shave Working Majority of Labor

Oxford, England, Nov. 3 (Reuters) —The Conservatives held the Oxford seat with a doubled majority over the Labor party in a by-election here Thursday for a vacant seat in Parliament.

The Conservative candidate, H. F. K. Turner, gained a majority of 7,191 over the Labor government's choice, S. Kersland Lewis. But many of these votes may have come from Liberals who in the February General election polled 7,000 and this time had no candidate.

The result shaved the Labor government's working majority in the House of Commons to five.

The by-election was necessary because the former Conservative member for Oxford, Quintin Hogg, succeeded to peerage and thus became a member of the House of Lords on the death of his father, Lord Hailsham. Hogg won for his party in February with a majority of 3,006 over his Labor opponent.

Final voting figures were:

Turner (Conservative), 23,583; Lewis (Labor) 20,385; Conservative majority 7,198.

The present standing in the 625 seat Commons is Labor 311; Conservatives and allies 296; Liberal 9; Independent 1. These figures do not include the Speaker, who votes only in case of a tie, the Deputy Speaker, two Irish Nationalists who haven't taken their seats, and four vacancies.

Ban on Imports Of Capital Goods May End Soon

Ottawa, Nov. 3 (CP)—Trade Minister Howe has decided to remove restriction on the import of capital goods from the United States at the earliest possible date, informed quarters said yesterday.

Capital goods include such items as building stone, locomotives, automobiles in completed form and industrial machinery in general.

All that remains to be decided, said informants, is the timing. Mr. Howe's advisers have suggested the controls be lifted Jan. 2, the day on which remaining restrictions on consumer goods will be withdrawn by Finance Minister Abbott.

It still is possible that the controls may be continued until March 31, which would give the Trade Department more time to reorganize the capital goods control branch and possibly turn it into a priorities division.

Huge Reserves

When Mr. Abbott announced Sept. 30 that the dollar would be freed, he disclosed that Canada's reserves of gold and U.S. dollars had reached a peak of $1,789,000,000, after a $500,000,000 climb in three months.

Part of that climb was attributed to the huge investment into Canada of "hot" or speculative money. But even though the dollar has made strides on the exchange markets of the world, there still is no definite indication of profit-taking.

Most of the speculative money still remains in Canada and the reserves remain virtually untouched. They appear satisfactory to officials, who believe that holding of between $1,500,000,000 and $2,000,000,000 are sufficient for Canada's exchange needs.

FOUR PAIRS OF TWINS

Nantes, France, Nov. 3 (Reuters) — Farmer August Buton, 38, and his 35-year-old wife Bertha have had nine children — four pairs of twins and a single boy — in seven years' married life. All eight twins — four boys and four girls — are alive but the boy died in infancy. The latest twins, just born, are "doing well."

Neither Side Budging From Their Demands

Ottawa, Nov. 3 (CP) —Hearings in the government's arbitration proceedings on the railway wage-hour dispute are expected to conclude late next week.

Reception of submissions from the railways and unions is in the final stages, and Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock of the Supreme Court of Canada is to resume sessions with them at Montreal next Wednesday to receive the remaining material.

The Justice, appointed by the government as arbitrator to fix final settlement terms in the long fight, heard both sides at Montreal meetings the first three days of this week. Then he adjourned until Wednesday to allow the 17 unions, who had submitted briefs, time first, to prepare their replies.

Neither side, according to informants here, budged from the final stands they took in the negotiations that ended during the nine-day strike of 124,000 employees that tied up the railways for 10 days.

It will be up to the arbitrator, under the legislation that ended the strike, to establish the settlement somewhere between the points at which the disputants arrived during these negotiations.

Major points at issue are the size of a wage increase and the date for putting into effect the 40-hour five day work week with no loss of take-home pay from the present 48 hours.

Craft for Air Defence on Way To Hamilton

Hamilton, Nov. 3 — (CP) The first of the fighter aircraft which will form the air defence of Hamilton are due today.

Four Mustang fighters are expected to land at Mount Hope airfield late today. The four single-seat fighters, flown by United States Ferry pilots, took off from Burbank airfield in California and are flying here with a Dakota transport leading them.

The Mustangs form the vanguard of the 100 ordered by the RCAF and RCAF defence squadrons.

Injured in Jump From Speeding, Flaming Car

Brockville, Nov. 3. —(CP)— Mrs. Donald Pigeon, 28, of Eastview, Ont., is in the hospital here suffering from injuries suffered when she jumped from a speeding and flaming car seven miles west of here early today.

It is reported that the floor matting of the car driven by her husband ignited from a short, which under the dashboard, and terrified by flames, Mrs. Pigeon opened the door and jumped out of the moving vehicle. She suffered gravel burns to both legs and a possible knee cap fracture.

Two transport drivers aided the couple, one bringing the injured woman to hospital while Mr. Pigeon rode in the other driver's truck.

CHARGE SALE HORSEMEAT

Ottawa, Nov. 3 — (CP) — A sixth Ottawa district butcher was charged today with selling horsemeat illegally.

Charges were laid against five others last week as the result of a federal-civic investigation into sale of horsemeat here.

Today, Fernand Cote of suburban Eastview was accused of selling sausage containing horsemeat without identifying it as such.

Like the other five, his case was adjourned for a week without a plea being entered.

LONDONER ARRESTED

London, Ont., Nov. 3 — (CP)— A Londoner was arrested last night by provincial police on a manslaughter charge arising out of a two-car crash Sept. 2 near Peterborough.

William M. Garbuti, 32, was arrested after a woman involved in the accident died this week and the manslaughter charge was laid by police at Peterborough.

Canada's Air Training Plan May be Expanded After Talks Being Held During Weekend

Ottawa, Nov. 3 (CP) — A big boost in Canada's peacetime air training plan for her Atlantic pact allies may grow out of several official visits here this weekend.

Britain is reported authoritatively to be anxious to see a sharp expansion in the plan to train between 150 and 200 RAF air crew here annually, starting in January.

Britain's Defence Minister, Emanuel Shinwell, is liable to raise that point today when he goes into conference with Prime Minister St. Laurent and later with Mr. St. Laurent and other members of the cabinet defence committee.

Mr. Shinwell was scheduled to arrive at Rockcliffe airport at noon today with Canada's Defence Minister Brooke Claxton, both coming from this week's Washington Atlantic Pact discussions. Mr. Claxton will report to cabinet colleagues on talks about the movement of Canada's special army force— apparently part of it to the U.S., part to Korea.

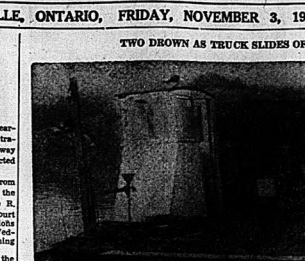
Along with Britain's interest in expanded air-training facilities here, other pact powers in Europe are said to be interested in the same thing. Canada already is training more than 100 of their young airmen.

Weekend visits by The Netherlands war minister and the air chiefs of France and Norway, and a later visit next week by the French Defence Minister Jules Moch, may well see the argument for expansion advanced further than it has already gone.

The outcome could be an air-training program that would see pilots and navigators from Canada, British, France, Italy, The Netherlands, Norway and other countries training together in numbers that would run into thousands annually.

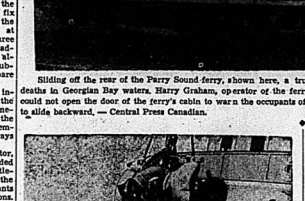
The foundation of a program is mentioned in the plant wartime Commonwealth air training plan already is well laid. These conferences might well be fundamental in a significant growth.

Britain also, it is suggested, is reported interested in more than tripling the number of air crew sent here. She must expand her training, the British Isles aren't suitable and she would like to do it in Canada.



The feeling here is that Canada in time will authorize expansion, although it may not be to the full extent sought by her allies. The training is looked on as one of the country's major contributions under joint pact responsibility for western defence.

But any marked expansion would make it necessary to start swiftly on a big construction program to handle the planes and men. The building Canada built in the war were never meant to last through a program just starting 10 years after they were raised.



FINE ACHIEVEMENT

London, Nov. 3 (Reuters) — Britain's visible exports equalled her imports at the end of the third quarter of the year, Lord Jowitt, the Lord Chancellor, told the House of Lords last night. He said it was a "remarkable achievement," and the first time it had happened in a long time.

TWO DROWN AS TRUCK SLIDES OFF FERRY

Sliding off the rear of the Parry Sound ferry, shown here, a truck carried two persons to their deaths in Georgian Bay waters. The truck, raised from 20 feet of water, this truck yielded the bodies of Nick Pilon and Mrs. Harry Doywash. —Central Press Canadian.

Winter Highway Report Service Begins Monday

Toronto, Nov. 3 — (CP) Winter road report service of the Ontario Department of Highways will go into operation Monday, it was announced today. The service operates on a 24-hour basis.

A record-up of highway conditions in all parts of the province is received by the department by teletype at least once in every four hours.

Highway conditions may be ascertained by the public by telephoning Department of highways offices at Chatham, London, Stratford, Hamilton, Toronto, Owen Sound, Port Hope, Kingston, Ottawa, Bancroft, Huntsville, North Bay, New Liskeard, Cochrane, Sudbury, Blind River, Fort William and Kenora.

Found at Home Charged With Breaking Custody

Woodbridge, Ont., Nov. 3 (CP)

Village councillor Fred Armstrong 49-year-old contractor who is alleged to have broken out of his cell following his arrest on a drunk-driving charge, was arrested again last night.

Chief Constable Herb Weatherall said Armstrong gave up without a struggle when police found him at home.

Armstrong, serving his second term as councillor of this village 10 miles north of Toronto, is charged with breaking custody, malicious damage, drunk driving, failing to produce a driver's license and failing to carry a registration permit for his truck.

Police said he was penniless when arrested. He had been unable to go to his bank for fear of being arrested.

US Appears Speeding Toward Production Special A-Weapons For Protection of W. Europe

Washington, Nov. 3 — (AP) — The United States appears to be hastening toward production of specialized atomic weapons and special tactics for use if the Russians should attempt to invade Western Europe.

Without making it clear whether such weapons and tactics already exist in preliminary form, the Air Force said in a semi-annual departmental report released last night that it is "making necessary action to develop further its capability to support the ground forces with atomic weapons."

And the army, in its report, said that new systems for guided missiles, recoil-less weapons "and the fusing of atomic weapons are designed or being designed for use by our army."

The atomic weapons family obviously includes, besides the explosive bombs themselves, such things as radiological equipment for poisoning areas.

These brief hints contained in the reports of the armed forces take on added significance when related to two other recent developments:

1. The current effort of the North Atlantic Treaty organization countries to provide a military system that can cope with 175 Russian Army divisions. Numerically, that is far more strength than the pact members expect to have ready by 1953 when the plan calls for about 40 divisions on the central front of Europe.

2. A statement a few months ago by Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, that the atomic bomb can be used as a tactical, as well as strategic weapon.

Profitable Targets

The tactic Bradley conceived was this: If enough ground forces can be mustered to man natural barriers, such as rivers or mountain chains, they can compel any invader of Western Europe to funnel his attacks through certain corridors. There will be the target for atomic attack on the invading troops. Concentrated, compressed into relatively small zones, enemy divisions then become a "profitable target" for the expensive A-bombs.

From another source, the navy, comes word that substantial progress is being made in the long and difficult task of making guided missiles really guided and effective, instead of the more or less temperamental such as the experimental models.

It said one type of guided missile "is sufficiently advanced to justify limited production" and that a ship will be converted to carry such missiles as anti-aircraft armament.

AIR COMPANY FINED

Burnham, England, Nov. 3 — (Reuters) — A private air charter company whose Tudor airliner crashed last March with the biggest death toll in aviation history was fined £50 ($150) in court here yesterday for contravening a safety law in loading the aircraft. The prosecution, however, emphasized that this did not necessarily cause the crash. Eighty Welsh football fans returning from a match in Ireland died in the crash. Only three survived.

Shaw Died Before Seeing Proofs Of Unpublished Book

Ayott St. Lawrence, England, Nov. 3 (AP) —Close friends and nurses who saw George Bernard Shaw in the closing days of his life agreed today the old sage willed himself to die.

Last Tuesday he turned to Gwendoline Howell, one of his two nurses, and said "you are only trying to keep me alive to preserve me as a curiosity. I've finished. I am going to die."

Then he lapsed into coma. And at dawn yesterday, he did die. Several times in his last months he had shown that death would be a welcome visitor. Last July, writing a birthday wishes to 91-year-old author Hesketh Pearl, Shaw said to Pearl's daughter:

"Tell Helaine that if he still wants to live to 100 he won't when he is 94. I am longing for my eternal rest."

Shaw was 94 July 26—the day before Bellloc's 80th birthday.

It was disclosed today that the great playwright had written one last book to be published in December—"Bernard Shaw's rhymed picture guide to Ayott St. Lawrence."

Harold White, director of the Seagrave Press, publishers of the book, said it contained 60 simple snapshots of scenes in the village, most of them taken by Shaw himself last summer.

There's a picture on each page, with a verse description.

He died before he saw the galley proofs of his book—a tribute to the little village of 110 persons where he spent 43 years of his life.

His home will be enshrined as a literary monument by the National Trust, a government-sponsored organization for the care of historic spots.

Among objects that likely will also be placed there is a death mask, to be taken of his bearded face before his body is cremated Monday.

Six Players Of Three Rivers Reds Suspended

(By The Canadian Press)

An attack on referee Bobby Brennan in a Quebec Junior hockey game in Montreal last Sunday has brought suspension to six players of the Three Rivers Reds.

Allan Mudie, considered chief offender, drew a 10-game suspension at a meeting of the Referee's Board of the Q.A.H.A. last night. Mudie hit Brennan in a fracas which broke out after a game won by Montreal Nationals 9-6.

The other suspensions are for one and two games and are staggered so that Three Rivers won't be too shorthanded for any game. Guy Talbot will be out for two games, and Marcel Joannette, Jim Hayes, Jean Bernasques and Marcel Bonin for one each.

Gentle reminder to Mayor Don MacKay of Calgary: The Ottawa Press Club wants the Lou Marsh Coolence Cup.

It really isn't much of a cup about the size of a baby's mug and it isn't steeped in tradition. However, it embodies a lot of sentiment as it's the only trophy in existence awarded annually to the team that loses the east-west Grey Cup football final at Toronto.

Calgary Stampeders won't need it this year—they didn't even make the western. Canada conference play offs—and the cup is needed before the big Nov. 25 game so that the presentation may be made in Toronto to the coach of the losing club a few hours after the classic ends at Varsity stadium.

Brooklyn Dodgers have named Fresco Thompson and Emile (Bunny) Bavasi, two of Branch Rickey's brightest aides, to fill the big shoes of the departed general manager.

Both Thompson and Bavasi, general manager of Montreal last year, were appointed vice-presidents by President Walter O'Malley who said they will share the general managership duties Rickey handled so ably during the last eight years. The 69-year-old Rickey was both president and general manager until he resigned last week.

Next on O'Malley's agenda is the managership. Right now Burt Shotton, Rickey's field boss, still is the manager. But the betting around Brooklyn's headquarters was that Harold (Pee Wee) Reese, Dodger captain and shortstop, would be at the helm when spring training time rolls around.

Dixie Walker, the "people's choice," in his Brooklyn playing days, also was rated a possibility for the manager's role.

O'Malley, however, indicated Shotton still was in the running.

"Shotton is still the manager," he said in answer to a question. "No decision will be made until I have a good talk with him. He is a very fine gentleman."

Ascot racing authorities are planning a world championship horse race with the richest purse in British history to mark the 1951 festival of Britain.

Entries are to be invited from Canada, The United States, The Republic of Ireland, South Africa, Australia, New Zealand, France Belgium and Italy as well as Britain.

The purse will be £20,000 ($56,000). The race will be for three-year-olds and upwards, run over 1½ miles. It will be called the "King George and Queen Elizabeth Festival of Britain Stakes."

Sammy Snead, never playing better golf, came slamming through the third round of the North and South open tournament Thursday with a six-under-par 32-34—66 to charge into the 54-hole lead by two strokes with a 205 total.

His three-day spree of 66-71-66 left him 11 under par and two shots in front of Johnny Palmer, the leader through the first two rounds at Pinehurst, N.C., and Jim Ferrier, Canadian open champion from San Francisco who is No. 2 money winner this year back of Snead.

Palmer three-putted the last hole for a par 70 today, while Ferrier also needed three putts there, but earlier misery on the way to the carpet gave him a total of six for 71.

Lone remaining serious challenger going into today's final 18 holes was Tommy Bolt, former Texas campaigner, now regretting out of Durham. He had 68 Thursday for 208, three strokes back of Snead.

To be mustachioed or not to be mustachioed—that is the question.

At least the question before the Cincinnati Boxing Commission Thursday was whether heavyweight boxing champion Rexard Charles should be allowed to have his upper lip adorned with the usual moustache when he meets Nick Barone of Syracuse, N.Y., in a title bout at Cincinnati Nov. 28.

The commission couldn't settle the question.

Crucial Weekend Facing Canadian Senior Football

(By The Canadian Press)

The Big Four schedule winds up Saturday with Hamilton and Montreal sprinting towards a single playoff spot. The Western Canada finals open in Edmonton and the ORFU playoffs begin in Toronto.

That's the line-up for the crucial weekend facing Canadian senior football with the Grey Cup finale only three weeks away.

Toronto Argonauts, sure of a playoff spot, are at home to Montreal Alouettes. In third place the Als' only hope is that they defeat Toronto and that the out-of-the-running Ottawa Rough Riders beat the Tiger-Cats at Hamilton.

At that, Als can only tie the Tiger-Cats. A deadlock would force a sudden-death playoff for the right to meet Argonauts in the league final.

Toronto Balmy Beach, who finished atop the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union after a faltering start, are at home to the second-place Sarnia Imperials Sunday in the first of a two-game total. The winner goes into the Eastern Canada finals against the Big Four champions.

In Edmonton, Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Edmonton Eskimos meet in the first of a two-game series for the Western championship.

The Eskimos apparently have won the night versus day battle. Manager Al Anderson of Eskimos said he had been told by Jack Grogan, Western Interprovincial Football Union president, that the league executive had voted in favor of a night game.

That appeared to end four days of controversy. Winnipeg had insisted on a day game, claiming the league's constitution prohibited night playoff games.

Request Granted

A telephone vote Tuesday decided on a day game, but Anderson refused to accept the vote until he had it in writing. His request for a telegraph poll was granted.

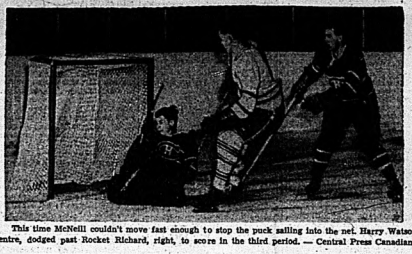
In the intercollegiate the answer is whether the University of Western Ontario Mustangs can qualify for a playoff against the unbeaten McGill Redmen.

To do it, Western must beat McGill in their second meeting of the season a week from Saturday. They'll also have to beat Queen's at Kingston this weekend. In the other InterCollegiate game Saturday, the University of Toronto Blues play McGill in Montreal.

Alouettes will be going all-out in their game against Argos. But the Scullers, on the other hand, will be taking no chances of injuries.

Coach Frank Clair said his star quarterback, Ulysses Curtis, will watch the game from the bench. So will middle Lorne Parkin. Curtis has an injured ankle and Parkin a bad knee.

Not Taking Chances



Said Clair: "We're not trying to fool anybody. Both these boys could play if it were a vital game. But we'd look awful foolish if Curtis, for example, aggravated his ankle and missed the playoffs."

But the chances are that Argos would shed no tears if they lost to Montreal and the Alouettes wound up in a tie with Hamilton. That would mean Argos could rest for a week and watch their rivals batter each other before the league final.

IT WAS A HARD NIGHT FOR GOALKEEPER GERRY McNEILL

Goalkeeper Gerry McNeill of the Montreal Canadiens had a busy time of it during the game at Toronto with the Leafs. This is one of the 39 times the Leafs closed in on him for a shot on goal. Cal Gardner, third from right, surrounded by Gravelle, Curry and Harmon, couldn't get his shot by McNeill, but softened him up for five tallies by his teammates. Final score, Leafs 5, Canadiens 3.—Central Press Canadian.

This time McNeill couldn't move fast enough to stop the puck sailing into the net. Harry Watson, centre, dodged past Rocket Richard, right, to score in the third period. — Central Press Canadian.

Don Loney Wins Jeff Russel Memorial Trophy

Toronto, Nov. 3—(CP)—Don Loney, Ottawa Rough Riders' brilliant 26-year-old snap, has won the Jeff Russel Memorial Trophy for 1950.

He was told about it during practice in Ottawa last night. "Swell," he said. Then he went back to drills, preparing for Rider's last game of the year against Hamilton Tiger-Cats Saturday.

Loney was picked from the eight nominees by the officials and five governors of the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union. The award goes to the player in the league deemed most valuable to his team as a player and sportsman.

Bob McDonald, 18-year-old Hamilton half, won the rookie award. A junior last year, he snap Jake Gaudar of Hamilton scored one touchdown in eight games this season.

Riders can't possibly make the playoffs this year. But Loney talked about the importance of winning Saturday's game rather than the trophy.

If Riders win, he said, they could wind up the season only two points behind the first-place Toronto Argonauts and that wouldn't be too bad."

Mother Quite Happy

The big reaction in the announcement came from his mother—"Mom" to all the Riders and a rabid football fan.

"Isn't that marvellous?" she said.

Loney joined Riders four years ago from Toronto Argonauts. Since then as a snap on the offence and the centre on the secondary, he's been regarded as one of the best men in the game.

He has played nearly 60 minutes in every contest when he's been in shape and his team-mates claim that he's in almost every play.

Also nominated for the award were outside Bill Stanton of Ottawa; halfback Tommy Manastersky and inside Ray Cicia of Montreal; halfback Edgar Jones and halfback Billy Bass and snap Ed (Buckets) Hirsch of Toronto.

Royal Copeland, now with Calgary Stampeders, won the award last year when he played with Argos. Eric Chipper of Ottawa won it in 1948 and Virgil Wagner of Montreal in 1947.

DO YOU HAVE ARTHRITIS?

By JULIUS DINTENFASS
D.C., B.Sc., F.I.C.C.

The terms "Arthritis" and "Rheumatism" are not synonymous. Rheumatism is an all-inclusive term covering many varied pains. When pain is confined to the bones and joints, it is called arthritis.

It is said that arthritis can be cured in early man. Arthritis was present among the ancient Egyptians as evidenced by the pathological changes found in mummys of various periods.

The present economic aspects of arthritis are important. It is a disability which is not only a source of heavy financial loss to the individual, but is also a heavy financial drag on industry due to the loss of the worker's services.

Many classifications of arthritis have been proposed, but none has been universally accepted. The onset of the condition is often gradual. The chief symptoms are pain, stiffness, swelling, and limitation of movement. Many sufferers appear old in the morning. The patient says he is stiff on arising and has to get his joints "limbered up." Later the stiffness appears after rest, even for only a few minutes. If he sits down he has some difficulty in rising. After bending down pain is forced to straighten up slowly.

The effect of weather on arthritic joints is due to a change in the barometric pressure which may affect the local circulation by means of a change in blood pressure. The humidity of the air also affects the circulation of the skin.

Chiropractic is one of the most valuable agents in caring for arthritis. Adjustments not only restore normal mobility to the joints, but by their action on the circulatory system, normalizes general and local circulation. Results under chiropractic obviously depends on the extent of damage to the local tissues—the degree of reversibility of the pathological process.

Clinical surveys of the chiropractic management of arthritis indicate that the disorder, in most cases, responds far better than with the usual methods of treatment. Even in severe cases the symptoms have been alleviated and the progress of the disease halted.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

THEY GO TONIGHT!

"Smiley" Maremek's beardless buckaroos and "Mac" Gobell's senior hopefuls take to the ice tonight in their first hockey workouts of the season — at least the first for the Rockets as the senior squad season the wrinkles out of their joints in Cobourg last Monday in a skating fiesta.

Gobell will likely work his three front lines as selected a few days ago and concentrate their activities on certain plays, and teamwork. There will likely be a large turnout of aspirants for the squad and Gobell will toss the Yanigans in against the Regulars in an effort to perfect scoring plays for Monday night's inaugural tilt against the potent Petes of Peterbrough.

The seniors take the ice at 6:30 and will be put through their paces until eight o'clock when the Cookian Rockets take over for their session. They face a pretty stiff test in their seasonal take-off Jousi Monday night for the upswing Petes, who are showing fipe form since their group take-off, have chalked up two victories in as many starts with the Queen's University Combine being the victims in both instances. "Red" Creighton's revamped squad is reported to have plenty of the old "git-up-and-git-thar" and with a couple of scalps already adorning their belts, might be hard nuts to crack.

Just what is in store for the railbirds when the Rockets hop over the boards is, at the moment, a dark secret. There will likely be two or three or more strange faces in the general parade which is expected to attract some thirty aspiring youngsters from the city and district. We hear that young Don Barclay, juvenile star of a year ago will be given the chance to step into the fast-moving line. Barclay, the youngster's first appearance in Junior "B" company, but since he is a steady lad, with marked coolness under fire and smart reflexes he should make the grade.

There should be plenty of fire and fury in the junior rodeo tonight as the youngsters jockey for the various positions. Again, the younkers of junior age, who have hockey ambitions are asked to attend tonight's session as all positions are open — and who knows what talent might turn up? Rockets take the ice at eight o'clock and will practice until 9:30.

TRY IT AGAIN

Representatives of only three teams turned up at the meeting of the Trent Valley Hockey League last Sunday, so prexy Art Duncan has teed off again with the invitations for a meeting to be held in Campbellford on Sunday, where it is hoped, the loop will lay the foundation for another season.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME

Last minute changes in the COSSA football playoffs set-up late yesterday brings a double - header here tomorrow afternoon. The Peterborough Collegiate senior and junior squads (tough beliken, at that) will be here to battle with their counterparts of B.C.I. The younkers kick off at one o'clock and at three sharp, barring accidents, the seniors squad take over. Both games are part of the round-robin semi-finals. Two-game series with points to count. The second game of each series is scheduled for Peterborough next Saturday, Nov. 11, that is.

In the meantime, the lads of the squad, sweater-garbed, are spending on the streets of the city and in sundry places on a ticket-selling campaign. The pasteboards cost but 25 cents and every two-bits goes towards defraying the team's transportation and other expenses a week Saturday.

So let's get behind the boys, fellas, and toss a quarter in their direction when they ask you to buy a ticket for the game.

Toronto Leafs Spurt Into Five-Point N.H.L. Lead On 2 Straight Wins Over Montreal

If Conn Smythe ever had any misgivings about the "boys" on his Toronto Maple Leafs not growing into mean fast enough, they should be dispelled by now. His veterans aren't causing him any worries either.

The proof is reflected in today's standings the Leafs are leading the league by five points over Montreal Canadiens on a record of seven wins, two ties and a single loss in 10 starts.

The Leafs last night stretched their string of undefeated games to nine, edging Canadiens 2-1 in Montreal. It was their second successive victory over the Habitants beaten 5-3 in Toronto Wednesday.

In other games last night, New York Rangers rallied while shorthanded in the third period to tie Detroit 2-2 and in Chicago the Black Hawks dumped the winless Boston Bruins 5-3.

Rookie Tod Sloan, a "boy" of 22, and veteran Cal Gardner, "old man" of 30, combined to sink the injury riddled Canadiens before 14,433 fans. Both scored in the third period.

Sloan's goal on a backhander pulled the first-period goal by Ken Moddell of Canadiens. Gardner's winning tally was on a slap-shot.

Defenceman Wally Stanowski, who saw little action last season and early this campaign because of injuries, saved the Rangers from defeat at Detroit. With teammate Nick Mickoski sitting out a charging penalty, Stanowski led a fast attack which caught Detroit by surprise as they were preparing a power play.

He sailed in on the astonished Detroit goalie, Terry Sawchuk, and sank a nifty 25-foot angle shot to give New York its fourth tie in seven games.

Rangers Open Scoring

New York opened the scoring on Alex Kaleta's first period goal. Joe Carveth tied it up for Detroit, who went ahead in the middle session on a goal by Ted Lindsay.

At Chicago, Roy Conacher scored twice to run his lifetime record to 200 since he joined the NHL in 1938. He missed the war years of 1942-5. A crowd of 10,201 saw the Hawks creep into a 3-0 first-period lead, and the luckless Bruins never got close.

Rookie Vic Stasiuk opened the scoring after less than two minutes of play. Veteran Gus Bodnar made it 2-0 three minutes later, and Conacher got his 199th goal before the mid-mark.

Johnny Peirson got Boston's goal early in the second period, but Clint Albert, another Hawk rookie, ran the count to 4-1 near the end of the session. Conacher got his 200th tally in the third frame and Lorne Ferguson banged in Boston's final tally while Chicago was shorthanded.

The Hawks yesterday announced that forward Jim Conacher has been suspended indefinitely for refusing to play for their Milwaukee farm club after his salary was cut. Conacher, who was obtained from Detroit in 1948, played two full seasons for the Hawks.

Eddie Shore, defence ace of the Boston Bruins, was suspended by the National Hockey League club 17 years ago today as a hold-out because unexpectedly he had been asked to take a cut in salary. The suspension was lifted a week later when Shore left Edmonton to rejoin the club.

TOP APPRENTICE

It seems a habit around Toronto's racetracks in the fall season to pick a favorite apprentice jockey. This year it's 17-year-old Darrell Hartley of Calgary. In eight days of racing Darrell chalked up 12 wins and captured the imagination of punters and racing men. Born in Crothers, Sask., the youngster is saving his fees and purse shares for a hoped for ranch out west. (CP Photo).

Darrel Hartley Headed For Fame On Race Track

By JOHN FATTERSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

other half-pint has come out of the West and is headed, the experts say, for racetrack fame and fortune—if his feet don't get too big.

Darrel Hartley of Calgary is following in the tradition of such famous jockeys as Johnny Longden and the late Georgie (The Iceman) Woolf, who went on to international acclaim after apprenticeship on Western Canada tracks.

Experienced observers predict a brilliant future for the quiet-spoken, baby-faced 17-year-old rider—provided he doesn't grow right out of the saddle.

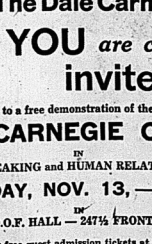
It is part of racing legend that the size of a boy's foot is a tip-off to his future size. Darrel already takes a size six and weighs 108. That may not sound so robust, but it has some observers shaking their heads. They have seen weight "get" many a promising apprentice, despite an almost starvation diet.

Born in Crothers, Sask., Hartley started riding horses for $50 purses on bush tracks when he was 10 and 11.

The first winner on a recognized track was in Polo Park, Winnipeg, last Aug. 23. Since then he has ridden more than 40 winners and is leading rider at the Dufferin Park track here with 12 winners in seven days.

Dave Robertson of San Diego, Calif., who trains a 21-horse stable, has leased Hartley's contract. Robertson intends to take him to Florida this winter. He likes Hartley's work so well that "he can stay with me as long as he wants to remain around horses."

The big pay cheque—last week's was $698 plus a share of a $2,000 stake—are being banked toward his ambition—a ranch in Western Canada.



HARDER TO GET RELEASE

Guelph, Nov. 3—(CP) — The Ontario Hockey Association moved last night to make it more difficult for players to get a release from class 'A' club after signing.

The O.H.A.'s junior A council voted to ask the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to pass a regulation making it impossible for any player who got paid $1,000 or more during the previous season to appeal against his club's refusal to grant him a release.

The council also decided to ask the C.A.H.A. to put major and junior "A" series on a contract basis. The proposal has been considered—and rejected — for the last two years.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP is a lot of little things

KEEP CHIMNEYS AND STOVE PIPES CLEAN

Dirty chimneys cut the proper flow of draft and increase fuel consumption. Sooty stove pipes are sure to rust and will have to be replaced. More important still, such conditions increase the fire hazard in your home! So to get the utmost in performance, safety and economy from your heating system, have chimney flues and stove pipes regularly cleaned and inspected. Such forethought is one of the little things that make up "Good Citizenship".

Ezzard Charles May Bolt Ring Promotion Outfit

Pittsburgh, Nov. 3—(AP)—Ezzard Charles, world heavyweight champion, may bolt the International Boxing Club, top ring promotion outfit in the U. S., Jake Mintz, the Cincinnati negro's co-manager, has been feuding with the I. B. C. matchmaker Al Weill. Their differences came to a head last night in a squabble over a preliminary card on which Mintz was trying to place another boxer.

"I don't need Al Weil of the I. B. C.", Mintz sputtered.

"This is the showdown. If those guys in New York don't see things my way, we're through."

Mintz and Weil first bumped head-on before Charles' recent scrap with Joe Louis. Since then all Mintz' business with the club has been carried through I.B.C. president Jim Norris.

"Until then, fine," Mintz said. "I hate to make a break with him."

Louis himself has a financial interest in the I. B. C., but plays little active part in operations of the young organization.

Charles has fought three times under Weill's auspices. He won disputed right to the heavyweight belt beating Jersey Joe Walcott in Chicago in 1949. He was the I. B. C.'s first promotion. Later Charles met Gus Lesnevich in Madison Square Garden. His Louis bout last September also was an I. B. C. promotion.

The present Mintz-Weil row centres around Levi Bryant, a heavy handled by the Pittsburgh manager. Mintz asked the I. B. C. to give Bryant a preliminary spot in the garden late this month. Norris, Mintz declared, relayed Weil's "no," and Mintz last night replied with an ultimatum—"Put Bryant on the card or we quit."

Charles has a contract with the I. B. C. which runs until next May, but "it doesn't mean a thing," Mintz declared, without elaborating.

The I. B. C. was the official heir to the ring dynasty relinquished two years ago by Mike Jacobs, at one time dean of American fight promoters.

Mohawks Move Into First Place Tie With Barons

(By The Canadian Press)

Cincinnati Mohawks are back in a first-place tie with Cleveland Barons at the top of the American Hockey League's western division. The teams have been battling hard for the lead since the season started and last night Cincinnati downed Indianapolis Capitals 4-1 while Cleveland rested. Each of the top teams has 18 points.

Pittsburgh Hornets whipped St. Louis Flyers 4-1 and Providence Reds pushed around New Haven Eagles 7-3 in the only other games played last night.

Indianapolis, with only one tie in nine starts this season, was no match for the Mohawks. Jean-Paul Denis and Jackie Gordon teamed up in the second period goals—each feeding the other a pay-off pass. The other Cincy goals went to Ernie Roche and Jerry Plansoen.

Fred Glover robbed Emile Francis of a shut out in the middle frame.

Pittsburgh's victory was the Hornets' most impressive of the season over the stout St. Louis team. Bill Ezinicki, erstwhile Toronto Maple Leaf big leaguer, got one goal and two assists. Eldy Kobussen, Ray Hannigan and Andy Barbe got the others. Jean Lamirande scored for St. Louis in the final frame.

It was the Flyers' second loss in a row and third in 10 games.

Providence Reds regained fourth place in league's eastern division by beating New Haven 5-2. Leo Lalonta got two goals while Roger Bedard, Moe Morris, Jack Stoddard, Pete Kanaros and Art Michaluk got the other red markers. Bill Jones, Johnny Holota and Joe Krahulec counted for New Haven.

The loss dropped the Eagles into the eastern division cellar. They have won but twice in 11 starts and only 1,000 hometown fans turned out last night to see them.

When Florida's footballers were hanging onto a 31-27 lead over Vanderbilt, sophomore quarterback Haywood Sullivan decided to run quarterback sneaks to use up time . . . Twice a big tackle, Vandy captain Russ Faulkinberry, slammed him down . . . The third time it happened, Russ exclaimed: "Sullivan, I ought to kill you."

Sullivan grinned, looked calmly at the clock, which showed four seconds to go, and replied: "Sorry. You haven't time."

FUTURE, PERCHANCE, LOOKS BLACK

Goalie Pickering, of the soccer squad from Chelsea, Eng., held this pose for only a fraction of a second, but the camera froze him in his prayerful attitude as he seemed to be gazing into a crystal ball, probing into the future, when in fact one of Pickering's fine "saves" during a game against Sunderland. — Central Press Canadian.

LAST NIGHT'S STARS

(By The Canadian Press)

Gerry McNeil, goalie for Montreal, who put on a brilliant display in the nets despite Canadiens' 2-1 loss to Toronto Maple Leafs.

Wally Stanowski, Rangers, whose late third - period goal gave the New Yorkers a 2-2 tie with Detroit Red Wings.

Roy Conacher, Chicago, who tallied twice and scored his 200th N. H. L. goal as the Black Hawks downed Boston Bruins 5-3.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 3—AP—When Jolson died last week, many felt he learned for the first time he had a brother.

Not to the people in show business, the story of Al and Al Jolson is a legend.

People are surprised to learn that me, because I wasn't in Jolson pictures," said Harry, who bears a resemblance to the star. "I always tell them that Al and my mother and father were playing their scenes in our dining room, I was out in the kitchen washing the dishes."

Also shown in the film biographies were the two Jolson sisters, now dead.

More Errors

He added to the film version of how Al entered show business was incorrect.

"I got Al into show business," said Harry. "Since we were Rabbi-Cantor's sons, we sang in the choir and we were used to appearing before the public. I was older than Al and I was the black sheep. I was always getting jobs at the burlesque show, singing and selling stuff between acts.

"Like all kid brothers, Al followed my example and I helped him get started. When I ran away with a show, he got the same idea."

Al, who had a "beautiful little soprano," returned home when his voice changed, Harry related. The older brother who was doing well in vaudeville, suggested they team in an act.

"But I can't sing; my voice is changing," protested Al.

"You can whistle, can't you?" Harry replied.

Team Born

And so the team of Jolson and Jolson began. Later they were joined by an older vaudevillian named Joe Palmer. Harry showed me some yellowed theatre programs billing "Jolson, Palmer and Jolson" in the early 1900s.

When Harry fell ill in New Orleans, Al deserted with Palmer, Harry said. That was the end of the brother act. Harry went on as a single act and was successful, especially in England. But he was always under the shadow of his younger brother's fame.

When vaudeville started to die, Harry's singing career faded. He became an actor's agent and handled Al and Ruby Keeler for seven years.

The Kibitzer

My lectures at the Denver Dry Goods Company early in July were my first in Colorado. With my syndicated column in the Denver Post, the Horse Sense Bridge has taken root in the Rocky Mountain area.

Pairs who play my system came to the tournaments there from many states. Represented were Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada, Utah, Wyoming, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma.

Plans are being made for me to tour the Colorado district next year. With my dates in several Montana cities this fall, from Puget Sound to the Rio Grande I may be known as the Horse Sense gizzle.

My system is being taught in Denver by Kenneth Cook. We paired in a game when opponents in south became declarer at four hearts. It was my opening lead from west in the deal shown here:

NORTH
♠A 9 4
♥K Q 5
♦J 10 7 5
♣9 8 6 4

WEST	EAST
♠K 8 2	♠Q 10 7 6
♥9 6	♥8 7 2
♦K 6 4 3	♦8 2
♣K 7 5 3	♣J 10 2

SOUTH
♠J 5 3
♥A J 10 4 3
♦A 9 7
♣A Q

Against a suit contract, don't lead away from ace and king. The reason? It may give the declarer an unearned trick. Not that it always does. But chances are in favor of it doing so.

When you lead away from a king, declarer is likely to hold ace and queen. Or ace in one hand and queen in other. Queen will win. Ace will cash next. Your king may die in ruffs of later rounds.

When you lead away from an ace, declarer may have the king. If you wait for that suit to be led elsewhere you might capture the king.

You hear me rave and rave about this in my lessons. And you would think anybody with an ounce of brains would know it by now. Oh, yeah.

Do you know what happened? Instead of leading a trump it looked like a spot to use judgment. By me, believer in rules. Here is where I decided to use judgment. Stupid, wasn't it?

I led a small club. It was the lead that let the contract make. Kenny should have taken me out to shoot me. He was taught to be kind to dumb animals.

Gary Cooper in "Beau Geste" and "Bengal Lancer"

Gary Cooper, Ray Milland, Susan Hayward and Robert Preston star in Paramount's blistering action drama, "Beau Geste", presented on a double-thrill program showing tonight for the last times at the Belle Theatre. "Lives of a Bengal Lancer" also.

One of the screen's most memorable action dramas, Paramounts "The Lives of a Bengal Lancer," with Gary Cooper, Franchot Tone and Richard Cromwell is the 2nd Paramount Champion feature to be presented on the same program.

A thrill-packed story of extraordinary bravery and heroism on the part of a small British fighting force stationed in India, the picture is crammed with excitement from start to finish.

The Warner Pathe News of the World is an added attraction.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK By R. J. SCOTT

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was watching ma doing the bridge problem, and after a while he said, Mr. Dear, I had a strong impulse to stop at Pockadopolo's on my way home and buy you some flowers.

It couldn't of been a very overpowering impulse, or you'd of given way to it for land sakes, ma said, and pop said, I was afraid you'd think I was just a sentimental old Lothario.

Now William, if there's a woman in this world who wouldn't be glad to see her husband come home bearing flowers, she's not human, ma said, and pop said, There was one other thing that made me hesitate. I was brawt up in the city and I dont know mutch about flowers, and Pockadopolo mite of palmed off some stale ones on me, and then you'd of had a good laff at my expense, he said.

How absurd, it's the sentiment that's important, ma said, and pop said, Then you wouldn't of held it against me even if they weren't quite fresh?

Most certainly not, silly, ma said, and pop said, Then now it can be told. I did buy the flowers, he said.

Well where are they? ma said, and pop said, Under my bed.

What? Do you meen they've been there ever since you came home? ma said, and pop said, To the best of my nolledge, Benny, run up and see, he said.

Which I did just they were there all rite, and I brawt them down and ma unrapped them, saying, William, I can see through you like a transparent open book. When you got home you realized that you had let that man sell you flowers that he'd started to wither, so you went through all this nonsense. But I dont care, I said, I wouldn't mention a werd about it, and I went, she said.

I knew you wouldn't, pop said. And he gave her a kiss to go with the flowers and ma quick put them in a vase with water.

FRANKFORD

Lions Sponsor Hallowe'en Party For the Kiddies

Frankford — The Frankford Lions Club sponsored their annual Hallowe'en party in the Community Hall for the children (young and old) of the village. Shortly before eight o'clock, a long procession of witches, goblins, pirates, cowboys and what have you, paraded up Mill Street to the hall.

Once inside the hall, a program, which included moving pictures, was presented for the kiddies. The auditorium was filled to capacity with happy, smiling folk. Treats were given out, and prizes awarded for the best costumes. With such a fine array of styles, the judges had a most difficult task. The party achieved its two-fold purpose, first, in showing the young people of the village a good time, and second, keeping them off the street and out of mischief.

Successful as the Lions party was, it did not keep the older pranksters in check. Bright and early Wednesday morning, citizens gazed open-mouthed at a large outhouse sitting sedately in the middle of the busy four corners. As could be expected, some person always has to go too far with the Hallowe'en "practical jokes." A number of items were piled on the back step of Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery's home, and Miss Beulah Montgomery was quite seriously injured, when she tried to move some of the objects. She required medical attention, and has been quite ill since.

Farewell Party Held

The ladies of Branch 287, Canadian Legion Aux. held a surprise farewell party for Mrs. Ethel Walker on Wednesday night of last week. A program of community singing, and a number of contests was arranged. Mrs. Walker was presented with a pearl necklace and matching earrings. She thanked the ladies fittingly for the gift. Lunch was served to complete a most enjoyable evening.

Mrs. Clare Sine and baby Brenda of Prescott, spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Stickle.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Stickle, Mrs. Helen Whitney and son Wayne, motored to Peterborough on Sunday afternoon. In the evening, they returned to Stirling where they attended the band concert for the Boy Scouts.

Teachers Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the United Church Sunday School teachers and executive was held in the Ross-Lowery Hall Wednesday evening. Rev. MacEachern took charge of the Bible study period, and study book.

In the business session, the Christmas concert was discussed. A committee consisting of Mrs. Arnold Stickle, Miss Helen Rose, Miss Marilyn Wannamaker and Mr. Gene Lohnes was appointed to prepare the concert. The date was set for December 20th, a Wednesday, at 7.30 in the Community Hall.

Other items of business were brought forth and dealt with.

Next month's meeting will be the regular quarterly meeting with refreshments being served. Further details will appear later.

CAMPBELLFORD

Plan Outlined To Business Men at Banquet

Campbellford— Minor damage resulted when two cars, one driven by George Chrysler of Grand Road in Campbellford, and the other by Lorne Partridge of R. R. 2 Warkworth, collided at the intersection on the west side of the river on Tuesday.

The left side of the Chrysler car suffered most damage, while the front left fender and bumper of the Partridge car were crumpled.

Chief Constable George H. Hardy investigated.

Explains Organization

Mr. Alex Fraser, president of the Marmora Chamber of Commerce, addressed a group of Campbellford business men at Edgewater Park early this week, with reference to forming a Chamber of Commerce in Campbellford.

Mr. Fraser explained the organization and workings of the Chamber in his town, and outlined procedure to follow.

After making preliminary arrangements, the group voted Lyrne Findlay as president of the Chamber, with R. D. McDonald as V.P., Paul O'Sullivan secretary, and Austin Putnam as treasurer.

The executive was voted power to carry on with the business of the group and to pick eight directors to assist with the work.

Bert Wells and Bud Loveless of the Marmora group were also on hand to give a few words of advice to the local men.

A new election will be held in January.

CROFTON

Crofton—Mr. Amel Stavenow, of Arnprior, spent the weekend with his daughter, Mrs. W. Salsbury and Janet.

Mrs. Wesley Juby, of Demorestville, was a Sunday guest of her aunt, Mrs. B. Jones and Mr. Jones.

The young people of this community tendered a surprise party to Miss Betty Miller on Monday evening prior to her departure for Toronto. Miss Miller has been transferred from the Bell Telephone at Belleville to the Toronto office.

Mrs. E. Crook spent Sunday evening with her sister, Mrs. Charles Haight, at Belleville and attended church service at Bethel Hall.

ELDORADO

Eldorado—Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Pigden of Bellville spent a day recently with Mrs. Fraser.

MARMORA

Legion Thanks McFarland Co. For Work Done

Marmora — Members of Marmora Branch No. 237 Canadian Legion greatly appreciate the generosity of the McFarland Construction Company in building up the grounds on the Canifrera's playground which they, the Legion created east of Crowe River bridge on No. 7 highway. When the grounds were first taken over by the Legion, consideration was given to a plan to build a wall or dyke from the highway along the shore to the south end of the grounds to keep the water from the river flooding over it in the spring. That plan presented many problems.

The ideal solution to the question was to build up the park land so that it would be above water level: Here again the cost appeared to be prohibitive. A truck in rock and earth as a fill would have been a greater sum than could have been met. When the McFarland Construction Company was widening the big cut west of the village, Major Percy Perry got permission of the Legion asked the company if it would be possible to dump the extra rock and earth on the nearby park site. Not only did the company consent to do this and dump hundreds of truck loads there, but at the end of last week sent in a bull doser to level down the rock and cover the same with earth. In places the fill is five or six feet deep. There is still much to do, mostly handwork, but it can now be completed in stages by the Legion. With the planting of trees and seeding down of the park, a real beauty spot can be created, as a fine asset to the village.

C.G.I.T. Elects New Officers

Frankford—The weekly meeting of the C.G.I.T. of the United Church was held Monday night in the Ross-Lowery Hall, with Mrs. MacEachern and Miss Fox in charge of the girls. Most important part of the program was the election of officers for the new organization. They are as follows: President; Beverly Patrick; vice-president, Barbara Bonisteel; secretary, Sheila Patrick; treasurer, Helen Bailey; Committee to select a name for the group, Beverly Acton and Edna Dafoe; Group Committee, Kay Williams and Elaine Lyons.

It was unanimously decided that the C.G.I.T. would sell subscriptions to the Observer, the official United Church publication.

The scripture reading was given and the purpose and aims of the C.G.I.T. were explained. A period was spent in learning songs.

B.C.I. Juniors Swamp Albert 30-0 In Finals

By DON DOLAN

At Albert College field yesterday afternoon, the B.C.I. Juniors earned the right to compete in the COSSA playdowns by decisively defeating Albert College Juniors 30-0.

The first game of the playdowns will be played as the first part of a doubleheader at Albert College field on Saturday. Peterborough CI will provide the opposition and the starting time will be one o'clock. The senior game, originally scheduled for 2:15 p. m. will be played immediately following the junior game or at approximately 3 p. m. The same admission price of 25c will be charged for both games.

Good All Way

As for yesterday's game, B.C.I. showed plenty of agility as they outran, outpassed, outkicked and outtackled their opponents from Albert College. The weaker Albert team kicked off to B.C.I. who started a forward march down the field which did not stop until Burroughs had crossed the goal line for a touchdown. This same Burroughs played his best game of the season for B.C.I. as he picked off many large gains with some speedy and deceptive running.

Before the half ended B. C. I. scored two more touchdowns with Hagerman and O'Hara being the players to strike pay dirt. Philip converted all three B.C.I. majors and at the half B.C.I. led 18-0.

Kept Plugging

The boys in the red and black kept on the move as the second half opened and were quickly rewarded as Nickle scored a touchdown which Philip converted. Then on the kick-off Nickle boomed a tremendous punt which landed behind the Albert goalline. A swarm of B.C.I. tacklers rushed downfield and trapped an Albert player for a single point. Great runs by Burroughs, Moore and O'Hara set the stage for the final score which resulted from a Philip-to-Farmer pass.

The rest of the L. line played well in victory, being paced by O'Hara, Geyer and Nickle. Burroughs, Philip and O'Hara led the offensive for the winners. Every member of the Albert team gave his all in a losing cause, although no one individual stood out particularly.

Lineups:

Albert College: Ends, Heaton, Brown; middles, Hodd, Gibson; insides, Death, Wood; centre, B. Fleck; quarter, Burke; halves, Leef, Scott, McCullough; flying wing, Guilfoyle; subs, H. Fleck, Wagaman, Graham, Schultz.

B. C. I. — Ends, Page, Farmer; middles, Nickle, Adamson; insides, Geyer, Spence; centre, O'Hara; quarter, Philip; halves, Thompson, Hagerman, Moore; flying wing, Parker; subs, Burroughs, Soule, Mayers, Cherry, Lewis, Burroughs, Morden, Hiles, Watt, Bingham, Ashley.

Officials — referee, Sam Green; umpire, A. Fitzgibbon; head linesman, H. Townsend.

Canadian Surgeon Dies Attending Medical Convention

Vancouver, Nov. 3 — (CP) — Dr. Austin Birrel Schinbein, 64, one of Canada's most brilliant and respected surgeons, died yesterday in Boston, Mass., where he was attending a meeting of the American College of Physicians and surgeons.

He was chief of surgery at Vancouver General and nearby Shaughnessy hospitals for the past 25 years.

A native of Listowel, Ont., he was made a Fellow of the Physicians and Surgeons College in 1917, and later became its governor, vice-president and regent.

He also was a Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons of Canada. He was educated at the University of Toronto and graduated in 1907.

He served with the Canadian army overseas during the First World War and was commended in dispatches by the commander of British forces in Salonika.

In 1946 Dr. Schinbein received the O.B.E. in recognition of his long service as a surgeon, particularly with the armed forces.

He is survived by his widow, Grace, and one son, John, who is studying final-year medicine at the University of Toronto.

Greek Premier Resigns Office For Third Time

Athens, Greece, Nov. 3 (AP)—Premier Sophocles Venizelos handed his resignation to King Paul I Thursday.

It was the third time that Venizelos, Liberal Party leader, had stepped down as head of the government in about a year of stormy political change. His latest government —a coalition of Liberals, Populists (Royalist) and Social Democrats — was formed only a month and a half ago.

Venizelos resigned after Constantin Tsaldaris, Populist leader and vice-premier, had refused to withdraw from the government in connection with scandals involving millions of dollars at the Piraeus, Athens' port. The scandals were blamed on the Populist party.

Earlier, Venizelos had indicated he was planning to break up the coalition if differences with Tsaldaris over the Piraeus could not be adjusted.

Tsaldaris issued a statement saying he had recommended that the king accept Venizelos' resignation, to be followed by formation of a cabinet including representatives of all parties but without party leaders as ministers, under a non-member of parliament, George Ventiris.

Ventiris is supported by an extreme right-wing clique considered close to the palace. He is a brother of Gen. Constantine Ventiris, inspector-general of the army, and is regarded as the righthand man of Field Marshal Alexander Papagos, Greece's popular military hero.

Venizelos and his coalition colleagues were sworn in Sept. 13.

Canada May Be Asked to Produce U.K. Jet Bombers

Defence Minister Shinwell Advances Idea at Parley

Ottawa, Nov. 4 (CP) Britain's Defence Minister, Emanuel Shinwell, says Canada may be asked to produce the new British jet-propelled medium bomber, the Canberra, generally considered an ideal vehicle for the atom bomb.

The British minister raised the matter himself during a press conference yesterday prior to going into talks with the defence committee of the cabinet.

He put it forward as one way in which standardization of arms could work among Atlantic Pact powers.

Both Canada and the United States, he said, might use the Canberra themselves in the build-up of western military defensive forces.

It was "only an idea — I'm not committed to him."

But his reference gave official weight to reports that Britain would like to have Canada make the new bomber in the big Montreal plant of Canadair Limited, at present producing modern fighters for the RCAF.

Mr. Shinwell arrived yesterday along with The Netherlands War Secretary, Fockema — Andreae. They came up from Washington by air with Defence Minister Claxton, who returned from Atlantic Treaty talks there.

Look Over Facilities

The two visitors will spend four days in Canada and will look over this country's training and war production facilities, including the Canadair plant.

Mr. Fockema — Andreae, in a later press conference, expressed his country's gratitude for Canada's gift of equipment for a Dutch army division.

He reiterated Mr. Shinwell's acceptance of the principle of German rearmament, as long as it is welded into the common plan for western defence in Europe.

At his press conference Mr. Shinwell also said the Korean War has arrested a tendency to drift into a feeling that, after all, "we can't afford to take risks and we don't intend to."

He said that unresolved problems of Atlantic Pact countries, such as the position of Germany, should be cleared up soon at a new meeting of the Pact Foreign Ministers.

FINED $576.93

St. Catharines, Nov. 4 (CP)— Charles Blume, proprietor of the Service Dry Cleaning of Thorold, Ont., Friday was fined a total of $576.93 for collecting unemployment insurance from his employees and failing to pay the funds to the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Frank Keenan, prosecuting, said Blume had collected a total of $463.43 from his employees over a 17-month period. Despite repeated warnings from the commission he had failed to remit the money.

Living Costs In September Up 0.9 Points

Ottawa, Nov. 4. (CP)—Living costs made their eighth advance in nine months during September moving the cost-of-living index up 0.9 points to a peak of 170.7 from 169.8, the Bureau of Statistics reported Friday.

Prices generally were higher all along the consumer front. The major exception was meat prices which decreased after a sharp upward drive during spring and summer months.

Prices increased for eggs, butter, milk, coffee, fruits, coal and gas, fall and winter clothing, footwear, tires, certain drugs and other items.

With September's advance, the Bureau estimated that living costs had climbed 69.3 per cent since August, 1939. The index is calculated on the basis that 1935-39 prices equal 100.

On the wholesale front, prices during October appeared to level off, an official said there seemed probably from the government's move to keep the dollar and the subsequent rise in the dollar on the New York market.

However, he did not believe this levelling-off would be long maintained. Some dealers, he said, already were increasing their prices which would tend to eliminate the antiinflationary effects of the dollar change.

On the consumer level, the food sub-index advanced 1.3 points to 220.1 from 218.8—a gain of 15.1 points from 205.0 a year ago. Prices for eggs, butter, milk, coffee and fruits led over-balanced declines in meat and fresh vegetable prices.

Children Find Bag of Snakes Some Poisonous

Munich, Germany, Nov. 4 — (Reuters) — Police rushed to a vacant lot Thursday when passers - by saw children take a bundle of snakes and lizards from a sack and start playing with them.

Police chased the children away and caught 80 snakes, some of them poisonous, and a South American boa. Two dead snakes escaped.

The snakes had been stolen from a travelling show. Police believe the thief tossed it away as soon as he discovered what he had stolen.

PRESENT STATUE

Tokyo, Nov. 4—(Reuters)— Japanese Buddhists are to present a 10-foot statue of Buddha, dedicated to peace, to United Nations headquarters Kyodo News Agency reported today. The statue, which took a Japanese sculptor two years to carve, will be dedicated at a Tokyo temple before it leaves for New York.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Nov. 4—(CP)—Synopsis: Ontario awoke this morning to find a cloak of snow over most of the province. Snow fell during most of the night in southern regions despite temperatures which remained above freezing until early this morning. A disturbance which yesterday caused only a narrow band of showers in the mid-western states has rapidly intensified and now is blanketing the Ohio valley and Ontario with rain and snow.

Continuation of the wet weather throughout the day and night is anticipated for southern and central regions. Sunday will be cloudy and continuing cool.

FOR USE IN U.S.

A rapid-fire United States twin-mount, power-driven three-inch naval gun will be built by Sorel Industries, Ltd., Sorel, Que., for the U.S. Navy and the Royal Canadian Navy. A $10,000,000 order has been placed at the plant for the anti-aircraft weapon, described as "the most complicated gun ever built in Canada." This R.C.N. photo was obtained from the U.S. Navy in Washington. — (CP Photo.)

Duck Hunter from Scarboro Bluffs Killed Accidentally by Shotgun Blast

Campbellford (Special) — Gerald Osborne Amon, 46, of Scarboro Bluffs, was instantly killed by a blast from his own shotgun eight miles north of here this morning. Amon was alone in a boat while duck hunting, and the full blast caught him in the chest.

Amon was with five other adults and two children, but late information this morning did not provide their names. Two of the other two men were out of sight of Amon when they heard the blast. At the time, they were looking for another place to hunt, and hearing Amon's gun go off, they moved in that direction, thinking he might have spotted some ducks. When they got to Amon, he was dead.

The accident occurred at a spot on the Trent River known as Cole's Point. Amon's Scarboro Bluff's address is 53 Drake Crescent.

U.N. Assembly May Lift Ban on Sending Their Top Diplomats to Franco Spain

By STANLEY JOHNSON

New York, Nov. 4—(AP)—The United Nations was expected to revoke today its four-year ban on sending ambassadors to Franco Spain and to grant Spain the right to join organizations affiliated with the U.N., but not to join the world body itself.

Although the United States is supporting the move to lower the barriers raised against Spain in 1946, President Truman made it clear at his press conference Thursday that it would be a long time before he heeds an American ambassador to Madrid.

The U.S. position is that the U.N.'s anti-Franco resolution has failed to accomplish any worthwhile aim and is just an irritation to those countries—chiefly in Latin-America—which have sentimental ties with Spain.

Assembly action on Spain ends one of the bitterest weeks the U.N. ever has had.

During the week Russia suffered four of her most stinging diplomatic defeats. These were:

1. Extension of Trygve Lie's term as secretary-general for three years despite Soviet threats not to deal with him.

2. Passage of the U.S. anti-aggression plan which big-powered Russia's security council veto by giving the assembly military power to combat threats to the peace.

Reject Peace Plan

3. Approval by the political committee yesterday of a companion measure — called "peace through deeds"— which defines aggression as the gravest crime against mankind. This was passed after rejection of a Soviet "peace plan" based on the Stockholm peace resolution, which the west denounced as a highly misleading.

4. Condemnation by the assembly yesterday of three Russian satellites—Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania—for flagrant violation of human right. This resolution was sparked by the imprisonment of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty and the imprisonment and execution of other religious and political leaders.

Speaking in support of the anti-aggression proposal, Canada's external affairs minister, L. B. Pearson, said the world should not allow a repetition of the betrayal of collective security as happened in the 1930s.

"We must sit within the measure of our capacities, contribute to fix (the anti-aggression plan) implementation," Pearson said.

"That will be the test of the sincerity of our words in favor of collective security."

The U.N. also pushed on its work on Korean rehabilitation and planned aid to under-developed countries as visualized in President Truman's "point four" plan.

Allied Forces Against Chinese Form Firm Line

Seoul, Nov. 4—(AP)— Allied forces formed a firm line today against Chinese and Korean communist resistance — a line that stood unbroken in the face of renewed red attacks.

A U.S. Eighth Army spokesman said "the equivalent of" at least two Chinese divisions are battling United Nations forces in northwest Korea.

On the Korean east coast, the U.S. marines still were in trouble.

The victory that had seemed so simple last month had changed complexion. One high-ranking Eighth Army officer said the reds probably have 300,000 troops deployed along the Korean-Manchuria border.

The spokesman said the Chinese reds may have 1,000,000 or more troops within "committing distance," meaning they could strike from their present locations.

However, Intelligence Officers said there still is doubt about whether Red China has sent regular divisions into Korea.

As yet there was no "pattern or proof."

Withdrawal Complete

In the most crucial area, at Unsan and Kunu inland from the west coast, Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said the entire withdrawal strategy is "almost completed".

The situation there appeared, on the basis of field dispatches, to be stabilized.

In northwest Korea, half of a trapped regiment of the U.S. 1st Cavalry division escaped to the new U.N. defence line from a trap sprung Thursday by the Korean reds, aided by Chinese communist troops.

On the northeast front, the American Marine 7th Regiment ran into trouble on a drive northward of Sudong, 20 miles north of the east coast industrial city of Hamhung. The marines are driving toward the Changjin reservoir, one of two power dams serving both North Korea and southern Manchuria.

CHINESE COMMIES LIKELY TO ENTER KOREAN CONFLICT

Hong Kong Officials Fear Third Great War

By FRED HAMPSON

Hong Kong, Nov. 4 — (AP) — The Chinese communists have opened the floodgates of propaganda, and the ensuing roar sounds as if they intend full-scale intervention in Korea.

Already the growing evidence that the Chinese have entered the Korean War in limited extent is causing uneasiness in non-communist areas of this part of Asia.

The feeling in this Crown colony on the edge of red China is that the world is only a narrow step away from a third great war.

And such a war would bring the heavy force of communist arms to bear against such small, non-communist areas as this.

The prevailing opinion here still is that the Chinese communists have only a limited objective in mind in Korea. Most observers believe they are worried about the Yalu River power grid, which supplies electricity to much of Manchuria's industries.

Another explanation is that the Chinese moved troops into Korea to establish a buffer zone between Manchuria and Red Korea. Manchuria is the main industrial area in which the Chinese communists say they intend to build a modern China. They always have been hypersensitive about Manchuria.

On the other hand, the new outbreak of propaganda with its promises of intervention sounds ominous.

The Peiping radio says it has received "appeals and letters from persons "anxious to join their Korean neighbors in annihilating the aggressive American hordes" in Korea.

Observers recognize this as a communist effort to condition their people for war. And they believe it sounds more like full-scale rather than limited intervention.

If the fateful step is taken, what will be the reason? The power or buffer explanation seem inadequate for such a momentous decision.

Observers frankly admit they cannot think of any explanation unless it is that the Chinese communists are so completely under Moscow's control that they are taking an order from Russia that will mean China's ruin.

PLUNGES TO DEATH

New York, Nov. 4—AP—A 38-year-old man plunged six storeys to his death from Rockefeller Centre building yesterday, narrowly missing pedestrians on Fifth Avenue. The man was identified by police as Guy Bowden, assistant treasurer of a large aluminum import corporation. The company has offices in the British Empire building, from the roof of which Bowden jumped or fell.

India Offers Asylum to Dalai Lama Should He Flee to Avoid Capture

By STEVEN A. DAVID

New Delhi, India, Nov. 4 (CP) —India has offered to give asylum to the boy god-king ruler of Tibet, should he flee his country to China to avoid capture by Chinese communist officials disclosed today.

But foreign ministry officials viewed with skepticism Reasray reports from the border patrol of Kalimpong that the priest-ruler and his elderly regent already have left Lhasa with their entourage capital on the roof 'the world.

But they admitted puzzlement at the long silence of Dr. S. Sinha, Indian diplomatic representative in Lhasa.

His last report, received Oct. 30, said that Chinese troops had received directly from the Tibetan capital so far. It said Chinese communist troops then were 200 airplane miles east of Lhasa.

His report also inquired whether the 16-year-old Lama would be given refuge in India if he desired it. India's reply was that asylum would be granted any legitimate refugee.

Rumors are generated briskly at Kalimpong, on India's north border, where they are picked up by newsmen. Last night that the Chinese communists were within 190 miles of Tibet's capital.

The invaders were said to have left Chamdo on Oct. 19 and, from Jyekundo in the Chinese province of Tsinghai, it is considered the easiest road to Lhasa.

There would be the northern prong of a two-pold Chinese assault on Tibet. The other column is pushing into the country from China's Sikang province, and recently was reported to have captured Chamdo.

The fall of Chamdo is said to be regarded as disastrous by the Tibetans in Kalimpong because Chamdo had quarted 3,000 of its best troops there.

Finish Training At Fort Lewis Before Moving Off

Advance Party Leaves Japan For Korean Base at Pusan

Ottawa, Nov. 4 (CP) —Defence Minister Claxton announced today that an infantry battalion and supporting troops from Canada's special brigade will move to Korea in November.

The battalion selected is the second battalion Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

The remainder of the special brigade will remain in Fort Lewis, Wash., where it will be available for service required of Canada as a member of United Nations and of the North Atlantic treaty.

Mr. Claxton said that arrangements have been completed to move the 11,000-man special force to Fort Lewis for training purposes. The movement will begin Nov. 15 and will be completed on Nov. 23.

About 350-men from the force already are bound for Korea. They arrived in Yokohama, Japan, Saturday and sailed for Korea today. The men include cooks, drivers and other tradesmen needed to set up the main portion of the brigade that is to follow.

Claxton Statement

Mr. Claxton said in his statement:

"Arrangements have been completed whereby the Canadian Army Special Force will proceed to Fort Lewis, near Seattle, as planned. The move will begin about Nov. 15 and be completed on Nov. 23.

"Before proceeding all members of the force receive four days leave in addition to time for travel to and from their homes.

"As at present planned, late in November one infantry battalion with some supporting troops will move directly to Korea where it will continue training and assist other United Nations forces.

The battalion selected is the Second Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry.

"The remainder of the force will continue training at Fort Lewis and be available for service to assist in discharging undertakings by Canada under the United Nations Charter or the North Atlantic Treaty.

"Canadian forces — Navy, Army and Air Force — employed in the Far East, will be relieved by other units when in rotation if their stay is prolonged."

More Advanced

It was learned that the Princess Pats have become so advanced and had proceeded to the advanced stage of their training faster than other units of the Special Brigade.

It is not expected that they will do any fighting in Korea until at least two months after their arrival there. They will continue their training and possibly do some police work.

The squadron commanded by Admiral E. R. Mainguy has also visited Cherbourg, where the Canadian naval ensign flew for the first time at a French port.

Tedious Job of Grouping Viruses For Polio Vaccine Half Completed

Kansas City, Nov.4—AP—The tedious job of grouping viruses in a search for a vaccine against polio is half way to completion.

The University of Kansas medical school is doing the work here. Three other universities are helping classify particles sponsored by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. All are trying to find out how many kinds of polio viruses there are. These viruses are tiny particles, indistinguishable from each other in microscopes.

Three kinds are known. Before a safe vaccine can be made medical science has to know whether there are others.

The difficulties are almost incredible, as shown by the work assigned here.

The only method is to take a sample of virus from a person with human polio case and then test it on monkeys. In two years the Kansas group has tested 50 virus samples. That has required 2,200 monkeys and cost $140,000.

The Kansas group still has 50 more polio strains to go. But this second lap is expected to take only about a year.

The encouragement is that no new kind was found in the first 50. Better still, half of these came from all over the United States and Europe, China and the Philippines. This indicates polio may be much the same the world over.

All 50 here belonged to only 2 of the three kinds. One is the Brunhilde strain, named for a chimpanzee at Johns Hopkins University, where it was isolated in 1939. The other is the Lansing strain, named after Lansing, Mich., also in 1939. The third, not yet found here, is named after Leon, after a boy who had polio in Los Angeles. It was isolated in 1931.

TRAINING COURSES WILL BE HELD THROUGHOUT PROVINCE

One day leadership training courses for officers of junior farmer clubs in the province will be held at various centres throughout late in November and in early December it was announced by the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food today. The one-day leadership training school for the Bay of Quinte district will be held at Stirling.

THREE MINISTERS TAKE PART

Three ministers from the Belleville area recently took part in the proceedings of Queen's University Theological Alumni Association conference held at the university. They were: Rev. D. M. J. Buttars, of Inglewood, and formerly of Bloomfield; Rev. J. F. Evans, and Rev. J. W. Platt, both of Belleville.

The conference marked the 100th year of the establishment of Queen's Techological College. Principle speaker was Dr. Robert T. McNeill, D.D., of Union Theological Seminary, New York, one of the world's authorities on church history, who delivered the chancellor's lectures.

FIREMEN CALLED TO CITY BARNS

Firemen were called to the city barns shortly before noon today after a tar pot boiled over and caught fire. Employees of the public works department grabbed a fire extinguisher and had extinguished the blaze just as the fire department arrived. The tar was being heated just outside the city barns to make up cold patch for patching city streets.

Citizens Awake to Find Snow Mantle Covering Ground

Although there was ample warning that colder weather was on the way, residents of the Bay of Quinte district were more than a little surprised when they looked out this morning to find a white mantle of snow covering the ground. the snowfall which covered the ground to a depth of an inch was a heavy fall for the first part of November.

The snow commenced falling shortly after midnight and by morning had turned into rain which continued until mid-afternoon.

City streets were made slippery by the early traffic wheels cut through to the pavement and at least one minor motor accident occurred which was attributed to the snow.

On the highways, however, there were no reports of any mishaps as result of the snow.

40-Role Operetta Produced By Two Churches

The "Gypsy Rover", a specially written operetta, was presented at the Belleville Collegiate Institute, on Wednesday evening under the auspices of Holloway Street Church and St. Paul's Church, Stirling.

Nearly 800 people saw the 40-role operetta directed and produced by Mrs. A. E. Baker, of Stirling. The show was sponsored by Holloway Street, and the entertainment was provided by the Stirling group, Mrs. Annie Warren and Bill Reynolds took lead roles.

The "Gypsy Rover" is set in the George III period. All the costumes and wigs were produced by the ladies helpers. The Stirling share of the proceeds will go towards the purchase of new gowns for the St. Paul's choir.

Committees Will Carry Out Wishes of Council

City council at their regular committee meeting on Monday night agreed to share one half the cost of the purchase of 20,000 merchant booklets costing $2,400. The booklets containing information regarding the city and tourist attractions in the county, will be made available for distribution to tourists and others.

Council also approved of a recommendation for advertising to the electors at the forthcoming municipal election a referendum as to whether or not they wish to grant a franchise to the Eastern Gas Company for distribution of natural gas in the city. The franchise would be subject to a satisfactory agreement being arranged among the parties concerned and would not be subject to verification by the city solicitor that no financial obligation would be incurred by the city.

The local board of health will be advised that an extension of sewer services along the north side of Dundas Street, east of MacDonald would be done under local improvements if a petition is presented and they will have to petition for the construction.

Investigate Request

A committee of Aldermen Hudson, Hyde and Wise will investigate the request of the E. J. Ruddy Company of Belleville for the use of advertising signs in ...ous parts of the city.

Aldermen Hudson, Armstrong, Lattimer and Clarke will investigate the request of Jessie Cotton, Centre Street, to open a used car lot in the area, Bridge and Dufferin streets, Trenton.

Still another committee of Aldermen Deacon, Hyde and Rice will investigate the feasibility of extending sewers north.

City solicitor was instructed to take appropriate legal steps to enforce the payment of the sign license fee in the city. Many owners of signs failed in the by-law failed to pay their sign fee, it was stated.

Consider Night Court

Wilkinson, managing secretary of the Hamilton Automobile Club, said today. Wilkinson told reporters said Mr. Wilkinson, could not afford to lose time from work to attend traffic court in the afternoon, and as a result paid fines instead of taking time off work.

"I'LL BUY THAT!"

Ald. R. T. Potter Will Contest City Mayoralty

Alderman Dr. Richard T. Potter announced today that he will be a candidate for the mayoralty in the forthcoming civic elections.

In a statement issued last night, Alderman Potter said he had decided to contest the mayoralty after careful consideration and at the request of a number of citizens.

Dr. Potter recalled in his statement that a record vote had been established in the civic elections last year, and he had had the great fortune to lead the successful aldermanic candidates with the largest number of votes ever cast in the city.

Interested for some time in city affairs, Dr. Potter said one of his interests was civic recreation especially along junior lines. This interest, he added, was manifested two years ago when he established the chain of junior playgrounds in Belleville.

Recalling his term as alderman, Dr. Potter said he had been active on the newly-formed recreation committee, in connection with the assistance of private subscriptions and those of other organizations, had made possible recreational facilities for the children of Belleville during the past summer.

BMB Band Notes

By TREBLE CLEF

Money, always money. Now we are wondering from whence comes the additional $1,000 Band grant shown in the budget last Saturday night. Being our own best and most avid fans we actually gave it a thought, paper quite thoroughly besides the funnies and the personals looking for our column. But frankly, the amount of the grant is really only $1,200 not the amount mentioned in the budget. Now maybe we can get away from the monotonous conversation onto something lighter.

Last Saturday morning found quite an unofficial affair. Our first glimpse of the gentleman of state when he left the train was quite a thrill. We played our best "General Salute" for him at the President Arch and gave our fellow marchers during the inspection. We pause to mention that the blue and gold attire of one band member was not due to a lack of B.M.B. uniforms, but it was because our regular drummer boy was absolutely unable to attend, and failed to notify us, for the attendance. In any case thanks to the Kinsmen's band for filling the gap with services of one of their members.

It was an honor to lead the Centennial Catch Penny Parade which ends the Prime Minister bareheaded, regardless of the intermittent showers.

No doubt/many people missed the "Trooping of the Colors" which was carried out after the rest of the morning's excitement was over. The Hasty-Py is the tune of a slow march "By Land and Sea" by Richard Rodgers.

There was no broadcast last Tuesday night as we intimated, due to the fact that only a large number of the band members being elsewhere on account of Hallowe'en parties. However, if you check next Tuesday's radio news in the paper you'll know where we do, whether there's a broadcast next Tuesday or not. We expect there will be time to give a listen.

Sometimes we feel our daily routine life is all in vain. As far as we know with all our pleading we find ourselves in a position there are to date no (none, that is) new members to our association and as far as we know almost the same number of requests for the broadcast program. We have some lively martial music on tap, lots of music in a lighter vein, but by and large we're tired of the variety of workhorse and listenable music avail- able for Tuesday. All we need is a suggestion of your choice.

We hasten to retract our postscript of last week, having been informed that members of the B.M.B. band can fulfill their own wishes with regard our Tuesday night broadcast. We would welcome them at any time, so come on down fellers.

Well, with Tuesday's paper for radio time, and we'll see you next week.

—Bass Clef.

Ed's Note: The $2,200 figure which you read was read $1,200 was one of those bugbears of a newspaper, the typographical error.

Earl McWhirter of Boulter paid $10 and costs and Donald Murray of Barry's Bay paid $5 and costs for careless firing.

It cost eight men each $10.00 and costs for being found in a place where game was afoot.

Two motorists paid fines of $2.00 and costs for having improper lights.

The Crown was represented by Assistant Crown Attorney S. G. Robertson of Belleville.

Two Cars Damaged

Two cars were damaged beyond repair when vehicles driven by Sidney Johnson, Foxboro and Fred Browse of Maynooth Station had a head-on collision on Highway No. 62 in Maynooth at 5 p.m. on Wednesday afternoon. The accident happened in front of Dan Goodwin's house in the main section of the village. Browse suffered personal injuries and cracked ribs and Best received several minor scratches and bruises about the face.

Luckily there was only one passenger in each car.

The investigation was by Provincial Constable J. J. Geebel of Bancroft.

Donald Landry Forms Choral Society

Bancroft — Under the guiding hand of Donald Landry, one of the itinerant music teachers in North Hastings, a Bancroft Choral Society was formed on Wednesday night when a score of people held their organizational meeting and first practice in the music room of the Bancroft Public School.

Florence Tryon was elected business manager of the club. The immediate plans of the group are to hold weekly practices in order to present their first effort, an operetta, during the Christmas holidays.

12,000 Nationalist Guerrillas Raid City of Siliung

Taipei, Formosa, Nov. 4—(AP) —Chinese Nationalists said today that 12,000 Red guerrillas raided an important southwest China city, killed more than 500 casualties on the communist garrison and took more than 100 prisoners.

The city, Siliung, is 175 miles east of Kweilin, Siliung is the capital seat in Kwangsi Province.

The reports said the guerrillas captured Siliung on Sept. 25 after a three-hour battle. They said the guerrilla force, largest in the area of Red China city, operated under the banner of the Nationalist 48th Army.

Says African Leader's Name Replaces Deity

London, Nov. 4 (Reuters) — The followers of an African political leader on the Gold Coast are trying to give "substituting his name for that of the Almighty," General Gammans, Conservative member of parliament, said yesterday.

He told the House of Commons they also sing hymns always substituting the name of their leader, Kwame Nkrums, for that of Christ.

Gammans claimed that the presence of Nkruma in the colony—self-governing—he is in jail —is endangering the government's plans to give the Gold Coast a new constitution with its own elected legislature.

Nkruma's party, which has been accused of communist affiliations, is using threats and force to win votes, Gammans said.

CONDUCTOR WOUNDED

Port Arthur, Nov. 4—(CP)—A Canadian Pacific Railway conductor was shot and wounded Thursday night while sitting in the cupola of a caboose as a freight train passed Gurney, about 30 miles east of Schreiber. Condition of the conductor, William Alcorn of Schreiber, with a wound just below the left armpit, is not serious.

Mayor H. J. Allin Announces Stand For Re-Election

Mayor Jack Allin announced today that he would definitely be a candidate for the mayoralty in the year 1951.

The mayor said that he feels, in view of his experience and experience in public service as chairman and member of the Board of Control, chairman of industrial and council member, he should offer his services again inasmuch as there are many problems facing the city that require experienced administration.

Many problems, he said, have arisen over the past ten years due to the great growth experienced by Belleville. As chairman of the Industrial Commission, he added, he was confident that the establishment of several new industries on 1951 which would mean adjustments, with plans already made by the council.

Mayor Allin pointed out in a statement issued today, that during 1950 the financial department of the Belleville General Hospital has been under considerable by the extensive improvements measures are in the making which, he felt, should be carried out to a successful conclusion.

He added that in 1951 the city will assume ownership of the former County Home and deal with the disposal of the buildings in connection with the establishment of a convalescent hospital.

Another item is the establishment of a Health Unit in the city, which the mayor stated that he has been discussed to some length by the 1950 council and, he said, that this important question involving large expenditure be placed before the electorate at the forthcoming election. He feels that if the electors are in favor of the establishment of a Health Unit, municipal financing experience be placed in charge of city affairs.

He would like a second year in office, he stated, in order to conclude the many beneficial projects in which he has taken an active interest.

French Troops Begin Retreat Again in Hanoi

Saigon, Indo-China, Nov. 4 — (AP) — French troops today began a new retreat, this time from positions in the foothills 45 miles northwest of Hanoi.

Official reports said the small French post of Vubanh and a whole string of outposts and guard towers are being evacuated in a new retrenchment of defence lines around Hanoi, north Indo-China metropolis and key centre in the Red River delta.

Since September the French have been carrying out a series of retreats from frontier forts facing Communist China, north of Hanoi.

The French force of 1,200 fleeing Laokay, isolated northwest frontier fort which was the latest to be evacuated in the north reached Chapa today. That post is 20 miles southwest of Laokay.

The French troops falling back from the Vubanh region were relinquishing their last fortified positions west of the Day River. The Day River, running from southwest to northeast, traces a course about 12 miles west of Hanoi through Phuly, 35 miles south of Hanoi.

The French have a line of outposts along the river to defend the Red River delta from the south.

A French military spokesman said the garrison which abandoned Laokay will probably add strength to fight at one point on the retreat. Ho Chi Minh's communist-led Nationalists attacked the rear-guard at Camdung, eight miles south of Laokay.

Laokay was the seventh fort on the Chinese frontier abandoned by the French in the last seven weeks. Their frontier defence now lies entirely north on a mile line anchored at Monway on the Day River.

The Viet Minh now can attempt an assault on Hanoi from either the north or south.

Two Sudbury Men Killed as Train Hits Automobile

Sudbury, Nov. 4 (CP) —Two Sudbury men were killed early today when their car was struck by a Canadian National Railways train at a crossing on the Falconbridge road, about four miles northeast of here.

The men were Carl C. Jackson, 30, and Peter McCarthy, 40. Provincial police are investigating.

Early History of the Moira Valley

From Moira Valley Conservation Report

MILLS AND INDUSTRY

(19th Instalment)

A group of Anglicans applied in 1818 for a grant of part of the ground reserved for churches and in 1819-20 built the first St. Thomas' Church. (This church certainly had a resident rector by the following year.) It is believed that a small frame meeting-house had been put up by one group of Methodists even earlier, but this was not completely finished when it was replaced in 1831 by the brick building still standing on Pinnacle Street (later used as the Masonic Temple and now used for commercial purposes.) By 1829 Presbyterian (Church of Scotland) and Roman Catholic churches had been built on Church Street and in 1836 there were already congregations of American Presbyterians and Episcopal Methodists, who had not yet built themselves churches.

The early thirties were "boom years" in Belleville. Business was expanding and the population increasing rapidly. New and better buildings were being put up and the village was spreading out on both sides of the river. Private sub-divisions had been made east of the government plot and "West Belleville" had been laid out on the west bank of the river. The conditions which produced this rapid development were general throughout the province. They were accompanied, and partly caused, by a great increase in immigration. At Belleville, the "boom" was directly connected with the development of the lumber trade. A great quantity of sawlogs and squared timber was run down the river each year with the freshet and assembled in the Bay above the rafts. The squared timber mostly went down the St. Lawrence to the Quebec "timber trade" which supplied the British trade. Part of the sawlogs went to the mills in New York State, but the Belleville sawmills were now producing a good deal of extra lumber, both for local use and for export to other parts of the province and to the States.

Besides the four saw mills within the original plot, a fifth (P. V. Encore marks five mills) established on the mouth of 1836. All of these probably included grist mills) was now growing in West Belleville (Chrisman's). A large axe-factory (Procter's) at the corner of Front Street, a pail factory, three tanneries, four cabinetmakers' and two wheelwrights' shops were all also using wood or wood products. There was ample scope for industry to make use of the residue of the timber burned in clearing farm land or consumed as firewood and there would be coopers making barrels for the flour mills although no large cooperage was listed (much of the information about Belleville in 1836 is to be found in the account furnished to Ralph by an inhabitant and published in the 1841 edition of his book. The list of businesses, etc., in Belleville proper is quoted in Cannif and from Cannif, in W. C. Mikel's "History of Belleville" but neither author gives the information about West Belleville. One of the cabinetmakers' shops was in West Belleville. No ashery is listed, but one had been active earlier and there was one in 1846.)

Lumbering and woodworking were the chief industries, but Belleville was becoming an important market town and the outlet for the produce of a prosperous area. Rochester flour mills were importing a considerable amount of grain from Canada and there was a demand for Canadian flour in Britain. A third flour mill of some size was being built in West Belleville in 1836 to supplement the two already running in Belleville and the erection of a fourth and still larger mill in West Belleville was "in contemplation by our enterprising townsman Mr. Flint." The two saw and planing mills which prepared the wool from the local flocks for spinning and weaving and dressed cloth. Spinning was still done at home, but there were probably professional weavers among the "mechanics of almost every description" to be found in the village in 1836. These were to be hand-workers, however, for there were still no cloth mills on the Moira.

Ten taverns in Belleville and one actoss the river provided refreshments and lodging for travellers. The farmer could also spend the money paid for his grain, wool, cattle and hides in twenty-five merchants' stores and 12 grocers and hucksters shops and get physic and medical counsel from two apothecaries. These last probably acted practically as physicians, visiting patients, diagnosing and prescribing for ordinary ailments, although there had been a regular doctor of medicine in practice in the village for some time. There were also one or two lawyers of some years' standing, but on the whole Belleville was a commercial town with few members of the professional or official classes.

The first newspaper published in Belleville was the "Phoenix," issued in February 1831 and continuing only until the next July. The "Hastings Chronicle" (which the "Phoenix" and had as brief a career. However, in 1834 the "Intelligencer" was started by George Benjamin and this paper has survived under various ownerships to the present day and is now one of the oldest newspapers in Ontario.

Altogether Belleville was a lively, bustling, progressive community in the middle thirties. An act to incorporate the place as a police village had been passed in 1834, but it was not put into force and was replaced by another act in 1836. Under this act the town was divided into wards for voting purposes and a board of police (the board of police is sometimes called a "council," but this is not the wording of the act) with a "president" or chairman was elected to manage the affairs of the village. The first "president" was Billa Flint, jr. (the "enterprising townsman" just referred to), who later played a major part in the development of Elzevir township as well as Belleville.

It is possible that growth had been a little too rapid and that Belleville had developed somewhat beyond the needs of the district. The peak of that particular wave of prosperity had already passed and some lean years were to follow. Economic distress was already adding to the political unrest which characterized the Province of Upper Canada. This unrest was evident in Belleville and the Moira region, but as yet there was little to damp the enthusiastic optimism of the inhabitants of the village.

Period of Growth—1837-1856

The later 1830's brought a sudden slackening of the stream of immigration and some degree of economic depression, due in some part to a falling off of demand in Britain for Canadian wheat. Matters did not greatly improve until well into the "forties" and these difficulties were not lessened by the threat of the Civil War and by epidemics of cholera and "swamp fever" (malaria.)

The Moira region had escaped the first cholera epidemic in 1832 (this is explicitly stated by Ralph's Belleville correspondent in 1836-37) and the second epidemic in the "forties" were much less severe, but it is not likely that the watershed escaped the fever which always presents in newly-cleared regions, rose to epidemic proportions about 1840. Certainly the development of the Moira area was slower in some respects between 1836 and 1850 than during the early "thirties."

The political unrest of the later "thirties" must have caused some disturbance in the district, though none of the civil events of the 1837 "outbreak" took place there. Sir Richard Bonnycastle speaks of Sidney and Thurlow as "disaffected" townships, containing "many specimens of furious revolutionists" and only held back from overt action by the influence of the "loyal" townships on either side, Mackenzie and his group of extreme partisans also believed that they would get considerable active support from the country folk by way of violent resistance. However, it would appear that both sets of extremists were deceived by a noisy minority.

H. C. McCollum, a merchant in Belleville, did actually send Mackenzie a list of 462 "pledged patriots" and there are indications that some men from Hastings county had been in touch with the latter at the skirmish on Yonge Street.

However, after the collapse of the movement, only about 75 names were returned as resident in the whole Midland district and not more than a third of these are likely to have been from Hastings county. The government was in possession of most of Mackenzie's papers, with his lists or supporters, so it seems probable that many of McCollum's "patriots" were not so firmly pledged as he had hoped.

There was certainly a strong party in the area which favored the Reform movement, probably a majority of the inhabitants, but here, as elsewhere in the province most of these were moderates who refused to join in any action involving disloyalty to the Crown. Though the region as a whole was quieter than most of the province, feeling was running high and there was some excitement in Belleville, where there was a group of boisterous Tories. The Hastings Militia was called out, but the revolt had collapsed almost before the men could assemble at Belleville. The chief incidents of their stay there were the accidental killing of one of the officers and the destruction of the stock of an inoffensive grocer, who was mistaken by the militiamen for a Mackenzie sympathizer.

The men who had been arrested as rebels were released after a few days, McCollum among the rest. He withdrew to the United States and did not return to Belleville. Another sufferer was Samuel Hart who had come to Belleville from Cobourg in 1836 and started a newspaper called "The Plain Speaker." He was a Reform man and a troublesome fellow and, when his paper came out one day with the Royal Arms upside-down, the Belleville Tories raided the printing shop, smashed the presses and dragged the editor through the muddy streets. Hart also fled to the United States where his subsequent doings made it plain that Belleville was well rid of a ruffian. (Hart was later sentenced to seven years in the penitentiary for an attempted piece of banditry at Cobourg.)

Plan to Secure a Lovely Spring Display

The little brown bulbs went to sleep in the ground,
In their little brown nighties they slept very sound,
And winter he raged and he roared over-head,
And never a bull turned over in bed.

But when Spring came tip-toeing over the lea,
Her finger on lip, just as still as could be,
The little brown bulbs at the very first tread,
All split up their nighties and jumped out of bed.

BERNARD SHAW

George Bernard Shaw, one of the greatest writers of this age who has written a large number of stage successes which gave him a high place in the dramatic literature of the world as one of the masters of English has laid down his work and left his fame to posterity. Anyone would be running the certainty of a great error who would venture to say that Shaw's plays will not endure the passage of time. They have for decades been earning for their writer not only success but fortune as far as earthly wealth goes.

His sparkling wit and rich humor made his dramas most sought for and gave him the leadership of the British school of writers for the stage. But Shaw was not a school but his own and in that school he was in the opinion of many critics one of the great writers of English in the drama and in the essay.

Shaw took delight in knocking down idols which many adored and deliberately shocked people's long-cherished notions, infuriated many and yet never feared those whose work he had criticized for his wit was perhaps unequalled or unrivalled in English and literature.

A sample of his writing is given in the advice he offered to young people. This is most interesting in the man who was one of the most famous men in the world, whose every utterance was gathered up and preserved because of the inestimable value of his opinion. His advice was, "Don't go in for being great people. To begin with, the people who think they are going to be great seldom come to that end.

"When I was a small boy I wanted to be a pirate; then I wanted to be an opera singer, then I wanted above all to be a great painter.

"The only thing I never wanted to be was a writer—and the reason was that I was a born writer. The thing was as natural to me as the use of water in my mouth—the taste because it's always there, at least in my mouth because I am a tee-totaller."

Shaw has left more than half a hundred plays, all marked by an irrepressible wit and originality, keen observation and some of these plays will doubtless take their place among the classics in English. Among great dramas are "Caesar and Cleopatra," "John Bull's Other Island," "Man and Superman," "Pygmalion," "Major Barbara," "Saint Joan" and many others. Some of the plays have been done into movie dramas with success.

He was late in arriving at the writing of plays, his first being written when he was 36 years old. Early in his life he had tried the writing of novels. He also wrote two volumes of interpretative studies. As an essayist he held high rank. But his forte was in the drama and essay.

It is rarely that a writer excels in so many fields as did Shaw. In all his writing in English was the envy of everyone who desires to write. He was a lover of music.

Shaw often irritated people by his utterances and written words. Yet everything was done in his unfailing style characteristic of the best of the man, the writer.

As a press notice of his passing said in commenting on his lifework, Shaw was credited with reviving the English drama after the golden age of Oliver Goldsmith and Richard Brinsley Sheridan. His ascription to himself of gifts conferred by the gods of Shakespeare's time was characteristic of the man and a proof of his Irish ancestry. He was a fabian socialist. He loved to attack the treasured opinions of others.

His will is naturally of the kind that cannot be imitated for it was the real Shaw himself.

Readers will recall references in recent years to his attitude towards his birthdays and his witty references to the occasions.

Fortunately for the generations to come Shaw has left real memorials of himself in his works and these will keep him before the coming generations no doubt as one of the great writers of the twentieth century in English. His opinions often ran conflicting with those of his time and the people generally. His so-called lack of religious belief was referred to by the minister, attending him, who said Shaw was not an atheist. In his attacks on what he felt was wrong he was outspoken. He was a master of satire and wit and humor at the same time.

The freedom he enjoyed to say what he pleased will indicate to the world of the future the freedom of British institutions as compared with those in the world today, or the United States he would never have been allowed to utter in some other countries, such as Russia. These prove the freedom which he and others have enjoyed under British democracy.

Those who celebrated Hallowe'en in this area did so in the best spirit of enjoyment and pleasure. There was no sign of serious or wanton damage to property. Everyone entered into the spirit of the make-believe of the time and as a result had one of the most enjoyable Hallowe'ens it was possible to have. This speaks for those who went to much trouble to play their part in the masquerade which is a natural form of pleasure associated with the observance of the time in these latter days and for all others.

WHAT SUCCESS IS

M I were questioned to say
what success is,
I'd answer: "It's playthings
that I've never dreamed.
It's meat on the table; an auto to ride in;
A home gay with laughter and love to abide in."

Success isn't luxury's treasures
exquisite,
For some may have these and through bitterness miss it.
It's fun in the growing up's little boys' chatter.
With gladness at home, all the rest doesn't matter.

small, gay with pulses;
Success is a garden, though
A few friends to call now and then, welcome guests.
A son, who for college, some day will be heading.
In time for the daughter—"a beautiful wedding."

It isn't in fortune or fame,
nor estate
For these for the spirit are merely a curtain.
It's faith for the heartaches
and strength for distresses,
The family united and proud,
This success is.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The art of calling wild creatures is as old as the hills amongst naturalists. But field naturalists are just starting to take it up in a popular way. Our Canadian Indians were always regarded as great hunters, not because they were wonderful shots with firearms, but because they could get close to their game very often by the device of calling the game to the hunter.

The birch bark horn, really a speaking tube, through which the hunter weakly whines and grunts like a cow moose, was one of the best known devices.

But I have seen Indians, by mouth alone, imitate the moose, hinds, chirps and other barely audible sounds, call weasels and mink out of their holes, decoy deer from their tree dens, beaver out of their houses, and the deer out of a dense alder thicket by imitating the bleat of a fawn.

In the West, experts can call the mule deer with a reed-like instrument. The modern duck hunter would not dream of shooting from a blind without a decoy call to attract the attention of the passing birds to his decoys. With a crow call you can pull crows down to within shotgun range.

There have always been field naturalists who could call certain birds by whistled imitations of their cries. Anybody can call chickadees the white throated sparrow, the crested fly catcher and the whip-poor-will by such imitations. But there has lately been a pressure on the under fur in New England states a trick for enticing all sorts of birds out of hiding. Field naturalists have used it this past season in all parts of Canada with great success, particularly in the nesting season; but it will work fairly well even in the winter time. It is so simple as to be hardly credible until you try it out. You simply hiss, in a series of short, sharp hisses, psh, psh, psh," through your teeth. What the birds think it is, nobody can say: a snake, an insect, one of other birds, a weasel. At all events, if you utter this small hissing sound in those parts in which birds are likely to be hiding, they will come out immediately, and usually at close range.

Strength for the Day

PAUPER IN AN INSTANT

Many years ago I knew a man who without the least hesitation said that money was his god. He dressed like a tramp. He hardly ate enough to keep body and soul together. But almost every day one could see him in the bank, bringing money in or going back to the safe deposit vault to examine his securities. He checked on little money out of the bank that bank officials wondered how he lived.

Religion, he declared, is bunk. Ministers are a lot of fakers, and the church is an institution designed to squeeze blood out of the gullible. Everything looked at the poor creature and wondered if he really enjoyed a single solitary satisfaction in life. To him the gateway to heaven was the deposit window in the bank. All his treasure was in securities. His number in a little tin box behind a steel door that opened with two keys.

So he lived day by day and decade by decade. His life appeared to have about it a deadly sameness. Yet he appeared to thoroughly enjoy the unrelenting servitude of things.

Considering that he could not take a dollar of this with him, I wonder whether he is now and ever has been a enjoying himself. Money was his god, but when the real God judged him on the shoulder of his own failure.

Author Sees Huge Industry Growing Along the Fraser

By FORBES RHUDE
(Canadian Press Business Editor)

The Fraser River in British Columbia can be used to create one of the great industrial centres of the world, Bruce Hutchison says in his book "The Fraser" (Clarke, Irwin).

It is estimated that the river can supply 6,000,000 horsepower of electricity, more than half the amount now being generated in all Canada.

"The experience of America in the last generation," says Hutchison, "shows that almost wherever has power production kept up to the demand for it.

"British Columbia is proceeding on the general assumption that when power is created, industry and the market for power will follow.

"If this assumption is sound in the future, the industries ultimately created by the Fraser will be at least the second factor in the Canadian industrial economy, the other being the industries of the Laurentian Valley.

Beyond Calculation

"The effect of this shift in economic balance from East to West on the economics, politics and living standards of the nation, is beyond calculation."

The Fraser is nearly 1,000 miles long, rising in the Rocky Mountains in the area of the Yellowhead Pass. It flows northwest, then south past Prince George, turns south for a long roguncill to Canada for a short distance, the coast at New Westminster, just south of Vancouver whose site the river helped to form.

Hutchison sees nearly 2,000,000 horsepower available in the first 325 feet in the long reaches between Prince George and Lytton; about 1,000,000 horsepower through diversions to tributaries flowing to the middle—B.C. reaches and the lower reaches through various tributaries.

He states that the Fraser now is accepted as a national responsibility and national opportunity, one of the largest facts in the country.

Mapping the Fraser

The Dominion - Provincial Board, Fraser River Basin, a committee of four representatives of the Dominion and four of the province, has been directing the immense task of mapping the Fraser not only for production of power but for irrigation, flood control, protection of fish and control of floods.

The book is the 42nd in the "Rivers of America" series, and the fourth Canadian river, following on the stories of "The Saskatchewan," "The Mackenzie" and "The St. Lawrence" by other authors.

Mr. Hutchison writes of the Fraser as one who has known it since boyhood and who loves it. He was born in Prescott, Ont., brought up in Victoria, started newspaper work with the Victoria Times, worked with the Vancouver Province and Vancouver Sun, and has, since 1945, been associate editor of the Winnipeg Free Press. He also is author of "This Unknown Country: Canada and Her People," and a novel, "The Hollow Men."

The book is illustrated by Richard Bennett, one of the United States' most talented artists, who illustrated the best seller "The Egg and I." He was born in Ireland, but is another product of Pacific coast upbringing, in the Puget Sound country of Washington State.

Facts in Building Nation

Hutchison sees the Fraser as the deciding factor in making Canada a nation from coast to coast. When Britain failed to maintain the naval supremacy which was the very breath of the Empire, so did Canada.

The Fraser's gold first peopled the Pacific coast. Its commerce for years it supplied water transport over much of its length. Its torous oxide (laughing gas), were given to inhalation through a mask or rubber face-piece, and in general were competently handled by the anesthetists, or technicians.

Sometimes occasionally an "anesthetic death" occurred and death resulting from anesthesia during operation. Sometimes before the operation was started—which was the fault of the doctor or of the anesthetist to understand. This and other complications resulting from anesthesia—deaths and all—plus the development of new agents and methods have provided an increasing number of physicians to meet the challenge of progress in this field.

One of the newer developments is anesthesia through the subarachnoid spinal anesthesia." Spinal anesthesia itself involves injecting into the spinal canal by means of a needle thrust through the skin, a drug in solution, such as is used in dentistry or nose and throat surgery. Continuous spinal anesthesia is used in operations which are time consuming and in which the usual anesthesia would be inadequate.

In this procedure, the anesthesiologist's services are indispensable, for while surgeons sometimes give their own spinal anesthetic before the operation, it would be humanly impossible for them to operate and oversee the continuity of the anesthetic at the same time.

A high degree of skill and a complete medical understanding of all the factors involved are required of the anesthesiologist who collaborates in the major operations on the chest and heart. Indeed, without this type of collaboration, these surgical procedures would be impossible. The technical skill essential to anesthesia in these cases can be acquired on the basis of a physician's training. In these dramatic instances, the surgeon does not give orders. Rather, he asks for instructions. The faultless co-ordination and team work of the anesthesiologist and surgeon in these cases almost defies description.

The anesthesiologist is prepared for the possibility and complication—a sudden circulatory collapse, a sudden standstill of the heart, the rupture of a bronchial tube, spasm of the intubated larynx, or other complications—which might develop. These contingencies are handled with complete success by a knowledge of drug action and administration, by having within easy reaching which only the specially trained physician could be expected to master.

Progress in the field of anesthesia—the birth of which very long only specially trained physicians—anesthesiologists will be increasingly available, in major cases. The hand writing seems to be on the wall.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Buttermilk

Is it advisable for one inclined to diuretic to drink buttermilk? Or should one drink only sweet milk or pasteurized or cultured buttermilk? Also, something is buttermilk is harmful to arthritic person. A. M.

Answer — As usual, Ben is wrong. Arthritis is merely a inflammation of joints. It is not, as Ben and you seem to think, a disease for which a diet should be followed. Drink whatever kind of milk you like, but try to consume not less than a quart a day. Any food is pasteurized if it is heated to 140 degrees F. for 20 to 30 minutes, then cooled.

Contact Lenses

Fall-off in U.S. Business Thought Possible in Some Quarters

By FORBES RHUDE
(Canadian Press Business Editor)

Peculiarly enough there is, just now, considerable talk about a possible fall-off in business.

This comes chiefly from the United States, but it may be heard in Canada also in this time of readjustments.

But the odd fact in all this is that there is virtually certain to be no such fall-off as people that can be produced—which means that there will be enough to go around for more than ample.

That is the over-all situation. The new situation which will show some people and some businesses being hit is the sharp turning from a half-peace economy to a half-war basis.

The new situation seems to have developed further in the United States than Canada.

But that comparison is appropriating, but it isn't spending," says a big Wall Street banker. "So we may be in for an interim deflation."

He thinks it will be a while before much cash is paid out for defence goods, and that people will dip in the next few months because the curbs and allocations are intended to put a small use of consumer spending and production.

The interim deflation would lie between the present full-tilt economy and the new inflation which the government controls are intended to prevent. And the time when the big boost from the planned defence production comes along. The banker thinks there may be a time lag between the slowing down of production for consumers and the start of actual production for defence.

Another banker thinks that a slump isn't in the cards, that inflation will go ahead at least until and that the very anticipation of defence orders and shortages will cause people to spend and businesses to build up their inventories.

Either view, of course, depends entirely on the one big "if"—the international situation. A change overnight to war or to a better prospect for peace and disarmament.

But whatever happens in the United States, there does not appear to be much need for worry for Canada, as far as over-all fall-off is concerned.

Our raw materials, which are in demand, are the great expansion of our resources—capital investment—that should, it would seem to put us in a strong position.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LIVE TRIUMPHANTLY

If you study history you have learned that there would have been no triumphs many a dark age, and through many a day of debt and doubt. So serious were the days that followed the decision of the American colonies to declare their independence from Great Britain that Thomas Paine spoke of them as days that "tried men's souls."

Men's souls have been tried since those days of the War between the States, and through the more recent days of World War I and today the souls of the peoples of the earth are undergoing the test of their faith they have in a democratic ideal for the free nations of the world. All live or be by-passed.

Were it not for the fact that there have always been leaders, and men who seemed to live triumphantly, we would never have known the good days that have outrun the bad ones. A certain man the philosophy of the great Louis Pasteur comes to me. He said: "And, no matter what your career may be, do not let yourself be absorbed by a deep-eating and barren skepticism, do not let yourselves be discouraged by the sadness of certain hours which pass over nations."

Live triumphantly. He had faith. He believed in God. He gave himself to the world, and lived through days of war. But in time without fear. He was founder of the science of bacteriology, through which millions of lives have been saved. And Pasteur is but one of thousands and thousands who have enriched human character upon living triumphantly. Each day each hour. Read those lines from Pasteur again. Live triumphantly. Be inspired to live the triumphant life because of the examples of others who have so lived. Such examples of faith and courage teach us to keep our chins up, to look forward and to banish fear from our lives. Live triumphantly each day and you will know happiness.

ANESTHETISTS AND ANESTHESIOLOGISTS

An optician is a person who manufactures glasses. An oculist is a physician who specializes in diseases of the eye. An optometrist is neither a physician nor a manufacturer of spectacles. He does not treat diseases of the eye. Rather, he prescribes lenses to improve vision. These distinctions are probably known to most persons. The distinction between an anesthetist and an anesthesiologist, is, I believe, not generally known to the public.

An anesthesiologist is a physician who specializes in anesthesia. A physician who occasionally gives an anesthetic does not qualify as an anesthesiologist. Anesthetists usually are nurses—male or female—who devote their professional efforts to this single field. Occasionally, a person who has had many years of nursing is trained as an anesthetist.

An anesthetist works under the jurisdiction of the surgeon who performs the operation. The surgeon is responsible for the functions and competency of the anesthetist. An anesthesiologist is directly responsible to the patient, as is the surgeon. He bills his patient for his services and pays his own name, not that of the hospital. While he works in close coordination with the surgeon, his judgment insofar as the anesthetic is concerned, is unquestioned and final.

In Canada very few physicians made a specialty of anesthesia. Most anesthetics consisted of ether, chloroform, nitrous oxide (laughing gas), were given by inhalation through a mask or rubber face-piece, and in general were competently handled by the anesthetists, or technicians.

Sometimes occasionally an "anesthetic death" occurred and death resulting from anesthesia during operation. Sometimes before the operation was started—which was the fault of the doctor or of the anesthetist to understand. This and other complications resulting from anesthesia—deaths and all—plus the development of new agents and methods have provided an increasing number of physicians to meet the challenge of progress in this field.

Life Full of Cares in Uganda

The recent annual report of the Uganda Game Department is full of curious and extremely satisfying information and nearly as rich in human as in animal interest, writes the Manchester Guardian.

There is, for instance, the happy news that "throughout the protectorate the elephant situation is under control," and that a chief in Kigezi shot and killed a bull which had killed and mauled several men—thereby living down the "shameful memory of the Kigezi elephants" which he incurred when he had failed to shoot a raiding wild pig at point-blank range. We rejoice with him.

Giraffe Shootings

There is also news of two men convicted of the illegal shooting of a giraffe in Acholi. They were sentenced by the native court to pay a fine of 10 shillings or go to prison for six months. But this, the report adds, "was not thought enough fine, as one giraffe's tail nowadays will fetch as many as 200 shillings." The case of Semujoma commands the apparently unprecedented price of one fullgrown ox.

It is not said what these valuable tails are used for, but they must remain for most of us, the Giraffe's Tail Mystery, is at the same end in the report.

Crocodile Buttons

For elsewhere is raised a more disturbing question still: Why do crocodiles have buttons? The crocodile-skin industry on Lake Kyoga is reviving after a slump, but the potential quality of the crocodiles is still poor, and the difficulties are in a state of flux. A day is only 10 pounds, as against 45 pounds five years ago. Clearly something is wrong with the crocodiles. And at the same time there is considerable interest in "buttons" skins among them is very high; and evidently no one can determine what connection with buttons are a separate species, or there seems some

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

OLD NEW ORLEANS

You'd like New Orleans. One writer (Arthur Brisbane, if I remember rightly) has said, "The most interesting towns in America are your town and New Orleans." Personally, I'll still give the title to San Francisco. But this old and busy port, thickly built on a crescent of the muddy Mississippi, has a rare personality. Part old-world charm, part boredom.

The old French quarter—the Vieux Carre—is the city's No. 1 attraction. This is headquarters for New Orleans' raucous night life, tuned to a solid Dixie beat.

By daylight it's a slumbering place with a quiet charm. Buildings of faded calcimine limit shrimp pink and blue lavender, with beautifully wrought-iron balconies face on the narrow streets. Writers and artists and other bunn race out here and it's entertaining experience to feed under a canopy at one of the cafes he houses and watch the passing show.

There are on view a number of eccentrics, including one ragged-looking fellow who lives in quiet terror of the Salvation Army. Always was an immense life-jacket.

Also, of course, the usual number of curiosities. Mr. Robertson on display, I picked up a copy of the French Quarter News which contains some of the words of the clan. One untitled story—complete—was this: "A broken statue way suspended." Another emotion grazes a ghost-gray wall. Its shadow plantings have a definite air of dimension, but there is only that gray-ghost wall. An ant slid into a crevice." How's that!

We had coffee and piping hot French doughnuts, which are covered with icing sugar, in the Cafe Du Monde, one of the original French market coffee stands. When I'd finished the cup I was under you must clamp a hand over the doughnuts or they will most away. The coffee itself is strong chicory.

Orleanians say of it:

Black as night
Sweet as love
Hot as hell

And if it don't taste like the cup It was not made well.

On The River

One of the most pleasant ways to spend an afternoon is to hire a launch, especially if you're weighted down by kids, is to board the broad-bosomed river steamer "President", and go for a trip on the Mississippi.

The day we made this excursion was staggeringly hot, but there was a cool breeze coming down the old Mississippi, and, as the kids were colored waiters poised on the bails of their feet left through the ship to bring you mint juleps on the dead run.

Might mention here that there's probably no city in the world where liquid spirits are so easy to obtain. Everywhere you're called, are everywhere. Many remain open all night for cases of emergency. Booze is also on sale in drug stores. But then you'd nearly everything! Went into one drug store where they sold fresh oysters.

The river steamers sedately along the shore, whooping hoarsely at the heavy river traffic. You see oil tankers ports all over the world loading and unloading green bananas marching along in endless conveyor belt, bales of compressed cotton, drab green army trucks and being loaded aboard transports for destinations unannounced.

A running commentary comes over a loud-speaker system, delivered by a man who looks and talks like a Mississippi gambler in a string tie.

Ahead and behind small ferries swim like fat ducks across the sluggish brown river to the suburb of Algiers, to the broad mouth of Bayou Barataria, to the mouth of Canal Street, which divides New and Old Orleans and to the mouth of Bayou St. Dennis Bayou, which is a small, shallow, muddy, tree-lined bayou, a bungalow topped by a steamer's pilot house. Here Mr. B. is also a licensed lady pilot on the Mississippi. And on past a derelict sternwheeler rusting out at her moorings. Finn, and—waiter! another li'l ol' julep, please!

Then you see in the distance the Chalmette Monument, scene of the Battle of New Orleans in 1815 where Andrew Jackson lost six men and the British lost 2000, a matter of history which the lecturer delivers with rather too damged flush relish.

Trip lasts two-and-one-half hours and is most relaxing. Indeed some passengers are so relaxed they have to be helped down the gangplank.

Eating

Orleanians, as a breed, seem to be wonderfully casual by day, if a little hoppy-up at night.

One of the finer sights of the city may be seen along the promenade of Lake Pontchartrain on a Sunday afternoon when the New Orleans' northern limits where many citizens go to net fish. Each fisherman has five or six nets which he flings out from his pirogue and into the lake (where, by the way, we've been swimming each day) and the procedure then is to sit and wait. It is the world's most drowsy sport, and, what's more, produces results. In the way of a small, tricky-bible hard-shelled crab that makes delicious eating.

Eating of something to be spoken of here in hushed, reverential tones. You have a choice of dining in everything from grand old ballrooms under crystal chandeliers to intimate patios and courtyards where you sit under the starlit open sky and the breeze rustles the magnolias and fronds and the flame of candles.

Our slim budget of U.S. dollars denied us these treats—we just pressed our big noses up against window panes and watched—but we went a little wild in a place called the Chicago Pizzeria where the pizza pie makes violin music in the tummy.

Mind you, a lot of this is really tourist stuff. If you stroll a block or two from the charm you will run smack into a big, bustling city that doesn't give a hoot for its magnolias (except to put their essence in bottles and give other labelled Magnolia Kus-Kus) and where men talk proudly of the city's cotton and sugar.

But if you stick with the magnolias and the juleps you'll like New Orleans.

Monetary Reserves Of U.K. No Longer Low

New York—Nov. 4—(CP)—The New York Times says today in a dispatch from Torquay, England: "The British international monetary fund has found monetary reserves of Britain, gravest of other Commonwealth countries are no longer "very low."

The Times says the advice was sent to the World Trade Conference at Torquay. The fund had advised Britain and other countries the four countries have no further excuse for maintaining their present discriminatory restrictions on imports from the United States and other parts of the dollar area.

Besides Britain, the sterling-area countries concerned are Australia, New Zealand and Ceylon.

The fund had said the reserves of the sterling countries were under "very low" nor in danger of "serious decline."

The Times says that under the terms of the general agreement on tariffs and trade, the countries concerned in this finding of the fund is binding as to facts.

Under the terms of this agreement, the newspaper says these countries no longer have the right to discriminate against dollar goods when such a finding has been made.

FRANKFORD

Bowling League Proving Close Race

Frankford, Nov. 4—The Frankford Bowling League has developed into one of the closest in the history, as only two points separate the first five teams. Each has moved into a first place tie with the Monarchs, by swamping the Valley Cats by 4 points while the Monarchs took five from the Screwballs, and the Lucky Strikers by a clean sweep over the Royals. The Sharpshooters took two points from the Hornets, who failed to clinch the high total.

Next week, it's the Hornets and Lucky Strikers on three and four, Kiggy Cats and Sharpshooters on five and six, with Royals and Screwballs on seven and eight.

Standings:
Aces	14	10
Monarchs	14	10
Lucky Strikers	14	10
Alley Cats	13	11
Screwballs	13	11
Sharpshooters	11	13
Royals	9	15
Hornets	8	16

CAMPBELLFORD

Motorist In Two Accidents Within Half Hour

Campbellford—A man who has never had an accident, up until Thursday afternoon, that is, thinks he had better stay away from Campbellford in future, after being involved in two mishaps within half-an-hour.

Mr. John Kerr of Fort Stewart, Ontario, was pulling out from the curb on the Grand Road, when a car driven by Mr. Edward Quinn of R.R. 1 Codrington, pulled out from the curb in the same manner, and veered in the other side of the Kerr car.

John was a dejected looking figure when he left the scene of the way surveying his 1950 model sedan with fenders and doors on both sides caved in. "I'm afraid to try to drive through town again," he said, "they'll probably try to drive over top of me next time. I don't think I'd better come back to Campbellford anymore."

Mr. Kerr has been driving since 1929, and has never so much as scraped a fender, he said. Chief Constable George H. Hardy investigated both accidents.

Pearson Gives Vishinsky Lesson In History

New York, Nov. 4 (CP)—L. B. Pearson yesterday gave Russia's Andrei Vishinsky a lesson in history and logic.

Canada's external affairs minister, speaking on the weekly sponsored plan to authorize the U.N. to meet aggression with force, assailed the Russian foreign minister on his interpretation of Berlin-Moscow relations in 1939.

In Vishinsky's discussion of the veto-proof resolution, Pearson said, the Russian assured the U.N. that the pact supported the Soviet-German pact of 1939 was to enable the U.S.S.R. to fill gaps in the defences for the attack it knew was coming.

"I must tell him frankly, that his account of that episode simply will not wash," said Pearson. "If that is a true explanation, why did the Soviet Union do its best, after the destruction of Poland, to force the nations of the British Commonwealth and France to stop fighting Hitler; and why did they refuse the offer of support in continuing the war?"

Pearson said the Russian version of what happened in Korea last June is equally flimsy.

Vishinsky had insisted that it was Russia which tried to bring the United Nations in to help stop the war, and that it was the United States which did not permit the Pacific solution.

When the north Koreans were streaming triumphantly south, Pearson said, it was the security council and not the Soviet Union which asked for a cease-fire.

"That was a splendid opportunity for the Soviet Union to support an appeal to cease fire... "So far as I am aware, there was no whisper of support..."

Little Hope Held For Missing Plane As Gale Rises

Grenoble, France, Nov. 4. (Reuters)—Hopes of finding a missing air Indian airliner with 48 persons aboard dwindled today as a 50-mile gale screamed through the Alps, grounding rescue planes and hampering ground efforts to locate the crash scene.

Several ground search parties sent word by walkie-talkie radio that they were giving up the search on the French side of the Alps because of the winds and heavy snow.

The plane could be completely buried in a few days if the snow continues. It would be impossible to find it then until Spring.

Geneva airport authorities still are baffled by the sudden disappearance of the plane within 35 minutes of the airport. The plane was flying from Bombay to London with 40 Indian seamen and a crew of eight.

The British pilot, Capt. Alan Salat, was known as one of air India's most experienced pilots. Only four weeks ago he made a perfect landing in a dense fog, and he knew the area well.

The four-engine Constellation is believed to have crashed near the 15,781-foot Mont Blanc, Europe's highest peak, locked in the heart of the Alps.

Indonesians Take Amboia, Capital Red Stronghold

Jakarta, Indonesia, Nov. 4 (AP) —Capture of the town of Amboina, capital of the rebel Republic of South Moluccas, was announced by the government today.

All Boediardjo, vice defence minister, said it meant the end of months-long resistance by South Moluccan troops.

The fall of Amboina, he said, "is tantamount to complete capitulation of the rebel forces," who proclaimed their independence April 26.

The capital, located on the island of Amboina where Indonesian troops made an amphibious landing Sept. 28, fell Friday at noon.

Amboina Island is one of the Moluccas, between the Celebes and New Guinea, about spring rebels proclaimed a republic independent of Indonesian federal control.

Central government forces invaded the key rebel island Sept. 28.

A United Nations commission in Indonesia last month ordered that military operations be halted, and offered its good offices for a peaceful settlement.

Indonesia reflected these overtures Oct. 10, contending that the Amboina issue was a domestic one and beyond U.N. jurisdiction.

The Republic announced today that it is that the rebellion was brought on by failure of the Dutch to maintain discipline over native Amboinese troops of the former Netherlands East Indies army after granting Indonesia its independence. These troops formed the core of the rebellion.

Whether the fall of Amboina town means an imminent end to Amboinese opposition remains to be seen.

Hope to Develop Car Engine That Uses Less Fuel

Toronto, Nov. 4—(CP)—University of Toronto engineers hope to develop an engine requiring considerably less fuel than the average automobile now consumes.

Prof. Roger A. Allcut, head of the mechanical engineering department, said yesterday that on one experimental engine a thermal efficiency of 53 per-cent has been obtained. As far as is known, no previous record was 51.8 per cent.

Prof. Allcut, pointing out that fuel consumption goes down as thermal efficiency climbs, said the experiments are being performed for a better understanding of combustion.

SIGN AGREEMENT

New York, Nov. 4.—AP—Chile and Yugoslavia have signed an agreement to resume diplomatic relations, it was announced yesterday. Premier Tito's government severed relations with Chile Oct. 11, 1947. This was part of a general break between Chile and the communist countries. The resumption of relations developed as a result of Tito's split with Moscow and his turn toward the west.

Wife Sues Hubby But It's All Right They're Not Mad

Bowling Green, Ky., Nov. 4 (AP) — A wife who sued her husband collected a judgment of $1,300, but they aren't mad at each other.

In an unusual case, a jury awarded exactly half of the damages she asked.

May 3, Miss Mary Gosser, 19, was riding with Noel Vernon Brown in his automobile. The car left the road and overturned, injuring Miss Gosser.

But this didn't stop them from getting married July 14, after Miss Gosser's mother, Mrs. Mattie Gosser Jones, acting on behalf of her minor daughter, filed suit against Brown.

Although Brown was listed as the defendant, his insurance company will be the loser.

Court Mourning Puts Crimp In Style for Officers

Toronto, Nov. 4. (CP)—It was the handsome young beaux—not the beautiful belles—who found themselves without a thing to wear for the fall ball.

The season's debutantes that their white chosen long ago for Friday night's Artillery ball. first gala event of Toronto's social season. So had the men—but the death of a King put a crimp in their plans.

The official order put it this way for officers of the Canadian Artillery: "Mourning having been announced due to the death of King Gustaf for ago for Friday night's Artillery ball, officers will not wear uniforms to the artillery ball."

The artillery proved resourceful as even. Not a one looked out at the ball went on, highlighted by the presentation of 34 of the season's debutantes by Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson.

Await Dawn Hoping Seaman Has Survived

Vancouver, Nov. 4 — (CP) Dawn was awaited Friday in the slight hope a seaman may have survived a night-long ordeal in seas where a companion perished.

Four men rescued early Thursday night, exhausted and chilled, after the seiner Bedwell out of Vancouver, crashed into rocks on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

One man, however, at last reports was hanging from the boat's rigging.

Darkness closed in, preventing his rescue. Four men were standing by, waiting for dawn. Mariners held little hope for his survival.

The drowned man was identified by Harry Hartnick, 40, of Burnaby, B.C., near Vancouver.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 4 (CP)—The smallest steamship service on the continent ended its season for the year Friday. The 65-year-old Maid of the Mist, which makes scenic runs to the foot of the Horseshoe Falls in the Niagara River, was laid up for the winter months.

Walter Thomson Says PC Govt. Must Take Blame

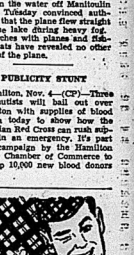
Fort William, Nov. 4. (CP)—Walter Thomson, candidate for leadership of the liberal party in Ontario, said Friday the Provincee's Progressive Conservative government is to blame for closed sawmills and resulting unemployment in Fort William.

Mr. Thomson, member of parliament for Cochrane constituency, came here to attend a banquet of the Fort William Liberal Association.

"I find that the sawmill labor situation is due to the negligence of the provincial government," he said in an interview.

"I find them bringing in British Columbia lumber for processing while our own is going to waste, . . . I find competent sawyers working as laborers in the mills, finishing 2x4; lumber."

He called on the Ontario government to implement the Kennedy report on the forestry industry. He said that under its provisions the lumber and pulpwood sections of the industry the forest to the benefit of all those who work together to "harvest people."



Search Reveals No Trace Plane

Algoma Mills, Ont., Nov. 4— (CP)— Mrs. Blanche Sivinski, whose husband was pilot of a light plane that disappeared Sunday on a flight over Lake Huron, spent all of Thursday in a search of areas covering the area in which the craft is believed to have plunged into the lake.

Missing with Leo (Louis) Sivinski, 32, is Ruth Dunoon, 40-year-old nurse, of Owen Sound. The plane with Mrs. Sivinski and Miss Dunoon from Tobermory, Ont., at the tip of the Bruce Peninsula, took off from a camp in this area 100 miles west of Sudbury. Discovery of two shreds of clothing and a piece of craft in the water off Manitoulin Island Tuesday convinced authorities that the plane had plunged into the lake during heavy fog. Searches with planes and fishing boats have revealed no other trace of the plane.

STIRLING

Miss Louis Weaver Bride-To-Be Feted By 25 Friends

Stirling—Misses Jean McIntosh Ruth Rose and Mrs. Jack Bush were co-hostesses last Saturday evening at a miscellaneous tea and shower in honor of Miss Lois Weaver, a bride-to-be at the home of the former.

There were 25 guests in attendance and the evening's program consisted of readings, contests, games, and making a couple of dolls.

Lois was asked to sit in a decorated chair, and Miss Mac-Rose read an address, an alarm clock rang at the appointed time, and the guests did find where the hidden parcels were.

The bride elect thanked the girls for the lovely cups and saucers, and invited them to visit her in her new home at West Huntingdon.

With Marjorie Haggerty at the piano and Norma Donahue leading the singing they sang "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Dainty refreshments of sandwiches, pickles, celery, cookies, lemon tarts and tea were served by the hostesses.

The ribbons from the cup and saucers were used to form a friendship circle after which all departed for home having spent an enjoyable evening.

Order of Moose Enjoys Euchre Play

Belleville Lodge No. 1004 held their regular meeting in the Oddfellows Hall on Front Street last night with Brother Templeton in the chair. All officers were present except Junior Governor J. McCullough and Past Governor A. Savage.

Brother C. Silverthorne, one of the Trenton visitors took over the Junior Governor's chair, while Ed Patrick took over the Past Governor's chair.

After the meeting was over, the brothers indulged in a few games of euchre with G. Bird winning the high score and Sandy Wallwin with the low score, each a prize of $1.

Brother Jack Hammond fulfilled his job of looking after the euchre and refreshments again last night.

RED 'PEACE' PROPAGANDA

Budapest, Nov. 4—(Reuters)—Communist "peace" propaganda now includes cigaret ads.

The Hungarian telegraph agency today reported:

"A new cigaret, called peace, made of superfine-quality tobacco, is being put on sale to mark the opening of the Hungarian Peace Congress Nov. 4."

St. Margaret's On-The-Hill Holds First Tea, Bazaar

Exceptionally warm fall weather favored the first tea and bazaar held given by St. Margaret's Guild on Wednesday last. The church hall was decorated with bough of evergreen and bittersweet on the window sills and baskets of fall flowers nodded from every nook and corner.

On entering the hall, the guests were welcomed by Mrs. J. Godwin, Guild president, and Mrs. E. M. Caldwell. The first table to draw their attention held a bountiful selection of needlework — knitted and crocheted baby sets, crocheted dollies and potholders, knitted socks and mitts in assorted sizes and colors, small girls' smocked dresses, and an assortment of aprons including another and daughter sets. In charge of this table were Mrs. R. Ketterer, Mrs. J. Ritchie and Mrs. F. Moore.

The next table held a display to delight the heart of every little girl. There were bride dolls, dolls in knitted suits or nursuits, cuddly baby dolls, dolls in beautiful dresses. There were evening dresses for the older girls also painted doll's beds, ruffled bassinettes, and studies of cats residing over the table was Mrs. C. P. Blaker.

The home table displayed a sumptuous assortment of pies, tarts, cookies, cake, candy, rolls and homemade jams and jellies. Looking after this table were Mrs. K. Atwell, Mrs. M. Dickinson, Mrs. G. Spring, and Mrs. B. Downman.

The next interest to young and old was the Parcel Post. It was a Wishing Well piled high with surprise packages, in exchange for a quarter each guest took her choice of the wrapped packages. Mrs. Smith looked after this attraction.

The tea table was a picture. A silver bowl of pink and white mums, flanked by candelabra holding pink and green tapers, graced a hand-painted damask cloth. At each end of the table was set a silver tea service. Pouring tea during the first half of the afternoon were Mrs. H. Pickman and Mrs. S. Price, during the later half Mrs. B. Docter and Mrs. R. Lessing. The guests sat in semi-circles around the tea table. Those who served tea, sandwiches and dainty cakes were Mrs. A. Miller, Mrs. C. Baldwin, Mrs. D. Hill, Mrs. T. Rollins, Mrs. A. Wells, Mrs. C. Gardiner and Mrs. A. Watson. Assisting in the kitchen were Mrs. Rollins, Mrs. D. Allan and Mrs. K. Bulford. The treasurer of the tea was Mrs. F. Moore.

The great success of the tea and bazaar was due to the hard work of the conveners and their assistants. Mrs. C. Gardiner was convener of the tea and Mrs. R. Ketterer was convener of the bazaar.

I.O.D.E. Argyll Chapter Holds Attractive Bazaar

Yesterday afternoon saw the unmistakable shadows of witches and goblins flitting in and out of the Armouries, from the Argyll Light Infantry, a rosy, crackling, grate fire, flanked by large oak chairs, the warmth of padded carpets and the glow of golden, gay chrysanthemums, coupled with the gracious welcome of the receiving committee, Mrs. E. S. Fairman and Mrs. A. E. Hubbs, extended an unequalled hospitality to those who paraded the hall of the afternoon tea, homecooking and bazaar attractions, through the auspices of the I.O.D.E. division of Argyll Chapter.

The smiling treasurer, Mrs. F. M. Sprague, collected the customary 25 cents admission and passed the seat of comfort and adjourned the assembly mass room with its beautifully veneered panelled walls, drapes, and indirect lighting. Here, with its exquisite lace cloth and silver, the tea table, manning silver services, trimmed with lace and mauve branched candelabras and the lighted mulberry colored cathedral tapers, which flanked the silver bowl of pink chrysanthemums. Around the room, at intervals were the committee's waterfalls, spoken invitations for friendly conversations.

Presiding were: Mrs. G. MacGregor, Mrs. P. H. Wills, Mrs. G. Morgan and Mrs. E. O. Keeler, and those who served were the members of the Argyll Chapter. Mrs. G. M. Miller was the industrious hostess to the tea room, while Mrs. L. Davidson and Mrs. R. Keel were the conveners of the bridge and the potted plants. At the home cooking table, delicious cakes reigned supreme; some were round, some were square, some were oblong, all iced with mouth-watering chocolate and most were dotted with nuts. One round sponge cake was a work of art, encircling, done in little wavelets, then there were rocks, a lighthouse and, mirabile dictu, real sugary sand, a gorgeous lemon pie with golden meringue, looking just as if it had stepped from the pages of "Good Housekeeping," the orange bun rich with honey dipped pecan nut meats, dainty tea biscuits, fruit cakes, and a little table containers of chocolate fudge. Mrs. R. Hall, Mrs. Cooke and Mrs. J. A. Lazier so co-convener were kept busy replenishing up the dainty morsels.

Aprons and Knitting Bars

Across the room, was the table of the aprons. Here one might purchase any sort and style of apron from the elite tea apron to the over-all type for kitchen duties. Here, one might finely made knitting bags in black felt with appliqued flowers in red, green and blue. All were attractive and the very thing for some one who is a confirmed knitter. In charge of these was Mrs. O. A. Pinkston and her co-workers, Mrs. H. Ross.

The plant table in charge of Mrs. R. Leslie Allen, with her potted little plants, which seem to add that touch of summer which all are loath to lose; the cacti, pretty purple African violets, sunset geraniums who look their best in the fall, the colorful foliages, trailing ivies, and the old fashioned, the sweetheart begonias with their tiny, pink-frosted flowers.

Then, the attractive bazaar, and enjoyable bridge, splendidly conducted.

Women's Activities

AIKEN'S W.A.

The members of Aiken's Auxiliary met on Thursday at the home of Mrs. S. Marshall for their thank-offering service.

The worship was in charge of the president, Mrs. C. McMullen, the theme being "One In Christ". A poem written by Kagawa, an ardent Japanese Christian, entitled "Living Christ" was read. Several beautiful verses of poetry, written by Japanese lepers, of their Christian experiences were also read and enjoyed. A Japanese Christian scholar, who helped in Bible translation, wrote of the Bible:

"Out of God's Word, clear living water flows,
And form a never-failing well of love within the soul!"

Guests Welcomed

During the business period, the president welcomed the visitors and members and extended a sincere "thank you" to the ladies who convened the "tea" at the church on October 25th. The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Lee Grills when the W.A. meeting will also be held. A collection was taken for some hymnaries for the Mission Band.

Mrs. Hollis read the report of the nominating committee for officers of 1951 and moved the adoption of report, Mrs. W. Grills seconded the motion. Mrs. W. Bush thanked the society for each of sympathy. A vote of thanks was read from Mrs. Delbert McComb for cards received during recent illness.

In the absence of the recording secretary, Mrs. Bush read the minutes of minutes and roll call. The hostess and co-hostess for the tea were thanked for their efforts.

The treasurer reported $112.00 sent in to the Dominion Board, a social evening was planned, for a means of meeting the allocation, to be held at the home of the president later in the month.

Committees Formed

Committees appointed were: Program, Mrs. Bush, Mrs. Pinkston, S. Spafford, Mrs. H. Denike and Mrs. D. McComb; selling, Mrs. Hollis and Mrs. Grills; refreshments, Mrs. C. Grills and Mrs. M. Jeffrey.

Each member is asked to donate small articles that might sell as Christmas gifts, such as candy; each family to bring cake or sandwiches for refreshments; Mrs. W. Hubbs was appointed to send for Christmas cards as usual.

The Mite Box for the study book was presented by Mrs. Perry Hamilton, assisted by Mrs. Geo. Hollis and Mrs. Chas. Hollis.

"The United Church re-enters Japan through the Church of Christ in Japan" was the study topic. The purpose of this chapter was to present the United Church of Christ in Japan and to compare some of the outstanding features of the United Church of Canada and the United Church of Canada.

Birth Of Church In Japan

The United Church of Christ in Japan came into forced union through government legislation in 1940. Missionaries of the missionaries of the United Church of Canada were associated with the Methodist Church in Japan, now they are an integral part of United Church of Christ in Japan.

It might be interesting to note that in 1949 membership in the United Church of Christ in Japan is 806,000, while in Japan the total number of Christians, including Roman Catholics is hardly more than 315,000.

Help Greatly Needed

They greatly need the help of the stronger churches of North America, such as United Church of Canada. We were given a vision of the needs and opportunities for evangelism in post-war Japan. Let us day by day pray for our fellow Christians in Japan, who are facing such great opportunities to win souls for Christ and His Kingdom. What can we do to increase the knowledge and interest of our own congregations in our sister United Church in Japan? Mrs. Perry Hamilton closed with a solo "Holy Spirit Pray" and the singing of "In Christ There Is No East or West," and prayer closed the meeting.

Refreshments were served during the social hour.

Picton—Criticism of grading of tomatoes was voiced at the annual meeting of Prince Edward Canning Crop Growers' Association here Thursday night. Some growers charged that there was interference from processors in the matter of grading. Growers felt that the graders should be free of interference from processors and seek to protect their interests.

Higher prices next season for corn and peas are being sought by the representatives to the Marketing Board. Price of tomatoes will be discussed at a later date.

W. I. Walker, president of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Marketing Board, Thomas Sirrett, of Cobourg, and Clare Carter, Hastings, who represent this district on the Board, spoke on various problems faced by growers.

Directors appointed were S. C. Peck, Ameliasburg; Robert Vandusen, Hillier; M. Hagerman, Hallowell; Harold Barker, Solmesville; Vernon Striker, South Marysburgh; Harold Foster, Athol; Ernest Roth, North Marysburgh, for tomatoes. Directors for corn and peas are Hugh Russell, Ameliasburgh; W. I. Cunningham, Hillier; D. O. Reynolds, Hallowell; Roy Short, Sophiasburg; George Ackerman, South Marysburgh; John Wilkinson, North Marysburgh; Neil Parks, Athol. Auditors are Roy Shortt and Neil Parks, Athol. S. C. Peck is president and D. O. Reynolds, president.

FIRST STRIKE IN YEARS

Georgetown, British Guiana, Nov. 4—(Reuters)—Georgetown's first general strike in 26 years ended today. It had lasted three days.

Unions ordered members to return to work this morning.

The strike was called to back demands for cost-of-living bonuses they resumed work.

The government had refused to negotiate with the strikers until

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

Will there ever be a time when there are too many diamonds in the world? When this question was put to one of the world's big diamond merchants, he smiled, "Of course, but I don't think there will ever be too many of them." . . . Then too, the production of diamonds is evidently a costly one and the number gained is controlled by the various governments of the diamond-producing countries. Since the 1870's the world's diamond output has jumped 20-fold, for it was then that the first precious stone was discovered in large quantities in South Africa. Previously, diamonds were found only in small quantities in Brazil and India.

Those in the know, say you can tell a valuable diamond from a Canadian bank one by its size. The larger the diamond, the more valuable it is. Diamonds vary in their purity and color, too. Some are brown, some yellow. The finest white diamond is most valuable.

A diamond is attractive because it is cut in such a way that the reflection of light through the stone produces a beautiful effect. Small diamonds are cut into 10 facets. Larger and more expensive stones have as many as 58 facets. Round diamonds have the best effect. Light refraction is not nearly as good in square stones, they say.

Though diamonds are generally bought for ornament, many people purchase them for investment because of the stability in their value. In the Orient, even poor people save up to buy diamonds for investment as Far Eastern currencies are unstable. But these precious stones are small and can therefore be hidden easily compared with gold which is more bulkier and more readily detected.

Diamonds can be resold usually for the price paid, or with little loss. Nor is it hard in the Orient that diamonds are investments. Many a safety deposit box in a Canadian bank stores up diamonds. In these days of high income taxes, the holding of diamonds as a capital investment yields no interest to increase the income, yet it builds up a precious nest egg which will always be valuable.

In this age of women's emancipation, such old fashioned terms as authoress, poetess and charlady are no longer used. It is most interesting to note that Winston Churchill when becoming a Freeman of the city of Bath recently addressed the woman mayor there as "Madame Mayor." Even Mr. Churchill recognized the equality of women when he refused to use the term "introduction." "Lady Mayoress."

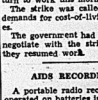
RAWDON

Former Resident Visits Old Home Renews Acquaintances

Rawdon.—On Saturday last, Mrs. Emily Tushingham, of Toronto, formerly Miss Emily Chard, of Anson, visited her old home where Mr. and Mrs. James Menzies, now reside in Rawdon township.

Her father, the late Mr. C. Chard, built this palatial residence and she wished to visit the old home once again where she had lived during early childhood. She was accompanied by neighbors and friends, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Chard and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Anderson of Belleville.



One of the group took numerous views of the old home and of the interior of the house as entertained by Mrs. Menzies and gives a view of the various rooms.

The superb workmanship of the large, square timber frame was constructed by a carpenter from Belleville, and Mr. Tushingham, who is an elderly lady could not remember his name.

Interesting to Mrs. Tushingham, and she was one of a family of 12 and they were all born in the downstairs bedroom. The timber for this large brick home was cut on the farm where Mrs. Chard and she gave many details of her childhood at Anson.

Mrs. Tushingham is a member of St. John's Anglican Church, and was attended the Sunday School. She said a letter of hers was instrumental in the building of another large home nearby. The recent pictures published of the old home aroused much interest in the area in various newspapers with write-ups of old landmarks and former residents. Mrs. Tushingham and her relatives to visit her old home this fall.

She said her grandparents, the

KITCHEN TESTED RECIPE

VARIETY IN A MEAL is seemingly an easy thing to accomplish, yet some housewives never seem to manage it. Few of us probably realize how much our appetite and relish for food depends on its appearance.

Fortunately an attractive meal is as easy to prepare and as cheap as an unattractive one, but the preparation of such meals, however, requires some foresight and planning. So simple a meal as stew with dumplings, a fruit salad and a glass of milk may be pleasing in appearance provided one has a few carrots to lend color to the stew and plenty of green lettuce and colored fruit to lend interest to the salad.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Must she choose between husband and son?

What would you do if you were forced into a position where you had to choose between your husband and your child? Would your wifely devotion to your husband win out, or your maternal love for your child?

One wife who is trapped in such a set of circumstances has a 12-year-old son by her former marriage, which ended in divorce.

"Due to housing conditions, my husband's business, and the fact that I was reluctant to have my son change schools in the middle of the year," she writes me, "it was decided that for awhile after our marriage my son should stay with my parents, 100 miles from where my second husband and I would be living. This was to be a temporary arrangement only, in fact just until the school year ended and we could find a home to accommodate all three of us. This was all worked out and agreed upon between my husband and myself before our marriage.

"For one reason or another, this has never worked out, although two years have now gone by. My husband has given one excuse after another why we should not have Tom come to live with us and now has just told me that he has no intention of making a home for him. This has been a great shock to me, and it seems I can no longer bear the thought of giving up my son. Already I've missed out on two of his growing years, and as the time flies by and I am giving way from me, I get in a panic."

Going on to offer her idea of a possible explanation of her husband's attitude, she says that because of poverty in his youth, he was forced to go to work and make his own living at the age of 14, the exact age her son has now reached.

"He can't understand why, I guess my necessities for my boy," she says. "He thinks Tom should earn any money he needs. Tom already has built a small paying business for himself out of the rabbits he keeps on my parents' farm, but no matter how much he does for himself, my husband never seems to feel it is enough. Yet before our marriage, he seemed fond of my son and they got along together very well."

From what this mother says, the son appears to be a well-behaved, responsible and thoughtful child who could be depended on to conduct himself properly. So that apprehension on this score could hardly account for her husband's unwillingness to assume his role as stepfather.

"Other than this problem," she concludes her story, "my husband is all one could ask for. I love him very dearly, and want so much to make a home for him and have my son with us, too. Do you think it is fair for him to ask me to choose between him and my son? Can there be a way we can work this out to make a success of my second marriage without giving up my son?"

To the first of these two questions, my answer is an unqualified "No." I most certainly do not think it is either fair or right that any man should put The woman he married into such an impossible position.

As for the second question, I wish I could answer "Yes" with the same certainty. But since the answer seems entirely to depend on whether or not, in the last analysis, the man has (1) the decency to keep the agreement made in advance of his marriage and (2) the humanity and unselfishness to consider the mother's feelings and the boy's rights, it is clear that at this stage, neither "Yes" nor "No" can be said with any assurance.

No doubt there is much truth in the wife's belief that her husband's boyhood experience accounts for his feeling that her son should be on his own at 14. But I don't think this is the whole of the story.

The basic difficulty, I believe, is to be found in the casual statement of the wife that "since the opening sentence of her letter and hers ends over with no realization of its actual importance. In this sentence she describes her husband's pre-marital status as "a bachelor of 34."

Now a man of 34 is not exactly advanced in years. Nor is it particularly rare for one to reach that age without having married. But it is nevertheless true that most men who have done so are likely in a way to be well settled in their habits; to have formed definite ideas about how they want to live. And they are usually quite indisposed to change those habits. Independence and freedom from responsibility have been very comfortable, and the peace and quiet of living alone has many advantages. Asking on a wife and for no small adjustment on the part of "a bachelor of 34", and suddenly to become a father to another man's adolescent boy calls for more than a little understandable that a chap might hesitate in the face of what he might have to yield in comfort and freedom.

But that hesitation should come before, not after, marriage. Especially not, when, as was the case here, he agreed to certain arrangements in advance.

Since there has been no problem, her husband "is all one could ask for," as the wife says, it is perfectly understandable that he has in him the character to adjust to his new situation and take on the responsibilities it involves. All he may need, perhaps, is to get wise to himself.

But if he stubbornly continues to hold out against the boy's coming, then it may indicate a basic character defect that could spell trouble in his future life on other points, in which case, the misgivings might as well, perhaps better, come now than later.

It may be, of course, that the boy is by this time so happily situated with his grandparents that he would prefer to stay with them. But that is another question and calls for another type of solution. The immediate thing is, that he should be given the chance to come home and the assurance that he will be welcome there.

Elegant Ball Gown

BY ALICE ALDEN

WE know all about the short-skirt evening dress, and advocate it. But comes the great occasion, the glamorous gala or ball, then nothing else will do but the ball gown done in the grand manner and created out of dream stuff, as is this one. Philip Hulitar, an American designer who has made this type of design particularly his own, does this beauty in lace, satin and nylon net. White lace generously sprinkled with iridescent sequins and richly embroidered with the sunburst pleated fans and is appliqued on the blue satin peplum bodice. The gently appliqued skirt of shimmering dawn blue nylon net widens itself in bountiful layers over the blue satin underslip. The net stole, lace edged, is used as a head or shoulder covering.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

A generous gesture to a generous hostess

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are a group of women who have several activities-for-service. We are to have a meeting soon, and I would like your advice about making a suggestion. Our chairman, who is retiring because of ill health, has a beautiful summer place, and every year she invites us all there for the day—mid-day dinner, supper in the evening—and every minute of the day delightful entertainment, and prizes for the card games. She has been a wonderful hostess for these seven or eight years, and I think we should have taken her some kind of present before. But we never have done this. Now I would like to suggest at our next meeting that we each give a certain sum and send her a present to greet her when she returns from her summer home, which will be fairly soon. Perhaps send her a lovely plant, covering up our neglect by writing on the card that we hope she will enjoy the flowers here perhaps more than if we sent them to her summer home where she has so many flowers in her garden. What do you think of this idea?

Reader

It's an excellent idea, a good, friendly idea! And I'm sure the other members of the group will be delighted to co-operate. It would be fine to send the plant to arrive on the day she arrives . . . and with the perfect message you suggest written on the card with the signatures of all the contributors. . . or perhaps send it on Thanksgiving, with the message-of-thanksgiving for her great kindness and generous hospitality.

Invitations to small home wedding

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My niece is to be married soon. Just a small, quiet wedding at home, with only about 35 guests to be invited—relatives and four or five close friends. Would it be proper to have the invitations handwritten, or should they be engraved? Should they be sent to even the closest relatives, who may be contacted by telephone or in person? If you suggest notes, please tell us how they should read.

R. G.

Invitations to such a small, informal wedding are correctly and customarily given verbally or by telephone. The proper manner (or someone in her name) may telephone the invitations to the relatives and friends. Or go to call on them to extend the invitation. Or, if more convenient, notes may be written:

Dear Friends:

Roberta and Arthur are to be married here in our home on Friday, November 24, at four o'clock, and it will make us all very happy if you and Tom will be with us for the ceremony at four and to stay afterward to drink a toast to them and to wish them Godspeed. Do tell us you'll both be here.

Dearest love to you both, from all of us.

Affectionately,

Correct service at stag dinner

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband is going to give a small stag dinner; a sit-down dinner, not buffet service. We are hiring a waiter from his club. My husband asked me to ask you who should be served first at table.

S. N.

When your husband makes his seating-arrangements he will, naturally, place the most important guest at his right, the place of honor. And everything should be offered first to this man at the host's right.

If white cottons or linens become yellowed from long storage, try soap, water and sun treatment. Launder the articles carefully and hang in the sun to bleach as they dry.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking?

The good shepherd may soon be wearing overtime.

A recent hormone discovery makes is possible for ewes to give birth to lambs twice—instead of once—a year, thus theoretically making it possible to double the lamb population. Tests conducted at the University of Colorado Experiment Station were successful with more than 100 ewes which gave birth to both spring and fall lambs.

The 65 million sheep which existed in this country in 1942 have fallen to 31 million at the present time. This partially explains why your woollen suit as well as your lamb chops cost more money.

One of the most reasonably priced cuts of lamb is the shank or foreleg of the animal. Although this is one of the tougher cuts, you should buy shanks from young lamb, or it will have a strong woolly flavor. The fat should be smooth, white and brittle.

Lamb shanks cooked with dried beans are a traditional German dish. Dried white or kidney beans, or lima beans may be used. The lamb shanks and lima beans require from 1 1-2 to 2 hours cooking time. Poor quality beans will take a longer cooking period.

Lamb Shanks and Lima Beans, Serves 4.

2 lamb shanks each cut into 4 pieces
1-4 cup flour
2 teaspoons salt
1-8 teaspoon ground pepper
1-2 cup fat
1-2 cup finely chopped onions
1-2 cup finely chopped green peppers
1 cup celery cut into 1-2 inch squares
1 cup chopped canned tomatoes
1 cup dried lima beans
Wash lima beans well. Pick over carefully. Soak in 1 quart cold water overnight.

Place shanks in a paper bag with the flour, 1 teaspoon salt and the ground pepper. Shake bag well to coat meat.

Melt fat to a depth of 1-2 inch in a heavy frying pan. Brown lamb on both sides. Remove meat from frying pan. In a saucepan melt 2 tablespoons fat. Add onions, green peppers and celery. Saute until onion turns yellow. Add the browned lamb and the lima beans together with the water in which they were soaked. Add tomatoes and remaining 1 teaspoon salt. Simmer, covered, for 1 1-2 to 2 hours or until both meat and lima beans are tender. Stir frequently during cooking.

BEAUTY

Beauty fads come and go.

Ideals of beauty change with time—with one exception: a pretty young girl is precisely that if she does not make too great an effort to change her appearance. At the age of fourteen a girl comes into her makeup inheritance and uses lipstick. If she has health and animation, her lips carry good coloring, have no need of artifice. But nobody could make her believe it. "Mama do; baby do."

Sketched by Ina Duncan

The Cupid's bow was once considered cute.

A woman of intelligence will realize that, though she may have a fine mind and noble character, she will be passed by if she does not present herself at her best—with grooming and make-up that seem so essential at the present time. She is practically forced to follow certain trends. Thinned eyebrows, for instance! If Nature gave her thick, wide brows, and she refrained from tweezing and arching, she would be bracketed with the frumps and the has-beens. But good sense tells her not to go to extremes.

The knowledge of how to improve oneself should be a part of one's education. Any smart woman can study out her needs if she is sufficiently interested and will apply her mind to the matter. In make-up, as in dress, she must take color and line into consideration.

If the eyebrow patterns conform to the shape of the eyes, they will glamorize them; if distorted, tweezed along the underside so they are lifted to an unnatural position, they will detract from the prettiness of the eyes.

This fad of eyebrow remodeling started in Hollywood. Dietrich was said to have "butterfly eyebrows", a pattern of her own, one that no woman less lovely could possibly get away with. Crawford and Garbo both created exaggerated arches, and all the little movie fans—and thousands of others—fell into step with the result that pretty eyebrows throughout the land were practically eliminated. Please note, those of you who are still tweezing and teasing, that these stars of the screen have assumed the normal lines again, look lovelier in every way.

It was from Hollywood that we got the fancy for widening the lips with the crimson stick. Joan Crawford started it, with Kleenex in the corner coppling along right after her. It was a protest against the rosebud design of other days. When the lipstick first became an institution, the Cupid's bow was considered a cute cosmetic caper. Then there was an inclination to exaggerate. Now that style has gone the way of beauty fads. Let us be thankful that feminine faces look human, instead of masklike.

Interim Increases To 12,000 Given By 12 Paper Co.'s

Toronto, Nov. 3. (CP)—Twelve Canadian paper companies announced today they have granted interim wage increases to 12,000 employees.

Under an agreement signed with representatives of nine international unions, a six-per-cent increase is granted all employees except paperworkers, who get a straight six-cent hourly wage increase.

The boosts are effective Nov. 1. They raise the basic wage for all classes from $1.05 an hour to $1.11.

The present contact between the companies and the unions expires April 3, 1951.

The announcement came in a joint statement from A. A. Schmon of St. Catharines, president of the Ontario Paper Company Ltd., and J. Arthur D'Aoust, vice president of the International Brotherhood of Paper Makers (A.F.L.).

The statement said the increases were agreed on yesterday at a meeting here between company and union representatives.

One Man Killed In Mine Cave-In

Drumheller, Alta., Nov. 3 (CP) — One man was killed and two others injured last night in a cave-in at the Star mine, six miles east of here. Dead is Alex Danyi, a timberman. In fair condition in hospital are Tibor Sirko and John Makos.

The roof of the mine caved in on the men while they were repairing damage caused by an explosion last Tuesday which killed one miner and injured two others.

Mrs. C. Chard Tells of Recent Trip to England

The November meeting of River Valley W. I. was held two days earlier on Tuesday last at the home of Mrs. Ernest Carr and Mrs. Frank Carr, with over 35 ladies in attendance, and several children.

Mrs. Clarence Chard presented the lesson study with a bronze bell which she had purchased in Chester, England, and this was used to call the gathering to order.

Mrs. Dr. Donohoe gave the financial statement and the affternoon tea Wednesday netted the institute $47.

District Rally Favored

An invitation was received to attend Carmel W.A. afternoon tea and social hour, Nov. 29th.

Several extended thanks for cards received—Mrs. John Kane, district director gave a full report of a recent executive meeting held at Picton, which included a district rally with all branches helping with the program and refreshments.

Plans were made for attendance at area convention Belleville next week with the president, as official delegate. The first session begins at 8.45 a.m. Wednesday November 8th., in the auditorium of Belleville Collegiate.

It was decided to feature a monster card party in Stirling community hall the end of November, this to be our last money-making event in 1950. Good prizes will be given and refreshments served at the usual admission price. Each member to be responsible for at least three guests at the party. Everyone welcome.

It was decided to forward a Christmas box of marshmallows to Abbott's Leigh, W. I. Bristol, England.

The December meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. S. McIntosh with the usual exchange of Christmas gifts.

Program

Mrs. Clarence Chard gave a descriptive talk on her recent trip to England. She displayed folders, service postcards, booklets, menu cards and many interesting items picked up during her journey.

Pictures Canada's Vastness

After first thanking the Institute members for their lovely box of food which she had received and which she shared with the women in several Institutes which she had visited who were not included in the tea and sugar.

She pictured Canada in her travelogue with its vast acres and the small space of the British Isles where 45 million people live.

Mrs. Chard showed a room with 20 and travelled via the S.S. Samaria. The seas were very rough but the beds were exceptionally good. Nearly all the ladies were en route home to see their native land. They spent a day in the boat at Le Havre on the French coast, and then were thrilled to view again the White Cliffs of Dover.

Fields of Daffodils

She arrived on May 3rd at the home of her niece in Chigwell, Essex, and enjoyed new potatoes and green peas. The countryside was beautiful with hedges, wild flowers and fields of daffodils. Soon after her arrival she was privileged to attend a reception for Mr. Churchill.

The speaker told of the heavy taxes on luxury goods and the high prices in the shops. She visited several tourists. She graphically pictured Piccadilly Circus, Buckingham Palace, Kew Gardens, High Park and flower stores everywhere, followed by a trip through Wales.

Mrs. Chard's main delight was a visit to her old home in Gloucester, and a drive through Golden Valley, one of England's beauty spots right on the Cotswolds. She also attended a W.I. birthday party, saw Tyndall's Monument, and Peter Scott's flower and swan sanctuary.

Visits Wye Valley

From here she visited the Wye Valley and went Salmon fishing in the River Severn.

At Bristol she viewed the largest airplane in the world; saw Bath with its town and 1,000 sheep and watched as one that was lost was hunted and found by the shepherd. On to Chester with a wall around the city, Cambridge and Newmarket with the university town, and viewed Windsor Castle and visited Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Campbell.

Send Grateful Thanks

Abbott's Leigh W. I. members with Mrs. Molly Mallard, and their president, gave Mrs. Chard a full day of sight-seeing which included visit to their W.I. meeting. She was in attendance when the box of sugar from River Valley W.I. was distributed to their members. The ladies of Abbott's Leigh sent their deepest thanks for all the many boxes of food they had received from River Valley. Mrs. Chard and Mrs. Mallard exchanged their institute badges.

Mrs. Chard visited Lorna Doone Valley and viewed the fields of heather; also the home of the author of "Alice Wine Me," and purchased a copy of the original which contains three more verses. She judged pastries at another Institute Fair and thoroughly enjoyed her sightseeing.

Delighted To Be Home

Embarking for home September 23, they were favored with a smooth voyage although they sighted ice bergs at Labrador. She was delighted to once more be home in Canada and to meet her old friends at River Valley.

Several ladies handed in their dispers and these will be packed and sent to "The Save the Children Fund."

Refreshments, consisting of a hot supper, scalloped potatoes, hot meat, and macaroni were served by the lunch committee.

Mrs. Ross Bush extended thanks to the guest speaker and to all others for their part in making the November meeting a success.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ketcheson and Mr. J. F. Ketcheson, Phillipston, spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hoard, James and Robert.

Sunbeam M.B.

Mount Pleasant Sunbeam Mission Band, under the leadership of Mrs. Herbert Smith and Mrs. John Mulherin met on Sunday afternoon in the annual Christmas cards.

Their autumn thankofferings amounted to $4.76. This year the autumn thankoffering of the Mission Band is for the work in Canada will provide a $100.00 scholarship for Miss Chimaki Kamakura who is taking a two year course at the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto.

Miss Kamakura was born in Japan but when she was ten months old she came with her parents to live in Victory and at nine years of age she returned to Japan and later became a teacher in Toyo Eiwa Jogakuin where she taught music for 12 years.

Mrs. Frank Carr accompanied her niece to Toronto on Wednesday and she will spend some time holidaying in that city.

Mrs. George Bird, Frankford, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Menzies and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Nelson.

Several of the teachers sponsored Hallowe'en parties in the schools on Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rodgers and Brenda of Belleville, visited Mr. and Mrs. John McMullen on fifth concession one evening recently.

Mrs. Frank Smith, Mrs. Arthur Phillips and Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Mount Pleasant attended the, November meeting of River Valley W.I. at the home of Mrs. Ernest Carr and Mrs. Frank Carr, on Tuesday last. Mrs. Clarence Chard gave an interesting travelogue.

MADOC

(Afternoon Session)

Madoc—The Madoc and Elzevir Sunday School convention met in St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, Madoc, on Wednesday last with 17 Sunday Schools represented. Theme of convention, "Teach, Teach, Teach."

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

WINIFRED E. WILKIE

MOVING DOWN A PEG

In contrast to the Arctic tern, which spends the greater part of the year getting to and from its winter resort, more than 11,000 miles distant, there are some birds that migrate only a little way. Certain mountain regions offer examples of chickadees, juncos, and several other species that nest either on the summits or high up on the slopes, and in autumn simply move to lower levels. Other birds do migrate from north to south as winter approaches, but the individuals of the various species travel only a few miles — they all just move down a peg.

This discovery of fairly recent years is possible because there are now so many more bird watchers than in the past, and observations can be made through banding, the use of airplane census strips, and counts from automobiles. Birds such as robins, bluebirds, song sparrows, meadowlarks and Mrs. jays are found in certain districts of Canada or the United States throughout the year. But the question arises as "Is this the identical bird living here this winter that was with us in the summer?"

Not many years ago the robin was picked as being most suitable for testing, and the Atlantic coast chosen as the best location, because the section about Washington, D.C., is the breeding home of the southern variety of this species. Around the end of October, it seems to disappear until about the first of April; but during that period its place is taken by the southern robin. At the most southern part of the robin's range, on the coast of the Gulf of Mexico, there is a concentration in winter; we, in Canada, have just the odd bird which has on years to be conclusive proof that robins, at least, migrate but a short distance, and their places are taken by others from a trifle farther north—birds themselves in this rule would hold good for other species.

But all rules have their exceptions. It has been found by observing birds which have subspecies (so that they can be differentiated) that yellowthroats of the Atlantic seaboard, and Western fox sparrows have another method of arranging themselves in winter. In both these cases, birds that nest in the south are practically non-migratory, while those which breed farther north fly south to the coast, where they spend their winter holidays still farther south. The yellowthroats commuting as far north as Newfoundland migrate to the West Indies. This sounds like a game of leap frog.

BACK IN THE "RED"

When the Belleville Redmen trot out on the ice Monday night for their initial senior OHA brush with the Peterborough Petes, the brilliancy of their uniforms will recall teams of other days when red was the favorite color of Belleville squads.

The former Redmen will relive again, as far as uniforms go. The 1950 edition of the team will be garbed in red and white sweaters with red the basic color and slashes of white on the shoulders, two white rings on the sleeves and white wristbands.

On their manly bosoms they will wear special crests, newly - designed by Don Lee and large white numbers will adorn their backs.

The crests are shield - shaped and will bear the letter "B" in one top corner and the letter "R" in the lower opposite corner. The other squares of the crest will be of black and white check effect. A colorful combination all round.

DOUBLE TROUBLE FOR BCI

It will be do or die for "Old BCI" here this afternoon when both senior and junior grid teams tangle with their ancient enemies from Peterborough Collegiate Institute. Coach Bev. Goulding, mentor of the Liftlock senior squad has whipped together a right smart aggregation of pigskin - toters and in some parts the Petes are marked as favorites to win, one. "Red" Townsend's BCI stalwarts are fit and ready to go, and will give the potent Petes the battle of their lives. The senior game gets under way roundabout three o'clock, or immediately following the junior tilt.

At one p. m. the younkers of both schools will battle for the semi-finals honors in the junior department. BCI comes aside the opposition in their group quite handily and are confident they can take the measure of the Peterborough opposition. Both games will be well worth the price of admission, and a good turnout should sideline the jousts, and give the Townsend Terrors some appreciated support.

TWO U. S.-BORN PLAYERS IN N.H.L.

Norm Dussault, the "scooter" who flies up and down the left wing on the Elmer Lach, Maurice Richard, line for Montreal Canadiens, and Pete Babando, oft-traded winger of the Chicago Black Hawks, are the only two players in the N.H.L. this season who were born in the United States. Dussault was born in Springfield, Mass. and Babando in Braeburn, Pa. Both players learned their hockey in Canada, however. Dussault learned his hockey in the Province of Quebec and Babando learned his in Northern Ontario.

THE "COAL DUST" TWINS

Jimmy Thomson and Gus Mortson, Toronto's ace defensive combo, can now be called the "Coal Dust" Twins. Thomson and Mortson are both actively engaged in the coal business during the off season. Thomson manages the company and Mortson is the star salesman. These youthful veterans — (Thomson is 33 and Mortson is 29) are starting their fifth season as regular rearguards for the Leafs.

Out-on-the-Limb Club

The Out-on-the-Limb Club, functioning again this weekend, has the backbone of star selector Claude Tice and guests Dick Fitzpatrick and Mac Badgley 6o held it together. The other two members, this corner and Jack Brown, had slightly clouded crystal balls last weekend.

Mr. Fitzpatrick, the intrepid outsider, puts his neck in the sling with the following selections: — Hamilton over Ottawa, Argos over the Alouettes, McGill over Varsity, Western over Queens; he picks the Edmonton Eskies to wallop Winnipeg, and calls the Sarnia Imps to take the Beaches Sunday.

City Editor Tice, happy that his limb wasn't sawed off from underneath him last week, follows through with the Tiger-Cats to claw the Rough-riders, but takes the Larks over the Argos; he calls McGill and Western to win, pins his hopes on Annis Stukus' hopefuls to take Winnipeg, and calls the Sunday game for the Beaches.

Brown and 'yours truly', whose averages are nothing to write home about, see it this way: for Brown, it's the Tiger-Cats and Argos for the winning slots; McGill and Western in the intercollegiate; he goes along with Annis Stukus also, and picks the Beaches to smear the Imperials.

We stay with the Ottawa outfit, call Argos over the Als, McGill over Varsity, and Western to win in Kingston. We play a lone hand with Winnipeg's Blue Bombers to take Edmonton, and along with the mob we call Beaches over Imperials.

Guest Badgley who entered the lists at the last moment has a yen for the Argos over Alouettes; agrees with us that Ottawa will ride rough over the Tiger Cats; picks the red and white of McGill to drench the royal blue of Varsity; murmured "a cinch" as he earmarked the Mustangs to dunk the Queen's Gaels; pondered a minute before he picked the Eskimos to crimp the hopes of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, but promptly put the lab on Sarnia to whip Beaches.

Charles Offered $100,000 to Meet Jersey Joe Walcott

(By The Canadian Press)

Heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles has been offered $100,000 guarantee to meet Jersey Joe Walcott in a title bout in Atlantic City next Feb. 22.

Felix Bocchicchio, Walcott's manager, made the offer and said Walcott would take a percentage of the receipts for another crack at Charles. The champion won a decision over Walcott June 22, 1949, at Chicago to gain National Boxing Association recognition as titleholder. Since then Charles has earned undisputed rights to the championship by defeating Joe Lohla.

Bocchicchio said an effort would be made to have the International Boxing Club promote the fight or release Charles for the bout.

If stated, the bout would be in Convention Hall, which has a seating capacity of about 41,000 for boxing. Walcott was listed by the N. B. A. as the leading contender for the championship.

Argentina defeated the United States 64-50 last night to win the World Amateur Basketball Championship before a crowd of 25,000 in Buenos Aires.

A shouting, jubilant crowd paraded through downtown Buenos Aires in the biggest victory celebration given in the memory of sports fans.

Argentina is assured of keeping the title until 1954 when the next world championship will be played at Sao Paulo, Brazil.

A. Sidney Dawes, president of the Canadian Olympic Association, says that hockey has been confirmed as a competition on the program for the 1952 winter Games at Oslo, Norway.

"The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association will select a satisfactory team to represent Canada and has offered to meet all expenses," Mr. Dawes said.

Sammy Snead bested par by two strokes yesterday with a 35-35—70 finish to romp home a four stroke victor over Johnny Palmer for his second straight North and South Open Golf championship with a 72-hole score of 278.

Snead, leading money winner of professional golf two years in a row, pocketed $1,500 in first money in the $7,500 at Pinehurst, N.C., event to boost his year's earnings to $35,358.

Lindy Berry, the talented Texan tosser for Edmonton Eskimos, was the best passer in the western Football Conference this season.

Statistics show Berry tossed 129 completed passes in 254 attempts for a passing average of 50.8. His heaves netted 2,331 yards and 10 of the passes were good for touchdowns. Only on 30 occasions were his passes intercepted.

Runner-up in the pitching department was Jack Hartman of Saskatchewan Roughriders, who completed 78 out of 162 for an average of 48.1 close behind was Calgary's Keith Spaith with a 47.1 mark—124 completions in 263 tries.

Irish wrestler Danno O'Mahoney, who campaigned in the United States and Canada for many years, died last night from injuries suffered in an automobile accident.

O'Mahoney's car hit a parked truck near Port Laighaise, Ireland. Both his legs were broken.

Coach Wally Masters of Ottawa's last-place Rough Riders of the Big Four Football League says he doesn't know his plans for next year.

He was non-committal about a report that he didn't expect to be around with the Riders for another season.

"We've got a losing team," he said, "and when you have a losing team, usually the coach is it. But the club executive hasn't said anything to me about it."

Alouettes Make Last Stand In Defence of Crown

(By The Canadian Press)

Canada's football champions today make what may be their last stand in defence of their crown.

For the defending champion Montreal Alouettes, their last chance to catch a Big Four playoff berth amounts to something worse than sudden death. Not only must they beat the Argonauts in Toronto, they must also hope for a Hamilton loss at Ottawa.

Anything less than this combination and Alouettes go into the discard along with their Grey Cup opponents of last season, Calgary Stampeders.

With today's games winding up the Big Four schedule, the other two leagues that challenge for the Grey Cup are already at their playoff stage. In the West, Edmonton Eskimos open a best-of-three series with Winnipeg Blue Bombers for the western title with a night game tonight at Edmonton.

Sarnia Imperials and Toronto Balmy Beach, who played the entire Ontario Union schedule just to eliminate Windsor, start their two-game total-points playoff with a Sunday game at Toronto. They play back in Sarnia the following Saturday, with the winner meeting the Big Four champion for the Eastern Canada crown.

Argos, winners of a Big Four playoff berth, will rest the injured Ulysses Curtis and Lorne Parkin against Ottawa Rough Riders. Should the Montrealers win this one — and should the eliminated Ottawa Rough Riders upset Hamilton — the Alouettes and the Tiger-Cats would have to play off for the second playoff berth.

Otherwise, it will be Toronto and Hamilton in a two-game, total-point series, dates yet to be decided.

The rumpus in the Western Canada League over whether today's game should be played by floodlight or daylight has been tied comparatively amicably last night. Winnipeg, who wanted a daytime do, was pacified when Edmonton agreed to advance the starting time a halfhour to 7:30 p.m. MST. This will enable Winnipeg to catch a night train home.

In the other Intercollegiate league, the unbeaten McGill Redmen meet University of Toronto at Montreal and the second place University of Western Ontario Mustangs meet Queen's at Kingston.

Al Rollins Will Guard Twine Against Rangers

(By The Canadian Press)

New York Rangers gave up on Al Rollins several seasons back when he contracted rheumatic fever.

But Rollins will have his chance to laugh tonight when he guards the nets for Toronto Maple Leafs and faces the Rangers in one of the two Saturday night National Hockey League games.

In the other game, Boston Bruins visit Montreal in search of their first win of the year. They've dropped five. Canadiens however, are none too happy about losing two straight to the league - leading Leafs, and promise to be somewhat inhospitable.

Rollins will be doing his third relief chore of the season for Turk Broda, his other regular. Leafs beat Chicago 5-3 and Boston 4-2.

Leafs, who dropped their home opener to Chicago now have gone nine games without a loss, worked on shooting drills yesterday on their return from Montreal.

Rangers staged a rough-and-tumble workout yesterday for the game. They have only one win and four ties in nine starts.

But coach Neil Colville told Toronto reporters that his team "will be all right."

"We haven't reached our full stride," he said. "We've been using four lines and some of the boys haven't had enough work to get them in top condition."

Montreal fans still are talking about the way rookie goalie Jacques McNeil kicked out puck after puck against Leafs Thursday. Leafs outshot Canadiens 35-20 in the game which they won 2-1.

McNeil stopped the score from going higher, in the second period when he beat Max Bentley on three good chances.

Bentley is due to Detroit for a Sunday game after the Montreal meeting. Rangers travel to Chicago for the only other Sunday clash.

Galt Black Hawks Come Out Of Full Junior 'A' Schedule One Point Ahead of Pack

(By The Canadian Press)

The entire Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league was in action Friday night. Galt Black Hawks came out of the shuffle still in front of the tightly-packed league by a narrow margin.

A single point behind them are Barrie Flyers, Guelph Biltmores and Oshawa Generals; two points back are Stratford Kroehlers and St. Catharines Teepees.

The standings got that way when Galt lost 4-3 to Guelph; Oshawa beat Barrie 4-2; St. Catharines pounded Toronto St. Michael's College 7-1; Toronto Marlboros beat Stratford 4-3 and Windsor Spitfires beat the Hamilton Waterloo Hurricanes 6-1.

In the senior circuit, Toronto Marlboros went out in front by beating Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen 4-3 in Toronto. But Hamilton or St. Michael's meet tonight in Toronto and the winners will move into a tie with Marlboros.

Marlboros, defending Allan Cup champions, won the game in the first three minutes of play when Stan Kemp and Scotty Mair each scored. Don Rope added another before the end of the period. Art Hurst got both Kitchener-Waterloo goals, late in the final period and Ed Stankiewicz got the fourth tally for Marlboros.

Galt Misses Chance

In tonight's junior game, Barrie is at Waterloo; St. Catharines at Galt; and Stratford at Oshawa. In the Sunday afternoon doubleheader in Toronto, Windsor plays St. Michael's and Guelph plays Marlboros.

Galt missed its chance of taking a three-point lead in the league in the first period of their game with Biltmores at Guelph. Ed Lukik and Louis Fontinato gave the Biltmores a lead they never lost. Willy Marshall and Herb Dickenson got the other Guelph tallies with Goose Gosselin and Ken Wharram scoring for Galt.

It may, however, be the last game Marshall plays for Biltmores. At a meeting of the O. H. A. executive last night ordered Marshall to return to St. Michael's.

In a player trade earlier, Guelph had traded John Negladiuk and Ken Laufman for Marshall. Laufman refused to play for St. Mikes on the grounds that the Irish salary offer of $75 a week was "inadequate."

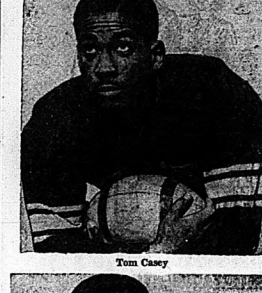
The meeting ordered Marshall to return to St. Mikes and Negladiuk to return to Guelph because the deal was not completed. The two clubs, however, may work out a private agreement before the deadline transfer of Dec. 15.

The executive also suspended coach Rudy Pilous of St. Catharines for 10 games for his refusal to order a St. Catharines player the penalty in a Windsor game last week after the officials called a penalty against St. Catharines for banging hockey sticks against the boards. The game was stopped and awarded to Windsor when Pilous refused to comply with the order.

Pilous Absent

Pilous was absent last night when the teepees racked up their biggest score of the season against Mit. Mikes. Buddy Boone fired two for St. Catharines with other goals by Frank Martin, Frank Topcia, Pierre Pilote, Jim Robertson, and Gord Lomer. Bill Dinnen got the only Irish goal.

Windsor Spitfires were outshot 36-31 by the hapless Hurricanes in Windsor but their scorers had a field day. Eddie Joes, John Ordanl, Al Arbour, Elmour Skov, Earl Johnson, and Jim Anderson all scored. Bud Evans got the only goal for Hurricanes who have picked up only one point in eight starts.



Generals only had 14 shots on the Flyers but Bud Jackiewski kicked out shot after shot on the Oshawa cage while Alex Delvecchio scored two and Ric Cassin and Lou Jankowski each added one for Generals. Real Chevrefils and Lionel Barber scored for Barrie.

Chuck Jamieson, Stan Maxwell, Steve Karrys and Ron Stewart all scored for Marlboros as they beat Kroehler in Stratford on the Brian McFarland and Gord Myles getting the two Stratford goals.

Armchair Critics Often Ignorant

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables)

One of the finest things about living in this country of ours or Canada, is the fact that every man is entitled to his own opinion. Moreover, he is free to express that opinion without fear of unpleasant consequences on the part of the local gestapo.

No matter how little a man knows about the subject, he can pop off to his heart's content to anybody who will listen to him. It's a wonderful thing, this inalienable right of free speech.

However, it does seem to me that a fellow should take at least a little pains to keep himself posted if he is going to try to influence the opinion of others. Most of the time he does little damage, but now and then the reverse is true, particularly if he occupies a seat in the high places.

Many years ago, while I was in our National Capitol to sign up for World War I, I dropped into the visitors' gallery overlooking the House of Representatives. A gentleman, whose name I shall be nameless, was sounding off about the proposed governmental sponsoring of the air mail.

Absurd Opinion

"They tell me that an airplane has a fan out in front to pull it along. Then another fellow says they got a fan out back to keep it in the air. Don't make sense to me. No, sir, I'm votin' 'gainst government air mail. Them airplanes ain't practical."

You think I'm kidding? It's in the Congressional Record, November, 1917. Look it up for yourself. That man's vote counted just as much as that of the man who sponsored the air mail bill which, fortunately, was passed and became law.

It falls to my lot to attend many meetings of sportsmen's groups here and there about the country. It is not uncommon to hear opinions voiced expressed, which are every bit as cockeyed as that of the Congressman mentioned earlier.

Take, for instance, the setting of the regulations governing the shooting of migratory birds. Duck shooters, dove hunters, woodcock fans, what have you, rave and storm about seasons and legal limits. Annually they see to it that the U.S. Department of Fish and Wildlife is laid out in lavender.

Noisiest Critics

What they forget is this—Fish and Wildlife employs trained biologists to do nothing else, twelve months of the year, but study migratory birds. Each day finds these men on the job, keeping track of nesting seasons, migration flights, census counts and so on.

The self-appointed experts can't possibly put in much time in bird study as they have their own businesses or professions to occupy their time. The great majority of them see the birds only during the few shooting trips they take each year. Yet they are the noisiest critics.

Some years ago I decided to write a book about the ruffed grouse. My wife helped me. The complete story of this bird as we found it—life, behavior, food, mating, nesting, etc., in addition to what we can learn of hunting management and shooting.

For over forty years I have studied this great game bird, but that certainly does not qualify me as an expert. The role I played in the preparation of this manuscript was simply that of reporter, not an authority.

The two full years I collected data. I corresponded with and talked to the outstanding authorities on ruffed grouse. I consulted game-farm managers who had worked with grouse, raised them in pens, and labored to learn more about them.

There is much controversy about grouse, even among biologists. As well as I could I analyzed these varying opinions and fitered a middle course in summing up conclusions. At the end of two years I wrote the first page of the manuscript.

The Ignorant Take Over

Yet today there are gunners who take issue with my reporting. These men are not biologists. They are gunners, just as I am, and they see grouse only during the shooting seasons. Some of them, like me, are outdoor writers. Yet each and every one of them wrote the words and music when it comes to ruffed grouse.

There is one conservation commission, composed of non-salaried appointees chosen from the ranks of business and professional men, which fixes annually the shooting seasons and legal limits on ruffed grouse in their state. To my definite knowledge these men trust their own judgments and discard the opinions of the biologists who work with grouse daily, twelve months of the year. . .

How do I know this? One of the commission told me.

And speaking of self-appointed experts in the high places — there are two governors of states who come under this category. One of them, by official edict, ruined completely a carefully worked out program of deer management. The other nullified a plan for the improvement of game cover on state-owned lands, a system which already had shown gratifying results.

Both of these rulings were made because the gentlemen trusted their own individual judgments instead of consulting competent ecologists.

Now and again I have a man tell me that the Solunar Tables are useless and impractical, with no scientific basis — merely a catch-penny scheme to extract dollars from an unwary public. I used to question these fellows but I don't any more. The story is always the same — of course they haven't used them. Wouldn't take the trouble. These fellows miss a lot of good fishing and shooting are hard-headed.

By and large, it's a pretty good plan, when you wish to form an intelligent opinion, to consult the man or men who know most about the subject. This goes for game and fish management just as well as in anything else.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Nov. 4 (AP)—One of the oddities of the new Dodger organization is that the Class AAA farms—Montreal and St. Paul—are bracketed with the big club's administration instead of with the other, minor league teams. . . . What the effect of that will be is more than we can guess, but it probably will lead to a few more howls from the fans about recalling players on 24-hours notice. . . .

Also, there are strong indications that the Brooklyn chain won't be as big as before. . . . One man in the organization pointed out that "the boss" meaning Branch Rickey — continued several unfruitful connections because of sentiment. "There's no sentiment in these guys," he added. . . . While we're guessing, it isn't hard to guess that Burt Shotton can be counted out as next year's manager. Why else would President Walter O'Malley emphasize that he'll talk with Shotton "because I think he's a very fine gentleman"?

Discussed With Interest

At the same press conference where these details came out, someone asked O'Malley who would deal with a player who was asking for a $5,000 raise. . . . Walter grinned mirthfully and replied: "The bank, I guess, if he wants that much."

Sportsmention

Don McEwen of Ottawa, Michigan's star distance runner, finds time for a good look at football practice every day after his track counterpart stint while he's waiting for his team-mates to catch up. . . . Pop McKale, Arizona athletic director, issued an ultimatum to members of the athletic staff, club that they'd have to abandon the practice of kissing unwary coeds on initiation day or do without him as faculty adviser. Surprisingly, it worked. We didn't think Pop was that puny. . . .

The former light heavyweight boxing champ, Gus Lesnevich, and former wrestler Murray Rothenberg are partners in the used-car business in Little Ferry, N.J. . . . Their slogan: "Don't worry, see Murray; don't fuss, see Gus."

Cold, Wet, Snowy Weekend Seen

Toronto, Nov. 4—(CP)— The season's first snowfall in southern Ontario, general in the region last night, today moved slowly northward.

The weather man said prospects were for a cold, wet and windy weekend with snow changing to rain later today. Sunday probably will be cold with cloudy skies.

About 2½ inches of snow fell at suburban Malton. A high of 40 degrees was expected today. Temperatures were just above freezing this morning, in contrast with Wednesday's 74 degrees that broke records for that date.

The snow belt extended as far east as Ottawa and Montreal, west to Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and north to James Bay.

Montreal, Nov. 4—(CP)—Montreal today was blanketed with three inches of snow that slowed early morning traffic to a crawl.

The snowfall started about 2 a.m. EST. It was expected later in the day that the snow would turn into rain.

HANDED FIRST DEFEAT

Ottawa, Nov. 4 — (CP) RCAF Flyers handed the North Bay Black Hawks their first defeat of the Eastern Canada Senior Amateur Hockey League season Friday by a 5-3 score. Up to Friday night the Hawks had won four straight games.

Flyers took command right from the start, outscoring the visitors 3-1 in the first period, getting another two goals in the middle session and matching a North Bay counter in the third.

Licari potted two for the Flyers and the other scorers were Scott, Ryan, Thomson and Robinson. Ringler and Elik scored for the Hawks.

IMPROVE TECHNIQUE

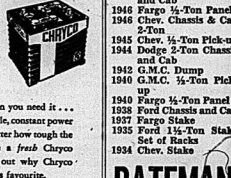
Guelph, Nov. 4—(CP)—Guelph police claim that counterfeiters apparently are improving their technique. They have uncovered some bogus $10 bills which have been coated with glossy surface to prevent the ink from smearing. Most counterfeit bills can be detected because the ink on them smears.

MARRIED CIVILLY

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 4—(CP)—Albert Roberts, 72, and Marian George, 62 were married in a civil ceremony Friday before Magistrate John D. Hopkins, the third civil marriage performed here since new Ontario legislation came into force. The couple comes from Etobicoke township, a Toronto suburb.

HULL VOLANTS TRIMMED

Ottawa, Nov. 4 — (CP) — Ottawa Army, scoring at a goal-a-period clip, trimmed the Hull Volants 3-1 in an Eastern Canada Senior Amateur Hockey League game here Friday night. It was Army's second straight victory over Volants.



Kilrea opened the Army scoring in the first two minutes in what proved to be the only goal of the period. Marshall tied the count for Hull in the first minute of the second period but Limoges got that one back for Ottawa four minutes later and Darch secured the Army victory on a three-way play with Brunning and Kilrea in the final stanza.

'Call Me Madam' Starring Ethel Merman Disappointing

By FRED KEENER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Aug. 4 (CP) — The New York theatre season is rolling along at a frivolous pace.

Though several sombre subjects have been explored dramatically since the season opened six weeks ago, they have not claimed the popular attention that have the antic doings. Of 10 openings — both on and off Broadway—during October, seven have been in a light vein.

One of the three serious pieces that showed during the month has been closed, one is staggering along weakly and the third is holding on mainly because of its star, Basil Rathbone. Only one of the comedies folded.

The most-highly publicized production of the month, "Call Me Madam" starring the inimitable Ethel Merman, is frankly a disappointment. Without the wonderful talents of Miss Merman—and a $1,000,000 advance sale—the musical travesty might not last long.

Is Merman makes the most of an Irving Berlin score that tends to be reminiscent of a lot of old songs. The book, about a mythical U.S. ambassadress to a mythical European Duchy, is written by Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse—but is no credit to these top authors.

Among the better of the straight comedies are "The Day After Tomorrow", an inocuously amusing piece about British society by Frederick Lonsdale, and a revival of the late George Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man" done by the Arena Theatre Group.

Has Brilliant Cast

The Lonsdale comedy stars Melville Cooper and has a brilliant cast which help make the evening most entertaining despite the contrived situations of the story. The ancient play by G.B.S. goes well in the round-theatre setting and has Francis Lederer and Sam Wanamaker to bolster an otherwise good cast of actors.

The month's disappointment was John Steinbeck's "Burning Bright" which managed to survive little more than a week. A moody symbolic play concerning sterility, it is sterile in plot but sterile in development.

A pleasant little comedy by a former Canadian newspaper man, Ted Farah, called "Angel With Red Hair", is presented by a top off-Broadway group, the Blackfriars' Guild. Farah, a native of New Liskeard, Ont., received favorable notices from the critics for his first produced effort in theatre.

Strong Tone of Tragedy

Though billed as a comedy, "The Curious Savage" by John Patrick has a strong underlying tone of tragedy as it tells of inmates in a private mental home. Lillian Gish, as a "curious savage" dowager, heads a brilliant cast.

A casualty was "Legend of Sarah", the first comedy written by the team of James Gow and Armand d'Usseau, best known for "Tomorrow the World" and "Deep Are The Roots". Marsha Hunt failed to carry this deficient bit of humor running.

Movie Column

BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 4—(AP)—National Oblivion Week is catching on.

Recently I suggested a week for doing away with certain items in the movie world that have seen too much service. Nominations included water-skiing shorts, stars who complain about income taxes and pictures that end with concertos.

I am happy to report that further nominations have come in from alert movie fans (columnists are always happy to have someone else do their work). Here are some of them:

A Hollywood girl wrote: "I'd like to see an end to that famed line in every film biography of a composer. He says, 'I will anyone ever hear my music?' And his girl friend replies, 'some day everyone will hear your music!'"

AT THE CAPITOL — Linda Darnell who co-stars with Joel McCrea and Maureen O'Hara in "Buffalo Bill," in Technicolor, starting Monday at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program "Susannah of The Mounties," featuring Shirley Temple and Randolph Scott.

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

In Colorado Springs lives my friend Larry Wolfe of Frederica, distinctive jewelers. While I was there for the tournament and a broadcast he steered me to the main spots of interest thereabouts.

Seated near the swim pool of the Broadmoor we got into our annual bridge discussion. The subject is whether it is better to play strictly by rule or later deceptions.

Larry was a popular football coach for years. His light teams were usually outweighed. But he won with numerous ruses and trick plays that he invented and for which he was noted.

He and his partner won the men's pair championship in the Rocky Mountain regionals last year. So he has a couple of good legs to stand on when he gives me any kind of an argument on strategy.

His contention is that wily tactics in bidding will prove much more profitable than unbending rules. My claim is the opposite. To win most often, I insist, a pair must maintain partnership confidence.

Just when I was warming up to my best reasons he pulls out the deal shown here:

	NORTH
	♠6 4 3
	♥K Q 6 3
	♦9 5
	♣J 6 4 2
WEST		EAST
♠K 10 5		♠Q J 8
♥8 4 2		♥9 7 5
♦K J 8 6 3		♦A Q 10 2
♣5 3		♣10 8 7
	SOUTH
	♠A 9 7 3
	♥A J 10
	♦7 4
	♣A K Q 9

As dealer in the south seat his opening was one diamond. As you can readily see he had no biddable diamond suit, Nor did he have anything that looked like a diamond suit.

His partner responded with a bid of one heart for which south had an assist. But he did not assist the heart response. Instead, he jumped to three no-trump and became the declarer at that bid.

His phony opening fooled the west opponent into leading some suit other than diamonds. It was the only reason three no-trump made.

So I called his attention to a figure that was posing at the pool. At least it was something on which we could agree.

AT THE CARTOON — Joel McCrea, who stars in "Buffalo Bill," 20th Century's Technicolor great outdoor feature with Linda Darnell and Maureen O'Hara, opening Monday at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program "Susannah of the Mounties," starring Shirley Temple and Randolph Scott.

AT THE McCARTHY — Take that, you cad! Ray Milland is on the receiving end, while Rosalind Russell does the pitching in Columbia's "A Woman of Distinction," new comedy closing today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. Edmund Gwenn is also starred.

"Treasure Island", Disney's First Real Action Production

That master storyteller, Robert Louis Stevenson, whose "Treasure Island" Walt Disney brings to the screen knew the tricks of suspense.

The book, which the great adventure film faithfully follows, sets the pattern for much of today's alluring literature and radio programs. Stevenson used the mounting tension effects of described sounds as well as the visual suggestion.

Among the scalp-tingling episodes of "Treasure Island", Walt Disney's first real-live action production, showing today, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Belle Theatre, are the approach of Blind Pew with his tap-tap-tapping cane to deliver the fatal Black Spot to Billy Bones in the search for the treasure map.

Another suspense peak in the production in color by technicolor is young Jim Hawkins' fight on deck and in the rigging with the deadly Israel Hands for the possession of the ship Hispaniola. Other desperate moments in a swift succession of pulse-pounders are the capture of the cabin boy as hostage by the pirate chief, Long John Silver; near discovery of the boy hiding in the apple barrel to overhear the plotting of the buccaneers; the outcome of the shipboard mutiny, and return of Hawkins through the jungle trap to rejoin the loyal treasure seekers, in this, the greatest adventure of all.

Bobby Driscoll, Disney's youthful star, figures in most of these filmed thrills, together with his co-star, Robert Newton as Long John Silver, and Basil Sidney as Captain Smollett, eminent actors.

"Beaver Valley", in Technicolor

An extra added thirty minute attraction on the same program, is Walt Disney's True Life Adventure "Beaver Valley", color by technicolor, one of the most remarkable films ever filmed—greater than the Academy Award winning "Seal Island." Continuous shows will be presented today.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was watching the living room clock get closer and closer to 9 o'clock and wondering if a miracle would happen and pop and ma would both forget I was suppose to go to bed, and all of a sudden I had an idea, thinking, I'll surprise them by going to bed by my own free will before it's all the ways time to. Oh boy, they'll think I'm grate, I said.

And I yawned a big artificial yawn, saying, Gosh, I think I must be sleepy, I guess I'll go to bed now.

Good, pop said. You couldn't pick a better place to go at this time of nite at your age of life, he said, and ma said, And I warn you not to sit up reading, either, the way you did the other nite when I saw your lite berning a half an hour after I thawt you were asleep. All rite, now good nite, she said.

Me thinking, Heck, it's not working.

And I pretended to notice the clock saying, My, it wont be 9 till the middle of next year. Jiminioy roosiem, I pritty near made a mistake, I said.

For Peet sake you said you were sleepy, pop said. What's the time got to do with it? he said and I said, It wouldn't of mattered if I hadn't noticed it, but now it's shocked me awake again. Can I stay up till I start to yawn again? I said.

You can go to bed till you fall asleep, that's what you can do, ma said, and pop said, And now get started and keep started.

Well holey smokes, it's only 3 minutes to 9, you're not going to make me go to bed before 9, are you? I said, and pop said, Yes I am, maybe it'll teetch you to always give way to a good impulse, regardless of time.

The result being I had to stay for 3 more minutes to keep from going to bed

VICTORY CHEERS SOUTH KOREANS

With bands playing and gay crowds bidding them goodbye, South Korean troops entrain for action on the Manchurian border. These soldiers are victory-minded as they take off for fronts that are being bitterly defended by the communist enemy. Reportedly aided by red China troops, the North Koreans are making a die-hard last stand.— Central Press Canadian.

CANADIAN MOTHER

NEIGHBORS ORGANIZE FLEET OF TRACTORS TO PLOW HOLLAND IMMIGRANT'S LAND

This fleet of tractors showed up unannounced at the Hopeville, Ont., farm of Holland immigrant Wieger de Jong and his family, plowed 60 acres of land in one afternoon. De Jong suffered a complete crop failure this year. He would not have been able to continue had not his neighbors come to his rescue. "The kindest neighbors in the world," De Jong called them. He came from Holland three years ago. —Central Press Canadian.

POPE PROCLAIMS CATHOLIC DOGMA

From a throne specially erected before the gate of St. Peter's Basilica in Rome, Pope Pius XII proclaims the dogma of the Bodily Assumption into Heaven of the Virgin Mary. Some 500,000 Romans and Holy Year pilgrims jammed the square and the adjoining streets for this historic moment in Roman Catholic religious history. — Central Press Canadian.

CHINESE TROOPS BOLSTER NORTH KOREAN FORCES

American army Lieuts. M. W. Allen, of Spokane, Wash., and C. O. Crewe, of Portland, Ore, question some of the Chinese captured near the Changjin reservoir in North Korea. United Nations forces officials said they were wearing Chinese communist uniforms and that they said they were part of a non-combat group supplying the North Korean forces with ammunition and other military supplies. Latest dispatches from North Korea tell of the participation of thousands of Chinese troops in the fighting.— Central Press Canadian.

MIRACLE MILE

This is an artist's sketch of the proposed $25,000,000 city centre for Edmonton which voters turned down this week by a small margin. The scheme was proposed by New York financial interests, who sought a tax-free, 69-year lease on the four-block area and agreed to pay an annual rental of $50,000. The city would have had a share in the profits and become owners of the property on termination of the lease. — (CP Photo.)

BATEMAN MOTORS

I Hear Adventure Calling

By Emilie Loring

"Haven't either. Was a newspaperman for a while, then inherited enough money to spoil me for a settled job. If I'm elected I'll do my darndest to make good. Elected or not, I intend to take a course my Alma Mater thought up 'Great Issues.' It is required work for seniors, designed to send them out into the world equipped with an idea, if no more, of the big problems to be met and solved in this critical decade. I can use a little such information."

"You and the rest of us. It sounds like a divinely inspired idea. Listen, isn't that the puff of a motor coming this way?"

"Yes. On order." He struggled to his feet. "You wouldn't think from my stiffness now that I was a relay champion once, would you? Can I take you anywhere?" he asked as a tender with outboard motor slid smoothly onto the beach.

"No, no thanks. Is that your man at the wheel?"

"No. Picked up the guy at the Rocky Point pier. He was helping Sinclair put off. I asked him if he knew anything about boats. He allowed he did, having just finished three years in the navy as lieutenant (j.g.). I hired him to bring the tender round. Couldn't see myself climbing up these rocks. Sure, you won't come along?"

"No, I'll repack the basket, throw the scraps, if any, to the gulls and do the scrambling act myself."

"You're the doctor. Bye-bye till we meet again."

Her eyes followed him as he crossed the beach. The man in brown shirt and dungaree standing back to the cliff steadied the boat as he stepped in, pushed it off and swung aboard expertly. She watched till it rounded the point and was out of sight.

"First a butler in Belgium, next a casualty of Dunkirk, now a lieutenant (j.g.) in our navy," she reflected aloud. "I wonder in what guise you will appear next, Mister —Barth!"

The play was well written, well acted and staged with professional skill, but the wooden building of the summer theatre was unbearably hot. When, just before the final curtain, the coatless leading man in a shirt visibly wet with perspiration clasped to his manly if damp, bosom the woman in his life, whose honey of a white evening frock looked as if it had stepped from a page of Vogue, the female portion of the audience shuddered audibly. It was nothing short of sacrilege.

Fran made her way through the crowded aisle to the exit. The heat was terrific it rated a sharp thundershower to cool the air. Let it come if only it would take off till she reached home.

Outside the Theatre she waited for a chance to cross the highway. Car after car drew up, filled with laughing passengers and drove away.

Had she better wait for a taxi to return or walk? The black cloud rising above the top of a gigantic pine had a wicked look. She glanced at her short-sleeved white sharkskin frock. It was a beauty. Waiting was indicated. Thank goodness she had no hat to consider.

"Miss Phillips." Natalie Andrews spoke behind her. "I was afraid I would lose you in the crowd. Is your car here or did you come with someone?"

"I walked. I'm a lone ranger. I was thinking when you spoke that if my sedan were parked here it would take an hour or two to reach it."

"We've just missed my chauffeur. He'll come around again. I hope that angry cloud is a heat-breaker. Drive home with me for tea. I promise that you will be delivered at the gallery later dry and safe."

"I can't think of anything I would rather do. I am a lady of leisure. Gene has taken over my job for the day."

Natalie Andrews looked younger than she had yesterday afternoon, not more than thirty-five. Her short white hair was youthfully cut and waved close to her head. The lustrous pearls at ears and throat and her fair skin reflected the tint of her soft pink cotton frock. She was chic from head to pink sandals.

"Hi, Nat!" a voice called as she followed Fran into the back seat of an open green convertible. "Give me a lift, I'm stranded."

"Sorry Matilde, but I haven't room for another passenger. Drive on, Gus."

Natalie's face was deeply flushed. Did she believe that her brother had been horribly hurt by the woman who had hailed her? Miss Tessie had gone on record as fearing that "the red headed hellion" might try to "rope Jim." Perhaps the refusal was not on such account, perhaps she resented her ex-husband's attention to Matilde Sargent at the preview of Eckhard's painting. Pat's confidences this morning confirmed later by Morrison Grover had been revealing. How could a woman trust a man with eyes like Her Wicked eyes. She hadn't had a 7th of experience but enough to recognize invitation in them when they met hers.

"It was a good show, wasn't it? With the question Natalie Andrews' tension eased. She settled back in the seat and unclenched the hands in her lap.

Fran agreed that it was. The car smoothly sped along a road bordered and scented by pines and balsams. They passed a high, ornate iron fence behind which one caught glimpses of a brick house, with corner towers and long windows.

"How charming." Fran exclaimed.

"That is Sunnyside, Miss Tarnt's home. There is a gate in the hedge between her garden and ours. She and my mother were devoted friends, when she her married and came north to live. Miss Tarnt bought acres of land adjoining ours, moved her house here, bricks, carvings, even windows. It is a museum piece. She is devoted to Myles and me, too devoted at times it is difficult for her to keep hands off our lives."

They kept the conversational ball in air till the chauffeur opened the door of the roadster in front of a delightful old red brick house whose white pillars rose to the second story, whose wings were widespread.

Natalie Andrews led the way through a broad hall carpeted with jewel-toned Persian rugs from which spiraled a staircase perfect in design and detail.

"The Jaffray ancestors."

She indicated the portraits hung against the ivory-tinted walls. There were men in blue coats and high white socks; men in naval and army uniforms of a much older day; one wore a black robe of a judge, his fine head rested on a book. She opened the door of a small room. Mirrored walls gave back the deep rose color of bench and hangings, the sheen of silver toilet appointments.

"In here if you want to restore your make-up, and who doesn't after broiling in The Tombs. The door at the end of the hall opens on the terrace. Join me there."

Aunt Rebecca's garden had been something to write home about, but it couldn't touch this for charm and color and fragrance, Fran thought, as she stood on the top step of the broad terrace. Gay umbrellas shaded green iron tables, striped swings topped deck chairs.

"Will you have your tea iced or hot, Miss Phillips?" inquired Natalie Andrews. She seated herself at a table equipped with choice old Georgian silver, pale yellow china of paper-thin delicacy, and a tall frosted glass pitcher and glasses.

"Hot, thank you. Somewhere I read that the hotter the day the hotter the tea should be for refreshments. Please call me Fran, not Miss Phillips. I have been loving the garden. Many of the plants would be past th... prime at home."

"Flowers and fruits are about two weeks later in Maine."

"This house is a life saver." Fran sank into a white wicker chair near the tea table with a sigh of relief.

"I suspect it is the van of a storm. Look between those two towering pines. You can see the surf rolling in on the beach. It is some surf." She offered a cup on a doily covered plate. "Trim the tea to your taste. Help yourself to cinnamon toast, sandwiches and cakes."

"Thank you, I don't need to eat. I have been feasting on your garden. Color is food and drink to me."

"It will pass your praise on to Crocker, our gardener. He is the magician who makes it grow. It is not my garden. I inherited the New York house. This place belongs to Myles. It should. It was descended from Jaffray to Jaffray and, I hope, will go that way for generations to come. Do you enjoy your work?"

It took a split second for Fran to reorient herself. She had been visualizing the Jaffray men who peopled the hall.

"Very much it is so varied. The number of visitors who come to the Gallery never ceases to amaze me. When I came up from the beach this noon and dodged into the Digby entrance, cars were parked in the drive and I caught the hum of many voices within the building. I felt guilty to leave Gene to carry on alone, but I have learned not to upset Mr. Sargent's schedule. Visitors come from miles away. Neither distance nor cost often deters fans. They spend like drunken sailors."

"Most persons like an objective when they drive In summer and love to have something about about a vacation that spread's one's spending wings. That crash of thunder was nearer."

"On the terrace! I know the way, Emile. You're right, I ought to. I've been coming here for years." The voice came from inside the house.

"Oh, dear, that's Morrie, and I thought we two were all set for a get-acquainted party." Natalie Andrews had time to murmur before Grove appeared in the doorway.

"Greetings again, Miss Phillips. How goes the battle, Nat?" His round smiling face reminded Fran of the red moon that had peaked above the horizon last night. His all-white costume accentuated his color.

"I assume that you mean by 'battle' my daily life, Morrie. It is going extremely well at the moment. I had the good luck to kidnap Fran at The Theatre."

"Boy, weren't the players up against it? It makes me hot to think of them." A wicker chair registered a creak of protest as he sank into it heavily. "I went backstage and they were limp from the heat. What a crack of thunder! Smell sulphur?"

"I hope the storm won't pass us by. We need it to clear the air. Did the girl who played the ingenue lure you behind the scenes, Morrie? She was charming, so unspoiled."

"She is all that but she's a little young to interest your Uncle Morrison, Nat. It takes a woman of your poise and beauty to shoot up my blood pressure."

The tender meaning in his words dyed her face a soft pink. Fran remembered the huskiness of his voice when this noon he had said, "He had the...loveliest wife in the world." She had the embarrassed feeling that she had opened a door without knocking. As if he realized he had spoken out of turn Grove said lightly:

"In case you are interested, I am reporting this summer experiment for the paper I once honored with my presence. Its success is news. I don't want sugar or cream in my tea, Nat. How come you have forgotten. I haven't thrown sand in the works by my honest, if clumsy, tribute to your charm, have I?"

"Take this cup and stop your nonsense, Morrie." Natalie Andrews protested, but his words had brought youth and laughter to her face. "What news from the political front? Speaking of battles, how goes your campaign?"

"Fair. Blows flow and wind. Quite poetic what! Getting backstage again parked up my pen for dreams. Hear the great Sargent is Tassle?"

"No. What sensational thing has she done now?"

"Not sensational this time. She has invited the artist of yesterday's one-man show to be her guest at Sunnyside while he paints the surrounding country."

"How like her, she can be so kind. Did he accept? Does she think we are paintable? How did you hear?"

"I'll answer your questions in reverse, Not. I was included in the invitation to dinner after the preview; he thinks this country paintable and he accepted for the one-guest house party. He's quite a guy if you ask me. Speaking of guys, remember the man who brought round my tender Miss Phillips? Shucks—why be so formal? Why not Fran?"

"No reason in the world, make it Fran, I remember the man. This morning he told you he had been a lieutenant (j.g.) in our navy, yesterday he told me he was a casualty of Dunkirk."

Morrison Grover's whistle was long and low.

"What do you know about that!"

"Nothing but what he told me. If you believe him, before Dunkirk he was a butler in an 'almost palace' in Belgium. Also, he was the waiter at the preview yesterday."

"You're kidding."

"I'm not, but apparently someone is."

"Something tells me that fella will bear watching."

RED RETREAT IN N. W. KOREA PUZZLES YANKS

Red Intervention In Korea Confronts UN With Crisis

MacArthur Charges 'Alien Reds' Have Moved into Korea

By STANLEY JOHNSON

Lake Success, Nov. 6—AP—Gen. Douglas MacArthur today formally notified the United Nations Security Council that Chinese communist forces are fighting U. N. troops in Korea.

The charges were made in a special report transmitted by U. S. delegate Warren R. Austin.

MacArthur gave a detailed account of specific units which had been identified by his intelligence officers.

"The United Nations forces are meeting a new foe," MacArthur said.

"It is apparent to our fighting forces and our intelligence agencies have confirmed the fact, that the United Nations are presently in hostile contact with Chinese communist military units, deployed for action against forces of the united command."

Scheduled to Meet

MacArthur added:

"The continued employment of Chinese communist forces in Korea and the hostile attitude assumed by such forces, either inside or outside Korea, are matters which it is incumbent upon me to bring to the end to the attention of the United Nations."

The security council was scheduled to meet at 3 p.m. EST today to take up the Palestine question, but the report was laid before the delegates when they convened.

There was no indication, however, that the question would be debated immediately.

U.N. decision to label the red Peiping government as aggressor and order a full-scale military effort to drive its troops out of Korea invariably would touch off a chain of events that might lead ultimately to another world war.

U.S. Delegate Warren R. Austin was to make the world organization formally today of Gen. MacArthur's charges that "alien communists" have crossed into Korea in force from Manchuria and are meeting U.N. troops.

Although MacArthur nowhere in his communication used the word "Chinese" there was little doubt whom he meant.

His announcement that U.N. almost had won complete victory in Korea when the new forces, with vast reserves across the border in Manchuria, upset the strategic picture of that area, might be destroyed.

Last night the U.S. had not yet decided whether to press formal charges against the communist Peiping government.

The Security Council had a session scheduled for this afternoon, at which Austin could demand U.N. action if the United States decided this was the best policy.

It is known, however, that the U.S. is trying desperately to avoid spreading the Korean war.

Hunter Rescues Boys Boating in Rough Water

Goderich, Nov. 6 (CP)—A duck hunter Saturday rescued two 10-year-old boys who were boating on Lake Huron despite rough water and a snowstorm. Frank Little, one of the boys' fathers, who shouted directions to Chesley Archibald, 19, swam the distance to beach their boat on an island, waded out and carried the boys to the mainland on his shoulders.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Nov. 6 (CP)—Synopsis: The present warm trend for Southern Ontario is here with strong south to southwest winds.

A large storm centre moving into the North Bay areas will keep snow or rain and cool chilly easterly winds in northern parts of the province.

A fresh to blustery flow of cold air will probably enter the province from the west tonight accompanied by strong winds and cloudy skies on Tuesday.

Say US May Warn Red China About Great Suiho Dam

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP) The United States may tell communist China to stop sending troops to aid the Korean reds or face destruction of the great hydro-electric power source of power for China.

The report that such a warning is under serious consideration came simultaneously with release of a special communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur, United Nations commander in the Far East, noting the presence of Chinese communist forces in the Korean fighting.

Any such threat against the power installations presumably would be accompanied by assurances that if the Chinese communists refrain from further intervention the agreements under which Manchuria and Korea share the Suiho power will be observed and maintained.

The dam, on Yalu river which forms the Korea-Manchuria border for a long distance, is within easy reach of American bombers. It has a power capacity of 700,000 kilowatts.

Threat of War Hits Stock Prices

(By The Canadian Press)

Stock prices dropped sharply on leading world and Canadian exchanges today, apparently by reaction to the latest Korean developments.

News of Chinese communist intervention in Korea was said to be the factor that started selling waves.

The New York Exchange was the hardest hit. Prices there sagged to more than $4 a share in extremely heavy trading. U. S. elections tomorrow combined with the war developments to paint a gloomy picture to investors.

The London Exchange was much quieter than the New York but it was weak.

Toronto and Montreal exchanges lost almost as much as New York. In both centres selling waves bore down prices downward. Losses ranged to more than $2 in sharp declines.

As the session progressed in Toronto and Montreal prices firmed slightly at their lower levels.

ELECTION ODDS FAVOR DEMOCRATS TO HOLD CONTROL

U.S. Far-East Policy Is Big Issue

New York, Nov. 6 (CP) —The United States elects a new Congress tomorrow. Election odds favor the Democrats retaining control.

The presidency is not at stake in this election, and the country's old line political parties, Democrats, Republicans have been hard put in the last six weeks to find a solid, stirring issue to fight about. Briefly, the Republicans say their party is the only one that will keep the United States out of war; the Democrats ask a vote of confidence for maintaining the peace.

Despite a quiet campaign, unusual in a country noted for turbulent elections, more rests on the outcome of the election than is usual in an "off year" when the people do not choose a president. There is little doubt that the Far East, nothing issues are present in the voters' mind in an uncommon degree.

No one will vote directly for or against Harry S. Truman. What he will get if a large number of Democrats are defeated, it can be taken as at least a partial disowning of his leadership by the American people. If the Republicans wrest control of Congress from the Democrats, the president may be crippled in trying to carry out his policies.

One-third of the membership of the 96-seat Senate is up for re-election. Five Democrats have to be filled for a total of 36 seats. All 435 House of Representatives elected every two years, will be chosen. There are 435 House seats. The Republicans must gain seven seats to win control of the Senate and 49 to dominate the House. The present membership is: Senate: Democrats 54; Republicans 42. House: Democrats 253; Republicans, 169 with six vacancies. There is one American Labor party representative.

KILLED IN CRASH

Grimsby, Nov. 6 — (CP) — Kenneth Carl Parrish, 27, of Hamilton, was killed Sunday night in a two-car crash on the Queen Elizabeth Way near here and three other persons in the same car were injured.

Herbert Marquis, the driver, suffered several broken ribs when the car crashed into the rear of another. Shirley O'Brien of Penetanguishene, suffered head injuries and was still unconscious in hospital. Her several hours later. Virginia Irwin of Hamilton had her leg fractured.

Eldred Forshner of St. Catharines and a passenger in the other car escaped injury although the car caught fire and was gutted.

Britain Reported Considering Cancelling Recognition Of Chinese Red Government

London, Nov. 6—AP—Qualified informants reported today Britain is thinking of cancelling its recognition of the Chinese communist government.

Foreign secretary Ernest Bevin —said to oppose such action—is expected to make an important statement on Anglo-Chinese relations today or tomorrow in the House of Commons.

A decision has yet to be made by the cabinet—Bevin's statement will, however, reflect cabinet thinking at the time it is made.

The cabinet met today and is believed to have considered a foreign office analysis of the situation.

Government thinking, the informants said, is nearing the conclusion that Britain would face an impossible situation if Chinese red troops were fighting British soldiers in Korea while Britain kept trying to develop diplomatic relations with the Chinese regime.

Diplomatic Relations

A British diplomat, J. C. Hutchison, now is in Peiping, nominally trying to come to terms with the Chinese communists about making their diplomatic relations formal. He has been nobody of standing in the British foreign ministry since June 17—and few British think it.

In a bid to resolve the impasse some time ago Britain suggested to the Chinese that Sir Maberley Dening, head of the far eastern department of the foreign office, should call at Peiping in the course of a swing through Asia. The foreign office got no answer.

Opinion in the foreign office on some extent was divided at the time Britain broke with Nationalist China and recognized the reds.

Bevin, however, was said to have argued decisively both in his department and in the cabinet in favor of doing so on grounds that Chinese reds in fact were masters of their country, that Britain had a big trade and economic stake in China; that there was still hope Mao Tse-tung might prove a Chinese "Tito;" and that anyway recognition of a government did not imply approval.

The foreign secretary is said to believe these principals still hold. Over and above that Bevin is known to be a man that does not easily admit failure.

Britain will take no action, at least one week:

1. Conclusive proof is produced that red Chinese intervention in Korea is being organized in defiance of U. N. and not merely to safeguard local Chinese interests.

2. The legal status of Chinese intervention is clarified in the light of the fact that red China is not a member of the U. N. and, U. N., itself, takes some kind of stand on the question.

Training Schools Attended By Both Boys and Girls May be Set Up in Ontario

Toronto, Nov. 6—(CP)—Ontario may establish training schools attended by both boys and girls, Reform Minister Hamilton said today.

He told the women's section of the Ontario Progressive Conservative Association that five representatives of each department take turns for Louisville, Ky., to study co-educational activities at a boys' and girls' training school there.

A plan for Ontario might include a co-educational program at Galt for boys and girls aged eight to 13 years and a training school at Bowmanville for girls 14 and over and boys 14 and over, he said.

Visit Reform Institutions

In the Louisville delegation are A. R. Virgin of Toronto, director of reform institutions; Isabel Mac-Neil, superintendent of the girls' training school at Galt; Dorothy Barrass, assistant superintendent; W. J. Eastaugh, superintendent of the boys' training school at Bowmanville; and W. J. Little, assistant superintendent of the boys' training school at Galt.

Mr. Hamilton, father of five children in an interview gave these points of his views:

"In society, we do not force our boys to play at one end of the street and our girls at the other. They mingle together at school and in play and thus adjust themselves to correct behavior in company with the opposite sex."

Recently, there was a big girls in the school at Cobourg and 280 boys altogether at Bowmanville and he felt the present system decides to adopt the co-educational plan, new dormitory buildings for girls will be constructed at Galt and Bowmanville.

"The whole trend is away from punishment toward one of reclamation of these boys and girls who get into trouble," Mr. Hamilton said. "Our job is to prepare them for their return to society. The punishment is the loss of liberty, helped or hindered by a co-educational program."

The women's section meeting was held in connection with the association's general meeting, scheduled for tomorrow.

16-YEAR-OLD RULER CONTROLS GOVT. IN TIBET

Has Not Fled Before Invading Chinese Reds

New Delhi, India, Nov. 6 (AP) —India has been advised that Tibet's 16-year-old ruler, the Dalai Lama, and his government of Buddhist priests still control Lhasa, the Tibetan capital.

This report yesterday from India's representative in Lhasa, Dr. S. Sinha, contradicted persistent rumors stemming from Tibetan traders that the boy ruler and his elderly regent, Taktra Rimpoche, had fled before invading Chinese communist armies.

Dr. Sinha's report heartened official sources who had felt that the world-wide Chinese red threat government was imminent. The Indian government had told Dr. Sinha that India would give asylum to any legitimate refugees from Tibet.

Of the military situation, the report said only that communist forces had reached Chamdo after attacks after the capture of Chamdo, major caravan centre 250 air miles east and north of Lhasa.

In a dispatch a week ago Dr. Sinha had reported a red column within 250 miles of Lhasa. Yesterday's report mentioned no action this force nor did it mention a second Chinese column reported moving on Lhasa from the south. This force earlier was reported to have captured Nagchu Dzong 150 miles north of Lhasa.

Third Column Advancing

Still a third Chinese column, from the province of Sinkiang, north of Tibet, was reported to be moving into the far west of the mountainous country. The report, broadcast by the government radio here but not mentioned by Dr. Sinha, said these red troops were within 150 air miles of Gartok, an important trade centre on the route between Lhasa and Kashmir, in North India.

Officials here said Sinha's latest report rounded out this picture of the invasion:

Chamdo, on the east first by-passed Chamdo to capture Lobungbund and Rimpoche, 310 miles east of Lhasa, Oct. 22. The Tibetans withdrew to Pemba Go, 25 miles west.

The Chinese troops then halted their forward push and, after a week's delay, on Monday to prevent action against their supply lines. This inaction report contained no casualty estimates but the Peiping radio Wednesday said heavy numbers had fallen.

Following capture of Chamdo, the invaders regrouped for further moves on the capital.

CAUGHT AFTER CHASE

Stratford, Nov. 6—(CP)—Two 15-year-old London boys were arrested at gun point by two policemen here early Sunday after a five mile chase through the streets. The boys, turned over to London city police, were charged in car thefts in London and were attempting to steal another in Stratford when a citizen reported them to police.

Americans Regain Ground Lost In Morning Attack

U.N. Resistance to New Assaults Becomes Stiffer

Seoul, Korea, Nov. 6 — (CP) — Communist troops, newly-identified by Gen. Douglas MacArthur as including Chinese, today stopped fighting in northwest Korea and retreated to the north in a move puzzling to United States army officers.

The American troops in the northwest recovered half to two-thirds of a mile of ground lost to a morning communist attack and fought bitterly for no gain in the northeast.

The communist retreat in the northwest came as United Nations resistance to the communists' new offensive began to stiffen with new reinforcements from the south.

Elements of two U.S. divisions holding the bridgehead area north of the Chongchon River in Korea's west central area recovered the territory lost to the reds six miles north of Anju.

They had been shoved back by two battalions of communists who attacked in darkness at 4:30 a.m. but were finally halted at 7 a.m.

Halt Stopped Cold

An earlier enemy feint at bridgehead Sunday night had been stopped cold by American artillery, while Australian troops of the commonwealth brigade also halted a stab by two red companies in a heavy fire-fight.

Despite these to-and-fro struggles, the northwest flank was described as relatively quiet Monday, compared with the big attacks of last week that caused a 50-mile American withdrawal.

In the northeast, U.S. marines had back a bitter Chinese counter-attack in slashing, hand-to-hand combat Monday just south of the Changjin power reservoir.

In the farthest northeast sector, south Korean troops plunged 18 miles north of the town of Kilchu, putting them 105 miles from the frontier of Soviet Siberia. This was the only appreciable allied gain of the day.

Sub-Zero Weather

Other U.S. troops in the extreme northeast dug in on south banks of the Usuri River and sent out patrols to seek the enemy in two-below-zero weather.

This generally grim picture of the Korean war, after victory had been in well within grasp of the United Nations' forces, was attributed by Gen. MacArthur's U.N. commander, to intervention of Chinese communist troops.

The United Nations Forces are meeting a new foe," MacArthur said in a special report transmitted at Lake Success by U.S. delegate Warren R. Austin.

"The United Nations are presently in hostile contact with Chinese communist military units," the report said. It gave a detailed account of specific Chinese red units which have been identified.

In an extraordinary communique issued only a few hours earlier MacArthur charged only "alien communist forces" and branded their intervention in Korea as "one of the most offensive acts of international lawlessness in history."

The U.N. Commander's communique said "a great concentration" of communist divisions was massed in Manchuria. He called this threat "a matter of the gravest international significance."

Sources close to him spoke even more ominously. They said the start of a Third World War may hinge on communist China's reaction to MacArthur's accusation.

May Answer With Troops

Communist China might not answer MacArthur, they said, except by sending in more red divisions.

President Syngman Rhee of the Republic of Korea said he believes Russia ordered the Chinese reds into Korea.

Diplomats predicted the United States might ask the U.N. Security Council to act.

Allied troops in the northwest today were waging a grim defensive fight on the Chongchon river line less than 50 miles from the capital of Korean capital of Pyongyang.

This represented a retreat of 30 miles or more in the face of heavy communist attacks.

The government-backed American regiment was striking in zero weather within 24 miles of the Manchurian border. This force reported no red resistance.

The Seoul said the communist aggressor has massed 40 divisions north of the Yalu River in concentration of possible reinforcing divisions with advanced supply behind the privileged sanctuary of the adjacent Manchurian border."

Husband and Wife Found Dead In Garage of Charlotte St. Home

The bodies of two elderly people were found in a garage at 51 Charlotte Street shortly after noon today.

Said to be a Mr. and Mrs. Button, initials unavailable, the couple is believed to have died from the effects of carbon monoxide gas.

The body of Mrs. Rutton was found slumped in the front seat of her husband lay on the garage floor.

A pipe had been fastened to the exhaust of the automobile while holes had been drilled through the floorboard of the car.

It is believed the couple had been dead some time before discovery.

According to a story from a neighbor, the deceased couple had stated they had intended leaving for Kingston on Friday. Milk bottles left on the doorstep of the house today aroused suspicion in the minds of neighbors. A telephone call to a sister of Mrs. Rutton started the investigation which led to the finding of the bodies.

CHANGE IN HOURS

Toronto, Nov. 6. (CP)—The liquor Control Board of Ontario today announced changes in liquor store hours.

Effective next week, in cities having two or more stores, both will be closed Tuesdays, the other half Wednesdays. In one-store municipalities situated close to each other, the same procedure will be adopted.

From Dec. 11 to the end of the year, however, the only weekday holidays will be for Christmas and municipal elections.

NOT MUCH LUCK

Hamilton, Nov. 6—(CP)—The Junior Chamber of Commerce didn't have much luck with its public appeal for blood. Five blood plasma would be rushed to Hamilton in an emergency. The plasma container was smashed yesterday when its parachute failed to open. Of three parachutist, two missed their landing field and the third—who was supposed to "collapse" and be rushed in an ambulance—was helped out of his parachute by some children before the ambulance got there.

Rhee Believes Russians Ordered Chinese to Intervene in Korean War

Seoul, Korea, Nov. 6 (AP) — President Syngman Rhee indicated at a press conference today that he believes Russia ordered Chinese communists across the Yalu River and intervene in the Korean War.

Chinese communists—Korean, Chinese or Indians—all obey orders from Russia, Rhee said. He added: "Soviet Russia does not want to lose all of North Korea, I suppose."

Asked whether he believes United Nations forces now should bomb Manchuria, in which Chinese communists forces are based, Rhee replied:

"On impulse, I would do it right away. But I think some of the United Nations would not want us to go that far."

The action of U.N. forces against Chinese intervention in Korea, Rhee said, depends upon the decision of the U.N. command.

"We are co-operating with the U.N. command, and must wait until General MacArthur orders a course of action.

"We don't know exactly how many Chinese are in this side of the border and it is very hard to say exactly what will be done.

"But of course we will fight.

"The only way is for us to fight them if they come south of the border. We must fight to the boundary line and keep them from crossing over."

He said the Chinese communists spread reports to the North Korean government that if South Korean forces crossed parallel 38 the Chinese communists would help defend North Korea.

"They are at least keeping their word," Rhee said.

City and District News

PETERBOROUGH GIRL WANTS TO FIND SISTER

Miss Bernice Judge, of Peterborough, Ont., has requested the assistance of the Belleville Police Department to assist her in learning the whereabouts of her sister, Hilda Judge, who is believed to be in the Belleville district. Hilda Judge at one time was in the shelter at Belleville and has not been heard from by her sister for some time. Persons knowing of the whereabouts of Miss Judge are asked to contact Police Chief Walter Probert.

THREE CITY, DISTRICT AIRMEN RECEIVE SERVICE DECORATION

Three city and district men in the Royal Canadian Air Force have received the Canadian Forces Decoration for 12 years service in the Permanent or Reserve Forces.

Flight Sergeant R. C. Crawford and Corporal Mrs. Ella Bird, both of Belleville, won the award, along with Flight Sergeant H. E. Ostrander, of Deseronto.

The decoration is common to all the three services and supersedes various long service and good conduct awards peculiar to individual services. The latest list has the names of 91 members of the RCAF on it.

"WHIPPER WATSON" GUEST SPEAKER AT MASONIC LODGE

"Whipper" Billy Watson, Toronto British Empire wrestling champion, was the guest both at or at a Masonic banquet in the city on Wednesday night.

Mr. Watson will speak at the father-and-son banquet being held under the auspices of Barrack Lodge 228 A. F. and A. M. His topic will be his own Safety Club for boys all over Canada.

OTTAWA WOMAN INJURED IN CRASH

When their car went out of control on No. 7 highway Saturday evening and crashed into some rocks at the side of the road, Mrs. Levi Robinson of Ottawa was injured and required medical attention. The accident occurred shortly after six o'clock and six miles west of Actinolite. Details of Mrs. Robinson's injuries were not obtainable, but it is reported the auto in which she and her husband were riding was badly damaged when it crashed into the rock cut.

LITTLE DAMAGE

Firemen were called out twice over the weekend, one to 14 Evans Place, on the old nurses home, or had exploded and knocked down the furnace pipes. The other call was to the home of Forin Street where the chimney had taken fire. Damage was negligible in both cases.

T. K. Franklin Guest Speaker At Kiwanis L.A.

The regular monthly meeting of the Kiwanis Ladies' Auxiliary, was held at the Kiwanis Centre on Thursday evening with the president, Mrs. E. S. Fairman, presiding.

Two new members, Mrs. D. Allan and Mrs. G. Hosang were welcomed as well as two visitors, Mrs. A. Stalker and Mr. T. K. Franklin.

Mrs. C. Mott, convener of the recent bazaar, gave a most gratifying report on its success and thanked all those who had helped so generously.

Reports on the work of the following committees were presented—visiting, Mrs. V. White; welfare, Mrs. S. Connolly, and hobbycraft, Mrs. A. Duffy.

Plans were discussed for having a Christmas party for the boychoir, the date and time for having a mixed party at the December meeting of the Auxiliary.

The president announced the directors for the coming year as follows: Mrs. R. Clapp, Mrs. A. Duffy, Mrs. L. Foxard, Mrs. C. Mott, Mrs. D. Stanton and Mrs. H. Carpenter.

The meeting was then turned over to the entertainment committee, Mrs. H. Fox and Mrs. L. Kelly, Mrs. Fox introduced Mr. T. K. Franklin as the guest speaker, who spoke briefly to the auxiliary and presented a film on "Casa Loma", a project of the West Toronto Kiwanis Club.

Thanks on behalf of the club were expressed to Mr. Franklin by Mrs. L. Foxard.

A contest followed the winners being Mrs. C. Baragar and the lucky chair prize was won by Mrs. C. Hyde.

No prize draw sale was held with Mrs. J. Cowan as auctioneer. Proceeds went toward the novelty booth of the recent bazaar.

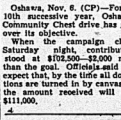
Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. W. McCreary and her committee.

Deer Season Opens in North Part of Country

Deer-hungry nimrods from the city and district took off for storm-drenched northland on Saturday to the isolated tent to cabin and camp.

The deer season which opened today lasts through till November 18th inclusive in the counties of Lennox and Addington, Frontenac, Renfrew, Howe Island and Hastings north of No. 7 highway.

Pouring rain swept down from sullen skies on a slush-covered earth in weather that was scarcely conducive to living, as the parties pushed off for various destinations.



One city party which numbered in the vicinity of 15 will hunt the elusive bucks in the vicinity of Salmon Lake. Others, parties of two and three, will scatter out other northern county points.

Sale of licences has been comparable to those of other years, according to Issuer Ed. Thomas. Some of the new laws, however, could not restrain the urge to do a spot of hunting before the official opening, and as a result will face court charges, according to a statement issued by the Tweed branch of the Department of Lands and Forests.

OVER OBJECTIVE

Oshawa, Nov. 6. (CP)—For the 10th consecutive year, Oshawa's Community Chest drive has gone over its objective.

When the campaign closed Saturday night, contributions stood at $192,500—$2,000 more than the goal. Officials said they expect that, by the time all donations are turned in by canvassers, the amount received will total $211,000.

Construction of New Gospel Temple On Dundas St. Well Advanced

Construction of the new Belleville Gospel Temple on the site of the former old folks home on Dundas Street east, is well advanced. Built on square lines the walls of grey and red granite, heavy steel framework, solid concrete foundation and flat tar-red and gravel roof, this will be one of the most modern and pleasing edifices in Belleville's Eastern Ontario.

The pastors, Rev. Laurie Price and Rev. Hope Smith, are quick to emphasize, however, that though the building may be modern, the gospel they preach is the old-fashioned one of Christ crucified, risen and coming again and that the blood of Jesus Christ alone is the power that cleanses from sin. All who come to Him in repentance and faith Moreover, they maintain that the gifts of the Holy Spirit, bestowed on the apostles at Pentecost, were never withdrawn but are in operation today and will be increasingly so as the return of Christ draws nearer.

Sent for Purpose

Pastors Price and Smith came to Belleville from Verona in March to assume the pastorate of Dundas Street Church which where Rev. E. A. Wicks moved to Lindsay. They had been in charge at Verona and felt the leading of God to build a new church in Belleville. At that time a few hundred dollars existed in the building fund at the time, the congregation had the approval of the church board and the encouragement of Conference. Assembly, launched out in a real venture of faith, going on the premise that if God had ordained it, every need would be met and every obstacle overcome.

To present architecture has been engaged to build the new church. Hope Smith personally supervises the selection, purchasing and delivery of materials and fixtures. Mrs. Aretha Smith is a member of the congregation, is the building superintendent. He has supervised the building of churches at Oshawa, Cobourg and Toronto, as well as the large tabernacle at Lake-shore Camp, Cobourg, which seats 1,500 people.

"God has never let us down yet," states Rev. Laurie Price, who makes no secret of his infinite matter of prayer. In proof of this he points to the miraculous answers to prayer in the matter of financing and the procuring of materials in short supply.

Congregation Amists

Though a staff of carpenters, stone masons and laborers have been regularly employed, the men of the church including the pastors, have worked hundreds of man-hours on project. The existing two-storey brick building at the rear, which formerly housed kitchen and dormitories, was not seriously gutted by fire. It has been completely remodelled to provide a beautiful parsonage on the second floor, with pastors' study, visitors' room and janitor's quarters on the first floor. There is a communicating door from the church to this annex.

Practically all the work of remodelling and decorating this annex was done by the pastors tors and congregation. Much valuable work was done by the women, such as cleaning, painting, papering and making draperies.

People Had Mind to Work

Like Nehemiah and his followers rebuilding the walls of Jerusalem, "the people had a mind to work" and because they did it for the glory of God they reaped spiritual blessing and enriched fellowship one with another.

The main entrance to the new church is on the north-west corner and will be through a semi-circular tower of glass brick and in a steel framework. This leads into a lobby which provides access to the main auditorium, balcony and basement. Seating capacity is expected to be slightly over four hundred, but five hundred can be accommodated by using extra chairs. It is planned to have installed a motion picture theatre type seats, with springs and leather cover.

The balcony will have a nursery at the rear, sound proof, and with a large window overlooking the platform and baptistry. A public address system will be installed so that mothers and attendants can hear as well as see.

Sunday school rooms, prayer room, young people's hall and wash rooms are provided in the basement. Ventilating, heating and lighting will be the most modern type.

In Great Demand

Pastors Price and Smith, affectionately referred to as "the boys" in Pentecostal circles across Canada, are in great demand as speakers at conventions. Laurie Price is president of the Christian Ambassador's Evangelistic Association for Eastern Ontario and Quebec. Rev. Hope Smith is a Field Secretary for Canada and singer. Both are graduates of the Eastern Pentecostal Bible College.

Though young in years these men are of experience and in knowledge of the Bible, with the wisdom that comes to God-centered lives. They are powerful and earnest speakers. They preach the truth as they see it without fear or favor and they do not make a practice of knocking other denominations. Rather, they rejoice over any blessing or spiritual blessings in other churches.

How does a relatively small congregation manage to support two pastors who have also time build a beautiful new church? They conduct no rummage sales, fêtes or concerts of any description. The secret is in their prayer life and sacrificial giving of their tithing. They have a prayer chain, and seven days a week someone is praying every half hour from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

It is the prayer of faith, believing that says "I have the answer, that moves the hand of God," say the pastors. Such prayer and intercessory prayer, is hardwork, and few people are willing to pay the price.

It is expected that the new church will be ready for the opening service in early January. W. A. Watson, local architect, designed the building, working out ideas and suggestions of the pastors.

Bruce Martin Re-elected Pres. Canning Group

At a meeting of the Hastings County Can Crop Vegetable Growers' group held at Canifton last Friday evening, Bruce Martin of Corbyville, was re-elected president with Charles Long, Shannonville, vice-president and Fred Mitchell, Belleville, R.R. No. 6, as secretary-treasurer.

Directors for the year are: Everett Hubble, and Edwin Hall, of Sidney; Harold Powers of Read; Thomas Kellly, of Tweed; Douglas Tunnon, of Corbyville, and Clare Carter, of Thomasburg.

Mrs. Bruce Martin gave an interesting report of the ladies' section of the convention held in Hamilton last year; while Everett Hubble reported the men's meeting, after which he himself had composed.

Guest Speaker

Mr. Clare Carter district director complimented the delegates on their reports and introduced the guest speaker, Mr. W. Walker, of Dunnville, chairman of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Marketing Board.

Mr. Walker gave an interesting talk on the marketing of tomatoes, peas and corn and stated that there should be a legislation, at least for the time being "more bargaining

Police Report Ten Accidents During Weekend

A series of ten motor car accidents, two of which resulted in personal injuries, were reported to the local police department over the weekend as the fleet-ing clashes fenders at city intersections and emerging from driveways.

Possibly the most serious of the accidents occurred Saturday evening at the intersection of Bleecker and Victoria, where two autos crashed at the intersection sending Mrs. Alice Allen of the cars to hospital with a cut lip and nose.

Guy Mitchler, 16 Russell St. was driving north on Bleecker when Mrs. Allen proceeding east on Victoria when their cars crashed at the intersection. Mitchler car was turned completely around and stopped across the sidewalk. The other vehicle came to rest on the lawn. Both cars were extensively damaged but Mitchler received a nasty cut on the lip and nose.

An hour later two cars driven by James Asselstine 62½ Moira St. W. and Leo Walsh, Corbyville, clashed at the corner of Dundas and Emily Streets. Agnes Walsh, riding in the Walsh automobile suffered a cut forehead and Mr. Asselstine a cut on the right knee.

Asselstine was going east on Station Street turning into Emily St., while the Walsh car was proceeding west on the same street coming south onto Albion St.

Sunday evening two cars crashed at the corner of Dundas and Dufferin Streets with J. K. Downey, of Clinton, driver of one of the cars receiving a cut on the forehead. Clarence Cooke, 40 Parker St., was proceeding east on Dundas St., and attempted to make a left turn when he apparently failed to see the Downey car coming from the opposite direction.

The other crashes were of minor nature resulting only in property damage. One parked car was struck by another car on Charles St., the driver of which failed to remain at the scene.

Two 600-Foot Watermain Extensions In Sidney Twp. Approved by P.U.C.

Approval for two 600-foot watermain extensions in Sidney township with service to be supplied by the city was given this morning at the regular meeting of the Belleville Public Utilities members. The two mains will run north from the highway, one up Bell's Lane to the new C.B.D. land and the other up Wright Street, a new sub-division being developed in the area.

The approval for the extensions was given subject to agreement by the township to certain conditions outlined at the meetings.

The question as to whether the city was justified in extending water services outside the city, was raised at the meeting by Chairman F. S. Follwell who pointed out that expansion of the filtration plant had been necessary to provide the service.

Showing Profit

Mayor Allin said the answer to this was that the public utility was showing a profit on the extension of services, but added that extension of mains in the C.B.D. area would make such areas harder to annex to the city if this was to be considered.

It was noted that extension of water service outside the city limits had been asked for by time the Reynolds Crescent subdivision was opened and that to start several miles of watermains were laid both in Sidney and Thurlow township.

Chairman Follwell noted that extensive work on the filtration plant, which have been underway for the past many months, were now virtually completed and suggested that an "open house" be held to afford citizens the opportunity to see the plant and to understand what had been done to ensure an ample supply of water for city and rural water customers. It was left with the chairman and the manager, C. H. Scott to make arrangements for the "open house."

The report of the manager on the cost of the re-location of certain services necessitated on Church Street and on Station Street, was received with recommendation that it be submitted to the local traffic committee which had proposed the change in one way.

The proposed change in electric service would take the hydro cables off Church Street between Pinnacle and Church. The city would be called upon to bear the cost of the change.

Choice of Two Plans

Mr. Scott was authorized to communicate with officials of the Hydro-Electric Commission with respect to the cost of laying new underground cables as the city permit increased water pressure. It was pointed out there were two alternative routes which would the larger main could be laid. One was down Bleecker and behind the City Hall and the other along St. Paul Street. Cost of the latter route would be approximately $5,000 greater but this route had the possibility of serving additional customers.

Complaints of certain city residents with respect to street utility poles and wires were brought before the commission by Mayor Allin. These residents were principally The Queen Street area between Bleecker and McDonald Ave., their complaint being that they were charged with street oiling which should have been looked

1 POLICE BLOTTER

William Thompson, proprietor of the Crane and Transit Service thinks that someone has played a mean trick on him. Thompson parked his truck in a garage at the rear of a Front Street store on Saturday night and Sunday morning discovered the door to the garage broken open with the cab of the truck burned and wires hanging. It appeared as though the garage doors had been opened with a pick axe, it was stated.

Arnold Gray, 270 George St., has a complaint against the local public works department. Over the weekend his car dropped into an excavation on Bridge Street East, near Bertram Boulevard. He claimed the excavation was not adequately protected by signs and barricades.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 6 — (CP) — Prices continued lower from their sharp opening drop as the session progressed on the Toronto stock exchange today.

Communist intervention in Korea and a sinking in New York market were said to be the cause for the heavy selling wave in which industrial losses ranged to as much as $3.

Every group on the industrial board was lower and losses were about nine times as numerous as gains. Abitibi Paper, International Paper, Federal Grain, Canada Cement and Walkers all lost over $2.

Base metals skidded downwards with Consolidated Smelters losing over $3. Noranda, Sullivan, Golden Manitou, Hudson Bay, International Nickel, Quemont, Steep Rock, United Keno Hill and Waite Amulet were all heavy losers.

Senior golds dropped up to $1 and a wide list of junior producers showed losses that ranged from pennies to over 20 cents. In the shallow western oil group Royallite and Pacific Petroleum lost 75 cents and Home Oil was down 50 cents.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Nov. 6 — (CP) — Trade was slow at the Ontario stockyards today until noon, with a few sales about steady. Included in the supply were 4,000 stockers.

Receipts: Cattle, 3,500; calves, 675; hogs, 840; sheep and lambs, 1,860. Left from last week 3,200 cattle.

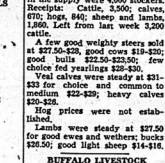
A few good weighty steers sold at $27.50-$28, good cows $19-$20; good bulls $22.50-$23.50; few choice fed yearlings $28-$30.

Veal calves were steady at $31-$33 for choice and common to medium $22-$29; heavy calves $20-$26.

Hog prices were not established.

Lambs were steady at $27.50 for good ewes and wethers; bucks $20.50; good light sheep $14-$16.

BUFFALO LIVESTOCK



Buffalo, N.Y., Nov. 6—(AP)—Cattle 500; good holstein cows 18.00-19.00; good dairy type heifers for slaughter 21.00-23.00; good weighty sausage bulls 23.00-25.00.

Calves 400; good and choice handyweight calves 35.00-37.00; culls and strongweight bobs 25.00-28.00.

Hogs 2,550; good and choice hogs 17.50-19.50; good sows 15.50-17.50.

Sheep and lambs 500; choice ewe and wether lambs 30.00.

Wave of Selling Upsets New York

New York, Nov. 6. (AP)—News from Korea sent a shudder of apprehension through stock and commodity exchanges today.

Stock prices plunged and commodity quotations soared. It was a typical response to the threat of war.

In the stock market a wave of selling crashed over the exchange and prices thudded down for losses ranging to $3 a share. The market value of all issues listed on the exchange dropped by nearly $2,000,000,000.

After the first rush of business was over, prices levelled off and some issues managed to bounce back a trifle from their extreme lows.

Steel, auto, rubber, rail and radio-television issues took the worst mauling.

Among the losers were Chrysler, General Motors, U.S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Jones & Laughlin, Goodrich, U.S. Rubber, N.Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Zenith, Radio Corp., Admiral, Du Pont, General Electric, U.S. Gypsum and American Smelting.

Canadian issues tumbled with Distillers Seagrams and Hiram Walker each losing 1 1-2, McIntyre $1 Canadian Pacific 1-2, International Nickel and Aluminium Mines 1-8.

On the curb, Giant Yellowknife and Royallite Oil each fell 3-8 while Lake Shore was unchanged.

Laborers Warned To Stay Away From Stratford

Sarnia, Nov. 6 (CP)—Transient laborers were warned today not to come to Sarnia seeking employment.

Despite recent reports of new industrial construction scheduled for early starts here, district employment officials said today that a large-scale influx of job-seekers could not be accommodated.

The officials said most of the projects are still in the negotiation stage.

A middle-aged electric tool handler from North Bay who arrived Saturday said: "When I got to the employment office here, they told me I was about six months too soon."

Asked who told him to come to Sarnia, he added: "Everyone. In Chatham, they said to go to Sarnia. In London, Windsor and Wallaceburg they said the same thing."

Search Patrols Are Resumed For Missing Plane

Detroit, Nov. 6 (CP)—Air force planes from nearby Selfridge Field today resumed search patrols over Lake Erie for a small private plane missing since Saturday on a flight from Sharon, Pa., to Cleveland.

Pilot Stanley Dunbar and his wife, Barbara, of Sharon, were flying to Cleveland for a football game, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Johnston of Youngstown, O., were also believed to be in the plane.

Dunbar radioed Saturday that he was lost and in a spin.

Seven navy planes and 10 private aircraft joined army planes in the search.

Service is Held For Shaw Without Clergy or Sermon

London, Nov. 6—(AP)—An 18-minute funeral service without a clergyman and without a sermon was held today for George Bernard Shaw.

In accordance with Shaw's wishes, there was no demonstration of sorrow among the small group of close friends and servants. The 94-year-old Irish dramatist and critic died at his Ayott St. Lawrence home last Thursday.

At the crematorium it was expected that Shaw's ashes will be sent to Dublin to be mixed with the ashes of his wife who died in 1943.

Driver Escapes Serious Injury

Campbellford (Special)—Marvin Fox, R. R. 2, Hastings, escaped serious injury Friday night when his car overturned two miles from Campbellford.

Fox was on his way to Hastings when he lost control of the vehicle. He turned completely over, but Fox escaped without injury. Provincial Constable Don Erskine investigated.

14 P.C. Boost In Cheque Cashing

Ottawa, Nov. 6. (CP)—A 14-per-cent boost in cheque cashing in September has pushed that form of business transaction for the first nine months of 1950 to the highest in history.

The Bureau of Statistics today reported that $8,746,000,000 worth of cheques cashed during September, against $7,655,000,000 last year, raised the nine-month total to an all-time high of $70,921,000,000—an advance of almost $9,000,000,000 over last year's $62,-290,000,000.

All five economic areas in Canada, with the exception of the Prairies showed advances.

CARMEL

Colorful Hallowe'en Concert Held By Women's Institute

Carmel.—A jolly time was enjoyed at Carmel Schoolhouse where the Women's Institute of Carmel sponsored a Hallowe'en concert. The judges, Mrs. J. James, Mrs. M. Ross and Mrs. P. Dier had a difficult time in choosing the winners of the masquerade.

With Mrs. C. Horton playing the march, the children in costume paraded around the room and later the older contestants. Those who were awarded prizes are as follows— children's fancy dress Rodenburg; children's comic, Gary Chambers; adult's comic, Mrs. Charles Brintnell; adult's fancy, Mr. Rodenburg.

All the children received candy suckers. Following this, Mr. Earl Dafoe took charge for an interesting program. Community singing was enjoyed led by Mr. C. Dafoe with Mrs. Horton at the piano. The school children then favored with three choruses.

Lynda Dawson, Barbara Horton and Donna Robinson dressed in sailor costumes gave a fine exhibition of tap dancing. Misses Patsy Dafoe and Sharon Cross then favored with piano instrumentals. The program was completed with tiny Misses Faye Robinson and Judy Dafoe singing a duet.

Delicious refreshments were enjoyed by all.

DEPLORES CHINA'S ACTION

London, Nov. 6 (Reuters) — Foreign undersecretary Ernest Davies told Parliament today that the British government deplored China's "resort to force" in Tibet. Britain, he said, fully supported the stand taken by the government of India.

The British government have been and are continuing to be in consultation with other interested governments on this issue."

MARMORA

St. Andrew's United Church Celebrates 76th Anniversary

Marmora—St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, marked its 76 anniversary with special services morning and evening at which the special preacher was Rev. George M. Tuttle, B.A., of Victoria University, Toronto.

Chrysanthemums of varying shades formed an artistic decoration in the church. The senior and junior choirs led in the singing at both services.

Rev. George D. Young, B.A., B.D., officiated throughout the day and in his announcements introduced the preacher as one with whom he had been associated in Western Canada.

The anthem at the morning service was "The Lord is King" (Carrie B. Adams).

Power Provided

The discourse was on "the calling of Jeremiah." It being pointed out that to whomever God gives a command to perform some work for Him, He also provides the power to accomplish the same. During the evening service, the junior choir sang "The Lord's Prayer," and joined with the senior choir in the rendition of the anthem "O Lord Most Holy," Caesar Franck.

A fine portrayal of the mid century convention of Christian education recently held in Toronto, formed the evening topic based on the words of Christ, "Go and Teach All Nations."

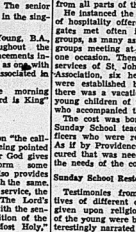
The preacher remarked that it was only in recent times that Christians in scattered parts of the world had had the wonderful experience of assembling together to the unity of the Christian faith, and through fellowship to deepen their knowledge of Christ.

Christian Activities

In 1899 the World Sunday School Association was formed In 1948 the World Council of Churches met in London. Now there is the World Council of Education with an office in New York and one in London, England.

The preacher mentioned that he had gone into the Toronto office temporarily with others on arrangements entailing problems and complexities for the Canadian branch of the council were met in finding hospitality and accommodation for 3,000 in session from all parts of the world.

He instanced the varying types of hospitality offered. The delegates met often in different groups, as many as 100 different groups meeting at one time on one occasion. Then through the services of St. John Ambulance Association, six health centres were established besides which there was a vacation school for preparing children of the delegates who accompanied their parents.



The one hundred boys by 27,000 Sunday School teachers and officers who were ready to help. As if by Providence all was procured that was needed to meet the needs of the convention.

Sunday School Restored

Testimonies from representatives of different countries as given upon religious education of the young were briefly but interestingly narrated by the preacher. It was learned that in India there are eight times as many persons attending Sunday School as in Canada. The frustrated Christians in Germany under the Hitler regime have the Sunday School movement restored to them and many are now receiving religious instruction by means of caravans carrying the work right up to the Soviet border. Those in attendance at the convention found they were dealing in many cases with first generation Christians to whom the life has come with a great power. They put all their trust in God as one who overrules for good and in Jesus Christ, as their Lord.

SCIENCE AIDS MAN

Science has gone far in applying new discoveries to the necessities of mankind. Discovery after discovery is bringing something new to the race and it would appear that there will be no end of these applications of new discoveries to invention.

When one is told that it is possible to have clothing that will adjust itself to the temperature that may sound like pure romance. But it just happens that it is not something out of the story book. It is a leaf out of the book of achievements of modern science.

The Christian Science Monitor relates the story of a new textile called Milium. Rayon lining is sprayed with a thin undercoating of aluminum and plastic seemingly multiplies the warmth of the garment, while the weight remains unchanged. Yet a coat with such a lining seems no warmer than it is worn within doors.

Radiation explains this apparent paradox. Its inventor James H. Rand of Cleveland offers the explanation.

"Reduced to simple terms, Milium is a light metallic coating applied to one side of a fabric. Any metal that flakes, even gold or silver, could be used in the process. Thus far only aluminum is being used commercially . . . . Milium does not actually add warmth. It prevents loss of warmth by reflecting it back."

Will Boycott 'Second World Peace Congress'

Sheffield, England, Nov. 6 — (CP)—Sheffield's religious leaders announced today they will boycott the second "world peace congress" which opens in this Yorkshire city next Monday.

A statement from a council of churches, representing all denominations except Roman Catholics, said the council wishes to dissociate itself from a movement "whose political leaders have shown themselves willing to support and use aggression where it suits their purpose."

Sheffield's 25,000 Roman Catholics previously had protested a civic decision to allow the congress to be held in the city hall.

FELL INTO COAL BREAKER

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Nov. 6 (CP)— Anthony Kokich, about 30, was killed Sunday when he fell into a coal breaker at the Algoma Steel Corporations coke ovens.

Kokich was working on the machine when he slipped and fell into it. He cried out as he fell and a nearby worker pulled the switch, but Kokich was already dead.

HUNTING is one of the most popular fall pastimes, and we in Canada have the finest hunting grounds in the world. In the field, however, we should all remember there's another season next year, and many more after that. Observe game laws today and you'll have plenty of sport tomorrow.
CARLING'S

Assembly

Wednesday's assembly was put on by GIRB, under the direction of Miss Silverler. Their programs consisted of two skits and a French song. The entire form took part in all three selections. The next assembly is a combined one of both junior and senior grades, taking place on Friday in commemoration of Remembrance Day.

The cast of the play "Arms and the Man" are still working hard to get it ready for the approaching November 16 and 17.

"Clean-Up Week" is over! Last week, various forms took part in cleaning up different sections of the school.

A dance was held at the Y.M.C.A. Saturday after the big game between Peterborough and B.C.I. at Albert College. Fun was had by all.

Again this year, the Girls' Athletic Society is selling school crests. Anyone who didn't get them last year had better this year. After all you want people to know you come from B.C.I.!

The Library Club had a Hallowe'en party Tuesday night. As usual at Miss Merry's, loads of fun was had. The girls received a call from the Boys Hi-Y. Couldn't resist! Heard a better piece to serenade the girls with than "Good-Night Irene," Hi-Y'ers?

Shavings

The girls on the junior and senior volleyball teams aren't superstitious, but they could be seen wearing odd colored socks at the C.O.S.S.A. tournament Wednesday night at C.S.D. Some even put pennies in their shoes. It sure worked for the girls! Maybe our senior and junior rugby teams should try some sock changing?

On October 31, many pent up feelings of the year were let go, as freaks, ghosts and horrid creatures roamed the city streets. Mr. Leslie Reid was rather surprised when he heard his name called, but failed to recognize the voice. Remember Mr. Reid, it was in front of the Y.M.C.A. about 8.30! Yes sir, false faces sure do make a difference.

Then there the students who tried to carry off some park benches but were caught in the act. Too bad 'Sleepy". better luck next year.

Now to take a serious note for a few lines. It has been suggested that Junior and Senior functions, like our assemblies should be held separately. Some parents seem to feel that this would be much better than the way our social activities are at the present time.

The Juniors would be with their own age group and the Seniors with theirs, also the Senior dances could end a little later and the Junior dances start earlier, so that those attending could be home in good time. Of course, as with every new idea, there are many problems to go along with it and this one is no exception.

Don't groan and say "that idea's foolish, it would never work" or "it's a good idea, but how are you going to do it!" You do something about it! Write in and express your feelings and give your opinion on the subject. Get your parents to write too. What do they think? Send your letters to "Turvy" care of the Belleville Collegiate, John-St.

Sports

Last Thursday night the B.C.I. Juniors gave Albert College a smashing defeat. The score was 30-3. But then came Saturday and "what happened?" the Junior and Senior teams played host to the Peterborough teams! I'll let you in on a little secret, B.C.I didn't win either game. But after all B.C.I. couldn't very well trim Peterborough, they were the visiting team, but just wait until this Saturday, Peterborough watch out! (I hope).

The girls are not to be forgotten in this week's sports review either. The senior and junior volleyball teams brought home the C.O.S.S.A. championship for B.C.I. The only time the seniors were in difficulty was against Brighton. The score 14-10, speaks for itself. Later the Juniors had a tougher battle on their hands, but came through with flying colors to break a three way tie between Trenton, O.S.D. and B.C.I. The cheer leaders were also in attendance and they did their usual good support. I might add that they looked very smart in their "chic" uniforms.

Water Discovered In Four Tanks Of Stratocruiser

London, Nov. 6 (Reuters) — Water was discovered in four gas tanks of a stratocruiser last night, just before it was due to take off from London airport for New York.

About 7,000 gallons of gas had to be drained and the tanks were refilled with fresh fuel.

The airliner, carrying 47 passengers, left two hours late.

A Pan-American Airways spokesman said "we have not yet established how the water got into the tanks."

F. W. Campbell Named District C.N.R. Engineer

Toronto, Nov. 6—The appointment of F. W. Campbell as district engineer for the Montreal district of the Canadian National Railways was announced from Montreal today by O. A. Bolvin, general superintendent. Formerly division engineer at Belleville, Ont., Mr. Campbell succeeds H. K Morrison who has retired under the pension rules of the company.

Mr. Campbell was born at Toronto and began his railway career as an instrumentman on the Capreol division in 1926. He became assistant engineer at Hornepayne in the same year and was transferred to St. Thomas in the same capacity in 1929. He was appointed assistant engineer at Belleville in 1945, and the following year became division engineer there. During World War II, Mr. Campbell served with the R.C.A.F. from 1941 to 1945.

Breweries Reduce Price of Product To Hotel Keepers

Toronto, Nov. 6 (CP)—Canadian Breweries, Limited, announced today it has reduced its prices to hotels and other licensed premises by $1 a half-barrel for draught beer and 25 cents a case of 24 pints for bottled beer.

The reduction, effective Saturday, removes half of a recent increase in the wholesale price of draught beer and all of the increase on bottled beer. Brands affected are O'Keefe's, Carlings, and Bradings.

It is not known whether the reduction will have any effect on prices to consumers in hotels.

There has been no change in retail prices of bottled beer sold in cases through brewery retail outlets.

Hunter Fires at Noise Brother is Killed

Sudbury, Nov. 6 (CP)—Two hunting fatalities occurred in this district yesterday.

Combe Bellisle, 27, of nearby Blezard Valley was killed when shot in the back near Capreol, 30 miles from here. Police said a .32-calibre rifle was fired by Bellisle's brother, Albert, 40. He told police he shot at a noise 150 yards distant.

Another man, Frank Cardinal, 30, of Sudbury, died of a heart attack while hunting in Drewry township, 40 miles west of here.

MADOC

Club Girls Meet

Madoc—The second meeting of the "Busy Bedroom Belles" Club was held at the home of Donna Rollins.

During the business part of the meeting the following two items were agreed upon:

(1) The Club Girls would sponsor a dance in Queensboro; (2) The girls would take a trip to Ottawa in the spring.

Following the business section, a discussion on bedroom accessories and a demonstration of two different types of sewing, was conducted by the leader Mrs. R. McCoy.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Donna Rollins.

DIES IN ANAESTHETIC

Gogama, Nov. 6 (CP) —Irene Laderoute, 11, one of 70 children undergoing a mass tonsilectomy, collapsed Sunday while receiving the anaesthetic and died later aboard a plane taking her to Sudbury hospital.

The mass tonsilectomy was a public service project of the Sudbury Rotary Club. Seven Sudbury doctors and as many nurses were in the operating room when the child collapsed.

Doctors said they were told by the child's father after the operation that she had suffered from convulsions.

The tonsil project was undertaken because of 230 youngsters of this lumbering community 140 miles from Sudbury, 140 were found to have diseased tonsils.

Mrs D. Leslie, Describes Trip to West Coast

ROSLIN

Roslin—The November meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Don Chisholm, with 18 ladies and several children present. The president, Mrs. W. Slingerland presided.

Miss A. Wilson was appointed secretary protem in the absence of the secretary. The conveners for meetings will be held in Plainfield on November 22, commencing at 10 a.m. The special speaker will be Mrs. C. Hayes from the Institute department at Toronto. Interesting Reports, Papers

Reports of the standing committees were given, "Agriculture and Canadian Industries", by Mrs. H. Chisholm, who gave a definition of a cow and a paper on "Facing the Future on Our Farms", "Citizenship and Education", by Miss H. Wilson with a paper on "Citizenship". "Historical Research and Current Events" by Miss A. Wilson with a paper, "A Tribute to the Czechoslovakians Ancient".

"Home Economics and Health" by Mrs. W. Chisholm with a number of useful household hints. "Public Relationship and Community Activities", by Mrs. W. Golden with a paper on the conference of the Associated Country Women of the World in Denmark.

The leader for the day, Mrs. D. Leslie, gave a paper on the motto, "The True Foundation of Peace is Love for Each Other". The speaker mentioned that Oct. 24 this year was United Nations' Day.

Mrs. C. Chapman gave a paper on the topic "Providing for the Winter Months" or "The Heralds of Winter".

Travelogue Trip

Mrs. D. Leslie gave an interesting travelogue of a trip she took last summer to the West Coast, via rail, to Ayr, Ont., from there by motor through Western Ontario, crossing into the United States at Windsor.

She mentioned the celery grown at Imley, Michigan; on to Port Huron. At Iron River she obtained samples of iron ore; from here into Wisconsin, Duluth; entered North Dakota, saw the flooded area caused by water from the Assiniboine River, and sand bags at Devil's Lake City. Thence across the border to Brandon, Manitoba and on to Indian Head.

Her next stop was Regina, 10,-733 miles thus far. The speaker told that when Regina was first built, all was prairie, now there are numerous parks, covered with trees. She visited Mrs. McNally, who was formerly Nettie Dick (Whiteman), a one-time resident of Roslin and now living in Regina.

The Saskatoon Berry

Mrs. Leslie described the 'Saskatoon', a berry similar to the cranberry but not as tart.

From Regina, via train to Vancouver the trip occupied two days and two nights.

They stopped for one hour in Saskatoon and saw the mountains in the daytime and then on to Jasper and Yellow Head, called the "Great Divide". From there to Edmonton where they viewed Mt. Robinson, the saw and described the "Pyramid Falls".

They watched the boats come in at Vancouver and told of the Lions Gate Bridge, the longest single span bridge in the world, of Stanley Park with its wonderful trees and totem poles.

Fish Ladders

Visiting in Alberni in the tall timber country, where they tell of sending the flagpole cut from the tall fir trees, to Trafalgar Square, London, and described the fish ladders, which the fish ascend to their spawning ground, and of the arbutus tree, which sheds its bark in summer.

While at Qualicim Beach, the tidal wave came on an sudden wind. They also crossed 16 Victoria, the capital city, which was truly beautiful, with flowers on every lamppost.

They visited Dr. John Shellabher, at Nanaimo, B.C., another former resident of Roslin.

On their return trip, they saw a number of oil wells, some of which blew in while they were watching them.

Mrs. Leslie showed a number of pictures taken on her trip as well as shells and seabiscuit gathered in the ocean.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Leslie for her interesting travelogue.

Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants and a social half hour enjoyed.

PERSONALS

Roslin—Mr. and Mrs. John Fargey spent last week with the latter's parents at Kinnear's Mills, Quebec.

Miss Shirley Reid underwent an appendectomy in the Belleville General Hospital on Monday last.

Friends and relatives from here attended the Sills-Boulton wedding in Holloway Street Church, Bloomfield, on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Howes and Mower, Dorothy and Margaret Howes spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Leslie, Queensboro.

Chapter No. 55, OES Installs Officers

Installation of officers of Belleville Chapter No. 55, O.E.S. was held at the I.O.O.F. temple on Friday last. A large number of visitors and members from surrounding chapters were present to make an enjoyable evening.

Past Matron, Sister Getra Baker, Bro Robert Orne W.P., and their officers received congratulations from all for the successful year just ended.

Installing officer Sister Dorothy McGlashan, P.M.N.C. with Bro. Hayes Pitt, P.W.P., husband of the W.M. elect, Sister Anna Boyd P.G.M. and other P.W.M. and P. W.P. carried through the installation in a very efficient manner. All were inspired with the beautiful Bible ceremony conducted by Sister Dorothy McGlashan, Sister Getra Baker, and Sister Margaret Shaw, with Sister Bernice Grills, pianist delightfully rendered the beautiful "Garden of Prayer". Sister Irene Brown, soloist for the Assiniboine River, and accordeon bags at Devil's Lake City. Thence across the border to Brandon, Manitoba and on to Indian Head.

Officers installed for the ensuing year:-

W.M.; Sr. Morley Burch, W.P.; Sister Muriel Smith, A.M.; Bro. Percy Kerr, A.P.; Sister Mary Carruthers, secretary; Sister Clara Ironside, treasurer; Sister Ada McMullen, Con.; Sister Audry Elliott, A. Con.; Sister Christian Buck, chaplain; Sister Doris Stewart, Marshal; Sister Cleia Elliott, organist. Star points Sisters: Marion McPherson, Margaret Nelson, Edna Bell, Anne Davidson and Grace Wilson; Sister Helena Darvell, warder; and Bro. Harold Denike, sentinel.

After closing refreshments were served and a social hour spent, all wishing Sister Leslie, the W.M.-elect and Bro. Morley Buck W.P. and their officers, a happy and prosperous year.

St. Paul's United Church W.A.S. Holds Social Evening

The choir of St. Paul's United Church was entertained by the combined afternoon and evening auxiliaries of the Women's Association at a social evening held in the church basement, Wednesday evening last.

A playlet entitled, "It Might be You," was staged by members of the afternoon auxiliary. Highlight of the evening was provided by Miss Mabel Willows and Miss Agatha Coulliee of the Maynooth United Church when they showed slides made from colored films taken in Ottawa at the funeral ceremonies for the late William Lyon Mackenzie King.

Glimpses in color were shown of people of all nations who were in attendance at the world Christian Youth Education Conference held in Toronto during the summer.

Refreshments were served during the social hour which followed.

Attend Same Party With Same Hats

Washington, Nov. 6—(AP) — Mrs. Perle Mesta and Madame Bonnet arrived at the same cocktail party yesterday with the same hats.

Mrs. Mesta is United States Minister to Luxembourg; Madame Bonnet is the wife of the French Ambassador to the United States.

They wore identical elephant gray affairs decorated with shell pearls and with sequin-dotted veils.

They spoke. That's all.

PAROLE NINE JAPANESE

Tokyo, Nov. 6 — (AP)—Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said today that nine more Japanese war criminals will be paroled from Sugamo prison Nov. 15. This will bring to 127 the total of convicted war criminals released under a parole plan of the legal section in the general's headquarters.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking ?

Roast Veal, Chili Gravy, Serves 6.

1—4 lb. shoulder of veal
1-2 cup flour
1 teaspoons salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
1 medium size onion
1 teaspoon chili powder
1 tablespoon flour
1 can consommé
1-4 cup tomato juice

Have the butcher bone and tie the meat for roasting. Rub 1-2 cup flour, salt and pepper over meat. Insert a meat thermometer into centre of roast. Place meat on a wire rack in an uncovered roaster.

Roast at 325 degrees until meat thermometer registers 170 degrees or well done, allowing 40 to 45 minutes per pound.

Remove meat and rack from pan.

Chop onion fine and add to pan. Place pan over a slow top flame and simmer until onion browns. Remove from flame. Stir in 3 tablespoons flour and chili powder. Heat undiluted consomme and add to pan stirring well. Add tomato juice.

Return roasting pan to a slow flame and simmer ten minutes. Scrape sides and bottom of pan to loosen drippings.

Strain gravy. Skim off any excess fat. Add salt to taste. Add brown gravy color if desired.

Welsh Woman Does Scots Dance To Irish Music

London, Nov. 6—CP—A Welsh woman did a Scots dance to Irish music today at a birthday party for Viscount Samuel, Liberal leader in the House of Lords.

The dancer was lady Megan Lloyd George, daughter of former British Prime Minister and Liberal member of Parliament for Anglesey since 1929.

The spritely Lady Megan one of the popular members of the house, danced a highland fling to music from a record player presented to mark Lord Samuel's 80th birthday.

"This is to show that a Welsh woman can do a Scots dance," laughed lady Megan—but the tune was an Irish jig.

RAWDON

Illustrated Talk of Trip to British Isles Enjoyed by Holstein Club

Rawdon — The ladies of Mount Rawdon United Church, under the leadership of Mrs. Raymond McCann, convenor of the Two-by-Two Club, catered for the annual Hastings County Holstein Breeders' Club banquet held in Stirling Community Hall, Thursday evening, with about 200 guests in attendance from various parts of Hastings County.

Delectable Food

The tables were attractive with potted plants and a variety of jellies, salads, steamed apples and pickles, with ham, apple pie and ice cream.

At 7.30 p.m., Mr. A. O. Dalrymple, Agricultural Representative, seated the head table and for the next forty-five minutes everyone did justice to the fine food served by a bevy of waiters.

Mr. Lorne L. Hollinger, president of the club, was master of ceremonies and kept everything moving in his usual witty manner and he spoke briefly.

The toast to the King and the National Anthem opened the program.

Mr. Walt Taylor, of CJBQ, led in a sing-song with Mrs. Harry Harrison as piano accompanist.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Summers sang 'Forever and Ever,' with guitar accompaniment.

Mr. Frank Stone, assistant agricultural representative at Stirling, outlined the "Boys' Calf Club," and said there was keen competition for the Hollinger Trophy. He introduced the guests at the head table.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Gerow and Mrs. George Brooks, as the former is secretary-treasurer of the Holstein Club in Lennox and Addington, and Mr. and Mrs. Max Burnside, as the former is vice-president of the Hastings Club.

Reeve Harold Wells, of Stirling, in his remarks, said the community in the town depend on the surrounding farming community for their living.

Asks for Co-operation

Mr. John Tamblyn, salesman for the club, asked for greater co-operation between himself and the club members. This past Summer he found a good buyer for 100 inferior cattle. The Northumberland club was praised for their wholehearted co-operation. The revenue was $68,000 for this season.

He is the only man in four counties working to hold the price of cattle. He left at this point to attend the Northumberland banquet at Campbellford.

Mrs. Marguerite McMullen, of Mount Pleasant, with Mrs. Jean McConnell, accompanist, sang a solo.

Miss Helen Sulman, Belleville, was guest elocutionist and was heard in three numbers.

Mr. A. O. Dalrymple, secretary-treasurer of the club, spoke briefly and paid tribute to Mr. Hollinger and the success of the banquet. Miss Dorothy Eggleton was given an ovation for her work in the agricultural office. Mr. Dalrymple introduced the guest speaker.

Mr. A. M. Barr, B.S.A., Associate Director of Extension, Department of Agriculture, Toronto, was a former agriculture representative for thirteen years. He then served as field man for the Holstein Breeders and then returned to representative service.

Illustrated Talk

Mr. Barr was given a timely salutation at this point which he deeply appreciated. He gave an illustrated lecture on his trip to Scotland. The views were all taken by Mr. Barr and most of them were exceptionally clear and beautifully colored. In 1949 Ontario received word that a group would be welcomed to visit the International Livestock Judging competitions in England and Scotland. Four boys, who had been workers in Calf Clubs, Junior Farmers' Work and who were well qualified, were chosen to make this trip in 1950, and they, with Mr. Barr, stayed in various farm houses during their visit over there.

The boys represented Ontario and came from Renfrew, Halton, South Simcoe and Waterloo Counties. There were seven teams in attendance from the various counties at the International Livestock Judging Shows in Scotland and England. These shows are largely attended and move around yearly like the international Plowing Matches. They only show livestock and farm machinery. Their show buildings can be taken apart and moved from place to place. Over there they have no amusement attractions of any kind and all the judging is completed on the first day. The group enjoyed an excellent reception of the young farm people in the British Isles and they thoroughly enjoyed this educational trip.

The first view pictured the group at Guelph Agricultural College, on to Montreal, with views of the St. Lawrence River, Quebec and the steamship.

Visit Famous Scenes

A brief picture of Ireland and then to Scotland where among many other places they passed through Stirling, Scotland. They visited Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, where they were royally welcomed. There were good views of "Highland sheep" at the "Monchaffle Farm", a typical stone street in Aberdeen, Scotland. Fishing at the Fyvie Castle gave good viewing and on to the Royal Highland Show at Paisley. Here dozens of Clydesdale horses were on show despite the fact that the farms there are highly mechanized. Here the wool of the champion sheep is put into the tartan clothe bands in Highland costume were a delight. By means of the views each contestant was treated to the judges his reasons for placing the various livestock and the audience at the same listened in.

The trip continued on to Balmoral Castle, the summer home of the King and Queen. Then a nearby pub, "Invergauld Arms", they met Mr. and Mrs. Biggs, now of Peterborough County. On their journey to England, where they viewed an ancient farm home with a thatched roof and a television set. Several slides were devoted to the Ayrshire cattle judging in Essex County in England, followed by pictures of Russell Square, St. Paul's Cathedral, Tower of London, Hampton Court, Palace, the famed "Best Kilters' Guard, Hyde Park on a Sunday afternoon, Buckingham Palace, Christ Cross Cathedral, Oxford, and many other views.

Much Reforestation

In the three weeks the group visited three universities, Glasgow, Cambridge and Oxford.

At Chivers they saw an Ontario bred Jersey bull which had been purchased from Bull and Sons, Brampton.

Here they have "large white" pigs and this breed makes rapid growth in five months. There were several breeds of Shorthorns and one fine herd of Holsteins pictured.

In England the poppies grow as weeds in the grain fields. Many old estates are being turned into hospitals. There is a great deal of reforestation in the Old Land as the older trees are cut for war purposes.

The lecture closed with views of St. Peter's Church, built in 1202, to double-deck buses, scenes at Claxton, and the beautiful rose show at Colchester.

Mr. Harry Coulter, Thomasburg, extended thanks to the guest speaker for his delightful picture of the trip which all had thoroughly enjoyed.

Mr. Walt Taylor and his Rhythm Ranch Riders gave two numbers and Miss Mary Lemon sang "An Old Fashioned Country Girl" and "Cowboy's Sweetheart."

Fred Stone delighted with a series of imitations which were exceptionally good.

Presentation Made

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ormiston, Brooklyn, who had been at Northumberland banquet, arrived and Mr. Ormiston, Field Man, presented to Mr. Philo Harris, owner of grand champion female in the Black and White Show, with the latest true type model cow fashioned of metal.

Mr. Harris, who is a veteran breeder was given an ovation.

Mr. Ronald Longwell, past president, spoke briefly and paid tribute to Mr. Hollinger and his untiring efforts to make the club worthwhile.

Mr. Raymond McConnell thanked the club for making it possible for Mount Pleasant to cater for the banquet.

Club Directors

The directors of the Hastings Club are Messrs. Wesley Finch, Everett Lake, Philip Carr, James Pitts, Bernard Hunt, Malicha Cassidy, Harry Hall, Stewart Hardy, Earl Burnside, Kenneth Caskey, Fred Campbell, James Reynolds, Allan McCoy, Charles Trevorton, Carl Thompson, Joe Walsh and H. R. Chadwick.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her helpers.

NORTHPORT

Northport — On Monday and Tuesday afternoons several of the ladies attended cooking classes held in Demorestville hall, under the auspices of W. I. Miss Barbara Broadfoot demonstrated ways to cook cheaper cuts of meat more economically. Her lectures and practical exhibit proved very interesting and instructive.

On Monday, Northport ladies were fortunate in winning the prizes. Mrs. Roy Simpson, Mrs. Robert Greenwell and Mrs. G. Hough being the lucky winners.

Mr. Murray and Miss Eunice Thomlinson, Ivanhoe, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Mallett.

Mrs. T. Trevethan and daughter Deborah, Toronto, have returned home after a few days' visit with Mr. and Mrs. J. Fraser.

Hallowe'eners turned out in number to celebrate on Tuesday evening. Both youth and elders joined in the parade and all seemed to have a happy time with no damage done to anyone, proving that one can have a lot of fun without being destructive.

Special services were conducted last week, with Mr. S. Sears, Demorestville, as speaker. Mr. Kingersley, Consecon, had charge of the song service.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Lindsay and Mr. and Mrs. Murney Lindsay and Mrs. Edna MacDermaid attended the funeral service of Mr. Wm. Houle, Milford, on Wednesday.

Germans Told to Wake Up To Red Aggression Danger And Help Defend Selves

Frankfurt, Germany, Nov. 4 — (AP)—The official United States newspaper here flatly told the German people today to wake up to the dangers of communist aggression and prepare to help defend themselves.

The warning also pointed to France, which has been opposing United States proposals to use German manpower in a Western European army.

The article appeared in Die Neue Zeitung, the U. S. High Commission's German language newspaper, and was described as a statement of American policy on the question of Germany's role in European security." It was attributed to "leading officials of the U. S. High Commission."

Both France and Germany were told there was "no time left for quarreling" and that any European country which wanted American help "must look the facts in the face."

American patience is running low with people who refuse to recognize the danger, said the article.

This plain talk appeared to be hinted as a sharp rebuke to such German leaders as Dr. Kurt Schumacher, West German Social Democratic leader, and Rev. Martin Niemoeller, evangelical pastor, though it mentioned neither by name.

These men in recent speeches have come out flatly against any German contribution to western defence. Some newspapers also have complained that the German taxpayer is "footing the costs of the American cold war with Russia."

STIRLING

St. Andrew's Club Is Host At Hallowe'en Party

Stirling — The St. Andrew's Club held a Hallowe'en party last Monday with St. Andrew's, West Huntingdon as their guests. A ghost walk opened the meeting with eerie objects lurking here and there.

After the grand parade, the prizes for costumes were awarded to the following children: Sally Fox, Rosalind Rodgers, Lana Woodbeck and Garry Woodbeck. Ladies: Mrs. Roy Eggleton and Margaret Haggerty. Men: Bobbie Eggleton and Billie Fitchett.

Fine Program

Miss Gena Spry gave a reading on the "History of Hallowe'en." Margaret Haggerty and Harold Thompson rendered two vocal duets, "The Voice in the Old Village Choir" and "Whispering Hope", with Mrs. V. Matthews at the piano.

The members of the club put on a skit "A Hallowe'en Vision," with Eugene Burrell as the dreamer. Mr. Georger Cronin led in a singsong of old and favorite pieces.

Refreshments were served at the close.

REACH FOR A RENNIE

RED INTERVENTION

Among suggested actions, it is reported in Washington, is the possible offer to continue the sale of electric power to Manchuria from North Korea if red Chinese troops go home. This offer would be coupled with a threat to destroy the great hydro-electric dam at Suiho, on the Korean – Manchurian border, should intervention continue. The Suiho supplies much of the electric power for Manchurian industry.

Some informed sources say the U.N. might ask MacArthur for more information and request its commission in Korea to investigate before taking concrete steps.

An American diplomat asserted today, however that this probably would accomplish little, since the commission would be dependent on American military authorities for information and most information available is already included in the MacArthur communique.

Pending a clarification of the American position, diplomats were cautious in speculating about possible U.N. moves.

The general feeling here, however, seems to be that the world peace organization is caught on the horns of a dilemma.

If the U.N. fails to take action, the world will lose its newfound confidence in the organization as the guardian of world peace.

On the other hand, hasty action might precipitate a showdown in the east-west conflict.

In the last analysis many diplomats here believe the outcome will be decided in Moscow.

ELECTION ODDS

Many Offices to Fill

A host of other offices are to be filled. Among them are 3 governorships — early-voting Maine already has elected a Republican — and the mayoralty of New York City. Even there, where four men seek the office vacated by big Bill O'Dwyer when he became ambassador to Mexico, there is little of the "color" usually associated with an American election.

The Republicans, who haven't elected a man to the presidency since 1928 when Herbert Hoover took office, tried hard during the weekend to whip up the bogey of a possible third World War as a means of swinging the voters to their side. Guy Gabrielson, national chairman of the party, said in a statement that Chinese communist divisions are pouring into North Korea and said the people will want a "coalition" government "if we are on the brink of a ghastly third World War." He did not explain his reference to a "coalition" government.

Truman said in a speech broadcast nationally that the cause of peace and prosperity would be best served by a Democratic election victory, and decried the "smear and fear" tactics of the opposition.

Between 40,000,000 and 45,000,000 voters are expected to turn out tomorrow; 42,000,000 would be a record for an off-year election. Truman has claimed that a majority of them will cast their ballots for the Democrats. He has predicted a landslide. The Republicans—and most top Democrats —have been more cautious, confining themselves to the pre-election victory claims with no estimates as to the size of the vote for either party.

IVANHOE

Hallowe'en Party Sponsored By Women's Institute

Ivanhoe — A Hallowe'en parade was held in Ivanhoe Town Hall on Tuesday evening, sponsored by the Ivanhoe Women's Institute. This event was largely attended.

A round of community singing started the evening's entertainment with Mrs. Reg. Haggerty at the piano while the Rev. B. J. Beckel made a genial and efficient master of ceremonies.

The grand parade was divided; first the children, all under eight years of age. There were cowboys, ghosts, monkey, an imp, fairies, Red Riding Hood, a lone scarlet-coated mountie, superman, and what have you. All received a prize.

Next all school children under eight years of age and then the grownups. Those receiving prizes were:

Miss Helen Kerby, as a darkie, received the ladies' Institute prize. Mrs. Richard Barnard and Mrs. James York, comic couple; drum majorette, Mrs. Frank Palmer; fancy costume, Mrs. B. J. Beckel; original (men), Frank Palmer; original (women), Miss Doris Twiddy; original (Lone Ranger), Mr. Alex. Hunter; best comic couple, Mrs. Arnold Ray and Miss Gwen Ray; comic (single) scarecrow, Mrs. Cecil Carter; comic (men's), Earl McMaster.

Grocery Winner

A draw was conducted for a $5. basket of groceries. Master Larry McMaster drew the ticket, and Miss Doris Twiddy was the winner.

The second part of the program was as follows:

Two numbers given by West Huntingdon school pupils; part singing, Marilyn Fitchett, Lois Cook, Shirley Pounders and Helen McAvoy, "Galway Bay" and "A Simple Melody."

Mrs. Keith Bray's school gave a dialogue "Christopher" and a song, "I've Got a Lovely Bunch of Coconuts", and "Hallowe'en Ghosts".

A solo by Bert Bremner, "When —You're Smiling," brought an encore, "Lucky Old Sun," and was well received.

Thanks Extended

Mrs. Wm. French, president, on behalf of the W. I. thanked all those who had helped make the evening a success and also thanked Mr. and Mrs. George Wood for donating a bushel of apples.

The chairman mentioned the fine work the W. I. members are doing and wished them greater success in the future.

After the singing of God Save the King apples and candy were served.

STIRLING

Citizens Band Guest Artists Delight Audience

Stirling — The Citizens' Band and guest artists delighted a Stirling audience with a splendid musical concert in the local theatre on Sunday night last in the interests of the Stirling Boy Scouts.

Bandmaster Maurice Bell had charge of the baton and Rev. W. H. V. Walker of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, acted as the chairman.

Guest artists assisting the band included Miss Helen Grant, of Belleville, who gave several xylophone solos; K. P. Mayhew, guitar and vocal selections and LAC. Smith who contributed several electric guitar numbers.

A feature of the program was a camp fire scene by the local Boy Scouts and the Batawa Scouts under the leadership of Victor Babby, of Batawa.

Presentations Made

Mr. Arthur Jackson, of Trenton, District Field Commissioner, of the Boy Scouts, made the presentation of a silver arrow to John Anderson, of the local troop, and a member of the Batawa troop, for their proficiency in Scout work. He also gave a brief address on Scout work which proved of great interest to the audience. A silver collection was lifted on behalf of the Scouts and amounted to $37.23.

Musical Program

Following is the program by the band:

Fanfare, "O Canada" and "Invercargill March" by band; xylophone solo, Miss Helen Grant, of Belleville; 'Golden Gate Overture' by band; trumpet solo by Mr. William Aylesworth, of Madoc; band; vocal solo by Mr. K. P. Mayhew; xylophone solo, Miss Grant, "Hymn"; band; guitar solo by LAC. Smith; campfire songs by Boy Scouts; Imperial "Zehoes March", band; xylophone solo, by Miss Grant; vocal solo, Mr. Mayhew; guitar solo, LAC. Smith; hymn, by band, and God Save the King.

45 COMMIES DISMISSED

Tokyo, Nov. 4—AP—The Japanese International Trade and Industry Ministry today discharged 45 Communist officials. The action was in line with the Japanese government's program to purge Communist party members from the ranks of civil services. The program was inaugurated Thursday when the Agricultural and Forestry Minister dismissed 207 reds.

Rocket Engine and Hydra-Matic Drive

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

OLDSMOBILE

"76"

First came Hydra-Matic—pioneered by Oldsmobile more than 10 years ago, and acknowledged as the greatest contribution to driving ease in the history of the motor car! Here at last is an engineering achievement that took the work out of driving and put pleasure in place—a drive that outmoded the clutch pedal entirely, letting you drive without ev... shifting a gear.

Then came the revolutionary "Rocket". Soon after Hydra-Matic, Oldsmobile engineers began work on an entirely new engine—one that would be better than any other motor car engine—a power plant especially designed to work with Hydra-Matic Drive, to produce a team that would revolutionize motoring.

And now the team is complete! Together, Hydra-Matic Drive and the "Rocket" engine give you brilliant performance you can't comprehend until you've experienced it! A sense of unbounded power . . . an ease of driving entirely new . . . combined with new economy—for the team makes the utmost of every gallon of gasoline. It's a team that puts Oldsmobile years ahead—and puts Oldsmobile owners years ahead. See your Oldsmobile dealer.

"88"

The "76", powered by an improved Big Six Engine, offers Hydra-Matic Drive as optional equipment at extra cost.

Oldsmobile "88", powered by the "Rocket" Engine features Whirlaway Hydra-Matic Drive as standard equipment.

'Pete' Alexander, One of Baseball's Greats, Dies

St. Paul, Nov. 6 (AP)—Grover Cleveland Alexander, a fabulous major league pitcher in his day, died Saturday of a heart ailment.

Death came to the 63-year-old baseball immortal in the rented room he occupied in a private home here. He had been living of late on a $150-a-month baseball pension.

Alexander had been in ill health in recent years—he lost an ear to cancer—but friends who saw him Friday said he mentioned nothing about feeling ill.

Alexander got his last big baseball tribute in 1938 when he was voted into baseball's Hall of Fame by sportswriters, M.V.

He had earned it with a remarkable assortment of records chalked up in a career that covered nearly 20 years—from 1911 to 1930.

It was typical of the colorful Alexander, a notable breaker of training rules, that his baseball-memberred triumph came at a time when his greatness appeared to be fading.

As a member for St. Louis Cardinals, Alex had won the ninth game of the world series in 1926. The Cards needed the seventh to win the series.

Came the seventh inning of the game against New York Yankees in Yankee stadium. Two men were out, the bases were loaded, Babe Ruth held a precarious 3-2 lead and Tony Lazzeri was up.

Legend, always denied by Alexander, had it that the one-time Mickey Mantle boy was napping in the dugout after celebrating too well his previous day's win in the series. Others, as mackerel, Alex took the mound, ordered up Lazzeri on four pitched balls and went on to win the game.

Wins 28 in First Year

Old Pete started in the majors with Philadelphia, winning 28 games in his freshman year. After seven brilliant years with Philadelphia he was sold to Chicago Cubs. In 1926, when he appeared to be living some of that whiplash curve and perfect control, he was sent to St. Louis Cardinals on waivers but proceeded to confound the dopesters with another great season.

Alexander won 373 of the 696 games he pitched for the Phillies, Cubs and Cards. This tied him with Christy Mathewson as the National League's biggest winner.

He pitched more shutouts than any baseball League hurler—90. In 1916 he chalked up an amazing total of 16 shutouts, also a record.

In three successive years, 1915 to 1917, he won 30 or more games.

Old Pete's big league career ended in 1928 although he did some pitching for lesser clubs after.

KINGSTON VS BROCKVILLE

Cornwall, Nov. 4 — (CP) — Kingston Collegiate Juniors Friday edged Cornwall Collegiate 6-5 in a sudden-death playoff and will meet Brockville for the championship of the southern division. Eastern Ontario Secondary Schools Association Junior Football League.

A convert provided the victory margin. Cornwall went ahead in the first quarter when Brian Moar gathered in a 30-yard forward and romped for the touchdown but the convert was missed. Then halfback Doug Murray scored a second-quarter major for Kingston and Gord Sedgewick converted it.

Ailing Boxer Dies in Hospital Following Bout

South River, N.S., Nov. 6—(CP)—An ailing young boxer who was afraid of being thought a "quitter" died during the weekend from a knockout punch to the jaw in a middleweight bout here.

Alexander J. Chisholm, 23, of nearby Ohio was the aggressor in the opening round of a semi-final six-rounder but was fatally injured in fighting early in the second round. It was the Maritimer's first ring fatality.

His father, Colin Chisholm, said in an interview Sunday Alex was injured in a motor accident Oct. 30. Despite the pleas of his mother and other members of his family, he went on with the scheduled bout.

"A wheel of a truck Alex was driving broke," said Mr. Chisholm. "His head was injured and two ribs broken. He spoke of having pains in the head during the week.

"His mother, myself and Donald (a brother,) tried to persuade him not to go ahead, with the bout. I guess he was in no condition because I've done some boxing myself.

"Alex just said 'they would think me a quitter.' "

Died In Hospital

Chisholm died in hospital at Antigonish early Saturday. He was unconscious for a short time after the second round of a six-round semi-final bout by Roy (Kid) Sutherland of nearby Country Harbor. Both fighters weighed 150 pounds.

Spectators said the fatal blow or blows to the jaw came in fast in-fighting. Chisholm went down, staggered to his feet, and was sent to the canvas again immediately.

He was carried to his corner, and efforts made to revive him. There was no doctor at the match, it promoted by Gilbert MacKinnon of Antigonish.

Dr. D. C. Fraser, summoned from his home to the ring, ordered Chisholm removed to hospital where he died following an operation.

An autopsy was performed by Dr. C. R. MacIntosh and his report was sent to a coroner's jury. The jury was adjourned to Nov. 13.

Although the crowd of some 800 seemed something seriously amiss when Chisholm was carried from the ring, none suspected he was seriously injured. Those trying to revive him was one of his seven sisters, Marie, a student nurse.

Will Donate Suit or Topcoat To Star Player

Walter Harden, of Goodman's Store for Men announced today that Mr. Goodman has donated the choice of a suit of clothes or a topcoat to the junior or senior hockey player accorded the largest number of votes during the season's three-star selections.

In addition, players selected in the all-star list will be presented with neckwear after each game in accordance with the Goodman Store's practice of other years.

Selections will apply to home games only of the Rocket Junior "B's" and the Redmen senior teams.

Leaders Hold Positions In Both Divisions

(By The Canadian Press)

It was a busy night in the American Hockey League last night. All 10 clubs saw action and the leaders in the Eastern and Western Divisions held their positions.

Cincinnati Mohawks downed Pittsburgh Hornets 3-2 to stay atop the Western Division by three points. Buffalo Bisons, eastern leaders, beat St. Louis Flyers 6-3 and stayed five points ahead of Hershey Bears.

The other games saw Cleveland Barons blast Indianapolis 7-2 to stay rolling along in the West's second place, Hershey pushed around New Haven Eagles 6-2 and Providence downed Springfield Indians 6-4.

Cincinnati scored all its goals in the first two periods. Tom Campeau, Jackie Gordon and Fern Perreault put the Mohawk goals away.

Les Hickey scored twice for Buffalo while Sherman White added to get a pair. Buffalo's Ab Demarco, the league's leading scorer, rounded out the Buffalo scoring with another brace. Paul Gladu counted for the Flyers' third goal.

Les Douglas led Cleveland with a pair of third period goals while Fred Thurier, Steve Wochy, Glenn Sonmor and Ray Ceresino scored the others.

Providence scored three goals in 92 seconds of the second period to beat Springfield. Pete Kapusta got two goals in 24 seconds Jackie Hamilton also got a pair while Jack Stoddard and Ken Davies got the others.

Ken Hayden counted twice for Springfield while Bill Goodger got another.

New Haven, which has lost 11 out of 13 games this season, couldn't do anything with Hershey. Jack McIntyre, Zellio Toppazinni, Arnie Kullman, Marc Marquess, Joe Shertzl and George Sullivan split the Hershey goals between them. Joe Krahulec and Nick Tomluk scored for New Haven.

Peterborough C.I. Defeats B.C.I. In Twin Games of Grid Playoffs

On a wet and muddy field at Albert College on Saturday afternoon, Peterborough C.I. & V.S. defeated Belleville and Hastings C.I. & V.S. by winning 17-0 in the junior game and 32-1 in the senior contest. Each of these games was first of two games points to count series. The series will be resumed in Peterborough next Saturday afternoon.

In the junior game, the teams played on even terms throughout the first quarter but in the second period, Peterborough led by Grafstein, Langhorne and Stewart took a 5-0 lead as Grafstein bulled his way over the B.C.I. goal line.

Costly Fumbles

B.C.I. fumbled the kick-off to start the second half and the Peterborough team capitalized on this break by scoring a touchdown. Once more it was Grafstein who did the honors, Stewart passed to Grafstein for the convert. Near the end of the game Stewart scored a touchdown and ran over for the convert to give Peterborough a 17-0 lead. B.C.I. rallied in the last quarter and held the visitors on even terms.

Grafstein, Langhorne, Stewart and Johnston were the best for Peterborough on the offensive. Griffin, Turner and Grafstein played well on defensive. For the losers Rossmann and Baker were the leading ground gainers while O'Hara and Nickle were exceptional on defence.

More Fumbles

In the fumble-filled senior game, the play was much closer than the score would indicate. Three Peterborough touchdowns were direct gifts from the B.C.I. team who threw the ball away while still under some about as a result of a questionable official's decision. At one point in the game, B.C.I. held a 9-0 margin.

B.C.I. held Peterborough fairly even as far as territorial play is concerned but it seemed that each time B.C.I. were in scoring position, a fumble would occur or roughing would be called and the visitors would take over.

Kicking Duel

The game was featured by a kicking duel between Al Northcott of Peterborough and Jim Dowsett of Belleville. Both boys in spite of a wet, heavy ball were booting some tremendous punts.

Ken Moore, Jim Dowsett, Ken Allen and Inspired Jones starred for B.C.I. in a losing cause. Doug Soule, Bob Adamson and John Irwin also played well for B.C.I. as they carried the brunt of the defensive load.

Northcott, Armstrong, McIlwain and Patterson were the pick of the winners. The entire P.C.I. team played well.

A special word of praise should be inserted for the girl cheerleaders of B.C.I. who braved the rain and cold weather to give vocal support to their teams.

The officials for these games were G. Young, Dr. H. Warton and V. Goyer.

Queen's Blanks Ottawa U

Ottawa, Nov. 6 (CP)—Queen's University blanked Ottawa University 12-0 here Saturday in an Ottawa-St. Lawrence Intercollegiate Intercollegiate football game.

It was played on a slippery, snow-covered field where the teams found it difficult to gain traction. They had to depend on kicks to gain much of their yardage.

Queen's held command almost all the way, registering an unconverted touchdown, a converted touchdown and three rouged points. It was the second straight defeat for Ottawa University after winning their first three games of the season.

Dick James went over for Queen's first major in the first quarter when he took a 15-yard pass from Dick Erwin on Ottawa's 15-yard line and went all the way. Fred Wright registered the other in the final quarter on a break through the line from Ottawa's five-yard line. Erwin converted.

Chuck Ramsden picked up two of the rouged points and Brian Timmis scored the other on kicks that were roughed behind the Ottawa goal line.

The cargo is lashed to the floor and when there are troops aboard they sit in bucket seats along either side of the fuselage. Weight checking is a delicate process.

For instance, a North Star can haul more cargo from McChord to Alaska than it can from McChord to Vancouver, a distance of about 100 miles. In the latter case, the engines would have used up only a fraction of the 3,000 gallons of gas and the plane would be too heavy to land safely. On a long haul, this gas has been consumed by the time the aircraft reaches its destination.

At the controls on this trip was Flt. Lt. Cy Goodwin of Moose Jaw. He flew coastal command from Ireland during the war, spent 2½ years droning over the Atlantic in the eternal hunt for subs.

Co-pilot was Flt. Lt. Ras Churchill, 36, of Edmonton. He drove Sterlings during the war, dropping supplies to the French, and was shot down in daylight. This meant flying at night at 300-500 feet to find a flashlight beam in the middle of nowhere. Churchill received a Dutch D.F.C. for his part in the Arnhem paratroop drop.

At the navigator's table was F/O. Gene Moberg of Saskatoon. He is only 21 and the first post-war navigator to fly the Ocean airlift. Around and above him are the instruments of this trade: coran, pressure recorder, wireless, sextants, astro-compass, drift recorder, to name some.

Report Every Half Hour

Also only 21 was F/O. Mort Latter of Halifax, the radio operator, who had to report the plane's position at least every half hour. He could do this by voice until the aircraft left Alaska, when he switched to the morse sending key. If the plane for any reason doesn't report within an hour it is its last check point, R.C.A.F. search and rescue swings into action.

Flight engineer was Sgt. Jack Blowers, 30, of Riding Mountain, Man. He sits between the pilot and co-pilot, keeps his eyes glued to the instruments, checks, rechecks and checks again.

L.A.C. Mal Tasker, 22, of Kelowna, B.C., was air traffic assistant. He's been in the air force four years, has logged around 500 hours in the air.

Tasker supervises the loading, checks weight and balances, gets the meals, makes up the bunks where the crew take turns getting a snatch of shuteye.

In his larder he keeps bacon and eggs, soup, bread, butter, steak, canned meat, boiled dinners, tinned juices and, of course, beans.

"They never gave me a cook's course but the fellows don't grumble very often," he says.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

—THEY'RE OFF!

Peterborough Petes open the senior hockey season here tonight when they take on the Belleville Redmen in the inaugural tilt of the group. The Petes have two victories under their belts having disposed of Queen's University on a pair of occasions. Besides this experience they have several practice sessions and a few exhibition games tucked away and they should be in fair shape for their opener with Moe Gobbell's redshirts.

Coach Gobell sent his stalwarts through some strenuous workouts over the weekend and they have a few of the soft-ball and basketball wrinkles out of their systems. They should give a good account of themselves but lack of practice will likely prove some handicap.

The veteran line of Leo and Vern Gozer will get the starting nod tonight with Jack Keary in the nets and Jos Nolan and Tommy Schreiber back of the blueline. Lou Schmidt and Doug. Free will be the relief defencemen. Gobell will centre Brian Malvahill or Jackie Wardhaugh on a line with Keith MacDonald. The other line of shock troops will be composed of Peter Jones flanked with Doug Day and Johnnie Green.

* * *

Seeking their third victory, the Petes will have the veteran Ray Harding between the pipes; with E. Leonard and Gobell defending. The first starting centre will be Wade with Dugan and Turner flanking him. In supporting casts are Honey Tompkins, (little poison), Gus Leonard, Fryia, Jopling, Millar, Harvey, Collins and Weel. A right speedy crew which has shown lots of power during the season thusfar.

* * *

Opening ceremonies will feature tonight's Petes - Redmen clash with Mayor Allin and team officials present to face the puck. With President Harper McElrath will be members of the team executive while the Kinsmen's Boys' Band will be on hand to dispense their usual sparkling rhythms. The game gets under way at 8:30.

* * *

The game should give the faithful a fairly good idea of what kind of a team will represent the city in senior OHA circles this season. It will be a severe test for the various lines, which Coach Gobell says are by no means permanent. He will keep a sharp eye on the combinations and perhaps do a bit of shaking up if they do not click. But, we repeat, the boys are not and cannot be expected to be in tip-top shape. However they will give a good account of themselves and will be out there battling for their first victory.

Gobell had fine turnouts attend the practices over the weekend and has several prospects tucked away in his mind. A couple of RCAF players will report within the next few weeks while it is reports that a senior player from the RCA in Picton has designated his intention to turn out with the squad. Time will bring added strength to the Redshirts and before long they should have a squad which will compare favorably with the rest of the team in the group.

* * *

Coach Smiley Meronek had upwards of forty young aspirants trying out for spots on the Rockets Junior "B's" during the weekend practice. The youngsters came from all parts of the district with those noted from Wellington, Picton, Trenton and communities to the north. Jerry Deslardins, Ross Mason and Chief Henhawks looked good. Meronek was assisted by President Ken McNaught, head of the Belleville Hockey Association in his efforts to select likely prospects from the "mob" of youngsters. Ron. Mantle, Smiths Falls player reported for duty and other lads will show up ere long. Meronek expects to have the team in good shape for the opening game against Peterborough which will be played on the Petes ice on November 15. The all-star game of the Rockets sees them entertain Port Hope here on November 20.

Boston Bruins Rise From NHL Cellar on Saturday But it Did Not Take Long to Fall Back

(By The Canadian Press)

The Bruins of Boston rose out of their National Hockey League rut during the weekend—but it didn't take them long to fall back in.

Coach Lynn Patrick's team racked up its first victory in nine starts when it defeated the Canadiens 3-2, at Montreal Saturday night. On Sunday night, however, the Bruins reverted to this season's form when they absorbed a 4-2 trimming from the Red Wings at Detroit.

At that, Boston isn't doing much worse than New York Rangers. In the other two weekend contests the Rangers battled the Maple Leafs to a 2-2 deadlock at Toronto but then bowed 3-1 to the Black Hawks at Chicago; leaving them with a record of only one win and five ties in 11 starts.

Rangers' record is good enough to keep them in fifth place, two points ahead of the tail-end Bruins, whose five points come from three ties besides their single victory.

Toronto's weekend tie kept the Leafs well out in front, five points ahead of Detroit. The Wings took over second place by defeating Canadiens, with Chicago three points back.

A Forum crowd of 14,000 watched the Bruins beat their jinx in a rugged, wide-open game at Montreal. Boston opened up a 3-0 lead on goals by Johnny Peirson, Ed Sandford and Jim Morrison. Montreal fought back with a second period tallies by Elmer Lach and Fern Flaman but the third session was scoreless.

Penalties Costly

It was the Bruins who were faced with overcoming a three-goal lead before a crowd of 11,205 at Detroit Sunday. They couldn't make it. The Wings ran up their margin on goals by Gordie Howe, Metro Prystai and Gaye Stewart, then Gerry Couture raised it to 4-1 after Dave Creighton scored for Boston. Creighton made it two for the night with the only goal of the third period.

Penalties proved the Rangers' undoing before a Toronto crowd of 13,141. With the New Yorkers a man short, the Leafs used their vaunted power play to ram home two goals in 59 seconds in the second period. Sid Smith and Ted Kennedy were the marksmen.

All the scoring at Toronto came in the second period. Rookie Mickey Michaski opened it to put Rangers out front 1-0 and Ed Slowinski closed it after the Toronto flurry to force the tie.

A crowd of 15,509 at Chicago watched the Hawks subdue the Rangers in a wild game strewn with 14 penalties. Chicago ran up a 3-0 lead on markers by Gord Fashoway, Bill Mosienko and Bep Guidolin before Eddie Sullivan spoiled Harry Lumley's shutout late in the final frame.

Ten of the 14 penalties were called in the scoreless second period. The only major penalty went to New York's Tony Leswick for slashing with intent to injure. Defencemen Bill Gadsby of the Hawks drew a total of four major penalties, two short of a league record.

New York goalie Chuck Rayner was called on to make 25 saves while Lumley stopped 19.

Stukus Uses Psychology To Kick Convert

(By The Canadian Press)

Coach Annis Stukus sat in a corner of the noisy Eskimo dressing room Saturday night and told how he used psychology to kick the convert which gave Edmonton a 17-16 win over Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Said Stuker:

"The team knows I'm wearing my wrist watch and they know I'm not wearing pads. So they try that much harder to keep me from getting dumped."

The 37-year-old playing coach boasts an amazing record of missing only four of 37 converts in regular league games and play-off this year.

"Only been smeared once," he said. "That was in the opening game against Winnipeg when I was foolish enough to fall on a kicked kick. Thought they were going to have to carry me off the field."

Saturday night, as he ran out on the floodlit Clarke Stadium turf, the score tied 16-16 he was wearing his wrist watch.

"On the buddy," nobody asked what time it was," Stuke said, with tongue in cheek. "But I made sure they saw me look at my watch—that's psychology."

Leo Johnson of Winnipeg defeated Frenchy D'Amour of Prince Albert, B.C., 9-8 last night to win the Associated Canadian Travellers' automobile bonspiel at Edmonton.

Johnson was one down going home when he scored two to win the four new automobiles for his rink.

His win was sweet revenge. Last year in the first automobile bonspiel, a single brilliant shot by D'Amour lost him the cars.

Fog rising from the Ice Saturday night forced the cancellation of the Eastern League Hockey game between the Boston Olympics and Atlantic City Sea Gulls at the Boston arena.

The teams took an hour and 11 minutes to complete the first period which was halted five times because of the fog condition.

John W. Nislek's all at once, a 25-1 shot, pulled a major upset Saturday when he splashed home in the $30,000-Alexandra Park Handicap before 20,777 rain-soaked fans at Jamaica.

With Nick Wall up, the three-year-old son of Granbbing was able to stave off the late charge by Ted Atkinson of J. M. Selzer's Royal Castle. The winning margin at the end of the 1 3-16 miles was a neck.

Tom Grey's Oil Capitol, a forward factor all the way, finished third, a length back. The Brookmeade Stable's Sunglow was a close fourth. Back in the ruck was the race favorite, George D. Widener's Lights Up.

Willie Shoemaker celebrated his last day at Bay Meadows race track Saturday by bringing home four winners.

Shoemaker, already out in front in the race for this year's national riding honors, boosted his 1950 total of winners to 314. His nearest rival, Joe Culmone, riding at Pimlico, had two winners Saturday, raising his total to 304.

Weekend Stars

Dave Creighton, Boston, who scored his team's two goals although the Bruins bowed to Detroit Red Wings 4-2.

Jack Gelineau, Boston goalie, who turned back a barrage of shots Saturday as the Bruins got their first National Hockey League victory, a 3-2 decision over Montreal.

Hockey's Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto's Max Bentley picked up two points during the week-end to take over sole possession of first place among the National Hockey League's point getters, one point ahead of Maurice Richard of Montreal with whom he was previously tied.

Richard picked up one point to bring his season's total to 13, one less than Bentley.

Ted Kennedy of Toronto holds down third spot with 11 points.

Fern Flaman of Boston continues to hold the dubious honor of most penalized player, having spent 37 minutes in the penalty box. Turk Broda of Toronto is shutout king with three.

(Three players tied with eight points).

COBOURG IN FINALS

Hamilton, Nov. 6 (CP) — Cobourg Galloping Ghosts won a place in the Ontario Rugby Football Union Intermediate A finals Saturday, although they lost to Dundas, 6-5.

Cobourg went into the second game of the two-game, total-points series with a 3-0 victory over Dundas the previous week, and took the series 8-6.

Playing coach Bob Cooper put Cobourg ahead in the first quarter with an unconverted touchdown. Dundas came back with a major by Holland, converted by Manolan.

Weather Gets in Some Players' Hair, Officials in Others as Football Season Nears Climax

(By The Canadian Press)

The snow and slush got in the hair of players and fans alike but as usual it was the officials who really took it on the chin as senior football moved towards its Grey Cup climax during a wind-blown weekend.

With the elements making quagmires of what the east laughingly called gridirons, here were the rapid-fire developments:

1. The Dominion champion Montreal Alouettes were eliminated, even though they edged Toronto Argonauts 18-17, because Hamilton Tiger-Cats beat Ottawa Rough Riders 11-3. Argos and Tigers open a two-game, total-points playoff for the Big Four title at Hamilton next Saturday, with the second game in Toronto the following Wednesday.

2. Toronto Balmy Beach were hard-pressed to defeat Sarnia Imperials in the opening playoff game for the Ontario union title and the right to meet the Big Four winner for the Eastern Canada crown. They play the second game of the total-points series at Sarnia Saturday.

3. Edmonton Eskimos upset Winnipeg Blue Bombers 17-16 in the first game of a best-of-three series for the Western Canada title. The second game is billed for Winnipeg Saturday with the third, if necessary, also in Winnipeg.

4. Import Nick Scollard of Alouettes was indefinitely suspended from Canadian football for punching judge of play Jimmy Simpson at Toronto, opening a four-stitch gash in the official's chin.

Isn't Covered in Rules

5. The officials also came in for a verbal beating in the same Toronto game when referee Seymour Wilson had to rule on a play that isn't even covered specifically in the rule book. Ruling that it was illegal to throw a forward pass off a blocked placement kick, he called back a Montreal touchdown and substituted a 25-yard penalty.

It was that ruling that indirectly led to his fellow arbiter taking it on the chin. Scollard, who had tried the placement, became further enraged when Simpson signalled a no-yards penalty against Montreal on the next play, and charged the veteran official.

W. C. (Billy) Foulds, who was in charge of the league's referees, supported Wilson's ruling and said this special directive would be issued pending clarification of the rule by the C. R. U.: "In the case of a blocked kick that is recovered by the kicker's side, a forward pass cannot legally be thrown off the play."

As it turned out, all the rumpus was needless because Montreal won out anyway when Nick Volpe hit the goalpost with what would have been the tying convert in the closing minutes. The Alouettes had built up their lead on touchdowns by Ralph Toohy, Rod Paniagos and Ches McCance, plus three points kicked by Scollard before his blow-up.

Argo touchdown scorers were Joe Krol, Bob Westlake and Rod Smylie, with Volpe converting one and Krol punting a single. The Argos lost halfback Doug Smylie for the playoffs when he dislocated a shoulder.

Hamilton finished in first place, a point ahead of Argos, by outslashing the last-place Rough Riders at Ottawa. Bill Gregus and Edgar Jones scored their touchdowns, with Jones converting one. Ottawa's only points came on a field goal by Eric Chipper.

In Without Pads

Coach Annis Stukus, playing without pads and wearing his wrist-watch, booted the convert that gave Edmonton their important victory over Winnipeg. The extra point before an Edmonton record crowd of 14,000 came on a fourth-quarter touchdown by Rollin Prather, scored when Winnipeg was leading 16-14.

Mike King bagged Edmonton's first touchdown, converted by Stukus, but Joe Aguirre kicked the placement and Ron Vaccher scored a touchdown, converted by Aguirre, to put Winnipeg ahead 9-8 at half time. In the third quarter, Winnipeg outscored Edmonton 7-5 on Tom Casey's converted touchdown and Jack Jacobs' single against Bob Prather's major, thus setting the state for Stukus' game winning conversion of Prather's touchdown.

Prather didn't get credit for the major until Sunday night. The official scorer had given Prather credit but reversed his decision later after competent witnesses agreed Prather was the real hero.

Balmy Beach had to come from behind before a Sunday crowd of 1,000 at Toronto to beat Sarnia, whom they whipped three-and-four in the regular schedule. Import Cal Galbreath dashed 45 yards for the major in the third quarter, followed by George Watson and fourth-quarter field goal that gave Beaches a six-point lead for the second game.

Earlier, Buch McAffer and John McKelvie scored majors for Sarnia and Dusty Dunlop punted a single, while Art Scullion took a forward for a Beach touchdown and Wilson kicked his first of two field goals, besides converting the major.

Varsity Pulls Surprise

In the east's intercollegiate leagues, University of Toronto pulled a surprise by tying undefeated McGill at Montreal 6-6—but equally surprising was how they kept track of the ball in the inches of snow about. They even turned on floodlights in the final quarter to accommodate the players and some 6,000 fans who sat through a driving rain.

Varsity, with only one win in four previous starts, built up a lead on a placement by Jimmy Bell and singles by Al Haig and Bob Rumball, fell behind in the fourth quarter when Fred Willmot converted Hoy Donaldson touchdown, but tied it up with another single by Haig.

Queen's subdued University of Western Ontario 13-10 at Kingston, leaving both teams in a second-place tie with two victories against three losses. For Queen's Simson and Rorke scored touchdowns and Bob Bell kicked two singles and a convert. Taylor scored the Western touchdown while Bob McFarlane kicked five points, on a field goal, a convert and a single.

Only Two Points Separate First Eight Teams

(By The Canadian Press)

It's a little crowded at the top of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior 'A' standings. After five weekend games, only two points separate the first eight teams.

Barrie Flyers moved into undisputed possession of first place Saturday with a 7-3 win over the luckless Waterloo Hurricanes, who have picked up but one point in nine games. But the win left Flyers with only a one-point lead over three teams tied for second slot, with four more another point behind.

Galt Black Hawks were knocked from atop the heap by St. Catharines Teepees, 6-2. This left Hawks and Teepees tied for second place with Stratford Kroehlers, who took a 6-3 overtime decision from Oshawa Generals.

Sunday's Junior doubleheader in Toronto saw Windsor Spitfires outclass St. Michael's Majors 6-1 and Toronto Marlboros down Guelph Biltmores 4-2. Spits, Dukes and Guelph now are in a four-way tie for fifth slot along with Oshawa Generals St. Michael's are in sixth position in the 10-team loop, six points back.

One senior game was played Saturday, St Michael's walloping Hamilton Tigers 11-4 to move into first place tie with Toronto Marlboros.

Snow and rain kept attendance at the Senior game down to 450 in the cavernous Maple Leaf Gardens.

Two former Pacific coast leaguers, John Ubriaco and Matt Mesich, starred for the winners, who two tallies apiece. Other St. Mike's scorers were Gord Hannigan, Pat Wilson, Frank Sullivan, Ed Mulligan, Bill McCracken, Ken Watson and Johnny Arundel. For Tigers, Murray Counick bagged two Johnny Conick and Tom Smellie the others.

Clean Contest

The overtime junior game at Oshawa saw but seven minor penalties handed out in the 70 minutes. Scoring alternated until the overtime period, when Bob Bailey broke away and fed the puck to Johnny Wood to give Kroehlers the winning tally. Bailey, Guy Henri, and Rod Leckie were the other Stratford scorers. Bob Holden, Bill Berwick and Alex Delvecchio scored for Generals.

Galt and St. Catharines were tied 2-2 going into the final period and then Teepees scored four as Hawks faded. Wayne Brown and Carl Boone led with two apiece for the winners. Ted Powers and Bill Young rounding out the scoring. Bill Wharram and Tony Peets scored for Galt.

Three middle-period Barrie goals within two minutes spelled the difference as Waterloo bowed to the Flyers. Hurricanes held their own in the first stanza, but were disorganized on defence. Doug Towers and Chuck Woods each bagged two Barrie Tallies, Leo Labine, Jim Morrison and Don Emms the others. Murray Dunnette potted two for Hurricanes, Claude Watters one.

In the first Sunday game, Windsor matched St. Mike's goal for goal until the final period when Spits broke a 3-3 deadlock to count three in a row. Windsor scorers were Eddie Joss with two, Earl Johnson, Erwin Gross, Jim Anderson and Jim Offidani. Bob Sabourin picked up two for the losers, Bob Schiller one.

The junior Dukes were never headed in the second game, Ron Hurst, Earl Balfour, Gus Karrys and Nesterenko tallied for the winners. Guelph goals came from Ken Laufman and Chuck Henderson.

Next senior games are set for Tuesday, with St. Michael's at Hamilton and Marlies at Kitchener. The same night Guelph visits St. Catharines for a junior game.

SCOTTISH STRIKE ENDS

Glasgow, Nov. 6 — (Reuters) — A one-week strike of Scottish coal miners ended today. Terms were not announced. More than 8,000 miners walked out because they were dissatisfied with a recent wage award made by the National Coal Board, which would mean an average increase of the equivalent of 70 cents a week for each man. The miners had asked for $1.68.

What YOU should know about Veterans Insurance

Re: Veterans Insurance—

Your Right to Apply Has a Time Limit

Who Is Eligible?

Any man or woman who has been discharged after service in the Canadian naval, military or air forces during World War II.

Any man or woman who has been discharged after service in the naval, military or air forces of His Majesty during World War II, who was living in Canada at the commencement of such service.

The widow or widower of a veteran as above, if the veteran was not insured under the act.

Certain classes of Merchant Seamen. Members of the Corps of, (Civilian) Canadian Fire Fighters and Auxiliary Services Supervisors, with service overseas.

Any other person in receipt of a pension under the Pension Act relating to World War II.

Is There A Medical Examination?

No—except in a very few special cases. Consequently, Veterans Insurance is of particular value to those who cannot meet the requirements of a commercial Insurance company.

How Much Does It Cost?

Rates are comparable with the lowest for similar policies with commercial companies. PREMIUMS MAY BE PAID FROM RE-ESTABLISHMENT CREDITS OR FROM PENSION. The policy has cash value after two years.

What Kind of Insurance is Available?

There are a variety of plans from ten payment life up to life paid up at 85. Insurance is obtainable in multiples of $500 up to a maximum of $10,000.

The Veterans Insurance Act put time-limits upon the right of the Department to accept applications for this insurance. Extension of these time-limits was discussed at the last session of Parliament, and may come before the House again next year. But as the law stands today, the time-limits remain as follows:

If you were discharged before February 20, 1945, your application for insurance must be approved before February 20, 1951.

If you were discharged after February 20, 1945, your application must be approved within six years of the date of your discharge.

If you are interested in Veterans Insurance, we suggest, therefore, that to be on the safe side you get in touch with the nearest district office of the Department of Veterans Affairs as soon as possible. A trained counsellor is on hand at every office to assist you with your insurance problems. If it is more convenient for you, write directly to the Superintendent of Veterans Insurance, Department of Veterans' Affairs, Ottawa.

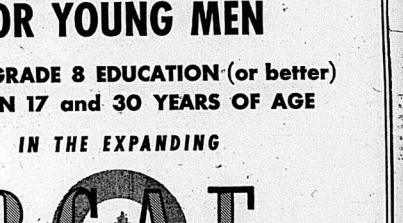
Boston Bruins Option Two To Hershey Bears

Boston, Nov. 6—AP—Boston Bruins, who can point to only one victory in 10 National Hockey League games, today optioned two players and recalled two from their Hershey farm team in the American League.

The exchange was announced a few hours after the Bruins lost their sixth game, a 4-2 defeat last night in Detroit. The Bostonians have played three ties.

Recalled from Hershey were Zeilio Toppazzini, 20-year-old right-winger, and Ross Lowe, 22-year-old defenceman.

Sent down to the farm were Eddie Harrison, a left winger, and Ed Reigle, rookie defenceman who was purchased from Cleveland after the 1949-50 American league season.



Trenton High Wins First Football Title

Trenton, Nov. 6—Trenton High School captured their first Bay of Quinte football championship since the inauguration of the school in 1927 when they defeated St. Michael's of Belleville, 19-1, for their fifth straight win.

Bob Campney and Bill Ormshaw were the sparkplugs of the Trenton attack. Campney scored one touchdown and aided in the scoring of another, while Ormshaw kicked a single and two converts. Doug Beale and Al Smith accounted for the other Trenton majors and Austin Scott booted a single.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

King size bridge is played in El Paso. This Texas city is a studio that is run by Mr. and Mrs. John M. King. They took home a trophy for their win in one of the Rocky Mountain regionals.

Lady Luck wrapped her arms around the Kings when they got the deal shown here:

The bidding went like this:

1 S	2 H	2 S	3 C
Pass	3 H	3 S	4 H
East	South	West	North

South does not have quite enough for an opening bid. Know why? He lacks one high card for a true opening one bid. But he has enough for a defence bid of two. It does not guarantee so many highs.

North knows the pair can count a total of 12 tricks. But if neither has as good as an opening one bid, such 12 tricks will not come in fast enough. But it is worth trying for a bid of four.

For some reason west elected to start with an opening lead of club jack. Dummy covered with the queen. East copped this with the king and decided on the return lead of spade king.

South won with spade ace and laid down ace and king of trumps for two more tricks. His hope was to find a split or two-two in the opponent hands. But it left east with a sure trump trick.

The last south club was led and won with the ace. When each of the opponents followed suit it was easy going for declarer. All he had to do was start leading his dummy clubs.

The best east could now do was ruff fast with his good trump

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 6 (AP) — The movies often picture the show business veteran who tries to retire but can't stand being away from the lights and grease paint.

Here's one gal who doesn't fit into that Hollywood cliche. She's Mary Astor, who had been in the movies as long as most people could remember.

"I started in two-reelers back in 1920," she confessed, "and I was 14 years old then. . . . You can figure out for yourself how old I am now. It's no secret."

Two years ago she quietly retired from the Hollywood scene.

"I was ill," she recalled, "and I asked M.G.M. to let me out of my contract. I had seen enough service and I decided to call it quits."

Her last two pictures were "Any Number Can Play," which she admitted "didn't have much to stand on", and the sugary "Little Women", which she termed was "just my cup of tea."

"When they threw up the rainbow at the end of the picture, I felt like doing the same," she said.

Having regained her health, she now spends her time in her hobby, sculpting, acting the part of a housewife and "getting acquainted with my family." They include her husband, business man Thomas Wheelock, a married daughter and a son, 11. I asked if she missed the movie life.

"I certainly don't miss the onerous part of the business — getting up at six, working until you're ready to drop," she replied. "It's fun to be able to sleep in the morning."

A Little From the Lois

Surprise of the month was seeing Clark Gable at the local opening of the San Francisco Opera. And in talks! Maybe you don't think the king's marriage to Sylvia Fairbanks hasn't changed him.

One of the radio events of the season is tonight's Radio Theatre broadcast. Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh make their U. S. air debut together in "Rebecca."

queen and cash diamond ace, or declarer would get 11 tricks.

Make the most of a bad bargain.

HOUSEBOY CONVICT GONE

Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 6 — (AP) — The Missouri State penitentiary warden is missing 232 part of his clothes—and a convict.

The convict, serving 4s Warden Ralph Edison's houseboy, fled yesterday, taking along the money and clothes.

VICE-REGAL VIEW

Painting typically-Canadian landscapes is one of the chief hobbies of Viscount Alexander, whose term as Governor-General has been extended for a year. He is shown working on a view of the Parliament Buildings, as viewed from the Quebec side of the Ottawa River. — (CP Photo.)

AT THE McCARTHY — Trapped! Under the gun of a brutal killer, played by Charles McGraw, are Virginia Grey and Michael O'Shea, as seen in RKO Radio's 68 minute thriller, "The Threat," at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre today and Tuesday, in which the three are co-starred. The picture, from a story by Hugh King, adapted with the aid of Dick Irving Hyland, tells of an escaped convict's vengeance. The suspenseful direction is by Felix E. Feist.

Briefs From Britain

(By The Canadian Press)

Woking, Surrey, Eng. (CP) — Latest idea to combat Britain's acute housing shortage is the conversion of wartime transport gliders or planes into temporary homes.

London (CP) — Animal expert H. H. Goodenough climbed to the roof of an apartment block chasing an escaped monkey reported seen there. It turned out to be an odd-shaped chimney cowl.

London (CP) — A prisoner at Old Bailey Court, given the choice of 24 barristers, said he'd take "the gentleman with the red carnation."

Glasgow, Scotland (CP) — English boys leaving school get better jobs than Scottish boys, says David Carson, retiring schoolmaster. "Scottish boys do well on written papers but their marks on oral work," he said. "They are diffident, inarticulate and monosyllabic."

PRESIDENT RE-ELECTED

Hamilton, Nov. 6—CP—Stan Burnes of Hamilton was re-elected president of the Ontario Basketball Association at its annual meeting here during the weekend.

Other officers: Bruce Blackburn of Toronto, first vice-president; J. M. Hart of Windsor, second vice-president; and W. M. Leeson of Hamilton, secretary-treasurer.

Included in the several changes in the constitution was the provision to permit a member of the recently-formed Ontario Board of Approved Basketball officials to sit on the association with full voting powers.

The association confirmed its policy of one player-one certificate for secondary school students. However, the association reaffirmed its stand that it was the perogative of the player on whether he chose to play for the school team or an outside team.

AT THE BELLE

"Treasure Island as Live Action Production

Moving from his cartoon magic to realistic melodrama to depict the world's most famous adventure tale, Walt Disney presents his first all-live action feature "Treasure Island."

Splendid in technicolor, performed by a cast of Internationally noted actors and filmed against authentic backgrounds in England, it is presented with special for every member of the family who has the slightest response to rousing adventure.

Familiar to millions as a book Robert Louis Stevenson's "Treasure Island" issues in movie form with fidelity to the author's drama of perilous suspense, excitement, color and furious contest for the recovery of a fabulous pirate hoard.

Surrounded by some of the screen's finest character actors, Bobby Driscoll, Disney's own 13-year old Academy-Award winning star, gives a splendid performance as the courageous cabin boy who finally outwits that wily rogue, Long John Silver, other characters as celebrated as any in fiction, Long John, Billy Bones, Blind Pew, Black Dog, George Merry, Israel Hands, Benn Gunn, The Squire, Doctor Livesey and other shipmates on the Hispaniola.

"Beaver Valley," in Color

Preceding the presentation of "Treasure Island" is another remarkable film "Beaver Valley," Walt Disney's True-Life Adventure, in color by Technicolor.

"Treasure Island" and "Beaver Valley" will continue Today, Tuesday and Wednesday, at the Belle Theatre, matinee daily.

AT THE CAPITOL — Maureen O'Hara, who plays the role of Linda Darnell in "Buffalo Bill," in attraction starring Joel McCrea and opening tonight at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program is "Susannah of the Mounties," starring Shirley Temple and Randolph Scott.

AT THE CAPITOL — Randolph Scott, who appears with Shirley Temple and Margaret Lockwood in "Susannah of the Mounties," opening tonight at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program "Buffalo Bill," in Technicolor, starring Joel McCrea, Maureen O'Hara and Linda Darnell.

MAY SOON BE 10 CENTS

Toronto, Nov. 6 (CP) — J. William Horsey, president of Orange Crush, Ltd., predicted Sunday that soft drinks will soon be 10 cents a bottle. He said the increase is necessary to compensate bottlers for hardships resulting from the federal government's recently-imposed 30 percent tax. Present price is six or seven cents.

Bottlers have become tax collectors, Mr. Horsey said. This increased their costs without increasing their revenues. At the same time sales had dropped because of the increase to "broken-nickel prices."

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK — By R. J. SCOTT

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma started to shake her head to herself, saying to pop, Really, William, I mean really, I may not be any Mrs. Mike Angelo where art is concerned, but I know what I like.

That's usually another way of saying you know what you don't, pop said, and ma said, Then that's what I'll say, and I'll go rite on and say that I dont like this impressionistic modern school of painting where a so-called portrait of a woman looks more like a handfull of stewed prunes that somehow had found their way into a dish of spaghetti.

Come to think of it, I wouldn't even care for a dish of spagetti that looked like a woman with prunes in her hair, pop said. Where did you see the mongstrosity? he said, and ma said,

Believe it or not, it was proudly shown to me by Blanch Hipple's dawter Stella as a masterpeece of her own work. If I had come across a thing like that in an art gallery, I'd of beret into scornfull laffter, but naturelly being a guest of Blanch Hipple's I just sat there with a stone or less strate face and refrained from committing myself, Sutch goings on in the name of art. It would be revolting if it wasn't so ridiculus, ma said.

Aren't you talking the whole thing a little too personley? pop said, and ma said, Now ells could I take it when Stella actually had the effrontery to inform me that it was a portrait of me that she dashed off while I was talking to her mother. The gerl is engaged to be married, but if her impressions of cooking are like her impressions of art, she'll present her husband with a cake that looks like a tangle of wet rags, and her marriage will be on the rocks instead of on a bed of roses. And there's nuthing funny about the whole incident, William, so stop laffing, ma said.

Which pop didn't.

Premier Frost Says Forests Will Be Protected

Toronto, Nov. 6. (CP)—Ontario aims at a "broad partnership" among its citizens, science, industry and government to achieve its forest-protection objectives, Premier Frost said Saturday.

In a speech prepared for delivery at the annual meeting of the Young Progressive Conservative Association, he said the government's forest policy "is simple.

"We intend to give adequate protection to the great forests which we now have, to see that they are protected and maintained, that the yield from them is sustained, that the growth is treated as a crop."

The government had set out to replace what was lost by 100 years of use with all the mistakes, misunderstandings and mismanagement of that time."

He said the forest industry makes an "enormous contribution.

"Pulp and paper industry alone represents an investment in permanent communities of between $300,000,000 and $400,000,000 . . . even now, capital expenditures involving more than $100,000,000 and providing new employment to 25,000 people are under way."

The industry was providing 44 cents of every American dollar coming into Canada. To protect and expand this investment the provincial government was spending millions. Expenditures on forests and wild-life protection, under the $3,000,000 mark six years ago, were four times as much.

Forest protection already under way, said Mr. Frost, included limiting new saw mills to 15,000,000 feet a year; steps to eliminate unprocessed pulp from Crown lands within ten years; the "largest fire-fighting service in the world"; research laboratories for insect control and a public-education program to make citizens forestry-minded.

SEIZE REDS' FLAG

Rome, Nov. 4 (Reuters)—Police squads armed with batons broke up an open-air meeting of Italian war veterans here today when 100 "peace partisans" invaded the scene shouting anti-war slogans.

Police arrested 10 men and seized the flag of the communist-sponsored "Peace Partisan" movement, which had been hoisted on a balcony overlooking the square where the veterans were meeting.

King George Suffers Slight Rheumatism Carries on Duties

London, Nov. 6 —(Reuters)— The King today was suffering from a slight case of rheumatism but was carrying out normal duties at Buckingham Palace, it was learned.

The last public engagement which the King fulfilled was Friday when he inspected the 1st Battalion of the King's Royal Rifle Corps.

It was noticed that despite the cold day the King wore no greatcoat over his Field Marshal's uniform.

ALBURY

Alburfy — Several attended the Redeemerville W. I. meeting at the home of Mrs. Ralph Redner on Wednesday evening with forty in attendance. After the business meeting, of which the president, Mrs. Green, took charge, Mrs. J. VanClief took charge of the program. Refreshments were served.

Many attended the funeral of Mrs. Morley Dempsey held in Albury Church on Thursday afternoon. Deepest sympathy is extended to the family.

Mrs. S. C. Peck is spending a short time in Fort Erie with her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Peck.

Mr. and Mrs. Warner Brown spent Tuesday in Toronto.

A few attended the Institute cooking class held at Mrs. Kenneth Green's on Thursday afternoon and Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. Beuford Peck spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Williamson.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Weese spent Sunday with her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Clyesdale, Oshawa.

A good number attended Rednerville anniversary service on Sunday evening last with Rev. Mr. McCallum as guest minister.

VALUES SLEEP FOR BABIES

London, Nov. 5—(Reuters) — Princess Elizabeth counts her two babies' sleep more important than security precautions taken around Clarence House, her London home. She asked that police dogs patrolling at night be called off. They disturbed her pet Corgi dogs and fox terrier, and their barking in turn roused Prince Charles and Princess Anne.

Traffic Mishaps Take Heavy Toll During Weekend

By The Canadian Press

Screaming rubber and shrieking brakes were accompanying sounds for 18 of the 24 violent deaths during the weekend in Eastern Canada. For 18 persons died as a result of traffic accidents.

Of the six other fatalities two were caused by falls, two by accidents with weapons, one from burns in an explosion and one a drowning.

Although four persons were drowned Sunday in Quebec—which had 11 weekend deaths, highest in Eastern Canada—three meet death in the Richelieu River because their automobile crashed through a bridge railing near Cantic, Que. Dead are Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Daniels and their daughter, Marguerite, 17, all of Plattsburgh, N.Y.

Laurent Tremblay, 22 months, was drowned when he fell into a stream at St. Roch de L'Achigan, Quebec.

Ontario's toll was seven dead. Newfoundland three, Nova Scotia two and New Brunswick, one. Slush-covered highways were blamed for many of the traffic deaths.

In Quebec Charles-Eugene Pageau, 16, was killed and 30 other persons slightly injured when a heavily-laden bus collided with a truck on a snow-covered hill in the Laurentians north of Quebec City.

James Martin, 57, of Beachville, Ont., died after the car in which he was riding to a wedding collided with another at a narrow, slippery bridge on the Dundas highway near Oakville.

Other Ontario traffic fatalities were Antonio Carl Parisi, 27, of Hamilton, killed in a two-car crash near Grimsby; Mark Jun, 73, struck by a streetcar, and Lise Joannette, 5, of Welland, who suffered injuries in a downtown two-car collision to become Toronto's 44th and 45th traffic fatalities.

Three Killed by Car

Michael Targett, Peter Targett and Henry White, all of Corner Brook, Nfld., were killed Saturday night when they were struck by a car while walking on a highway. Automobiles leaving the road caused the death near Middleton, N.S., of Charles Frederick Connell, 33, of Albany Cross, N.S., and in Ontario of Albert Matthew Jones, 38, of Brantford; Roger Robitaille, 22, of Montreal, was injured fatally when his truck went out of control near Ste. Rose; Ronald Morrissette, 34, postmaster at St. Joachim de Shefford, Quebec, was killed when his car sideswiped a truck; Andrew Allan Quinn, 69, and Mrs. Conrad Daviault, 52, died in Montreal hospitals, dying from injuries suffered when hit by a bus, Mrs. Daviault from injuries suffered in a collision; in Chicoutimi, Quebec, Yvon Tremblay, 8, was crushed against a house by a truck.

Douglas Richards, 7, was killed in Halifax as a rifle was discharged as he was squinting down the barrel. An accidentally-discharged shotgun brought death to Gerald Osborne Ammon, 46, of Scarboro Bluffs, Ont., as he hunted ducks north of Campbellford, Ont.

In Saint John, N.B., Raymond P. Grant, 71, died when he plunged from a railway trestle as a train approached; a fall at work brought fatal head injuries to Abraham Richam, 78, of Montreal.

Mrs. Leonard Christie, 70, of Cargill, Ont., died from burns suffered when an overheated can of varnish exploded in her hands.

ASKS RESIGNATION

Tokyo, Nov. 6—(AP)— Kyodo News Agency said today that the Japanese telecommunications ministry has asked the resignations of 167 "communist and fellow travellers" it is employing. The action was in line with the government's red purge program.

SAY HUSBAND KILLS WIFE

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 6—(AP) —Police reported that Harvey Green warned a grocer not to sell his wife anything else on credit except milk and baby food and, still not satisfied, backed her to death yesterday in an argument over her spending.

BAGPIPE HEIR

John Sutherland plans to buy a new set of pipes and leave Vancouver for Scotland. The 61-year-old piper, scissors grinder and squatter has fallen heir to a small estate left by his brother in Scotland. With Ireff will go his 10-year-old son, Bill. Sutherland has been in the news before as a result of complaints by Vancouver residents that his piping disturbed the peace. — (CP Photo.)

MARMORA

Marmora.—Rev. W. C. Stevenson, newly appointed pastor of the Pentecostal Church here, has arrived from Arnprior to take up residence here with his mother.

A miscellaneous shower was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Morley, (nee Audrey Phillips), in the Town Hall on Friday evening, the newlyweds receiving many useful gifts.

Dancing was enjoyed and refreshments were served at the midnight hour.

St. Paul's Ladies' Guild

St. Paul's Ladies' Guild met at the home of Mrs. Frank Leal on Thursday evening for the regular monthly meeting. Mrs. Donald Robertson presided over a fair attendance. Rural Dean J. M. Brownlee opened the meeting with prayer.

Cards of appreciation from two members were read by Mrs. W. D. Lavender.

In the absence of Mrs. Donald McInroy, the financial statement was presented by Mrs. George Kerr. Net proceeds of the recent chicken supper and bazaar were the parish to be well over $200.

The rector briefly addressed the Guild on the projects before the parish—the Every Member canvass and Church Extension. Mrs. Percy Ramer and Mrs. William Regan were appointed nominating committee to bring a slate of officers for the December meeting to be held in the home of Mrs. Regan at the end of the month.

After the meeting was closed refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

Why is 'blue coal' blue?

DON'T BUY BLIND!
THE FAMOUS
'blue coal' BLUE TINT
IS A TRADE—MARK FOR YOUR PROTECTION!

Expertly prepared for heating comfort
'blue coal' gets its blue color from a harmless blue dye sprayed on at our mines. It identifies the "cream" of Pennsylvania hard coal. The result: 'blue coal' is trafle-marked just as breakfast cereals, coffee, tooth paste and other quality products are trade-marked for your protection in buying.
What's more, every carload of 'blue coal' is rigidly inspected and laboratory tested for purity before it starts its trip to our storage yards. It arrives here carefully cleaned and uniformly sized so that it will burn to give you steady, carefree comfort with economy. You don't buy "blind" when you order 'blue coal'. Order 'blue coal' and feel the difference in heat.
FAST, CLEAN SERVICE
Our delivery men make the cleanest, quickest deliveries in town. You'll like the cheerful, courteous attention of our 'blue coal' service.

Special Trubine Reduces Charge Against Doctor

Rangoon, Burma, Nov. 6 (AP) —A special tribunal today reduced a treason charge against Dr. Gordon S. Seagrave, American surgeon, making him subject only to banishment for life or a lesser sentence if he is found guilty.

One treason charge previously laid against the 53-year-old surgeon—accused of aiding rebel Karen tribesmen—carried the death penalty on conviction.

The tribunal, after a three week hearing, framed two new charges of abetting the commission of treason by giving comfort (showing sympathy) to the rebels. The maximum penalty is transportation for life, the minimum 10 years imprisonment.

Called to the stand today to hear the charges read aloud, the surgeon, a man of 55 who has healed Burmese sick and trained doctors, pleaded innocent to each count.

House Supplied For Mother, Quads In Australia

Melbourne, Australia, Nov. 6 (Reuters) — The problem of housing problem for 28 year-old Mrs. Joan Caple, mother of four quads born here Saturday.

J. G. B. McDonald, Victoria State premier, announced today that the state government will provide a house—and possibly a housekeeper—for the quads.

Mrs. Caple, her husband and their first child, a two-year-old girl, have been living in a converted garage next to the home of her parents-in-law.

The Quads— two five-pound boys and two three-pound girls— were all born within 10 minutes. All were doing well in hospital.

France's Foothold In Indo-China Still Shrinking

Saigon, Nov. 6 (AP) —France's foothold in north Indo China continued to shrink today as the French announced abandonment of the defence system in the Mekong region and the capital city of Hanoi, the northern capital.

Pressed in a giant vise formed by Ho Chi Minh's troops on three sides, the red Vietminh forces, the diminishing French forces and the city of Hanoi gradually is being confined to the dangely-populated Red River Delta. Within it are 8,000,000 of North Vietnam's 10,000,000 people.

French army headquarters said its forces have withdrawn from Hunghoa, a river port 56 miles northwest of Hanoi, and from an entire series of smaller fortified positions between that and points south of Hunghoa.

Yesterday the French announced retreats from three small posts northeast of Hanoi, between Chu Cho and the frontier fortress of Inh Lap, and the start of withdrawal from Hoa Binh, 36 miles southwest of Hanoi. Garrisons from small posts in that region had already fallen back on Hoa Binh.

The 1,200 man French garrison from abandoned Laokay was reported on the march again after a rest at Chapa, 12 miles southwest of the former northwest frontier fortress.

The spokesman said the column there at the former northwest frontier fortress.

The spokesman said the column west of the former northwest frontier fortress.

The French still are maintaining some outposts in this far northwest region. These may be withdrawn after the Laokay garrison reaches safety.

The withdrawal, the withdrawals, the French have announced, are being made to build up mobile reserves in the Delta area. These would be used to meet any thrust by Ho Chi Minh's Vietminh, 50 miles southeast of the capital in the Red-Nam-Dinh-Phu Ly region, and north of the Dinh-Lap-Moncay frontier line.

$10.000 FIRE LOSS

Toronto, Nov. 6—(CP) — Explosions rocked suburban North York and oil cans were hurled high in the air Sunday when a $10,000 fire gutted a chemical plant. The flames, fed on varnish, linfoil and other highly inflammable material, destroyed one bales of paper and 200 paint cans and oil drums. No one was injured.

I Hear Adventure Calling

By Emilie Loring

"Who'll bear watching, Morris?" Myles Jaffray, who had taken the terrace steps two at a time, waited for an ominous minute to die away before he added, "This storm will. It promises to be a corker." He was trim in light grey slacks and a matching sports coat. His powder-blue shirt with turned back collar made his eyes and hair seem darker. He perched on the terrace wall and lighted a cigarette.

"Where did you come from, Fran? No tea, Nat. I'm waiting for an answer to my first question, my second was by way of greeting."

"I'll answer the first, Myles. We were talking about the waiter who assisted at the preview tea, yesterday." He rejected the story the man had told Fran and the quite different scrap of personal history he had given him. Sounds like the hallucinations of a psycho to me."

"Our visiting fireman also is interested in crustaceans, he confided when he appeared on the Sargent beach this morning." Fran contributed. "His brown coat was as like the odd rocks that I didn't see him until he spoke."

"Brown The color of the rocks? Sure about that?" Myle inquired.

"Very sure, Myles. He is a boy, I understand they are still operating all over the world. Perhaps Barth is his cover-name. Don't members of the Strategic Service use a cover-name? I believe he is in the village for a purpose."

"What purpose?" three voices chorused.

"Your guess is as good as mine." Should she tell them she suspected he might be a finger man sent to collect data about the Gallery treasures? No, better keep that figment of imagination to herself for the present.

"I rather liked the man when I asked him to take a tray to your office yesterday, Fran. He didn't seem crazy to me, he appeared to know the building job from A to Z."

"Did he seem curious about anyone or about anything, Myles?"

"No-o-o, Nat—hold on a minute, he did say he thought that the paintings on exhibition were exceptionally good. Which comment from a man in his line of work surprised me; he added that he had served as a guard in a National Gallery in Brussels."

"Still another job. I bet next he'll claim to have been secretary to one of the big shots in Washington. I have a hunch that our mysterious stranger—"

"Hah, hah, the gang's all here," Blake Sinclair interrupted as he stepped from the doorway to the terrace. His smooth blond hair shone like gold, his white costume was the latest word in sports clothes. He bent over Matilde Andrew's welcoming hand with his top-drawer air of devotion.

"You told me I might drop in for tea, didn't you, Mrs Andrew? I couldn't resist the pull of this lovely home—and you."

The lowered lashes of the last two words emphasized the hint of I've been living for this moment in his voice. Fran recognized the act. It was one of his specialties, done with a touch of gaiety which kept it from being saccharine. Was Natalie impressed? She was smiling, taking the tribute as it was intended.

"The leading man in the play this afternoon said something like that, but not nearly so well. Were you at The Theatre, Mr. Sinclair?"

"No. Matilde Sargent deserted Gene, who was on duty at the Gallery, to go to the matinee, so I stayed to help, and believe me, we had a hectic afternoon. The place was crowded."

"How will you have your tea, Mr. Sinclair?"

"As it comes. Thank you." He helped himself to a sandwich and with plate and cup balanced on the arm of a large chair beside Fran.

"What made this day particularly hectic, Blake?" she asked.

"Forehand appeared. He insisted upon changing one of his paintings for one he had brought from his Inn room. Gene protested. She knew that her father had had them hung as he wanted them. His artist was determined to have his way and got it. Didn't have another frame so changed the canvas in the repair shop. I hear that Miss Tessie Trent has taken him up. The attention has gone to his head. That's the way with these people who learn just enough—"

"Just enough!" Morrison Grove echoed. "That guy knows more than enough. He spent several years abroad studying the old masters. I understand he is one of the experts in the country on the authenticity of paintings."

"What!" Sinclair steadied his cup which his sudden movement had tilted, and waited for a thunderous rumble to die away. He laughed. "I was about to say, 'What is your authority for that' when that awful crash startled me. Boy, I'm glad to know that about Eckhardt. I can use him sometime." He looked at Fran. "I see that you have returned from parts unknown, sweetheart. Quick trip, wasn't it?"

"Quick. It was sensational. I took off in a rocket ship for a junket to the moon and back. It's being done, you know." His eyes narrowed in annoyance. He liked the conversational light touch for himself but objected to it in others. She recognized the symptoms of rising anger.

"That's the gag, all right. Okay, if you want to be mysterious, I can take it. The word 'mystery' reminds me, as I came in Grove was prophesying in'a spine-chilling whisper, 'I have a hunch that mysterious stranger—', Sounds exciting. Who's our mysterious stranger, Senator?"

"Your mistake, Sinclair. I'm a candidate for re-election to the House, not the Senate. I appreciate your tact, though. Who is your mysterious stranger?' I've completely forgotten about whom we were talking when you made your theatrical entrance. Thanks for the tea, Nat. I'll get going before the storm comes. I planned to call on a few of my constituents. Likely to find the man of the house at home this time of day. That crash sounded as might an atomic bomb with variations." At the door he stopped.

"That super-duper idea we ran into on the moon, Fran. We'll have a heart-to-heart about him later, strictly entre nous, remember. That's my exit line."

The silence which followed his departure was broken first by the distant sound of a car starting, then by Blake Sinclair.

"What the devil did he mean by meeting a chap on the moon, Fran? Have you spent the day with him?"

"I take off my hat to your courage—or is it nerve, Sinclair?" Myles Jaffray declared before she could answer. "In a way I'm Fran's guardian, but I wouldn't dare ask her to account for her day."

"You may be her guardian —in a way—Jaffray. I understand that Ken Phillips turned over the large Harding estate to you to handle—a sure gravy—but Fran and I have been practically engaged since

IT'S A RECORD

"I just didn't see the LIGHT"

"I'm a radio actor and I'm supposed to watch the red light in the studio to cue me onto the air.- One day I was so busy yawning I didn't see the light for nearly half a minute. That could have been the end of that job, but I learned in time why I was so droopy, slow, tired, and sluggish. Bad digestion and constipation were slowing me down.

"That's when the programme director put me on to Kruschen Salts. Told me what a pinch of Kruschen in a morning cup of tea, and fruit juice can do for a guy. He wasn't kidding. It made a new man of me in no time flat. I'm billed for the lead in the next programme."

Why don't you try Kruschen if you are off-colour and feeling dragged out? See how Kruschen can put new life in you, tone up the old tissues and put a sparkle in your eye. Start with Kruschen today.

dancing school days, naturally I am concerned as to the way and with whom she junkets to the moon or anywhere else."

"I wonder what privileges being officially engaged' covers?" Myle's ruminative voice turned Sinclair white with anger. He rose, set plate and cup on the table with a small crash and squared his shoulders.

"Where do you get that 'practically,' Blake?" Fran's question interrupted his furious protested. "We never have been engaged. My apologies, Mrs. Andrew, for airing a perennial quarrel here. Is my face red. Thanks for the transportation and tea. I loved both. I'm off to the Gallery before the storm clenches me." A blinding flash of lightning was followed by a detonation that rattled the tea equipment.

"My car is in the drive. I'll agree to get you home before the rain comes, Fran," Sinclair proposed eagerly.

"I'm taking her home and —" Blake Sinclair cleared his hoarse voice. "I bow to the high hand of the law," he admitted sullenly. "Who am I to interfere between guardian and ward? Something tells me that Aunt Becky was a piker as a dictator in comparison with the one Ken wished on you, sweetheart. Thanks for the tea, Mrs. Andrews."

He gave Fran a roll of thunder. Then a car door was slammed, a clutch violently let in.

"Myles," Natalie's voice and eyes were troubled, "was it necessary to make him angry? Blake Sinclair is better as a friend than an enemy."

"I'll take a chance at his enmity. I could break his neck for him, Aunt Becky's 'gray.' Come on, Fran, let's get the papers."

"I'm not coming anywhere, Major Jaffray. I'm going home, I'm going alone, and I'm going now. My apologies for this outrageous burst of temperament, Mrs. Andrew. A resounding crash of thunder-A resounding crash of thunder-A rumble froze the words in her throat.

"Don't be absurd, Fran. You can't go into this storm in that white frock and those white sandals. Myles, stop her." He shook his head.

"I am amazed at you, Nat, urging a guest to stay when she wants to go." Fran heard him say as she dashed into the house. In the living room she hesitated. She was not to buck this storm. She would go back — Myles Jaffray's voice stopped her.

"You don't realize that she wants to go with Sinclair? He's probably waiting for her. That explains it. She would go on and take what was coming. Was this the terrible danger ahead that Mrs. Betsy had seen in her tea-cup?

Thank goodness Blake Sinclair's car was out of sight, he drove like a madman when angry, he probably was at the Inn by this time. No chance of being forced by the storm to ride with him. Fran relaxed, as keeping close to bordering shrubs whose leaves rustled in the rising wind she ran along the drive on Shore Acres to the highway. No chance either that Myles Jaffray would follow her. His closing remarks she had overheard had period at the end of it, a large and definite period. That was the way it was and that was the way she wanted it, wasn't it?

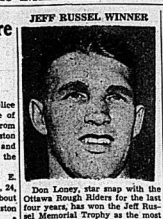
Police Recapture One Escapee At Sydenham

Kingston, Nov. 6 (CP)—Police Sunday night recaptured one of two convicts who escaped from the prison farm at Kingston penitentiary Saturday night and were still searching for the other.



Provincial Constable E. E. Jacobs arrested Jean Bernard, 24, in the village of Sydenham, about 15 miles northwest of Kingston and four miles from where a general's stolen car was found abandoned. Bernard, a Sudbury, native serving 30 months for theft, put up no resistance.

Police are still looking for Allan Francis, 23, of Toronto, also reported missing when a farm gang lined up to return to the prison Saturday night. He was serving four years for car theft.

Prison authorities said the men may have escaped in an automobile driven by Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, commandant of the National Defence College. The car was stolen from the general's home, three blocks from the penitentiary.

Car was recovered near Loughboro Lake, 12 miles northwest, and a police cordon was thrown around this brush country. Both men were believed still wearing prison clothes.

PROBLEMS OF PACIFIC

Wellington, N.Z., Nov. 6—(CP)—Delegates from Commonwealth legislatures now are arriving in New Zealand for the conference of the Commonwealth parliamentary association opening here Nov. 24. Senator Arthur W. Roebuck of Toronto, chairman of the Association's council, disclosed on his arrival that the Commonwealth and American delegations will discuss mutual problems. The Canadian added: "One may suppose we will discuss problems of the pacific."

Pheasant Shoot Made Possible By Silas Toole

Pickering, Nov. 6 (CP)—Good hunting was largely taken for granted this weekend by the 600 sportsmen, who ranged Pickering township's game haunts during the district's annual two-day pheasant shoot.

But it shouldn't have been. Some of the birds could appropriately have carried a tag: "by courtesy of Silas Toole."

Silas Toole, 71, has devoted the last 20 years to an 11-acre pheasant sanctuary on his Locust Hill farm. To make a pleasing pheasant haunt he hauled swamp grass, bracken and swale to furnish the sanctuary. He has spent thousands of hours and dollars.

Government-raised birds now supplement hundreds provided by Mr. Toole. But he still patrols the Pickering pheasant grounds during the shoot although a full-time forests department office is now in charge of licensing and patrolling.

Three Men Killed, Fifteen Injured Near London, Eng.

RECORD TERM

Garnet Coulter, 69-year-old lawyer, has been re-elected to his fifth term as mayor of Winnipeg. He has been mayor longer than anyone else in Winnipeg's 78 years as a city. The previous record — eight years — was set by the late Ralph Webb. — (CP Photo.)

Harwich, Essex, England, Nov. 7 (AP) —A violent blast at an explosives plant near here killed at least three men and injured 15 today. Another worker is missing.

The explosion occurred in the mixing room at a factory owned by the Explosives and Chemical Products, Limited.

The factory is on Bramble Island, at the mouth of the River Naze on the North Sea coast, five miles south of Harwich and 75 miles northeast of London.

This blast broke windows in Clacton, 10 miles away. Villagers of Great Oakley, a mile and a half from the factory said it went off like a "great bomb."

First reports said the dead workers were girls. An official statement from the plant, however, said this was not the case.

There were 200 workers in the plant when the explosion occurred. Officials said the factory was producing industrial explosives.

Most of the injured were cut and bruised by flying glass and debris. Doctors said all but two or three would be released from the hospital after first aid.

Snatched Out Of Truck's Path Just in Time

Toronto, Nov. 7 (CP)—A 23-month-old youngster, playing on the sidewalk in front of her home, was snatched to safety seconds before a two-ton truck careened through an intersection, smashed a concrete power pole, and overturned on the spot where the youngster had been.

The child's grandfather, Isaac Winkler, 76, saw the truck and grabbed her.

The truck driver, Ronald Pepin 20, was uninjured.

Drew Pays Visit To England

London, Nov. 7 (CP)—Defence Minister Emanuel Shinwell of Britain and George Drew, leader of Canada's Progressive Conservative party, arrived from Canada today on the same plane.

Frederic Hudd, acting Canadian High Commissioner in London, was at the airport to meet Drew. Expected to remain in London until Sunday, Drew will be guest of honor tomorrow at a Canada Club dinner.

Shinwell, who went to Ottawa after attending Atlantic pact discussions in Washington, told reporters he had hoped more progress would have been made at those talks "but there is a very good reason to believe that we shall make further progress in the next few weeks."

He said another conference of defence ministers may be held in London shortly.

On his visit to Canada, he said: "I had a very dull three days, in fact they gave me almost too much to do, but it was all worth while and the visit was of great value."

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Nov. 7—(CP)— Synopsis: Milder weather appears in store for southern Ontario today as a cool spell which previously threatened passed to the north.

The warming trend will affect most of the province Wednesday with afternoon temperatures expected to reach near 60 in southern Ontario. Elsewhere Tuesday's high will range from the low 50s in Georgian Bay area to near 40 in northern Kirkland Lake region.

Snow and rain occurring to the north is expected to end this evening.

Alien Students Will be Checked

Washington, Nov. 7 (AP)—The United States immigration service is preparing to check up on alien students here on temporary permits to study in American schools.

The check is required under the new Internal Security Act, which excluded from the United States foreigners who are or have been affiliated with totalitarian parties. The screening process is already underway at ports of entry.

In the foreign student group, numbering more than 25,000, are a good percentage of persons from countries under totalitarian rule.

$60 POUND ELK

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Nov. 7— (CP) — Sharpshooter Walter E. Lorrimore, of Mansfield, O., took an elk in an 800 pound elk which he bagged near Mile 60 on the Algoma Central Railway.

Holder of one of 80 special licences for shooting elk in this area, Lorrimore expected attempts to get two others in a herd but they were too far away.

Russians Make it Tough For RCAF Planes Flying the Korean Airlift

Dave McIntosh flew to Tokyo on the RCAF airlift from McChord Field, Wash. This story was brought back by reporters flight while he went on to cover the arrival of the Canadian advance force in Korea.)

By DAVE McINTOSH
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Tokyo, Nov. 7 (CP) Making the long 11-hour airlift journey from Shemya in the Aleutians to Tokyo is tough for RCAF crews, but the Russians make it worse.

Almost every day, Canadians get a look behind the iron curtain, from a long way away. The airlift route passes within some 50 miles of the Kurile Islands, the chain of big stepping stones stretching northeast from the northern tip of Japan to the U.S.S.R. Kamchatka Peninsula. The Russians occupy the northern half of the island string.

The Russians jam Loran and radio continuously and navigators must depend on the sextant and the one weather ship that sits in the PCAF landing to 2,085-mile route from Shemya to Haneda airport, Tokyo.

We were aboard North Star No. 7, one of the Thunderbird Squadron planes in the Korean airlift, when it took off from Elmendorf Field in Alaska. From there the route was over Cook Inlet, Kenai, Bruin Bay, Kodiak, Cold Bay and Naknek and out over the Bering Sea into the worst weather cauldron in the world.

More than 1,500 miles later, the skipper, F/O Doc Payne, DFC, of Toronto, was "talked down" by ground control approach at Shemya.

Shemya is a two-by-four-mile island of desolation almost at the westernmost point of the Aleutian Archipelago. One of its next-door neighbors is Attu, where the Americans had to dig out the Japs during the war. There are some 200 other islands in the chain, where they serve a year.

Many Bering Sea and Japanese currents clash off the Aleutians and the result of this meeting is vast, sleet and terrific winds.

In ground control approach, the pilot merely carries out orders the traffic controller on the ground, who can see the plane in his radar screen. The traffic control

ADVANCE PARTY SPECIAL BRIGADE LANDS AT PUSAN

Will Stake Out Training Area

By DAVE McINTOSH
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Pusan, Korea, Nov. 7—(CP)— Greeted by a few natives waving homemade Canadian flags and bands playing swing tunes, the vanguard of Canada's special brigade landed in Korea early today.

The American transport James O'Hara brought the contingent—about 350 strong — to this south Korean supply port at 8 a.m. local time from Yokohoma after a two-day trip.

The advance party led by Maj. R. M. Bourgeois and including specialists such as cooks, clerks, drivers and tradesmen, drove in convoy through dirty streets to billets in three old, disheveled school buildings.

They will wait here until they receive word that other members of the special brigade are on their way from Fort Lewis, Wash. Then they will stake out a training area, probably during next month. The job of the advance party is to get things in shape for arrival of an infantry battalion and supporting troops.

The weather was clear and bright as the transport moved into its berth here, with Canadians lining the rails. On hand to meet them was LL-Col. Frank White, one of the two Canadian military observers in Korea, and three officers who flew here ahead to prepare camp. They were LL-Col. L. R. Crist of Ottawa, Capt. C. M. Whitcar of Halifax and Capt. J M. Bowie of Brandon, Man

Presented with Flowers

A delegation from the city was on the dock and when the women presented a bouquet of flowers to Maj. Bourgeois. The Canadians filed down the gangplank and into waiting trucks and jeeps which took them to their billets past groups of quietly staring Koreans.

Flags waving and the local natives looked reasonably like the Canadian ensign.

The seven United Nations shoulder patches worn by the Canadians—members of a brigade recruited specifically for UN duty—were of interest to a photographer who took a close-up of them.

American and South Korean military bands at the dockside—like the one that greeted the Canucks in Yokohama—didn't know any Canadian tunes; so they played such music as the Hawaiian Warchant and Stardust Melody.

Ontario Govt. Wants 17,400 Skilled Workers Brought to Canada to Fill Industrial Needs

Toronto, Nov. 7 — (CP)—Premier Frost said today that the Ontario government has asked federal authorities to bring 17,400 skilled workers to this country to take jobs for which they are needed in Ontario.

He said the provincial government has requests from specific industries for 15,400 skilled workers in addition to the 2,000 more that the Ontario Hydro Commission will need within the next 18 months.

The premier was addressing the Ontario Progressive Conservative Association.

Ontario House in London, England, has had numerous applications from persons seeking to come to Canada, Mr. Frost said.

"We are immediately bringing from Ontario House our director of immigration to meet with the federal authorities as soon as they call a conference. We offer our fullest co-operation in meeting the demand, which is very urgent."

"Although our population is about one-third that of Canada, we account for 40 per cent of Canada's gross national production. Actually, the production of Ontario is equal to that of all Canada 11 years ago."

Industrial expansion had brought about a high standard of living, the province now was suffering from growing pains and in the last few years had been plagued with inflation and rising prices beyond the control of the government.

More than $400,000,000 had been invested in expansion of the hydro system.

"In this year alone, we have brought into production over an additional 600,000 horsepower, with the result that I can say with confidence that 1950-51 be the first normal year in many years in connection with the use of power . . ."

Airliner With 21 Aboard Missing in Montana Region

Helena, Mont., Nov. 7 (AP)—State Aeronautics Director Frank Wiley said today a Northwest Airlines plane, with 17 passengers and a crew of four aboard, is missing on a flight over the mountainous divide between here and Butte.

The plane left this Civil Aeronautics Administration radio control area at 7:53 a.m. MST, officials of the C.A.A. tower said.

At 9:11 a.m., the C.A.A. said, the pilot of the North 202 radioed that he was over Whitehall about 30 miles southeast of here. He was at 10,500 feet, starting his descent.

He was about 10 minutes out of Butte, 66 miles southwest of here.

The weather bureau said there were snow showers and light rain on Pipestone Pass, where the mountains are about 6,400 feet high, between Whitehall and Butte.

The C.A.A. said all stations on its northwest circuit tried unsuccessfully to raise the plane for one hour and 40 minutes.

The plane was Northwest's Flight 115, Chicago to Seattle.

Recreation Grant Increase Urged By Dr. Kilpatrick

Kingston, Nov. 7—CP—Dr. J.B. Kirkpatrick, director of the School of Physical Education at McGill University, last night called for increased federal support of Canada's recreation program.

Dr. Kirkpatrick, former head of the recreation movement in Saskatchewan, spoke to the municipal recreation directors of Ontario who are attending a course at Queen's University sponsored by the Ontario Education Department and the Extension Department of the university.

Dr. Kirkpatrick said the present federal grant for recreation is $225,000, which, when divided among 14,000,000 people, is not much per capita. He said the smallness of this grant was the reason why he resigned from the National Physical Fitness Council.

In calling for more federal support for recreation, he said more community support was also needed. In bad times there was a danger of funds being cut off if the movement does not have strong community support. Ontario has a good system of supporting smaller communities in recreation, he added.

Provincial Police Officer Dies At Mount Forest

Mount Forest, Nov. 7—(CP)— David Hamilton, 53, for the past year in charge of No. Six District Headquarters of the Ontario Provincial Police here, died suddenly at his home here today.

He had been in good health up to last weekend when he complained of feeling ill.

Prior to coming here he had been stationed at detachments at Barrie, Cochrane, Fort William and Fort Frances.

His early boyhood years were spent in Port Arthur and during the First World War, went overseas with a regiment from the lakehead.

Besides his widow, he is survived by a son, Ian, of Mount Forest, and a daughter Betty in Toronto.

LED TO SAFETY

Toronto, Nov. 7. (CP) — Six children were led to safety last night when fire swept the home of Mr. and Mrs. Petro Soloduk. Soloduk noticed smoke pouring from the stairway and raced upstairs for Wayne, 4, and Gale, 2. Mrs. Soloduk carried out the baby.

Hunt Centres At Sydenham Near Kingston

Sydenham, Ont., Nov. 7. (CP)— A hunt for Allan Francis, 25, who escaped from Kingston penitentiary, centred last night in a 10-square area 15 miles northwest of Kingston.

Oscar Fillion, storekeeper, told police a man answering Francis' description bought a pair of laces at his store. Francis escaped on Saturday night.

Police and penitentiary guards organized a posse in which residents of the area joined. Two of the searchers think they had Francis in the beam on a flash-light but lost him in dense underbrush.

A hockey game scheduled for last night had to be cancelled. Most of the players and potential spectators were taking part in the hunt.

Pravda Takes Distorted View Of New Canada-U.S. Agreement

Moscow, Nov. 7—Pravda, the communist party organ, said in an editorial on foreign affairs that the recently-signed Canada-United States Economic Pact has destroyed Canada's economic independence.

The newspaper hinted yesterday that a loss of political independence may follow the signing of the agreement under which Canada and the U.S. agreed to pool their resources and skills as a common defence against aggression.

It said that most frank American newspapers favor annexation of Canada by the United States.

It added that the agreement clears the path for the final devouring of Canada by the U.S., that it gives the U.S. unlimited powers of exploitation over Canada's raw-material resources and that Canadian industry will be completely bossed by the United States from now on.

The communist newspaper went on to say that the U.S government already completely dominates Canadian trade with Britain and that Canada is engaged in undermining the pound sterling under U.S. direction.

Pravda said that from the military aspect, long-existing defence consultations between Canada and the U.S. has turned Canada into an American province.

It said the Canadian-American agreement on defence production moves that inside the Atlantic bloc the law of the jungle prevails.

85-Minute Air Battle Witnessed Near Yalu River

Seoul, Nov. 7—AP—United Nations forces expanded their Sinanju bridgehead north of the Chongchon River today as some communists mysteriously withdrew on the northwest Korean warfront.

The commonwealth brigade and two U. S. 24th division regiments moved ahead 2¼ miles after a heavy airbombing in the Pakchon area northwest of the bridgehead at Anju. There was little opposition on this front although red concentrations had applied heavy pressure as late as Monday.

U. S. Mustang fighters routed Speedier Russian-built jets in an 85-minute air battle—longest in the war—over Sinuiju just across the Yalu River from Manchuria. Three of the red jets were reported hit. Spokesmen said no U. S. planes were lost.

In the north central sector, Chinese red resistance eased suddenly in front of U. S. marines driving through frigid mountain passes toward the Changjin reservoir.

The marines lead-off 7th regiment, virtually stalled four days by the stiff red Chinese defence moved almost a mile up a twisting river gorge and seized a towering 4,000 foot ridge. This was the dominating point south of the reservoir, 36 miles northwest of Hungnam.

But communist resistance mounted in one northeast sector. U. S. 7th division combat patrol north of Pungsan reported it was under attack "by a hell of a lot of North Koreans."

The patrol was on the north bank of the Imgi River. Carrier-based marine Corsairs flew in to give air support.

This was the first serious opposition in three days for the division's 17th regimental combat team. It is driving north in zero weather only less than 30 miles from the Manchurian border.

Reported Withdrawing

Farther east, however, Red Korean troops and five tanks were reported withdrawing in the communications night due much to clear away the suspicion that being fought. The International atmosphere but more than anything else personal contact will aid world peace.

"Wars, which seem at the time necessary and inevitable, settle nothing finally, though for the time being they may avert a greater danger," said Dr. Wallace. "This is the tragedy on which we are looking on at a time when honor the memory of those who strove to preserve our liberties. It is a sad commentary on the inaptitude of man to meet his problems in a peaceful way, but it is none the less a fact."

History of TV Reviewed by Rotary Speaker

Don't look now—but if you are the owner of a television set, it may not be long before you will be looking at pictures projected from your T-V on a screen four feet by five feet.

That was the prediction made by Cecil Scott, radio sales executive of the Stewart-Warner-Alemite Corporation here, to the Rotary Club yesterday.

Developments are under way, Scott said to produce a form of projection from a five-inch tube which will throw the pictures on a six-foot screen. Excellent viewing has been produced thus far.

Reviewing the history of television, the speaker said that back in 1929 when television was talked of, it was believed it would be a matter of conversion from ordinary radio sets. In fact manufacturers included conversion gadgets on radio receivers.

Scott said:

The first screen size was a disappointment, after they had proved inadequate and engineers experimented with several sizes until they reached the present 10-inch tube. This is entirely satisfactory.

Television set sales have reached a proportion never dreamed of," Scott said, in the first half of this year over ten million sets have been produced. The public is definitely on T-V.

Manufacturers are now producing receivers that include radio, FM and AM; record-players and television, and television has now reached a peak where complete home entertainment can be had in one compact unit.

Twenty-inch tubes are now being produced and a 30-inch form-tube is contemplated, but at the present time the 10-inch product is the recognized standard.

Noting that T-V was still in its infancy, Mr. Scott predicted that within six months there would be marked improvement in range and selection of programs. Camera technique has been greatly improved, as evidenced in the new sports shows.

Television, Mr. Scott said, is a great impact in the home, theatres restaurants, etc. The overall picture is to make television color tone instead of listen.

While television in color is being developed there is nothing to indicate that black and white pictures will be discontinued, the speaker declared. Black and white will be programmed through a network. He said "black and white is a sound investment."

Not Satisfactory Here

Colored television, which needs many complicated additions can only be received on a 12 1-2 inch tube, and would not be satisfactory in Canada.

Mr. Scott was introduced by Rotarian Stan Hagerman with club appreciation expressed by Rotarian Alex Bateman.

President Ken Griffiths was in the chair and during the course of the meeting presented Rotarian Clare Hayes with a huge floral decoration in honor of his birthday.

Rotarian John Deacon, chairman of the Community Chest Campaign Committee urged Rotarians to get in line with their support of the Chest. "Results, so far, have been encouraging," he said. Canvassing has been started in the business sections of the city but no reports on canvass will be made this year. A lot of people, he pointed out, were satisfied with the one annual appeal system as laid down by the Chest.

Harris Grocery At Deseronto Damaged by Fire

Fire, believed to have started in a storeroom, Monday night caused considerable damage at the Harris Home and Grocery Store at Deseronto. The store and adjoining living quarters is owned by Mr. Jack Harris and is situated on No. 2 Highway where it passes through the town.

The Harris family had gone to attend a show at Napanee when L. E. Tunnicliffe discovered the fire shortly after seven o'clock as he walked past the store. He saw smoke rolling from the building and promptly turned in the alarm.

The fire was fought by the Deseronto volunteer fire department under fire chief Hubert Howard. The blaze was brought under control by the department but insulation in the walls of the structure caused a further good deal of trouble. In addition to fire loss there was considerable smoke and water damage in the store and residence.

Dense smoke prevented any of the household effects or stock of the store to be taken from the building.

Mrs. S. C. H. Shell, a close neighbor of the Harris family, praised the fire department for their work in bringing the blaze under control stating they "did a good job."

Cause of the blaze was not determined and no estimate of the damage was obtained.

Provincial constable G. Harding directed traffic while firemen fought the blaze.

Fine Talent Displayed in Public Speaking Contest by Contestants

Thirteen seniors (Grades 7 and 8) and six juniors (grades 6 and under) took part in the public speaking contest held at Wallbridge on Thursday night. Senior winners were Jack Rushnell, Mapleview school, first, and Margaret Slavin, Centenary school, second. Jack's topic was "Royal Canadian Mounted Police" while Margaret spoke on "Why I Like to Live on the Farm."

Junior winners were: Grace Clarke, Eggleton's School, first, who spoke on "Florence Nightingale"; and John Emerson, Turner's School, whose topic was "The Royal Canadian Mounted Police".

The first-named three will represent Sidney township at the South Hastings Educational Association finals in Queen Alexandra School, Belleville, this coming Friday night. They will be competing against speakers from Thurlow, Tyendinaga, Ameliasburg and the RCAF Breadner School.

Jas. A. Warren, supervising principal of the Sidney School Area acted as chairman and called upon the speakers in the order in which they picked their numbers. A variety of interesting topics were chosen and the manner in which the speeches were delivered showed careful preparation and practice. A great deal of credit for their fine showing should go to the teachers and parents for the interest they have taken in the children's efforts.

The judges were: Mrs. L. E. Ketcheson, Wallbridge; Mrs. P. Bennett, Frankford; Mrs. Biggerstaff, Frankford; Mrs. W. Sine, Belleville; Rev. W., Neelands; Col. R. Vandervaart; Messrs. J. Fred Wilson and Lee Grills.

The senior speakers and their topics were as follows:

Helen Dodds, Brookdale School —Why I Like to Live on a Farm;

Peggy Sargent, Centenary School—Iceland;

Carol—Queen Elizabeth;

Raymond Masse, Bayside School —Trip to Quebec;

June Livingston, Wallbridge — Why I Like to Live on a Farm;

Jack Vermilyea, Mapleview School—Life of the Ostrich;

Joan Clarke, Avondale School— Bananas;

Jack Rushnell, Mapleview — Royal Canadian Mounted Police;

Jim Wallis, Bayside—Our Province of Nova Scotia.

The junior speakers and their subjects were:

Grace Clarke, Eggleton's School —Florence Nightingale;

John Copeland, Brookdale School—Wonders of Cellulose;

Janice Denyes, Avondale School —Insect Plants and Animals of Australia;

Kenneth Rose, Riverside School —Queen Mary's Carpet;

John Emerson, Turner's School —Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Carole Reid, Wallbridge School —Why I Like to Live on a Farm.

While the judges' scores were being tallied, a short film which is being shown in the schools of the Sidney area, entitled "Birds of the Northland Woods" was shown. This film containing closeup pictures of birds at their nests as well as reproducing their songs was much enjoyed by all.

Miss Grace Pitman, music supervisor, had arranged for several musical numbers throughout the program. Jean Nobis and Annette Conseggio sang two numbers, while other numbers were given by groups from Wallbridge and Centenary.

Reeve Ben S. Bleecker was called upon to present the prizes to the winning speakers. Before doing so, he congratulated them and wished success to those speakers who would be going on to represent Sidney township in Belleville on Friday night. Chairman John T. Sargent of the Sidney School Area Board presented a silver dollar to each of the contestants who had not won a prize. He complimented them all on their fine showing and the high calibre of the speeches. He expressed the hope that with the interest they had gained this year they would be able to do even better next year.

Fireside Party Hears Program By College Choir

Another overflow audience was on hand for the second Y.M.C.A. Broadcast Community Fireside on Monday night when the Albert College choir presented the program.

The choir was directed by J. H. Mackay with Miss Ruth Dalling doing the accompaniments. The choir was heard in three numbers, "Onward Upward" by Bach, "The Desert Song" by Sigmund Romberg, and sang as a closing number "Now the Day Is Over".

Carl Kaye played the cello accompaniments and was heard in a solo number "Romance" by Rubenstein, which concluded the talented soloist. Ulysses Expaillat, nephew of the president of the Dominican Republic, sang "O Sole Mio".

Community singing of favorite hymns was conducted by Walter Bent with Linton Reed at the piano. Refreshments were served by members of the Y.M.C.A. Women's auxiliary under the direction of Mrs. W. Kempston.

The Y.M.C.A. After-Church Fireside Hour is a program for all young adults of the community who will find in it real fellowship and enjoyment. Instrumentalists and vocalists of the Y.M.C.A. Broadcast Choir will appear at the Fireside Hour on November 12.

IN MEMORIAM

ELLIOTT — In loving memory of Flora Ann Elliott, who passed away on November 7, 1946.
And there shall be no more death;
Neither shall there be any more pain. —Rev. xxi. 4.
N7

YORK — In loving memory of our dear son, Cecil York, who was accidentally killed four years ago today.
If we could speak with him today,
Laugh with him in the old way,
And hear his voice and see him smile
That would be a happy day indeed.
Sadly missed by mother and father.
N7

YORK — In loving memory of my dear brother, Cecil York, who was accidentally killed four years ago today.
Quietly and quietly came the call
Your sudden death surprised us all
Deep in our hearts your memory's kept,
Yet never spoken.
Or the brother we loved and can never forget.
Ever remembered by sister Edith and brother-in-law Harold. N7

YORK — In loving memory of our brother, Cecil York, who passed away November 7, 1946.
When evening shades are falling
And we sit in quiet alone
To our hearts there comes a longing
For one we dearly own.
Friends may think we have forgotten
When at times they see us smile
But they little know the heartache
Our smiles may hide.
Sadly missed by brother Calvin and sister Helen. N7

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 7—CP—Industrials eased off as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today following yesterday's sharp losses.

Losses outnumbered gains slightly as the board slipped from moderate declines in the forenoon. Prices stayed fairly well in a narrow path and activity was slow.

Agriculturex, constructions, liquors, hotels, textiles and retail stores showed a majority of fractional losses in the groupings. Refining oils gained and papers, utilities, steels, foods, and manufacturing combines were mixed.

Base metals were more active than industrials and bounced back somewhat from their big losses of yesterday. A wide list of leaders gained up to fifty cents although two key issues, Noranda and Consolidated Smelters were lower.

Senior golds drifted lower with Dome and Kerr Addison down. Junior producers traded mixed with gains and losses limited to pennies.

Western oils tended mixed after opening higher. Volume for the first three hours was 988,000 shares.

Toronto Starts Drive Against Drinking Drivers

Toronto, Nov. 7 (CP) — Police announced today they are "taking off the gloves" in a drive here against drinking drivers.

Inspector Vernon Page said more motorcycle police are being put on the road, more men are being assigned to look for driving "party-goers," 30-day sentences instead of 15-day terms are to be handed out and insurance companies are starting to cancel policies of drivers convicted of drunk driving.

He said eight persons have been killed so far this year in accidents where the driver had been drinking, compared with five at this time in 1949.

Belgium Denies Export of Arms To Red China

Brussels, Nov. 7. (AP)— The Belgian government and the country's largest munitions firm today denied Belgium is exporting arms to communist China.

The denials followed an article yesterday over the Brussels progovernment newspaper "La Cite" saying that $4,700,000 worth of machine-guns and bullets have been exported to Mao Tse-Tung's China during the first nine months of 1950.

85-MINUTE

Allied warplanes began burning all villages to flush out Chinese red soldiers.

U.S. 1st Cavalry division troops reported they had seen Chinese troops change into civilian clothing and loll around in villages during the day while Allied planes buzzed overhead.

Communist dead with reversible uniforms were found in the Anjukuni area. The uniforms were green on one side, civilian white on the other.

Allied officers were perplexed at the Chinese withdrawal in an area where they had forced U.N. troops back as much as 50 miles. They speculated the Chinese either were regrouping for a large-scale attack or were deploying new lines.

In the latter event, officers said, it was possible the Chinese only intended to hold a buffer area guarding the Yalu river hydro-electric power grid, vital to Manchurian industry.

Community Chest Officials Request Donors to Forward Subscriptions Immediately

While the response thus far toed by the givers through a volunteer board of directors, representative of large gifts.

It requires that the volunteer board of directors of each of the agencies be responsible for the proper use of the funds and the proper execution of its program.

It is the hope of the Community Chest Campaign Committee of 1950 to enroll all agencies which benefit from public subscription under the Chest banner next year. Through this system, the general public will be asked to contribute to one appeal only and not five or six at various parts of the year.

The question might be asked: "Why a $25,000 quota this year when last year's needs were only $15,000?" The largest amount asked for this year, will not only take care of the needs of those agencies already under the aegis of the Chest, but will provide a carry-over for those agencies which, it is hoped, will be included in the Chest appeal next year.

In addition, some of these "outside" agencies conduct their annual campaigns in the Spring. The Community Chest Campaign takes place in October or November. In fact, the agencies enter the Chest list, they will have to be provided with funds which will carry on from the date of their appeal to that of the chest. Hence the large quota.

Campaign officials are anxious to complete the appeal within the next few days. And they again request that all those who have been contacted by Sheriden, forward in their donations as soon as is convenient. Don't delay. Do it today.

Need For High School Area Debated at H.&S. Meeting

Presenting arguments for and against the formation of a High School area in the Bay of Quinte district at the Collegiate Home and School Association meeting on Monday evening were four members, Messrs. F. R. Harbeck, and Clifford Barber for the affirmative and L. A. Kells and Gerald Anderson for the negative, with Mr. Ray as chairman.

On the positive side the debaters contended that the progressive and sane way was in the adoption of the new area. The basic motive must be that the children in the area must receive the best possible education to produce the best type of citizens. The situation is that the present building was built to house 900 students and it now houses 1,100. When children get to the High School level it is too late to talk about living farm families. The procedure in forming a new area would be to dissolve the present school board, and members of a new board would be appointed with one from Hastings County, one from each township represented, one from the Separate School and six from Belleville.

Lose 175 Students

If the new area did not go through, the school would tragically lose some 175 students in the vocational school and a new school would have to be built outside the city, which not only duplicate the expensive equipment in the shops. Separation into two districts would and would cost more. The cost of administration would be expensive. In five years $150,000 would be lost if the rural section were withdrawn. The attendance grant is 75 per cent of the total grant. The rural people have a stake in the collegiate and should have a voice in its administration.

"We must think progressively," stated the advocates for the area. "We can't wait to be kicked into it. Let's go out and welcome it."

The speakers for the negative stressed that the situation is not beyond control. One elected school board has control of the elementary schools and the secondary school, and they have common services in maintenance and administration. They see the whole progress of the child during the school life. They have tried to use foresight and look ahead, and it would disturb the whole set-up by breaking it into two sections. The school board have almost completed the problems of the public schools and the collegiate problems are now being set up for study. We would lose the experience and knowledge now in the hands of the Board of Education. Belleville is a separate municipality capable of handling its own affairs, its own fire department, police department, Boards of Health and Education. If school boards were appointed politics might creep in and the interests of education be lost. The people should be a voice in the matter of representation.

A number of these arguments were refuted by the affirmative side.

569,942 Workers Buy Bonds Worth $133,529,000

Ottawa, Nov. 7. (CP)—Canadian workers, buying Canada Savings bonds on the payroll plan, have driven sales to new heights.

The Bank of Canada today reported that 569,942 Canadian employees purchased $133,529,000 worth of bonds under the payroll plan up to last Friday night.

This represents an increase of about 10 per cent over last year's employee sales at the corresponding stage in the campaign, and last year's record was itself 20 per cent higher than the 1948 final payroll sales.

General sales for the first 17 days stand at $66,868,250, giving a combined total with payroll sales of $200,517,250.

Ontario region has taken the lead with a record $61,434,550 after finishing last week's drive in fourth position. Quebec and the Prairies follow closely with 103.6 per cent and 102.2 per cent of last year's sales, respectively. British Columbia and the Maritimes, with many firms still to complete canvassing, have almost reached their 1949 mark, the bank said.

HUNTERS HAVE LUCK

Peterborough, Nov. 7. (CP)— Guns blazed today at the Eel's Creek Game preserve, some 30 miles north of here, where one of the greatest concentration of deer hunters in the province sought its antlered prey.

Good luck attended opening day of the season yesterday as hunters trekked through the deer-heavy bush. One survey estimated that each group of five hunters bagged one deer. The largest count was reported by a party of six Lakefield hunters who bagged three deer and a bear east of Stoney Lake.

'Postage Due' Rouses U.S. Voter

St. Louis, Nov. 7 (AP) — A taxpayer objected yesterday to paying three cents postage due" on campaign literature mailed to him by Raymond O. Douglas, Republican seeking re-election as St. Louis county circuit clerk.

"This will never win friends and influence voters," the taxpayer wrote Douglas.

The office holder checked with the post office and found that all 1,700 letters he had mailed were marked "postage due."

Douglas said he simply couldn't understand it.

Alleged to Have Fired Shots In Basement

Val d'Or, Que., Nov. 7.—(CP)— A gun-toting man identified as Nick Alexander, 31, surrendered to police today after allegedly firing shots through the floor of the Quebec Liquor Commission store here. He was armed with a .45-calibre revolver.

Alexander came from the cellar of a building adjoining the liquor store and gave himself up to provincial police who had surrounded the spot.

There was no immediate information as to why Alexander put on the gun display. Police say he may have been demented. They believe he had overnight in the liquor store basement.

The regular 10 a. m. opening of the liquor store was delayed until Alexander had surrendered and was in custody.

Talk on Economic Use of Water Heard by Kinsmen

The economic, political and geographic significance of water and the importance of conservation and how it affects the city dweller, was the topic of an interesting and informative address given to members of the local Kinsmen club at their regular dinner meeting, Monday evening. Guest speaker for the meeting was Frank S. Follwell, M.P., for Hastings South, and chairman of the Belleville Public Utilities Commission.

The tremendous importance of water and how it affects the everyday life of the world's millions, as well as its ten most important uses were outlined by Mr. Follwell.

Later he referred to the Moira River Valley Authority and what was planned to increase productivity and restore the valley to its natural beauty.

Mr. Follwell then outlined the development of the Belleville waterworks system from the time the first by-law was passed back in 1886 up until the present. He referred to the recent expansion of the local filtration plant and how this had been planned to assure residents of Belleville and in the water service area surrounding the city, a plentiful supply of pure water.

The speaker was introduced by R. E. Follwell with club appreciation being expressed by Kin Walter Harden. President Murray Davis was in the chair.

Police Cracking Down Hard on Erring Motorists

City police are cracking down on erring motorists it was indicated in city magistrate's court today when no less than three city and district residents pleaded guilty to drunk driving and were sentenced to seven days in jail.

Two of the motorists pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated were from townships adjoining the city, while the third was from the city.

Still another resident pleaded guilty to operating a motor scooter while his driving license was suspended and was assessed $25 and costs.

A number of motorists pleaded guilty out of court to speeding charges and paid fines and costs while three operators of trucks were charged with operating their vehicles without the name and address being printed on the truck. They were each assessed $5 fine and costs.

IRISH LITERARY CONTRIBUTION

In the flood of appreciation and editorial comments made in regard to the work and influence of Bernard Shaw, which has been, generally given the place of the greatest of dramatists of the past two generations and more, it has not been forgotten that he was a native of Ireland and that he as writer is therefore in a great company of writers in prose and poetry who have hailed from the Emerald Isle. A great number of literary lights has been contributed to the English-speaking world by Ireland. The Ottawa Journal mentions in wonder that Ireland, a land of small population should make so magnificent a contribution to English literature. There is a long list of great Irishmen in English prose and poetry, Swift, Sheridan, Goldsmith. In the present age with Shaw have been Joyce, George Moore, Yeats, Synge, Lord Dunsany, Lady Gregory and Sean O'Casey. "These are but the stars" says the Journal, going on to name contemporary figures in literature, Sam O'Faolin, Liam O'Flaherty, biographer, Frank O'Connor, and James Stephens whose crock of gold is a something of a classic and whose poetry is far from being minor."

What gave Ireland her minstrelsy? Disraeli, according to the newspaper, is credited with saying that the melancholy mists over Ireland made poets and mad songsters of her people. The Journay adds that "the melancholy mists could hardly have produced a Wilde and a Shaw, much less a Sean O'Casey. Obviously there is some other reason." What that is the Journal did not say.

ANNIVERSARIES

Autumn is a happy time for the holding of anniversaries of church congregations.; The weather of these days is the summing up of the weather of numerous which the churches have been able to exert during the years of their ministry. Their part in the life of every community is recognized in the great cities, the capitals, the smaller cities and the towns as well as in the small communities and in the open countryside. Everywhere the influence of the churches is one of the great supports of our civilization and culture.

Autumn is an apt time for these anniversaries as they bring the mind to the passing year can refer to the fruits of the labors of clergy and congregations all the year through. Autumn is a time of rejoicing as it is in the countryside of every land when the harvests of the toil of farm and orchard are gathered in. Autumn is a time when Sunday is indeed a happy time for the counting of the progress which has been made. Autumn is a time for rejoicing and a time too when there enters into the labors of the churches a new ingathering of souls.

When congregations weigh or measure the progress of the year and the years they have every reason to be proud of what has been accomplished and can foresee what may be achieved in the future.

It is a happy part of the age when although the world is unsettled internationally new congregations are being formed and new churches arise in towns and cities. Belleville has seen a large growth in population and there have been new churches in the east. It is natural for the churches to expand as it is for the schools. That in time of progress and advance these two great factors, church and school, occupy so large a place in the minds of the people is a happy sign of the state of society.

COMMUNISM

Communism differs from fascism in a number of ways and notably in its goals, which are socialistic in nature. A democratic country might adopt many measures of mass warfare that is introduced, but in other respects he would find life much the same if the regime was fascist.

The enemy of both systems is the "bourgeois," the liberal, the man or the class or the people who prises liberty above other considerations. The supporter of fascism and communism is the man who seeks personal power, who glorifies his nation above morality, who wants revenge on society and on the past, who makes the easy surrender to political power instead of struggling against it. He likes the clumsy, difficult, vexatious methods of democracy, and, of course, there is the sprinkling of misled idealists who take philosophies, promises and goals for reality.

The impulses that drive men into the fascist or communist camp are many and complex. They are an appar ently ineradicable part of our turbulent century and we cannot expect them to die easily or quickly. In the long run their defeat can only be accomplished by higher ideals and goals that gain acceptance. And unless we defeat them all — fascism, nazism, falangism and communism — we will have defeated none. — New York Times.

To acknowledge our faults when we are blamed, is modesty; to disclose them of our own ingenuousness, is confidence, but to proclaim them to the world, if one does not care, is pride. — Confucius.

JUST FOLKS

OVERWORK AND OVERPLAY

If overwork be a disease
That takes the lives of men away,
There is another apt to seize
More victims known as "overplay."

The germs of overwork are rare,
The blood stream they do not invade.
Yet broken health and its despair
Have stricken men who've overplayed.

Ambition overplay will kill.
The will for service it destroys.
Its germs defy the doctor's skill
And every cure that he employs.

Of overwork much talk is heard,
The cause of death," the doctors say,
But only fools speak a warning word
Of that grim menace! "Overplay."

OUR TOWN
By JACK SCOTT

AFTER DARK

We finally got a baby-sitter at a buck an hour, and Brenda and I headed out to have a look at the far-famed New Orleans' night life. Reason we had so much trouble finding a baby-sitter was we haven't a television set. They say that in all the big American cities each night there is impossible to get a tot to stay with the kids without TV. And if you've got TV you probably don't want to go out.

Things are supposed to be frightfully decorous now when darkness falls on the delta. The New Orleans newspapers are full of a murder trial centering about a night club in the French quarter and the joints are expected to being very discreet until the heat is off.

This is an interesting trial, by the way. Seems that a prominent contractor of New Orleans, who, of course, came here for the Sugar Bowl football game last New Year's Eve, got lit up just about everybody was having so much fun.

Some three months after the funeral the contractor's widow got to wondering if it was really a beast attack. So the New Orleans coroner had decided. The body was exhumed. It was found that the poor fellow was full of chloral hydrate, which is the nice name for "Knockout drops" or the old-fashioned Mickey Finn.

Charged with the murder is a fellow called Bourbon Street Slim, a raven-haired "B-drinker." B-drinker (or bar- drinker) is New Orleans slang for "hostess companion". These gals operate in most of the French quarter clubs. If a fellow goes alone, unless a little light conversation he may engage one of the ladies. The local constabulary doubts the entertainers. Gal gets a cut on a percentage of the drinks the customer as the saying goes, so permanently.

This may have injured the pride of the night club proprietors, but the human race being what it is, it has increased their business. A large number of cops move from one club to the other, looking for stolid (and, incidentally, catching all the shows), and this is a certain fillip to the festivities.

On Stage

Bourbon Street, narrow and crowded, is jammed with pedestrians until the dawn. The tourist who dresses formally will feel lost since there is a high percentage of open shirts and any costume short of a bathing suit will suffice.

Dixieland Jazz, as you may know, has bounced back strongly this year all over the country and there is some fine, authentic New Orleans ragtime to be heard along Bourbon Street.

Still, most of the clubs are currently featuring girl shows and strip-tease numbers.

The reigning queens are an enormously tall and well-packed girl from Los Angeles dancer known as Kalantan who does an "exotic" dance, ending in a wild and pierdemonium. Every principle's undressed, and a homely little blonde street, at, say $1.90 a minute of shouting.

"Our young son's feet were so bad that even his mother had to be dropped into the washing machine on the end of the spin drying cycle. If one had gotten any closer to them I honestly believe they unconsciously. Since using your recipe he smells as sweet as a rose. (The girls seem to like him, too)."

On written request (not a clipping) I will send any reader who provides stamped self-addressed envelope a pamphlet on Athlete's Blackheads and Pimples.

Medical term for excessive sweating is hyperidrosis; for failure of the sweat glands to function, is anidrosis. The first prevents for foul or malodorous sweating, bromidrosis.

The most effective remedy for excessive or foul sweating of the feet, they say, is a 20 per cent solution of formaldehyde, officially known as Formaldehyde Solution of Formaldehyde, which bears a poisonous label.

In The Medicine Cupboard, for which send 25c and stamped self-addressed envelope, you will find directions for using this remedy. For the control of excessive sweating of the feet with little or no foul odor, simply sprinkle dilute formaldehyde solution into each shoe to moisten the entire inside and let it dry immediately before using what remains of it into the next shoe and so until all shoes except the ones you must wear in the next 48 hours have been treated. Let the shoes stand in the open air and sun if possible for at least 36 hours before you wear them again.

The strength of the formaldehyde solution for the purpose such treatment for all footwear about once a week, or at most twice a month, will generally control the trouble — depends on the severity of the trouble and the sensitivity of the individual's skin. Plenty of too strong an application is irritation, peeling of skin and tissue itching. So it is better to begin with a weak solution and, if necessary, work it a little stronger next time: Mix one tablespoonful of the standard 37 per cent Liquor Formaldehydi U. S. P. with seven tablespoonfuls of water. Later, if necessary, use one tablespoonful with five of water.

U. S. P. Solution of Formaldehyde (37 per cent) is pungent, very irritating to nose, throat and eyes. Although it is still used as a disinfectant and germicide formaldehyde has been abandoned by physicians and surgeons, hospitals and institutions because of its irritant and poisonous character, and because other, less irritating, less poisonous agents have been found to be better disinfectants and germicides. It is still widely employed for hardening and fixing anatomical and biological specimens and as an arterial injection in embalming.

MacKenzie's Column:
Chinese in Open Defiance of UN Invade Korea

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The Chinese communists, in open defiance of Lake Success, have crossed the Korean border in force fighting under the flag of the United Nations. This has been officially confirmed by Gen. Douglas MacArthur as tension is one of the most critical moments since the end of the Second World War.

The United States has called for a special meeting of the U.N. Security Council Wednesday to consider this fresh crisis.

If Peiping has become needed that China is acting with the blessings of Russia, it could be found in an amazing official speech delivered in Moscow Monday night by Deputy Premier Bulganin, one of Russia's great personalities.

Bulganin singled out communist China for special praise. He declared that Chairman Mao Tse-tung "is the banner of all oppressed peoples" in the Far East and pointed and hinted that the tide may turn there. He asserted that the Koreans had won a "great victory" over defeat because America had flung in 250,000 U.S. troops and other forces, and some from other countries.

This is an uncomfortable moment for at least some of the leaders in Peiping and Moscow. It is the moment for bold decisions and extended diplomatic negotiation to the Chinese communist government in Peiping. There can be no doubt that the regime has received encouragement from the recognitions. Now Britain, for one, is considering cancelling her recognition.

Presents Dangerous Problem

The big question today is what the U.N. can do about this Chinese assault. The aggressor must be condemned and asked to withdraw their invaders. Will Peiping refuse? That presents a dangerous problem.

It may be remembered that in making this daring venture, China is banking that neither the U.S. nor the United Nations will make all-out war against her. Will Peiping feel safe in this gamble? Because continental China would be most difficult of terrain for ground fighting, excepting from Russia territory.

The latter has powerful armed strength, working with Russia, will continue to present a terrific threat to the democracies as long as it exists.

The Peiping regime is reaching for every direction. What is happening in Korea, French Indo-China and Berlin are parts of the shadow across Burma, Malaya and other countries.

Whatever decision may be reached by the U.N. in this Korea crisis, it seems clear there is one essential: there must be concerted action among the peacemakers.

$100,000 FIRE LOSS

THE YOUNGSTER HAD SMELLY FEET

Next to an obstinate acne (oily skin, blackheads and pimples), few complaints of boys or girls in the early 'teens appeal to my sympathy (believe it or not) as much as the complaint of "smelly feet."

A lady writes from a mid-western city:

"I have tried many of the simple remedies recommended in your column . . . the formaldehyde treatment for "smelly feet" would have been worth alone for a lifetime of shouting your praises from the housetops. . . ."

If radio comedians can pay $15 to $20 for three minutes of claqueurs to occupy seats in the studio audience and pay for all the applause and laughter, I wonder whether I could hire a couple of middle-aged readers to sit on the roofs, on each side of the street, at, say $1.90 a minute of shouting.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A man can skate faster than he can move by any other means than skating. Only in speed skating which he can skate as compared with the speed he can run probably represents the greatest difference in the public attitude towards the game of hockey and the game of lacrosse. But lacrosse came very near to being our National Canadian and American game.

Hockey has got too big a lead on lacrosse for it ever to catch up. Hockey is still a major industry now. But all across the Dominion there are lacrosse clubs, some little patches that, if taken in hand by some gifted sport historian, with a green thumb, might be nurtured into something much bigger than it is now.

In earlier days, lacrosse was always played in big open fields. The goal posts were simply set up at the proper distance from each other. The crowd of spectators were not even held back by ropes.

The goal referee stood back of the goal, with a white handkerchief in hand. When one of the players came racing in for a shot, and made it, like lightning, the referee usually blinked, and often as not waved his white hankie in error. Whereupon the crowd surged over the line. They took hours to play a lacrosse game. Goal umpires had to be changed, time after time. There were fights among the spectators. What we mean nowadays by sportator sports are goals in which the spectator cannot share. Lacrosse was a spectator sport in the fullest sense of the words.

But they have lacrosse in a box now. They call it box lacrosse, and it is played in arenas. It lacks that glorious platinum ice setting of hockey, and the ballet-like quality of line and motion that makes hockey a treat even for those who only go because it is the thing to do.

But lacrosse is still a game filled with the drama that belongs to the greatest of sports. It has dazzling speed, far more individual grace in its players, and none of that armored beetle quality that gives to hockey a faint savor of the Roman arena.

MASKED MEN FAIL

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 6—(CP)—Five masked men who attempted to break into a safe at a brewery (Old Comrades) in Tecumseh, seven miles east of here, failed Saturday night. Their only loot was $6 taken from night watchman Oscar Marentette, who also was attacked and bound by the men as they broke into the brewery office.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE-MATTHEW ADAMS

SUCCESS

There are many who complain and remark that the opportunities for success are not what they used to be. Nothing could be further from the truth. Never were there so many avenues open for the alert, and for those willing to abide by the rules of success. Never were prizes so rich with every advanced idea.

When the great Marshall Field, the Chicago merchant, died—he who founded the present fortune of that name—he was asked by the time, the following, which is worth meditating upon. These were his precepts and characteristics noted.

His Business Axioms

"Never give a note. Never buy a share of stock on margin. Never borrow. Never buy anything of real or personal property. Work always on cash basis. Pay as you go and sell only at short time. Hold customers to a strict enforcement of their contracts."

His Personality

"Business his greatest ambition. No time for frivolity. Never an imbiber. No political ambition. Words few; phrases incisive. Sparing or verbal commendation. Commendation, advice or education. Organizer of ideas. Powerful as an organizer. Capable of inspiring confidence. Genius of education."

For scores of years the great Chicago store that Marshall Field founded has been a model for others. It has always been a store that has kept pace and moved with the years. It has always gone forward. The spirit of its founder has persisted.

The fundamental rules, or principles, for a successful career are very simple. There is nothing complicated about them. Those who follow them win out. The late Elbert Hubbard once told me that if anyone could create something useful, that people wanted, he would not have to worry about its success.

TRUE SECURITY

Babson's Reports deal not with the immediate but with the financial. However, it is amazing the extent to which Mr. Babson goes in his letters, sometimes, in pointing out the connection between spiritual truth and economic security.

In the report issued recently the following statements occur:

"As we look over this tormented old world, we are deeply aware of its sense of insecurity. The more it strives for material gains, the less secure it feels. . . .

"Why is this so? . . . We are convinced that the world has drifted far from its base, and is caught in the whirlpools and undercurrents of materialism. . . .

"Only a return to God and His teachings, here and throughout the world. Only in such a change of course can safe anchorage and real security be found. Not in doctrines, and wrong economic or other theories. Their inward integrity is the best guarantee of outward security. Always affairs grow." God people make a good world and a good world makes it safer for people to the search for true security."

Ratio of Costs For Administration Of Justice Between County and City Referred to County Judge

The distribution ratio of the cost of administration of justice between the county of Hastings and the city of Belleville will be referred to the County Judge for decision it was decided at the regular meeting of city council held Monday evening.

Some days ago a committee from county council and a committee from city council composed of Aldermen Haig and Argue met to decide on the proper distribution in administration of justice costs and after discussion decided to refer the matter to the County Judge.

Speaking to the recommendation Alderman Argue said administration of justice costs had been decided between the city and the county. However, it was agreed at that time if the city annexed property the agreement would be terminated and a new basis drawn. He stated that in referring the matter to the County Judge there was no spirit of disharmony between the county and the city, but that on the other decided between the city and the county. However, it was agreed at that time if the city annexed property the agreement would be terminated and a new basis drawn. He stated that in referring the matter to the County Judge there was no spirit of disharmony between the county and the city, but that on the other hand it was hoped to complete, accord that this would be the fairest plan to do.

Paying $9,000 Yearly

Alderman Argue said that at the present time the city paid $9,000 annually toward the cost of administration of justice. Total costs amounted to something like $40,000 which included crown attorney's fees, maintenance at the county jail and other items.

The extension of the lease allowing the county to use the old county home until the new one on the Trent Road was completed was formally approved by council. County officials had made the request at the last meeting of council to which members tentatively agreed. The county required the use of the county old people's home until completion of the new structure some time in July next year.

Three-Way Split

Council agreed to split three ways the costs of a booth at the Sportsmen's Show in Cleveland next Spring. Costs would be divided among the city, the county and the Hotelmen's Association. If the Hotelmen's Association do not care to participate the cost will be divided between the city and the county.

It will be "all or nothing" insofar as council is concerned in the collection of sheet sign licence fees. Council ratified a recommendation authorizing the city solicitor to take legal action to collect outstanding licence fees while Mayor Allin pointed out that either all of the fees should be collected or else the matter of the licencing signs should be discontinued.

Council approved of a recommendation from the Arena Commission turning over operation of the outdoor skating rinks to the recreation commission. The Parks Board was granted the use of the two city owned lavatories situated on the tourist park. The small buildings will be used as tourist booths.

Criticism Levelled

Criticism regarding councillors leaving committee meetings without receiving permission was heard from Mayor Allin who charged that at Thursday night's committee meeting so many aldermen had left that a bare quorum was left to conduct the city's business.

The mayor named Alderman Argue and Alderman Potter as having left the meeting without first asking permission. "It is not fair that only a few aldermen are left to do the city business," stated the mayor.

This brought a rise from Alderman Argue during the period for inquiries. Mr. Argue stated it was his understanding that a quorum in committee meetings was five members. If so there must have been ten aldermen absent. He asked why only two aldermen had been singled out.

Others Received Permission

Mayor Allin replied that a quorum in committee meetings was eight members and said that other aldermen who had left the meeting had received permission.

Alderman Duffy objected to the present system of holding the committee meetings on the Thursday evening and then asking aldermen to return the following Monday evening to "go all over the same thing again." He considered the previous method of holding separate committee meetings for each committee to be more efficient.

Alderman Hyde disagreed. He claimed the present system was best. Otherwise there would be many members of city council who would not know what was going on.

Alderman Liddle asked when the second meeting for discussion of the proposed Catherine Street storm sewer was to be held. Alderman Thomas replied the meeting would be held as soon as certain information asked by the interested ratepayers was secured.

Some Recognition

The matter of the city making some official recognition of Canadian army men proceeding to the Korea theatre of war was broached by Alderman Duffy, who noted that several cities were taking such action. There was no further discussion on the matter.

Alderman Hyde wanted to know if the general public was to be given any further information with respect to the auditor's report on the hospital.

To this the Mayor replied that the hospital board had formed a committee of five to consider the auditor's report and to take action. This committee had held several meetings.

"I personally am disappointed in the lack of action on the part of this committee," the Mayor said.

No Administration Changes

The Mayor referred to a matter of $162,000 in uncollected accounts at the hospital and noted with the exception of one new man there had been no change in the administration of the hospital. Mayor Allin added that it was the right of the taxpayer to know more of the conditions at the hospital, and referred to the 19th of November deadline which he had given the hospital board to take action. At a previous meeting the Mayor had said if no action was taken by that time he would call an investigation.

"We should get rid of the administrator," interjected Alderman Hyde.

"Are not the hospital committee following up the recommendation of the auditor?" asked Alderman Potter of Mayor Allin.

"If so, why are you not satisfied?"

Alderman Armstrong asked Mayor Allin if it was his intention to tell the people what was in the auditor's report. The Mayor replied he intended to do so. "The public is deserving of it," he said.

Within Rights

Alderman Clarke asked if the public utilities commission was within their rights in approving of the extension of water mains in the townships. Mayor Allin replied they were.

Alderman Tice referred to the recent increase in pay which firemen had voted themselves and asked if it would not be advisable that the Mayor's remuneration be also publicized so that the proportion could be shown.

The Mayor replied he would be happy to give this information to the public at any time, adding that he thought the mayor's honorarium was fairly well known.

By-laws passed at the meeting including one for the construction of storm sewers in the veterans' homes project south of the highway; one for the construction of municipal board for approval before being finalized.

Another by-law called for setting up a health department as recommended by the Ontario Department of Health at a cost not exceeding $25,000 annually.

A by-law setting granting permission to the Eastern Gas Syndicate to serve the city with gas came up for consideration. This drew exception from Alderman Hyde who pointed out the recommendation merely called for placing the matter before the taxpayers at the next election.

Acting city solicitor Ralph Graham pointed out that preparation of the by-law was but a matter of procedure. He said if the by-law did not go before council at the present time a full year would elapse before the matter could be finalized—providing assent of the electors was given.

He pointed out that the by-law would be given two readings and then the electors would be asked for their assent. If assent was given by the electors the incoming council could then finalize the by-law by giving third reading. Wide powers of amendment were given council in the agreement, the solicitor assured.

Will Pay Costs

The solicitor for the Eastern Gas Syndicate stated that his firm would pay all costs, including the cost of advertising to fully acquaint the electors on the matter.

Under general business Alderman Duffy noted that on the next committees meeting of council he would submit several recommendations with respect to civil defence which he thought should be given the notification to allow any other alderman to also bring in any recommendations on the same subject.

Mayor Allin expressed his appreciation to members of the special committee who prepared the program for the recent visit of Prime Minister St. Laurent. Alderman Tice, as chairman of the committee, added his thanks, especially to Aldermen Duffy and Liddle and other committee members, noting that the function had been successful.

Queen Mary's Carpet Fund Passes $42,000

Toronto, - Nov. 7—CP—The Queen Mary's Carpet fund has passed the $42,000 mark, the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire announced today.

The carpet, made up of panels of intricate needlework done by Queen Mary, has been placed on exhibition in central and western Canada by the I. O. D. E. Now it is to be exhibited in the Atlantic provinces.

Funds raised by the showings go into the fund, which has an objective of $100,000. When the goal is reached, the carpet will be presented to the National Gallery in Ottawa.

Pepped-Up Pork Makes New Sausage

London, Nov. 7—(Reuters)—A meatier, more sizzleworthy sausage made its debut in Britain yesterday.

But some butchers soon found a flaw. They thought it might be too expensive.

The new sausage is pepped-up pork. The government has decreed that pork sausages shall have 65 per cent pork compared to the 50 per cent hitherto.

The new pocker costs the equivalent of nearly thirty cents a pound, about six cents more a pound than before the war.

Under meat rationing regulations, the humble beef sausage remains with only 50 per cent beef in it.

A modern passenger train rolling along at 70 to 80 miles an hour as a 1500-ton projectile or tremendous momentum and velocity. Trains of such weight and speed cannot be stopped within the short distance necessary to avoid collision with a motorist who may have decided to indulge in one of the many hazardous practices which brought death to 140 and injuries to 850 others in 443 railway crossing accidents reported to the Board of Transport Commissioners for Canada during the 12-month period ended June 30th. Cars stalling in the path of trains, motorists attempting to beat the train to the crossing and misjudging the distance, motorists who drove into the sides of moving or stationary trains apparently as the result of impaired visibility or misjudgment of speed and distance, all contributed to the mounting crossing accident toll. Remember, a car can stop quicker than a train. Give the big fellow the right of way!

HALLOWAY

Halloway—Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Turner and Mrs. Bert Turner of Michigan spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Herb Townsend and family.

Rev. and Mrs. Gilbert Rolph and Mary were the tea hour guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McMullen recently.

A number of parents attended the Hallowe'en concert at Zion Hill School, the proceeds going to the Mission Band. A good program was enjoyed after which cookies and coffee were served.

Miss Bessie McMullen returned home on Saturday after she had been visiting in Alberta with relatives.

Mrs. John Townsend accompanied Mr. and Mrs. John Dolg to Montreal and Quebec over the weekend.

The ladies of the Halloway W. A. catered at the Scotts Sales Barns on Tuesday and the proceeds were most gratifying.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Eckert of Long Island, New York are spending a couple of weeks with relatives here.

Machine Age Develops Own Angel of Mercy

Wonsan Airfield, Korea, Nov. 7 — (AP) — The machine age has developed its own angel of mercy: the helicopter.

Time and time, American flying windmills have rescued pilots shot down behind enemy lines or at sea. They have taken out whole cut-off units. They have carried wounded to safety when ambulance over rough roads would have meant death.

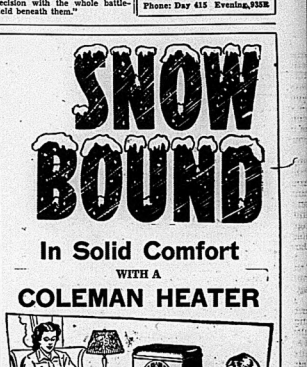
"Any military force without them today is back in the days of the Civil War," said Brig.-Gen. Edward [illegible]raly of the famed "Fighting 1st" U. S. Marine Division.

"The infantryman knows that being hopelessly cut off doesn't mean he is going to die or be captured. The helicopter can pick him up. The same thing holds for pilots shot down at sea or over enemy territory. That's worked a wonderful change in morale.

"The second advantage is we can fly commanders right up to the front. They can make their decision with the whole battlefield beneath them."

Premier Malan Is Operated On

Pretoria, South Africa, Nov. 7 —(Reuters)—Prime Minister Daniel Malan was successfully operated on at the Pretoria General Hospital today.



The operation, on the urinary system, was not serious and the 76-year-old leader of the nationalist party is expected to be able to leave hospital in about two weeks.

Finance Minister Nicholaas Havenga is acting prime minister.

Women's Activities

St. Peter's Presbyterian W.M.S.

Madoc — The members of St. Peter's W.M.S. met for their November meeting at the home of Mrs. Fred Curry with a splendid attendance. The president opened the meeting. Mrs. J. Armstrong read the Bible story and Mrs. Heslip led in prayer.

A letter was read from the Sunday School Convention committee thanking the ladies of the W.M.S. for the bountiful supper served at the convention. The treasurer reported over $65 as a thankoffering collection and a balance of $5 in the expense fund.

On motion, it was decided to give a life membership to a junior member and also a life membership to one of the senior members. The secretary was instructed to send away for sheets to make "Honor Rolls" for all Junior Life members and all Senior Life members; the same to be placed in the school room of the church.

Mrs. J. McCaffrey was chosen chairman of the nominating committee for the election of officers for the coming year. A review of missionary work was given by the following members, each a bird's eye view of work done in the following fields: Mrs. Sharpe, Britain; Mrs. Gerrie, India; Mrs. Johnston, Japan; Mrs. Spencer, Formosa; Miss Yankicek, Bhillfield; Mrs. McCaffrey, Korea, and Mrs. Heslip the work in general.

A pleasant social hour followed the close of the meeting with Mrs. Spencer and Miss Yankicek assisting the hostess.

Woman Who Lost Two Sons In R.C.A.F. Will Represent Canadian Mothers Nov. 11th

MRS. JOHN BEASLEY

By KAY BEK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Nov. 7 (CP) — A little woman with gentle eyes and softly greying hair next Saturday will pause with bowed head before Canada's National War Memorial.

In her hands she will hold a wreath of poppies and she will be remembering two "grand, good" boys who were "as different as night from day."

Ronald and Harold Beasley both died with the RCAF in the last war. Their mother, Mrs. Susan Beasley, will place the wreath for all those Canadian mothers who lost sons in the First and Second World Wars.

Slowly, as instructed, she will count to 10 before stepping forward to place the token at the foot of the memorial.

That's what Col. C. C. Fox of the pensions board told her to do the day he visited her Ottawa South apartment. He came with the news that Mrs. Beasley had been chosen to represent Canadian motherhood at the Remembrance Day services, Nov. 11.

When he first telephoned, she didn't know who he was or what it was all about.

"I kept wondering if he might be anyone who had been with Ronald overseas."

Killed Christmas Eve

Ronald was her youngest. He was 24 and a flying officer when he was killed Christmas Eve 14 years ago at Arnhelm, Holland. There's a framed snapshot of his overseas grave in the family dining room and above it is a picture of him in his flying suit. The latter is hung with a popcorn necklace such as youngsters make in kindergarten.

Six-year-old Lynn, Ronald's daughter, made the necklace for her grandma.

Ronald was the serious type. Harold, though was different. He was 30 when he was killed six months before Ronald in a flying accident at Moncton, Ont.

"Harold was more light-hearted—wasn't he, dad?" Mrs. Beasley turned toward her husband.

A great proud smile appeared on the face of John Beasley, a Veterans' Affairs department employee who lost a leg in the First World War.

"They were different," he said, "—as different as night from day."

Popular Customs Appear Outdated in Western Poll

Winnipeg (CP)—Emily Post and Winnipeg don't exactly coincide when it comes to courtesy.

Dr. A. Brodie, a fourth-year student at the University of Manitoba, took an informal public-opinion poll as part of a psychology course.

He found a big change in what has been accepted as "good manners."

Five questions were put to a cross-section of Winnipeg residents ranging in age from 20 to 60 years. Here are the questions and the results:

Question 1—Excepting elderly or pregnant women, do you think a man in a crowded street car or bus should offer their seats to women who are standing?

Answers:

Men: yes 36.6 per cent, No 63.4 per cent.

Women yes 48.3 per cent, No 51.7 per cent.

Both yes 42.5 per cent, No 57.5 per cent.

Question 2—Do you think a man should remove his hat on entering a public building?

Answers:

Men yes 20 per cent, No 80 per cent.

Women yes 43.3 per cent, No 56.7 per cent.

Both yes 31.8 per cent, No 68.4 per cent.

Question 3—Should men rise from their seats to greet a woman as she enters the room in which they are seated?

Answers:

Men yes 46.6 per cent, NO 53.4 per cent.

Women yes 56.6 per cent, No 43.4 per cent.

Both yes 51.6 per cent, No. 48.4 per cent.

Question 4—When a man and a woman walk along a street together? Do you think that the man should walk on the side of the walk which is closest to the curb?

Answers:

Men yes 50 per cent, No 50 per cent.

Women yes 56.6 per cent, No 43.4 per cent.

Both yes 53.3 per cent, No 46.7 per cent.

Questions 5—Should men open doors for women?

Answers:

Men yes 71.6 per cent, No 28.4 per cent.

Women yes 61.6 per cent, No 38.4 per cent.

Both yes 66.6 per cent, No 33.4 per cent.

Averaging the answers to the five questions and posing a general question, Mr. Brodie says you get something like this:

Do you believe social convention should still be carried out?

Answers:

Men yes 45 per cent, No 55 per cent.

Women yes 53.3 per cent, No 46.7 per cent.

Both yes 49.2 per cent, No 50.8 per cent.

He says a popular reason for not believing in the conventions was that: "They are all outdated and, although they served their purpose when they were first instituted, they now are as dead as those who originated them."

And another: "Women are constantly demanding equal rights with men. They should learn to do things for themselves and not expect special consideration since they don't any longer consider themselves the weaker sex."

Club Activities

ALPHA LAMBDA

The regular meeting of the Alpha Lamboo Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi was held at the home of Marion Brennan and Margaret Crozier. The meeting was called to order by vice-president, Virginia Volkman, in the absence of President Helen Joslin.

Regular official business was discussed and plans for the forthcoming annual dinner formalities. A discussion on the origin of jewellery and its importance to modern woman's dress was presented by Marian Brennan.

Delightful refreshments were served by co-hostesses Sybil McLachlan and Jean Bailey. The meeting was closed with the closing ritual and Mizpah.

REV. J. R. BICK DIES

Port Perry, Nov. 6—(CP)—Rev. J. Roland Bick, 70, died Saturday at nearby Scugog Island, where he was supply minister at the United Church for two years. He served at many district parishes since his ordination in 1906.

Survivors include a sister, Mrs. Ross Williams, of Peterborough.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking ?

The prehistoric lake dwellers of Switzerland would have had a rough time trying to make an apple pie. The only sweetening then available were hard wizened crab apples, ancestors of the fruit which is now represented by 2,000 varieties.

Housewives who are sometimes at a loss to select proper apples for cooking, can do no better than choose Rhode Island Greenings which were first grown in 1700 near Newport, R.I.

Greenings will not break down during cooking, and their tart flavor adds freshness to any food with which they are combined.

Apple waffles are made by adding chopped fresh apples to a waffle batter seasoned with mace or nutmeg and cinnamon.

The apples should be added just before the waffles are baked since the fruit has a tendency to throw off water and dilute the batter.

The waffle iron may be slightly cooler than normal in order to cook the apples thoroughly. Both sugar and shortening may be increased if you prefer a sweeter or richer batter. Bananas may be substituted for apples, if desired.

Apple Waffles—Serves 6

2 cups all-purpose flour
3 teaspoons double action baking powder
1-2 teaspoon ground mace
1-2 teaspoon cinnamon
1-2 teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
1-4 cups milk
2 egg yolks
5 tablespoons melted shortening or oil
1 1-4 cups chopped apples
2 egg whites

Sift flour then measure. Sift again with baking powder, mace, cinnamon, salt and sugar.

Beat egg yolks well, then combine with milk. Add melted shortening or oil to milk mixture.

Combine liquid and dry ingredients stirring only until dry ingredients are moistened.

Fold apples into batter.

Beat egg white until stiff and fold into batter.

Preheat waffle iron 8 to 10 minutes, then bake waffles. Serve hot sprinkled with maple syrup butter made by heating 1 cup maple syrup and 1-4 cup butter until butter melts.

"SALADA" TEA

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Reader disagrees on husband-sister relationship

It is always interesting to hear from a reader who disagrees with me and gives her reasons for her different viewpoint.

I have a letter from a wife who read a recent column of mine on a situation which involved a man and his sister. The man's wife had written me that her husband wished to be constantly with his sister, who had been much like a mother to him for some years previous to his marriage. As a result of this bond between the two, considerable friction had developed between the sister and the wife, the latter feeling that her husband should be more thoughtful of her and less attentive to the sister.

My suggestion was that this wife should make a determined effort to become more friendly with the sister-in-law, in the hope that eventually they might arrive at some happier relationship. I said that I thought the constant quarrelling between herself and her husband about the matter would never get her anywhere.

The reader who objects to my suggestion, says that she herself had an in-law problem immediately following her own marriage. In her case, the problem involved her husband's entire family, who, she says "herded all the in-laws into a complete and voiceless submission to their will. It was a case of seeing all the family every Sunday, of regulating our social life, our business ventures and even the locality of our home to conform to their ideas."

What she did about it was, as she puts it, "to put my foot down." She insisted on moving out of the city where her husband's family lived, refused to see any of her own family's financial or personal problems discussed with them, visited them only occasionally, and in general made it clear she and her husband intended leading their own life. She says that "this sort of treatment has now worked wonders. My mother-in-law is peachy, and the rest of the family pretty much respects our stand. My husband has been perfectly wonderful about it all, learning a lesson from one sister whose marriage is on the rocks because of family interference."

Her view of the other wife's problem, she goes on to say, is that she "is neither selfish nor jealous, as you surmised. I believe the sister-in-law is unspeakably petty and has refused to relinquish her brother to a woman who commands his first loyalty. In my book, the family comes a faraway second compared with husband, wife and children. Furthermore, if the husband must still cling to the apron strings of a mother or sister, it would seem to indicate that he is not ready for marriage, and is therefore immature in the marriage relationship."

Her conclusion is that she believes "everyone with in-law trouble would feel much better if the parties concerned moved away from the source of the conflict. The situation then comes into better perspective and can be measured for the treatment it deserves."

I think this reader of mine is a very clear-sighted woman, and that theoretically she is one per cent right. The only reason why what she says is not the some one hundred per cent right in the case under discussion is because she had the co-operation of her husband, who, she says, was "perfectly wonderful about all this," whereas the first wife has not. On the contrary, the second husband was completely unable to see the situation as it was, and there would have been no chance whatever of getting him to move far away from his sister. Possibly that might come later, if the wife in the meantime had been able to make things more peaceful. It could never happen while things remained so antagonistic. Both husband and wife have to work together to achieve such a Utopia as was brought about in the second situation.

FOUR RESCUED

Brantford, Nov. 6—(CP)— A mother and three young children escaped death by asphyxiation yesterday when natural gas fumes filled their home. Mrs. David Cleaves managed to give an alarm by telephoning just before she collapsed. Paul Cleaves, 7, was found wandering around the house in a daze. Overcome in their cribs were Vicki, 3, and Roger, 2.

Please "Christmas"—Not "Xmas"

Please don't buy a Christmas card with "Xmas" printed or engraved on it . . either on the cover or in the greeting. Please don't write "Xmas" in your Christmas messages. Please don't write "Xmas" on the cards you enclose with your Christmas gifts.

The word is Christmas . . the beautiful, endearing, inspiring word Christmas.

Note of Sympathy written on business letterhead

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Recently one of our clients died, and the gentleman in our office who serviced his account thought he should send the widow a note of condolence, since he had met her on a few occasions. He believed that the note should be handwritten on our business stationery, because the association had been a business one. However, I believe that a condolence note should be written on plain paper, regardless of the association. Will you please tell me your opinion?

A Daily Reader

I agree with the gentleman who wrote the note of condolence . . that because the association between him and the office client had been a business one (and apparently entirely a business one) it was completely appropriate and proper for him to write the note of sympathy on the business stationery. Indeed I think that undoubtedly to the widow this would have made the note an even more welcome tribute, the words of memorial to her husband from a business associate. And I agree with the man who wrote the note that it should be handwritten, not typewritten.

When bride's table and parents' table are combined

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What seating-arrangements would you suggest for the table at the wedding reception: bride, groom, best man, maid of honor, bride's mother and father, groom's mother and father, groom's small brother, the pastor and his wife and small daughter, a close friend of the bride and groom (who is to take pictures for them), two ushers?

L.

When the bride's table and the parents' table are to be combined . . . and this is a practical arrangement when the bride, as in this case, has only one attendant . . . I suggest this seating-arrangement:

The bride and groom to sit together in the centre of one side of the table. The bride at the right of the groom. (The wedding cake is placed directly in front of the bride and groom.) At the right of the bride, the best man. At the left of the groom, the maid of honor. At the left of the maid of honor, one of the ushers.

At the head of the table, the bride's mother, the hostess. At her right, the groom's father, the man guest of honor. At the end of the table opposite the bride's mother is the bride's father, the host.

At his right the groom's mother, the woman guest of honor. The pastor is seated at the left of the bride's mother; his wife is seated at the left of the bride's father. The second usher might be seated next to the pastor's wife. It would not be appropriate or customary to seat the groom's young brother and the pastor's young daughter at this table, . . this table is, and should be, for grown-ups only. Also I doubt if the couple's friend who is to take pictures would expect to be seated at this table; but if so and the bride wishes, she (or he) would be seated in the place most congenial.

But it is important that, no matter what the shape of the table or where the various units are placed, the general arrangement given above should be maintained. That is, it is most important who is seated at the right and who at the left . . . . these places are traditional.

BEAUTY

Treatment for oily skin

When we speak of the complexion, we usually refer particularly to the color and appearance of the skin, but the "perfect complexion" really embraces the skin of the whole body—or so we are told by those who are authorities on the subject. The face takes it cue from the entire system, and the aspect of the skin is no exception. The daily bath, with friction, is of cosmetic value because it helps the epidermal covering to function normally and to throw off wastes. Women are realizing more and more that beautifying must start with a sensible health program.

Nothing quite takes the place of soap and water, because a brisk lathering helps to remove dead skin scales. The cutaneous covering is constantly doing a hail-and-farewell act, as is your hair. To keep the skin from drying and flaking, nature provided a marvelous oiling system, placing a tiny gusher in every pore.

The activities of these glands are influenced by the diet. The poor dear who laments that her face looks as if it had just been larded, should cut down all fat foods, especially butter, cream, pastries, rich sauces and chocolates. Then she will be getting at the source of the trouble instead of depending upon the powder pad.

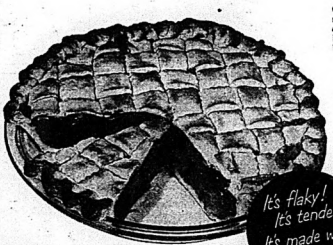
More fruit, fruit juices, vegetables and green salads will help considerably. She should drink plenty of water—four or five glasses a day.

Local treatment must not be neglected. A scrupulously clean skin is more likely to be a healthy one than a surface that is neglected. In the course of a day the human face can pick up an astonishing amount of atmospheric dust. There should, therefore, be a rousing face lathering at bedtime. Every particle of soap suds must be lured away, else the skin will be even shinier. There should be a rinsing with warm water, the application of a few moist, hot compresses, the cold water laving and gentle drying. Then witch hazel should be applied with pledgets of cotton.

In the morning, a cold rinsing is sufficient. Witch hazel should be used again. Or, if one prefers, one can buy special lotions for oily skins.

Excessive oiliness can lead to a flock of blackheads that, in turn, can develop into pustules. The skin fabric is likely to become coarse. So, if you are an oily, get busy with your beauty chores.

Fashion Flashes



A BOON to the small wardrobe is the sleeveless, suspenck sheath dress, done in faille, wool jersey or velveteen. Neck, below-waistfront and armholes are bound in black grosgrain. Dress closes with rhinestone studs. Very good on its own, and very dressy with furs. It takes beautifully to a white blouse for daytime wear.

Ask Comparative Cost of Projects Under Two Plans

Ottawa, Nov. 7 — (CP)—The Canadian Chamber of Commerce today renewed a request for an exhaustive inquiry to determine "the true comparative cost of government projects competing with private enterprise and the effect of such competition upon tax revenues and the business structure."

In a brief presented to Prime Minister St. Laurent and members of the cabinet, the Chamber said that despite the announced "profree enterprise policy of the government, there is a steady expansion in the scope and extent of governmental intervention in private enterprise."

Every commercial enterprise embarked on by the government narrowed the business tax base, which had to provide the revenue required by the government. Private enterprises in the field concerned were confronted with competition subsidized in various ways and in some instances protected by regulations.

Examples of competition with private enterprise by the federal government included radio, wheat and coarse grains, printing, motion pictures, cheese and other products.

"The Chamber urges that an exhaustive inquiry be made to determine the true comparative cost of government projects competing with private enterprise and the effect of such competition upon tax revenues and the business structure," the brief said.

The brief was presented by a delegation headed by Francis G. Winspear, of Edmonton, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. The delegation included other officers of the organization from various parts of Canada.

The brief contained the resolutions passed by the Chamber at its annual meeting at Banff, Alta., in September.

Other resolutions placed before the cabinet dealt with agriculture, Canadian business, communications, education, immigration, international trade, defence, natural resources and radio and television.

"Whipper" Billy Watson, well-known wrestler and safety club sponsor for boys will be the guest speaker at the father-and-son banquet of Eureka Lodge No. 233 A.F. and A.M. in the Masonic Temple tomorrow night. Watson will talk on "Safety and the Boy," and demonstrate some of the wrestling holds that carried him to an Empire and world's championship.

Woman Evidently Dies But Comes Back to Life

Washington, Nov. 7—CP—Columbia Hospital here today reported the case of a woman who apparently died but came back to life.

The woman, a 31-year-old Negro, gave no signs of life from four to 11 minutes, officials said. The hospital is trying to determine accurately how long the signs of life were absent. If it was 11 minutes, it was the longest such period in medical history, the officials said.

The signs of life disappeared after the woman was administered a spinal anaesthetic last week in preparation for a Caesarean operation. When signs of life failed, the doctors removed the child. Later signs of life appeared in the mother.

The condition of the mother and child are reported good today.

Five Candidates Decide to Run For Leadership

Toronto, Nov. 7. —(CP)— Ontario Liberals, beaten in the last three provincial elections, met this week to select a new leader who they hope will restore their party fortunes.

The party-leadership convention is the third since Mitchell F. Hepburn caused an upheaval in Liberal ranks with his surprise resignation late in 1942.

Five men have announced they definitely will seek the post vacated by Farquhar Oliver when he resigned in September, 1949, after two years as leader. There are at least three other possible candidates.

The sure starters: John G. Brown, Kitchener accountant and member of the Ontario Legislature for Waterloo North; Campbell Calder, lawyer and legislature member for London; H. Arnott Hicks, Hamilton business man who is a member of that city's Board of Control; John J. Sullivan, Hamilton lawyer; and Walter Thomson, lawyer and farmer who represents Dufferin constituency in the House of Commons.

Possibles are Harry Cassidy, Vancouver-born director of the school of Social Work at the University of Toronto; Charles W. Cox, member of the legislature for Fort William and a former Ontario Minister of Lands and Forests; Norman E. Hipel of Preston, former provincial cabinet minister and former member of the legislature for Waterloo South.

Race Wide Open

Pre - convention speculation casts Mr. Brown and Mr. Thomson in the role of favorites. Mr. Brown is known to have influential support, among federal cabinet ministers. Mr. Thomson, who has campaigned actively, also has support in federal circles. However, one party source emphasized that the race is still wide open, particularly if Mr. Hipel decides to run.

In a pre-convention gathering, the Young Liberals meet Wednesday, the day after the provincial Progressive Conservative Association winds up its two-day annual meeting. The convention starts at 10 a.m. Thursday. Nominations for the leadership are on Thursday afternoon and voting Friday afternoon. The convention also will consider a comprehensive policy statement.

When Mr. Hepburn resigned in 1942, he turned over to Gordon C. Conant of Oshawa, now Master of the Ontario Supreme Court, the premiership he had held since 1934. Two cabinet ministers resigned in protest against the step—Mr. Oliver and Harry C. Nixon, who has been member of the legislature for Brant since 1919.

Nixon Named

In 1943, a convention named Mr. Nixon as leader and he called an election in which the Liberals won 15 of the 90 legislature seats to 66 Progressive Conservatives and eight for the C.C.F. Mr. Hepburn, suffering personal defeat in his home riding of Elgin, resigned a second time and in 1947 Mr. Oliver was named leader.

Member of the legislature for Grey South since 1926, Mr. Oliver led the Liberals in their unsuccessful campaign in the 1948 provincial election. The Progressive Conservatives won 53 seats; the C.C.F. 21 and the Liberals 13.

Deer Taking Beating in North Bay District

North Bay, Nov. 7 — (CP) — The deer are taking a beating in this district but the wily elk seem to be faring above average.

Only nine elk had been shot by hunters by Saturday night, since the open season commenced last Wednesday.

No tally has been kept on the slaughter of deer — but it is believed to be high.

An open season on elk was declared this year from Nov. 1 to 25 because the animals have been found to be carrying a parasitic disease which may spread to domestic animals.

TWO MINUTES SILENCE

Toronto, Nov. 6—(CP)— Toronto's vegetarians held two minutes silence for the late George Bernard Shaw at their regular dinner meeting. Lee Pritzker, president of the local unit of the Canadian Vegetarian Union, reminded the group that the author was a vegetarian for 70 years and "fought constantly for the cause."

Simpsons to Go On 5-Day Week

Toronto, Nov. 7 — (CP) — The Robert Simpson Company today announced that a five-day working week will be adopted next Jan. 2 "throughout the entire company." At the same time, all staff members enrolled in the employees' savings and profit sharing fund will be provided with a $1,000 group life insurance policy, paid for annually by the company.

The organization operates department stores in Toronto, Montreal, London, Halifax and Regina; mail-order divisions in Toronto, Halifax, Regina and Vancouver; and 229 order offices and 25 agencies in other communities across Canada.

A company spokesman said there are more than 15,000 Simpson employees.

U.S. Admiral's Flag Flown by Athabaskan

Ottawa, Nov. 7 (CP)—H.C.C.S. Athabaskan, one of three Canadian destroyers operating off Korea, has flown the flag of a United States admiral.

Athabaskan carried Admiral Arthur D. Struble, commander of the U.S. 7th fleet, on an inspection of the inner harbor of Wonsan on the east coast of Korea.

The Canadian vessel was acting in support of the 7th fleet in operations off Wonsan Oct. 21 when the admiral chose it for a close-up inspection because it was smaller than the U.S. vessels under his command.

Necessary to Ban Communist Party By Legal Means

Toronto, Nov. 7—(CP)—Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, member of parliament for Hamilton West, said Monday banning the communist party by law in Canada is necessary to guarantee peace.

Mrs. Fairclough, only woman member of parliament, addressed the women's section of the Ontario Progressive Conservative Association in convention here. She told the 500 woman delegates her ideas on how to guarantee peace are identical with party leader George Drew who last week called for the communist party ban.

She said she was commenting on a letter received Sunday which drew her attention to a "world Peace Congress" to be held at Sheffield, England. It asked her to comment how peace might be guaranteed.

Mrs. Fairclough and Mrs. Drew, who also spoke, said the delegates should assist in the political education of Canada's young people.

Mrs. Drew said Progressive Conservatives in Ontario had reason to be proud of a provincial government that had done and was doing a great job.

Premier Frost in a talk said the Ontario government is looking forward to "co-operation with all levels of government in expanding facilities for scientific research" in the province's five universities.

CANADIAN DOLLAR

New York, Nov. 6—(CP)—The Canadian dollar was up 1-16 of a cent at a discount of 3 7-8 per cent in terms of United States funds in foreign exchange dealings today. The pound sterling was unchanged at $2.80 1-8.

Quentin J. Gwyn

Ottawa, Nov. 7 (CP) — Quentin J. Gwyn of Montreal was chosen president of the Canadian Exporters' Association Monday.

He succeeds Brigadier James A. Roberts of Hamilton, president for the last year.

Mr. Gwyn and Brgi. Roberts are members of the Association's directorate, elected Monday at the annual convention. Officers are chosen by the directorate.

Mr. Gwyn, a native of Norwich England, came to Canada in 1939 as director and sales manager of Fry-Cadbury, Ltd., Montreal. He joined the House of Seagram in 1946 and is its assistant director of export.

Charles S. Leckie, Toronto; James Milner, Montreal; and Hazen Russell, St. John's, Nfld., were chosen vice-presidents, and Howard S. Griffin, Toronto, honorary treasurer.

Thinks A-Scientist Is Now in Russia

London, Nov. 7—(Reuters)— George Strauss, Minister of Supply, told parliament today he had no doubt that Dr. Bruno Pontecorvo, missing British atom scientist, was in Russia.

But Strauss added that he had no conclusive evidence of the scientists whereabouts.

Will Not Deal With Question Of City Manager

Hamilton, Nov. 7 (CP)—Hamilton voters will not deal with the question of a city manager form of government in the civic election Dec. 6, but Board of Control will recommend to city council that a representative citizens' committee be appointed to investigate the advisability of such a change and report back to the 1951 board.

In recommending this action today, Board of Control also decided to cancel tonight's special meeting of city council, which had been called to discuss the question of putting the city manager proposal to a vote.

1950 is the fiftieth anniversary of the Wear-Ever line in Canada. These aluminum cooking utensils were introduced here at the beginning of the century. Their popularity grew so rapidly that, by 1912, a new factory was needed to supply the demand. This was built in Toronto. It was the first plant in Canada to make aluminum articles—and this was only a dozen years after the first Canadian smelter had started making aluminum ingots at Shawinigan Falls.

Today Alcan has twelve plants, all of them engaged in the aluminum industry; while more than 1000 independent companies across Canada shape the metal into all sorts of useful forms—from kettles to freight cars.

Panhandle Cuts Volume of Export Gas to Ontario

Washington, Nov. 7 — (AP) — Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Company Monday cut from 27,- 230,000,000 to 16,250,000,000 cubic feet the natural gas it proposes to export to Ontario each year.

Panhandle filed with the Federal Power Commission an amended application for authority to export the gas to Union Gas Company of Canada, Limited.

Union Gas operates in Southwestern Ontario. The proposed daily delivery rate ranges from 25,000,000 to 67,000,000 cubic feet. The base price would be 27½ cents a thousand cubic feet.

In its original application, filed last March, Panhandle proposed to export an average of about 75,- 000,000 cubic feet a day.

Panhandle plans to deliver the gas through an existing pipeline under the Detroit River near Detroit.

The Commission authorized construction of the pipeline in April, 1948. At that time it gave Panhandle authority to export up to 5,500,000,000 cubic feet of gas a year to Union, provided the needs of Panhandle's customers in the United States are met first.

The Panhandle export proposal is part of a consolidated proceeding now under way before the Commission. Hearings are to resume here Dec. 5.

Jury Named To Try Fosbraey

Picton, Nov. 7 — (CP) — Selection of a jury was started Monday and 24-year-old James Fosbracy prepared to stand trial a second time for the murder of his pretty young wife.

Fosbracy, a native of Slittingbourne, Kent, England, and RAF veteran, was convicted earlier this year at Napanee and sentenced to be hanged Sept. 21. But the Ontario Appeal Court quashed the conviction and ordered a new trial.

He asked — and received — an order transferring the second trial to Picton because of his contention of prejudice against him in Napanee.

Mrs. June Marie Fosbracy, who met her husband when he trained in Canada during the war, was stabbed to death on a Napanee street Nov. 28, 1949. Fosbracy surrendered to police a short time later.

The Crown contends he killed his wife out of jealousy because she had left him and because of his claim that she was having an affair with another man.

DRIVER CRUSHED

Laprairie, Que., Nov. 6 (CP) — Pierre Valois, 37, of nearby Ile Jesus De Berthier was crushed to death yesterday in the cab of his truck that went out of control and overturned on the highway, two miles west of this town near Montreal. Police said Valois apparently lost control of the truck on a sharp curve.

Canada's Apple Crop Below Last Year's Harvest

Ottawa, Nov. 7 (CP) —Though Canada's apple crop is bigger than previously anticipated, it still is below last year's harvest.

The Bureau of Statistics said Monday that a mid-October estimate of the crop places it at 15,738,000 bushels, about four per cent higher than September expectations, but 13 percent below last year's 18,131,000.

The upward revision over September resulted from improved sizing in Nova Scotia, Quebec and Ontario. The estimate for New Brunswick and British Columbia was unchanged.

In a general review of the Canadian fruit harvest, the bureau said the pear crop in Ontario also is better than expected. The mid-Canada estimate in October rose to 753,000 bushels, compared with an estimated 716,000 in September. Last year's crop amounted t..l to 1,000,000.

A minor revision in the Ontario grape crop estimate brings the Canadian total to 90,315,000 pounds, less than one percent below the September estimate. The crop this season is of record proportions, and is 76 percent largerthan the 51,194,000 pounds a year the bureau said.

The peach crop is estimated at 1,151,000 bushels, compared with last year's 2,011,000; plums and prunes, 521,000 bushels, against 827,000; cherries 324,000 bushels against 491,000; strawberries 72,- 467,000 quarts, compared with 26,251,000; raspberries 11,021,000 quarts against 10,913,000; and loganberries 866,000 pounds against 877,000.

U.S. Elections At-a-Glance

(By The Canadian Press)

An estimated record turnout of voters in an off-year United States election today elect 36 Senators, 432 members of the House of Representatives, and 32 state governors. (Maine has already chosen a Republican governor and three Republican Representatives).

The Democrats now outnumber Republicans in the Senate 54 to 42. In the House Democrats outnumber Republicans 259 to 169 with one American Labor Party member and six vacancies. In the governorships, Democrats outnumber Republicans 29 to 19. A Senate majority is 49; a House majority 218.

Estimated vote: 42,000,000, on the basis of estimates by state election and party officials.

Estimated number of eligible voters: 70,000,000.

Estimated potential voters: 98,- 000,000, including armed forces overseas and persons 18-20 allowed to vote in Georgia.

Polls close: As early as 4 p.m. EST in parts of Rhode Island and Massachusetts, and as late as 11 p.m. EST in Washington, Oregon and part of California.

In the four off-year elections since the start of the "New Deal" in 1933, Republicans have made net gains in the Senate and House in the last three. In 1934 Democrats picked up 10 Senate and nine House seats.

NO POWER CUT - OFFS

Toronto, Nov. 7 — (CP) — M. J. McHenry, promotion director of the Ontario Hydro - Electric Power Commission, said Monday indications now are that with the co-operation of consumers Ontario will get through the next few months without power cut - offs or restrictions.

He told a meeting of the Canadian Association of Consumers that industry was co-operating well and extension of daylight time in some centres had helped clear a doubtful situation.

Hydro also had benefited by 1,000,000 more kilowatt-hours per day from the federal government's approval of water diversion through the Welland Canal to the hydro plant at Decew Falls.

Woman Given Only Seven Days On Bigamy Charge

Toronto, Nov. 7—(CP) — Mrs. Olga Newman, 29, was sentenced to seven days for bigamy yesterday but the sentence was dated from the day of her conviction seven days ago.

In a written judgment, Magistrate Hand said he believed Mrs. Newman had been the victim of malice at the hands of a younger sister and the two men she married.

The magistrate said he noticed during the trial that Mrs. Newman's sister sat between the two men and between smiles engaged in a number of whispering conversations with both.

Mrs. Newman had said she had no choice in leaving Ernest Weir because "my sister wanted him and he kept on beating me up."

She married Percy Edwin Newman in Sault Ste. Marie in 1940, and went through a form of marriage with Weir in Toronto in 1947, believing her husband was dead.

More Trichinosis Cases in Sudbury, Check Pork Sales

Sudbury, Nov. 7—(CP)—With four new cases discovered within the past three days, trichinosis cases in Sudbury are rising to alarming proportions, J. B. Cook, the city's medical officer of health, said today. The disease is contracted by eating partially-cooked pork.

"We still don't know where it is coming from," Dr. Cook said. At the beginning of last week three cases of the disease had been diagnosed and sanitary inspectors set out to check pork sold in the city.

On Thursday diaphragms of 35 hogs were sent to Toronto for laboratory examination and 40 more were sent Friday. Scores more sent earlier in the week showed no sign of the disease.

Dr. Cook warned today that pork in any form should be thoroughly cooked.

U.S. WINS HONOR

Munich, Germany, Nov. 7. — (Reuters) — The world beer drinking record has been unofficially handed to the United States by Bavarian brewers who reported American consumption has exceeded that of heavy-drinking Bavarian for the first time. The brewers said Bavarians had drunk only 70 quarts each a year against the average American consumption of 75. In 1913 Bavarians drank 300 quarts a man.

Met Opens With Biggest Audience In Its History

New York, Nov. 7—AP—Another hit opened on Broadway Monday night at the Metropolitan Opera House.

The old institution on the edge of the midtown theatre district began its 1950-51 season with a new production of Verdi's Don Carlo.

The opening night, always a social event, was an artistic one, too. For a welcome change, society was not content to ogle society; it ogled the opera.

Everything was brand new: general manager, the first in 15 years, new stage manager, for the first time ever a woman; three singers making their United States as well as Met debuts, and a fourth, her debut at the Met; all the cast, chorus and all sets and costumes specially designed for this occasion.

Rudolph Bing replaced Edward Johnson of Guelph, Ont., as general manager this season.

Of all the bouquets to pass out, one of the biggest should go to Margaret Webster, borrowed from the theatre to stage this production. Nobody got in anybody's way. Action walked around as if they had someplace to go, or stood still naturally as if they didn't. And the singers acted as if they meant it. Eyes did not roll to heaven, too familiar hamming was eliminated.

The opera, laid in the 16th century, tells of Spanish King Philip II's struggle with the church, with its rebellious son and heir Don Carlo, and with his oppressed subjects, the Flemings, who are befriended by Rodrigo, a grandee. The material is dramatic: frustrated love, jealousy, betrayal, a shooting, the clash of swords. The mood is gloomy and tragic.

Two Italians in Debut

American debuts were by two Italians, basso Cesare Siepi as the king and Mezzo Fedora Barbieri as the princess of Eboli, and by Delia Rigal, soprano from Argentina, as Elizabeth of Valois, wife of Philip and beloved by her stepson Don Carlo. The Met debut was by Lucine Amara, as the cheerily heard off-stage celestial voice.

Familiars in the cast included Jerome Hines sporting as Carlo, Robert Merrill as Rodrigo, Jerome Hines as grand Inquisitor, Anne Bollinger as Tsebaldi and Emerey Darcy as royal herald.

The new singers as well as the old deserved the warm applause they received.

General manager Rudolph Bing, whose first show here this was, could have used a really-great voice, and on the basis or this performance alone he did not have one. He has had difficulty getting some singers into the country because of new Immigration regulations.

But the voices he did choose were all better than good and he made the most of them. It was an exciting-to-ordinated production.

Conductor Fritz Steidry had the whole performance under expert command. The sets designed by Rolph Gerard were simple, impressive and handsome—in particular the first of the six showing the tomb of Charles V at the cloisters

KISSLESS BRIDE

Los Angeles, Nov. 7. (AP)— Claiming she was a "kissless bride", actress Jean Wallace, 27, former wife of Franchot Tone, Monday granted an annulment yesterday of her marriage to Jim Lloyd Randall, 23, former army sergeant.

Dept. Wants Heads of Deer, Tails of Grouse

Toronto, Nov. 7 — (CP)—The Ontario Lands Department wants the heads of white-tailed deer and the wings and tails of ruffled grouse.

It needs the deer heads so that its research division can continue an age study of deer. Head and antler measurements will be correlated with results of examination of the teeth.

The Department Monday asked hunters who shoot deer on Manitoulin Island or south of the French and Mattawa Rivers to turn over heads of bucks and does to sportsmen's organizations or to game wardens.

The grouse wings and tails are to be used in studies aimed at forecasting periods of abundance and scarcity of the birds. The department said hunters wishing to co-operate should remove tail feathers and one wing from each bird shot and place them together in a sealed envelope (one envelope for each bird) on which has been written the date and the locality in which the bird was taken. The envelopes should be sent to district foresters or to game wardens.

Fleeing Garrison Pushes 30 Miles

Saigon, Indo-China, Nov. 7 — (AP) —Laokay's fleeing garrison has pushed 30 miles in its southwestern dash for safety, but reports the loss of its reconnaissance platoon, a French spokesman disclosed today.

Trekking through enemy-infested mountains, the 1,200 man column has reached Binhlu, the spokesman said.

The French garrison is being harassed by communist led Vietminh auld faces the danger of interception by strong enemy units who may cross the Red River from the east.

The spokesman announced the successful evacuation of a chain of small defence posts in the foothills around Haobinh, 30 miles southwest of Hanoi. He said the entire French force in that area has passed safely through the hills and reached French lines on the flatlands of the Red River delta.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

THEY'LL DO!

It was the consensus of a lot of the fans in Memorial Arena last night that the 1950 edition of the Belleville Redmen will do. For a team that was celebrating its fourth return to skates this season the redshirts turned in a fine display against the speedy better-conditioned "Peter" of Peterborough. And their 7-4 defeat was nothing to weep bitter tears over, nor garb the front windows with funeral crepe.

* * *

From their display last night, albeit they plainly showed lack of practice, for their plays were not clicking as they should, a lot of their passes went astray and except for a few periodical lapses the defence held up well, it must be said that this 1950 edition of the Redshirts are no pantywaists. They proved they can hand it out as well as take it and although the greater part of the rugged checking was clean, they showed a willingness to turn on the torso whenever the opportunity presented itself.

* * *

In a matter of fact in the first period, when the best hockey of the night was played, it looked as though the Gobellites might come up with a surprise win over the Merry Men of Swarts (at least that's what they were on their manly bosoms). They held the speedy Liftlockers check for check and skate for skate in a fast inaugural display, clean, because nary a whistle tooted until nearly eight minutes had fled. They echoed when diminutive Bobby Mac Mulvihill scored the first goal of the hockey season here after 15 minutes to give the Reds the lead.

* * *

However, they faded a bit in the second chukker and the fast-skating Petes took quick advantage of the lapse, scoring four goals in a row. The Reds, however, refused to fold in the third session and roared back for a spell of markers against a lone scoring lashup of the foe. Jack Keays turned in a fine effort especially in the third period when he threw back incoming Petes forwards in a neat effort.

* * *

Coach Gobell has a well - balanced squad and there is nothing wrong with them that practice and conditioning won't cure. Later reinforcements will also help; we are of the opinion this Redmen team will be heard from aplenty before playoff time rolls around.

* * *

On the other side of the ledger, the Petes have a fast team of opportunists, that take advantage of every 'break' or scoring chance that comes their way. They appear to be well - coached and in good condition, but naturally, they too, will improve as the season advances. Junior West and Dugan with Wade caught our eye and of course the veteran Ray Harding in the nets hasn't forgotten much of the oldtime seasoning and ability.

* * *

Opening ceremonies saw Hizzoner Mayor Allin drop the puck. With the mayor in a pre - game parade were City Comptroller Harold Bateman, Arena Commission Chairman Alderman Don Thomas, Alderman Claude Tice, President Harper McKitrick of the Redmen Hockey Club, Messrs Jack Devine, Frank Follwell, M.P., Frank Grandame, John Dall and Perry Everett of the club exec., Walter Best and Lorne Cook, Kingston OHA member and convener. The Kinmen's Boys' Band did a grand job dispensing rhythms prior to the game and their efforts were greatly appreciated.

* * *

There is a movement afoot to enter a Belleville team in the Trent Valley Hockey League, Ronny Frulick informed us last night. With Ronny in the venture is Sammy Semark and some hockey - minded youths. The foundation of the squad is being laid at a meeting to be held in the YMCA tomorrow night at 8 and all players eligible to play are asked to attend. The boys are starting from scratch and they will appreciate any help anyone can give them, financially or otherwise. They will play their home games in Brighton. Here's a good chance for players over Junior age, or of Junior age for that matter, who cannot make the OHA grade to get in some hockey this winter.

SEE AND HEAR

Major Percy K. Ketchenon, that erudite secretary of the Carling Conservation Club, well - known war veteran and sportsman comes up with some brand new information on his pet subject bolstered with some colorful films on "Years to Protect" and "Birdland Calling." The amiable and well-informed major will lecture and show the films at the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans clubrooms, Front Street tonight and on Thursday night will arrange a special showing and talk in the officers' mess of the 9th Anti Tank Regiment.

The Carling Conservation Club's films covering the wild life of Canada have been acclaimed all across the province as a most succesful and entertaining medium of conservation. All interested in the conservation of Canada's wild life should not miss these opportunities to see the films and hear Major Ketcheson's informative talks.

NICE GESTURE

Ability will not go unrewarded in the senior hockey club ranks this winter. Walter Bent, program director at the YMCA and recently appointed physical training instructor of the team, has generously donated a trophy to be awarded the player judged by poll to be the most valuable to the team.

The player will be selected by the poll to be conducted by spectators during the regular playing season. A ballot will be inserted in the club's forthcoming program, and spectators will be asked to use the ballots and deposit them in a receptacle which will be available in the Arena.

WILL SPILL THE MAPLES

The Central Ontario Bowling League got its organization completed at a meeting held in the Bowl-O-Drome the other day. Five teams will comprise the loop this year, Napanee, Belleville, Picton, Trenton and Brighton. Teams will play a double home-and-home schedule, it is announced, and it is expected that play will start within the next few days.

Rugged Play Marks Inaugural Senior Hockey Tilt As Petes Down Unpractised Reds 7-4

Showing a lack of condition and practice a rugged Belleville Redmen team went down to a 7-4 defeat before the Peterborough Petes in the opening game of the senior hockey season here last night.

It was the "Petes" third consecutive victory and the win puts them in top slot in the group standing with their city mates the Eagles in second position.

The Redmen surprised nearly 1,500 fans with hard-hitting display with both squads indulging in rugged checking, the most of it legal. Eight penalties were handed out by referee Pat Patterson, five of them coming in the third period.

Joe Nolan and Fryia of the Petes furnished a rugged rhubarb with a minute to go in the third chukker and when the ice brawl continued in the penalty box both were given majors.

Hold Petes to Tie

The three lines of the hometsters showed a marked equality in their first appearance held the fast-skating Petes to one-all tie in the first period. Both teams played the game clean although the checking was heavy with no damage done.

The Redmen willed slightly in the second period and showed signs of the speedy tempo of the game. The Petes retaliated in the attack and rammed home four goals to salt the game away against a fine return from the redshirts. Two of the goals were screen shots which Jack Keays, new Belleville player never saw.

The Redmen flashed their first period form in the third period and with diminutive Brian Mulvihill pacing the attack outscored the Petes two to one. Both goals lies were outstanding with Harding kicking out consistently and Red forwards in the first period and Keays doing a fine job in the third period, when Petes rushed to the attack on well-played sorties.

Petes Had Advantage

The Peterborough team deserved to win on the night's play. Their combination plays clicked the most of the time and they were very effective around the opposing nets. They had a plain advantage in team play and condition and thereby hangs part of the tale.

The teams battled on fairly even terms in the first period with the Red Devils just giving Harding plenty of trouble. The clock showed seven minutes 35 seconds before the Petes whistle tooted and it was until the 15 minute mark had been reached that Mulvihill took Johnny Green's pass and raced in to beat Harding clean for the first score. The Petes tested Keays with some stiff shots and two minutes later Garvey who was parked just outside the crease batted Bill Miller's blueline pass.

Mulvihill scored his second goal of the game after two minutes of the second period, taking Tommy Schreider's rinkwide pass to beat Harding. The Petes staged several organized attacks, took advantage of the Redshirts tiring and rammed home four goals in six minutes. Wade grabbed a pair with Horton and Fryia accounting for the remainder. Two of the goals were scored while MacDonald and Nolan were in the sin bin.

Mulvihill Got Three

Play became more rugged in the third period. The Redmen staged a ganging attack and missed closely on several occasions. "Junior" West finally grabbed a loose puck and darted rink length to beat Keays to give the Petes a 7-2 lead.

Back came the redshirts and at the five minute mark Mulvihill took Jackie Wardhaugh's goalmouth pass to beat Harding for his hat trick. A minute later Day and Free spearheaded a Belleville attack with the former banging the rubber home.

Things brightened and when Nolan and Fryia started slugging and pushing with several players and the officials rushing in to break it up. The players continued the fisticuffs in the penalty box and were given majors.

Mulvihill with three goals, Schreider and Keays looked best for the Red although all players turned in a good performance. Wade, Dugan, West with the Leonards and Tompkins went well for the winners.

The teams:

Peterborough: Goal, Harding; defence, Davison, Schreider; centre, Wade; wings, Duggan, Floyd; subs, Tompkins, G. Leonard, Fryia, West, Garvey, Collins, Horton, Miller.

Belleville: Goal, Keays; defence, Schreider, Nolan; centre, L. Goyer; wings, Day, Goyer; subs Free, Schmidt, Mulvihill, Wardhaugh, Green, MacDonald, Doug Day, Bell.

Referee: Pat Patterson, Kingston; linesman, W. Holway, Belleville.

Veteran Centre Buffalo Bisons Leading Scorer

New York, Nov. 7 (AP) — Al Demarco, veteran centre for the Buffalo Bisons, today topped the American Hockey League scoring parade in all offensive departments.

Demarco leads the field in points with 26 to first in goals with 12 and in assists with 16.

Training Demarco in the point derby are Jackie Gordon, Cincinnati, 22; George Sullivan, Hershey, 20, Grant Warwick and Paul Meger, Demarcos linemates, at 18 points each, and Fern Perreault of Cincinnati at 16.

Gil Mayer of the Pittsburgh Hornets has the best record among the goal-tenders. Mayer has allowed 31 goals in 13 games for a 2.38 mark. Johnny Bower of Cleveland, Emile (The Cat) Francis of Cincinnati, Ralph Almas of St. Louis and Ab Miller of New Haven are tied for the lead in shutouts at one each.

Jack Evans of Cincinnati is the leagues "bad man" with 54 minutes in penalties.

Two Balls Used By Officials At Edmonton

(By The Canadian Press)

Officials bent over backwards to keep things properly balanced for both sides in the all-important first game of the Western Interprovincial Football Union final at Edmonton last Saturday.

Arm-chair statisticians say the officials did more passing than either backfield in the spine-tingling thriller won by Edmonton Eskimos 17-16.

Officials used two balls — a yellow one and a white one. When Winnipeg Blue Bombers, in white pants, took over the offensive the yellow ball went into play. The white one was substituted when the yellow-panted Esks went on the attack.

Apprentice Jockey Gilbert Rownitree booted home four winners at Toronto's Dufferin Park Monday as the curtain came down on Canadian racing for 1950. It duplicated his performance of last Saturday when he also rode four straight in the second; Zapolya, owned by J. M. Monaghan of Montreal, at $8.50 in the third; Hickory Lea at $7.20 in the fourth and Good Story at $16 in the featured sixth event. His eight winners during the meeting's last two days brought his total for the last two weeks to 19, two short of the total ridden by Darrell Hartley, Calgary apprentice.

Viscount Alexander, who probably boots the longest kickoff ball of any Governor-General, won't be able to start this year's East-West final at Toronto.

Aides said Monday he was greatly disappointed that long-standing engagements would prevent him from kicking off at the Nov. 25 Grey Cup classic.

His Excellency is down for a series of public appearances that day at Montreal and Lachute Que.

An old rugger player, Viscount Alexander got off kicks of 22 and 27 yards in launching the Grey Cup game in 1945 and 1949. His best mark is about 35 yards in opening a game here last year.

Fernando Gagnon of Quebec, Canadian bantamweight champion, knocked out Johnny Ardizini of Washington, D.C., in the fourth round of a scheduled 10-round boxing feature match in Quebec City last night. Gagnon weighed 116 1-4, Ardulni, 121 1-4.

Tommy Farr, former British heavyweight boxing champion attempting a comeback, scored a third-round knockout over Piet Wilde, Belgian champion, before a crowd of 9,000 at Leicester, England last night.

Farr weighed 196 to Wilde's 205 1-2. The fight was scheduled for 10 rounds.

The 36-year-old Briton had difficulty in getting inside Wilde's defences until the third, when he suddenly crossed a right to the Belgian's jaw.

Wilde fell in a sitting position. He was getting up at the count of 10 but the referee ruled he failed to beat the count.

Boos and shouts greeted the decision. Farr was howled down as he tried to talk to the crowd.

Branch Rickey New General Manager of Bucs

Pittsburgh, Nov. 7 — AP — Branch Rickey, generally regarded as baseball's shrewdest executive, has a brand new challenge today — lifting the Pittsburgh Pirates out of the National League cellar.

Rickey is the new vice president and general manager of the Bucs—a team that hasn't won a pennant since 1927.

The 69-year-old man with the bushy eyebrows and the fat cigar didn't bat an eye yesterday, when Pirate president John Galbreath told the press conference the rumors about Rickey coming to the Bucs were true.

A little later, when congratulatory remarks were being passed around, Rickey beamed as only Rickey can.

Rickey has a five-year contract at an unannounced salary. There's a clause permitting him to extend the contract another five years.

What will happen to the club's general manager, portly Roy Hamley? Rickey isn't prepared to say at the moment, but he smiled and added:

"I'm not familiar with the titles in the club's corporate structure, so I see nothing wrong with having two or three general managers.

"Roy will continue to do much the same job as he has in the past, concentrating on players. My son (Branch Rickey, Jr.) will have a similar responsibility.

Young Rickey has been associated with his father several years and was expected to go along after the "Mahatma" resigned last week as president and general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Rickey said that in his new contract there are no conditions for buying Pirate stock.

Rickey, the man who built the St. Louis Cardinal farm system, and who brought pennant winners to both the Cards and the Dodgers, was his old cagey self when he got down to discussing the immediate future.

Asked whether Bill Meyer will be back to finish the last year of his contract as manager, he said: "I'll be able to answer that in a month." He also said he hasn't made up his mind about possible player trades.

Seven Players From American League Named on All-Stars

New York, Nov. 7 (AP)—Seven players from the American league that finished the season with the 1950 major baseball leagues' all-star team selected for The Associated Press by 361 sports writers and sportscasters from coast to coast.

Half of the 16 big league clubs, four in each circuit, are represented in the AP's fifth annual all-star squad.

The world-champion New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox are the only clubs to have more than one representative, in addition to shortstop Phil Rizzuto, the most popular of the 11 selections, the Yanks landed outfielder Joe DiMaggio and catcher Yogi Berra. The Red Sox provide first baseman Walt Dropo and utility man Billy Goodman.

Not a single member of the National League champion Philadelphia Phils made the team.

The all-star team:

First base—Walter Dropo, Red Sox.

Second base—Jackie Robinson, Dodgers.

Third base—George Kell, Tigers.

Shortstop—Phil Rizzuto, Yankees.

Left field—Ralph Kiner, Pirates.

Right field—Stan Musial, Cardinals.

Centre—Joe DiMaggio, Yankees.

Righthanded pitcher — Bob Lemon, Indians.

Lefthanded pitcher—Warren Spahn, Braves.

Utility—Billy Goodman, Red Sox.

Five of the players are holdovers from the 1949 all-star team. They are Jackie Robinson, Geo. Kell, Phil Rizzuto, Stan Musial and Ralph Kiner.

Williams Fallied

Ted Williams, who finished fifth among the flychasers, failed to make the team for the first time since the poll was first instated in 1946. The Red Sox slugger was established for two months with a fractured elbow.

Rizzuto, the American League's most valuable player, was named on the most ballots, 360. Kell, runner-up to Boston's Billy Goodman for the junior circuit's batting title, received the second highest number of votes, 325. The only freshman to make the team, Dropo, received 305 votes.

DiMaggio, who with Musial and Kiner comprise the outfield, received the smallest number of votes by a winner. He had 199.

The team boasts seven .300 hitters, five players who drove in 100 or more runs and who clouted 25 or more homers, the National League's batting, home run and runs batted in king as well as the American League's RBI leader. The squad represents three power hitters who walloped 107 homers and drove in 347 runs.

O.H.A. Decision Not Pleasing To Roy Mason

Guelph, Nov. 7 (CP) — Roy Mason, manager of Guelph Biltmores, charged in a statement Monday that the Ontario Hockey Association executive held meetings to hear "coached up decisions" that have been made at the express direction of Maple Leaf Gardens."

His statement followed an OHA executive ruling cancelling a player deal between his club and Toronto St. Michael's College, both of the Junior "A" series.

Mason was supported by Arnold Somerville, Biltmore's secretary, who said Clubb carried out O.H.A. instructions to the letter in the deal by which Guelph was to send two players and $500 in cash to St. Mike's for forward Willy Marshall.

The Biltmore secretary John Negladiuk and Ken Laufman to report to St. Mike's but the latter refused.

Somerville also charged that George Panter, OHA business manager, gave the executive only one side of the story at the recent meeting of the cancelled deal of Guelph-St. Mike's deal.

He said the meeting decided the case in St. Mike's favor on the contents of a telegram sent to St. Mike's by Laufman. Panter, Somerville said, did not read a letter to the OHA stating his telegram had been dictated by coach Bob Davidson of Toronto Marlboros.

Neither Panter nor officials of Maple Leaf Gardens were available for comment.

Hunters Shoot Record Number Of Pheasants

Sandusky, O., Nov. 7—AP—Hunters, shot a record total of 25,700 pheasants in a recent four-day open season on cocks and hens at nearby Pelee Island, Ont.

Allan W. Stokes, chief of the Pelee Island pheasant project, said the kill of about 2½ birds an acre has never been equalled anywhere in the world and was almost twice the 1949 bag.

Stokes said this year's liberal season on hens was to reduce extensive spring crop damage.

Pelee's pheasant population jumped from 10,000 in the fall of 1947 to 35,000 this fall. The island was not stocked during the period.

Stokes urged hunters shooting banded birds to send in the band numbers to the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests at Toronto.

Max Bentley Leading Scorer National Loop

Montreal, Nov. 7—CP—One of the big reasons for the brilliant showing of the Toronto Maple Leafs, undefeated in 10 games, is smooth play-making Max Bentley, who stands atop the National Hockey League scoring parade.

The veterans' centre last week collected six points to take over first place with 14 points—four goals and 10 assists. Montreal Canadiens' Maurice Richard, who had led since the start of the season, is two point behind the Delisle, Sask., native with nine goals and four assists.

Ted Kennedy of Toronto is third with 11 points on three goals and eight assists. Grouped in fourth place with 10 are Tod Sloan and Cal Gardner, both of Toronto, and Gordie Howe of Detroit.

The Maple Leafs, who have not lost a game since dropping their season opener, 2-1, to Chicago Black Hawks at Toronto Oct. 14, stand first in the league standings. They have won seven and tied three of 10 points, five more than Detroit Red Wings.

Rookie goalie Terry Sawchuk of Detroit displaced Jack Gelineau atop the net-minding department. Sawchuk, with one shutout to his credit, has allowed 16 goals in nine games for a 1.78 average.

Toronto's Turk Broda, with three shutouts to his credit, has miscued 13 times in eight games, however. However, the team goal-tending average—basis for awarding the Vezina Trophy—is 1.82. Al Rollins, who shares the goal duties with Broda has a 2.33 average.

Canadiens continued as the most penalized team with 128 minutes. Fern Flaman of Boston is the penalty leader with 37 minutes.

Special Delivery Jones High Big Four Scorer

Toronto, Nov. 7 — (CP)— American imports provided most of the scoring punch in the eastern Canada big four football union this season.

Statistics compiled by the Canadian Press show that import Edgar (Special Delivery) Jones of Hamilton Tiger-Cats walked off with individual scoring honors with his record 106 points in 12 games.

Moreover, 19 Americans scored 501 points while 37 Canadians divided the other 395 of the 896 racked up over the 10-week schedule.

Jones, who formerly played with the professional Cleveland Browns, finished in front of Ulysses Curtis, Negro halfback with Toronto Argonauts who scored 70 points in 11 games. Curtis played with Florida A. and M. in the U.S.

Virgil Wagner, who came from Belleville, Ill., in 1946 to join Montreal Alouettes, finished third with 60 points. It was the first season that Wagner finished below first place in the Big Four lists since he entered Canadian football. His 77 points last season was the previous record high for the union.

Bill Gregus of the Tiger-Cats, who came from Wake Forest College, stood fourth with 50 points. Nick Volpe of the Argos ranked fifth and stood first among the Canadians. He had 44 points on 22 converts and one field goal.

In the Intercollegiate Union, Bob McFarlane of the University of Western Ontario Mustangs heads the list with 34 points in five games. The college schedule winds up next Saturday. Fred Wilmot of McGill Redmen, who comes from Calgary, ranks second with 26.

COMIC COURT WINS

Melbourne, Australia, Nov. 7 (CP) — Top-weighted Comic Court, generally regarded as Australia's best race horse, today won the Melbourne Cup, biggest turf event in the Commonwealth.

The five-year-old son of Powers-Court out of Witty Maid, carrying 131 pounds, ran the two miles in the record time of three minutes, 19 1-5 seconds. It broke the Australian two-mile record by one-quarter second.

Second was the four-year-old mare, Chicquita, carrying 122 pounds. Third was four-year-old Morse Code, a gelding carrying 104 pounds.

Dewey Winds Up TV Marathon

New York, Nov. 7— Governor Thomas E. Dewey, weary but still talking strongly, wound up a marathon television stint early today to end his re-election campaign.

In an off-and-on schedule of appearances, he slugged it out with his Democrat-Liberal opponent right down to the wire.

At one time, his Democratic opponent, representative Walter A. Lynch was telecasting 50 feet away in another studio in the building.

The Republican governor went before the cameras at 6 a.m. EST Monday and answered about 5,000 questions sent in by telephone.

He was in the studio for 18 hours and before the cameras about six hours in all, speaking about 20 minutes out of each hour.

66 BOMB SHELTERS

New York, Nov. 7, (AP)—Proposals to build 60 bomb shelters under Manhattan's parks for about 1,500,000 persons, were discussed by civilian defence officials yesterday. Such shelters are planned to serve both as bomb protection and peace-time parking facilities. Plans for similar projects in the Bronx and Brooklyn are practically completed.

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 7. — (AP) — Louis Hayward was again swashing buckles this week. Hayward is a leading exponent of the noble craft that reaches back to the days of the first Douglas Fairbanks.

"It's quite profitable," commented the actor, "especially since I get a percentage of the profits with each picture. That not only provides some nice money here, but in frozen money overseas. I can go over to Italy and England and spend it on vacations."

But despite the financial advantage, Hayward would like to get away from swashbuckling. And he thinks a guy named Shakespeare might help him.

Shakespeare

"After I finish another picture," he said, "I'm going to New York to see if I can play some Shakespeare with the group that Margaret Webster and Maurice Evans have. Of course, I might end up in a swashbuckling role, but at least I might be able to convince Hollywood I can act."

Actually, Hayward came from Britain in 1934 as a dramatic actor. A protege of Noel Coward, he was picked by Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne to appear with them in "Point Valaine" in New York. His dramatic ability was acclaimed by the critics, Hollywood nabbed him.

"The swashbuckling came about by chance," he said. "I had done a picture called 'The Duke of West Point' with Louis Hayward. The producer, Edward Small, kept me on for 'The Man in the Iron Mask.' It was a big hit and I've been doing mostly swashbuckling ever since."

Capsule Review

"Breakthrough" offers nothing particularly new in war pictures, but nevertheless manages to be absorbing drama. Like the successful war films of last year, it concerns the work of a small unit in battle (this time the Normandy Invasion). The story pretty much follows the formula, but is lifted out of the ordinary by (1) clever use of actual combat shots, (2) a credible cast headed by Frank Lovejoy, John Agar and David Brian.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The best bridge to play is in guts from rules I tell others to learn. Though many must think I am nuts, they'd better not bet that I am.

In the Rocky Mountain regional team of four came this deal:

	NORTH
	♠A K 10 4 2
	♥10
	♦A Q 5
	♣A 6 5 3
WEST		EAST
♠9		♠Q J 8 6 3
♥A 7 5 4 2		♥K Q 3
♦J 10 9 8 3		♦K 7
♣J 9		♣K 10 8
	SOUTH
	♠7 5
	♥K Q J 9
	♦8 6 2
	♣Q 7 4 2

My partner in north was dealer and our bidding went like this:

North	South
1 S	2 H
2 S	2 NT
3 NT	Pass

To understand this bidding is easy. Almost any system known to man or beast would reach game in no-trump. I will here explain the bids only in terms of routine Horse Sense.

An opening bid of one in a suit promises five tricks, four high cards, two sure tricks, a biddable suit. In response a bid by partner promises more than two tricks with two high cards among them.

Each of us had more in each required direction. If necessary each of us will show the additional when advisable. Not by any brilliant reasoning or inferences, but by simple rules laid out for us.

The rebid in spades by north showed his suit was rebiddable. Nothing yet has he said about other additional values. If needed they will show up later. Meantime his rebid was not a takeout to a new suit. Therefore it does not force my south hand to bid again.

So what is meant by my voluntary no-trump bid? It simply tells partner I have one high card (no-trump trick) more than the two my first response admitted. He finds out I have three high cards.

What is meant by the north voluntary no-trump raise? It simply promises one high card more than the four his opening bid admitted. Without this fifth high card he would have passed.

Complexities undressed is routine at tis best.

"Treasure Island" and "Beaver Valley" in Technicolor

Right on the glass-slippered heels of "Cinderella", his recent box-office triumph, Walt Disney swings over to a complete live action translation of Robert Louis Stevenson's famous "Treasure Island", called the greatest adventure of all.

Filmed in color by Technicolor, the picture's stirring spectacular scenes have as backgrounds, ancient inns and wharves of the sort described by the author in one of the world's most widely read and familiar books.

Carefully selected to carry out the spirit and the literal action of the battle of wit and weapon for pirate treasure on a fear-haunted island is a cast headed by Robert Newton as Long John Silver, and Disney's young star, Bobby Driscoll as the cabin boy, Jim Hawkins, and Basil Sidney as Captain Smollett.

The vivid screen performances under direction of Vyron Haskin and the production guidance of Perce Pearce, are conceded to do full justice to characters as celebrated as any in fiction—Long John, Billy Bones, Blind Pew, Black Dog, George Merry, Israel Hands, Ben Gunn, The Squire, Doctor Livesey and the boy who stood between the pirates and the loyal shipmates on the Hispaniola.

Made on a magnificent scale, at sea and on land, the Stevenson classic, "Treasure Island", showing today and Wednesday at the Belle Theatre is faithfully modelled on the swashbuckling original, through an adaptation by Lawrence E. Watkin, noted novelist and screen writer.

"Beaver Valley" in Technicolor

On the same program, for the family's added pleasure is "Beaver Valley", one of the most amazing pictures ever made, critics acclaim it better than Walt Disney's Academy-Award winning "Sea Island."

$250,000 FIRE LOSS

Stamford, Conn., Nov. 7, (AP) —A spectacular fire destroyed the Diamond Match Company Lumber Yard late yesterday and burned three houses to the ground. The loss was tentatively estimated at $250,000.

POLIO VICTIM HAS CHILD

Lancaster, Pa., Nov. 7, (AP)— Mrs. James V. Hash, 16-year-old polio victim, has given birth to a healthy seven-pound daughter. Mrs. Hash, stricken with polio last Sept. 22, is paralyzed in both legs and one arm.

MARMORA

Marmora — The new parking lot of St. Andrew's United Church at the north east of the church property was available for its first use on Sunday.

I was watching pop smoking to himself in his private chair, and said, G, pop, I feel sick.

That's very clever of you, pop said. Some children would have a stummick ake if they'd eaten the amount of dinner you got down this day, and I said, I did'nt mean just my real insides, I meen my imaginery insides. I meen my conscience is cleer and everything els, I said.

If your conscience is cleer you can skip the everything elts, pop said. What makes it so cleer? he said, and I said, I've turned over a new leaf and reformed.

Dont tell me you've been washing your hands and ears every morning, instead of just one hand and the other ear? pop said, and I said, Aw, it's more important than that.

It cant be that you've started studying your homework from A to Z instead of meerly from A to C, pop said, and I said, G, pop, how did you guess? I've got an intirely new sistem, and as long as I keep on using it I'll screw my lessons perfect. Oh boy, when I remember the nites I used to put off doing my homework till after I read all the comics and everything elts I could think of to use up time, and then wait for you or ma to remind me. I can hardly believe I'm the same person. Everything's just the opposite under my new sistem. I do my lessons ferst, and then if it's not time to go to bed I reward myself by looking at the comics, I said.

Let me be the ferst to congratulate you, pop said. How long has this been going on? he said.

It starts tomorrow, I said, I'm taking this evening off to celebrate the idea, I said.

Get to work on your homework and dont take your nose out of your lessons till you get to Z, pop said.

Which I started to feeling agreat it.

Control of 82nd Congress Being Decided at Polls

New York, Nov. 7. (CP)—Control of the 82nd Congress of the United States is decided today.

This "off-year" election, when the presidency is not at issue, will determine whether Harry S. Truman is to be faced with a hostile Congress until the end of his term in 1952, or whether he will have a Democratic majority behind him as he makes foreign policy decisions and pursues his "fair-deal" program.

The Truman program was hamstrung in 1947-48 when the Republican Party held the congressional reins.

The President's handling of foreign affairs—plus domestic measures which critics claim are leading the country toward socialism—have been hit hard by the Republican Party in a two-month campaign. The President's opposition sought to make late political capital out of the current grave turn in the Korean war.

The Democrats have lustily defended their party's policies, with Truman hitting at what he terms his "isolationist" critics. But there is no doubt that the democrats, favored to retain their majorities in both Houses of Congress with reduced strength, are worried by Chinese communist intervention in Korea. The opposition terms this a failure of Truman's Far East policy.

Both Republicans and Democrats predict victory. President Truman predicts a Democratic landslide. He was right in 1948 when he predicted his own re-election over Thomas E. Dewey.

Third Battalion Princess Pats May be Formed

Ottawa, Nov. 7. (CP)—Canada may form a new, third battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry for its army special force, it was learned today. It would replace the second battalion which is going to Korea.

The new battalion would be formed from the reinforcement pool for the 11,000-man force and would bring the force back to the full status of a brigade. There are two other battalions in it, the second battalions of the Royal Canadian regiment and the Royal 22nd regiment.

Creation of a new third battalion would allow the brigade to train as a full formation at Ila training base at Fort Lewis, Wash.

Hunter Was Not Lost But Hurt His Back While Stalking Elk

Sudbury, Nov. 7 — (CP) — Bob Miller of Sudbury, for whom search parties had been looking since he was reported lost in the bush several miles north of here Monday, was found and is home last night.

An experienced hunter, Miller explained that he was not lost, but hurt his back while stalking an elk and was unable to get back to a temporary camp set up by him and his hunting companion, Johnny Lidstone. He made camp by a lake over Sunday night, then returned to the trail, to be found late Monday by a search party.

TWO YEAR CRUISE

Mystery Flash Of Light Puzzles Timmins Folk

Timmins, Nov. 7. (CP)—Residents of this Northern Ontario mining town were puzzled today about a mysterious flash of light reported seen by several persons across the southern sky last night during a driving snow storm which deposited about four inches of snow on the ground.

Clouds heavy with snow hung close to the, earth at 10:35 p.m. E.S.T., when the mysterious flash was said to have occurred.

One woman said she saw the flash shooting across the sky from east to west and disappearing. Visibility was limited because of the snow. She said the object had ashright tail following it like a meteor.

Quebec House Opens Wednesday

Quebec, Nov. 7 (CP) — Quebec's two-House legislature meets tomorrow for its first autumn session in 10 years.

A measure to bring aid to the towns of Rimouski and Cabano after their disastrous fires last May is given as the reason for the early start. Premier Duplessis has announced that more than a dozen other bills will be laid before the Legislative Assembly on opening day.

There have been some unconfirmed whispers that the Union Nationale government, despite its overwhelming dominance of the Legislative Assembly, will call general elections next year. That would be two years earlier than required.

The session, third of the 23rd Quebec Legislature, will be subject to a December adjourn to January to give PPremier Duplessis a free hand for the December Federal-Provincial conferences in Ottawa.

So that legislation will be dealt with as quickly as possible debate on the opening day Throne Speech will be put off until January.

Though the session is two months early starting, Premier Duplessis has explained it will not be a special meeting of the House.

The 92 elected members of the Legislative Assembly and the 24 members of the Legislative Council, appointed for their lifetime, will not draw an extra indemnity. The sessional indemnity for assembly and council members amounts to $3,000 with an expense allowance of $1,000 for each session.

17 Persons Killed As Guatemalans Beat Off Attack

Guatemala, Guatemala, Nov. 7 — (AP)—Seventeen persons were killed as troops beat off an armed assault Sunday on a key military base near the capital, the government disclosed last night. Seven others were wounded.

Some 60 persons took part in the attack, which climaxed tension growing with the approach of three-day presidential elections starting Friday.

The government said the assault was led by Col. Carlos Castillo Armas, former commander of the base, which skirts South Guatemala city.

One of the main issues of the presidential campaign is the question of communist influence in the country. Opposition groups claim the reds wield too much power under President Juan Jose Arevalo.

The government took steps recently to curb communist activity.

SUNDAY'SPORTS VOTE

Guelph, Nov. 7. (CP)—City council decided last night to put the question on Sunday sport to the voters here in the civic election December 4.

Russians Mark 33rd Anniversary Of Bolshevism

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY

Moscow, Nov. 7—(AP)—Marshal Semeon Budyenny called on the Soviet people and "other freedom - loving peoples of the world" today to express their sympathy for the Korean people who he said were struggling for their freedom and independence.

Soviet army and navy ministers, in orders of the day to Russian fighting forces on the traditional observance of the 33rd anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution, demanded constant vigilance and combat readiness in view of the situation in Korea.

Budyenny, war hero and member of the Presidium and supreme Soviet, reviewed the annual military parade in Red square from the top of the rain-drenched Lenin tomb

Huge self-propelled guns and tanks rolled across the red square at the climax of the demonstration. The customary air show was cancelled because of fog and drizzle.

Admiral Ivan Stepanovich Yumashev, Soviet navy minister, in a special exhortation last night advised Russian sea forces to be in a state of "combat readiness".

Marshal Alexander M. Vasilevsky, the U.S.S.R.'s army minister, in a similar order of the day to Russian ground forces, declared:

"The warmongers have now passed to direct acts of aggression having unleashed bloody intervention against the Korean people. Soviet soldiers must strive for new successes in military and political training, constantly increase vigilance and combat readiness of our troops."

officer can bring a plane in until the wheels are literally only inches from the runway.

A chill wind whipped across Shemya as the North Star's cargo was unloaded. Now on the flight to Tokyo, the plane is riding empty. The airlift movement now is going the other way—flying troops home.

While the American ground crew refuelled the aircraft, the crew got into a truck and rattled off to the mess hall for a 10 cent 2 a.m. breakfast and then to operations to get the weather report and clearance and where navigator Flt. Lt. Torchy Weeden D.F.C., of Halifax, worked out a new flight plan.

An hour out of Shemya, a hazy moon squinted through the clouds as the North Star droned on over the Pacific. While four passengers slept the crew fought the aircraft ahead through strong, clinging winds. Icing was bad. More than two inches formed on the windscreen and along the leading edges of the wings.

Eight hours out of Shemya, the plane travelled over a thick floor of white cloud, with a blazing sun pilling itself over the doorstep.

HALLOWAY

Kum Double Club Presents Gift to Pastor and Family

Halloway—The "Kum Double Club" of Halloway United Church met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McMullen recently.

The worship service was in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Townsend.

During the evening, the president, Mr. Ed Emerson called the gathering to order and an address was read by Mrs. Gordon Roth to the Rev. and Mrs. Gilbert and family after which they were presented with a lovely table lamp from the group before their departure from the community.

After Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert expressed their thanks all joined in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows." A contest was then put on and refreshments were served by the hostess and a social time enjoyed by all.

MOUNTAIN VIEW

Mountain View—Miss Mary Huff spent the tea hour and evening on Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Hall, Huff's Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Huffman and daughter Mary Ann were guests on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ben Anderson.

I Hear Adventure Calling

By Emilie Loring

A zig-zag streak of fire cracked open the sky directly above her head and closed with a deafening crash. Oooh! It stopped her flight and shut her eyes. She huddled against a towering rhododendron. She would try to thumb a ride when she reached the road. Flash! Crash! Better go back? No. She had made a spectacle of herself on the terrace by her refusal to wait till the storm had passed. Adolescent stuff and how. Myles "She can't go," had goaded her to furious protest. For years Aunt Becky had dominated her life, Blake's jibe that she had exchanged one dictator for another was true. It was the new trustee who now said "Come," "Go." The fact that he had no legal right to dictate didn't help.

The highway at last. No wonder it had taken time to reach it. She had stopped at each crash. Not a car in sight. A big drop of rain struck the macadam with a resounding "ping." The only shelter visible was a huge moth oak across the road. Its lower branches spread invitingly like a tent. It appeared friendly and protective, but "Never stand under a tree in a thunderstorm," had been among the first rules of safety she had learned.

Ping! Another drop struck and bounced like a bullet. Ping! Ping. Ping. The staccato sounds united in a pattern, merged to a steady beat. Rain swirled in white sheets driven by the wind. The storm was making such a fiendish racket, the rain was so heavy she wouldn't see a car till it ran her down. Had she better walk along—

What had thrown her to the ground? A hit and run? She shook her head to clear it. Did lightning struck her? Her eyes cleared. She could see, she could hear, thank heaven. She struggled to her feet. Across the road the great oak sprawled in the field behind her. The massive trunk, white and splintered, stuck up above the lower branches like huge, ghostly claws pawing the air. Her arms and legs moved normally. Nothing had happened to her but shock and a ruined frock.

"The high price of pride," reminded a voice from behind a sheet of rain. Headlights like massive misty opals blinded her, beyond them was the dark blotch of a car and the sound of a door being opened.

"You look like a scrumpled bird bunched up against that shrub. You've ruined your snappy costume. Dislike me too much to hop in, or shall I drive on?" Myles Jaffray's voice was hoarse. Had he just escaped the big chestnut tree?

In the instant she hesitated came a flash and horrific crash. She made the seat of his roadster in a split second. He reached across her and banged the door shut.

"Where do you want to go?"

"Anywhere out of this storm. Home, please."

"Yours? Mine is nearer."

"Mine. I just couldn't face your sister." She drew a soggy handkerchief from her more soggy bag and sopped at the rivulets running down her face from her hair.

"Hold on, that damp rag won't help." He drew to the side of the road, produced a large white handkerchief from an inner pocket of his gray sports coat. "Use this—so, on second thought I can do it better. Chin up." He carefully dried her face. Her eyes met his. He laughed.

"This is nothing to laugh about. "Boy, you're telling me. If you had lived through the hell of fear I lived through—when I saw that tree crash—knowing you were on this road. We'll let the rest go for the present. Aren't you ashamed of yourself for staging that burst of temper on the terrace?"

"Yes. Didn't I admit that I wouldn't go back and "ice your sister?"

"Okay so far. Two dollars says it won't be the last time. I realize I have a problem child on my hands."

"You may drop the responsibility like a hot cake without a yip of protest from the aforementioned problem child."

"Mighty noble of you to offer, but what's in it for you? A stiff proposition—and, is this a stiff one—I see it through for better or for worse, without a whimper about the last five words. Feeling drier? Are you chilly? There is a rug—"

"I am feeling drier, not chilly, and about six years old. I hope sometime to meet someone who realizes that I am grown up. Is your intention to park here I'll walk, I can't possibly get wetter." A flash and following detonation jolted the windshield. It short-circuited her flare of independence. Suppose he opened the door and ordered. "Okay. Out."

He sent the car ahead, bent forward as he drove. The storm flashed with blinding light, crashed with deafening roar. She caught a corner of his coat and held fast.

"How many dec-i-bels in that —that last blowout?" She asked when she could be heard; then, to drive home the impression that she was impervious to fear, answered her own question with unsteady gaiety.

"If you ask me, almost one hundred and thirty, which number sound-engineers call "the threshold of pain," the point at which human eardrums begin to tear apart. I hope my chatter doesn't disturb you."

"Not a bit. I'd a whole lot rather you would chatter than cry. I'm impressed by your knowledge. 'And still the wonder grew that one small head could carry all she know.' Adapted to suit the occasion."

"There's more in that same head than meets the eye," she countered. "I'm an ace secretary, if I say so myself. A crash from the next word on her lips. She shivered.

"If any thing should happen to you, your sister never, never will forgive me for taking you out in this storm."

"Nothing will happen to me or you." Was he aware of the fingers clutching his coat? "In practically nothing flat we will be at the gallery. It is so pitch-black that I can't see the outlines of the building but between crashes I heard the lash of waves against the rocks in front of it and the bell buoy tolling furiously. Tomorrow the cliff walk will be swarming with visitors to see the surf.

"Here we are. I can just make out the road in. That dark hulk is the ell. Though I saw a flash of light in the kitchen window. My mistake. Must have been the reflection of the headlights. Dark as Erebus. Has the storm put the electric current out of business? That would be the last perfect touch. You'd better go in through the Digby entrance. Betsy will help you peel off those wet clothes. Stay here till I come back."

Myles Jaffray was a running shadow, then—came a violent pounding the return of the shadow.

"Nothing doin." He slipped behind the wheel. His hair shone in the light from the instrument board like the wet head of a seal. The lens so dark over the wood box before the door. Fool place to keep it. Couldn't rouse Betsy Brig and his wife must be held up somewhere waiting for the storm to pass. Cheerio, Fran, it always does pass. We'll go round to the front entrance, or will you come home with me?

"You don't think I'll take you through this storm again, do you? I will be perfectly safe here. Silas Pond must be somewhere on the place, he has a room in the basement, the Digbys would make sure of that before they left."

"Good old Si. Years ago the boys nicknamed him 'Nosey.' His sense of smell is uncommonly keen. One day he smelled smoke in a barn where hay was smoldering, and saved the whole village, his cronies contended. This was your day off. Didn't you say you were spending the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Carlisle, on Saturday.

FOR CONSTIPATION
This is what helped him

"I tried all the drug store remedies for constipation. Got rid of my old trouble only when I began eating ALL-BRAN for breakfast. Many thanks!" Ernest Wright, 206 Delta St., Brown Line P.O., Ontario.

Just one of many unsolicited letters from ALL-BRAN users. If you suffer from constipation due to lack of dietary bulk do this! Eat an ounce of crispy Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily, drink plenty of water. If not completely relieved after 10 days, send empty carton to Kellogg's, London, Ont. Get DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK!

After-Meal Distress?

Don't let flatulence, heartburn or sour stomach spoil the pleasure of a good meal. Take a Digestif Rennie Tablet after eating and relief is on the way. Each Rennie tablet contains antacid ingredients which help neutralize excess acidity. Carry a few RENNIES with you. 25c at Druggists. 1

REACH FOR A RENNIE

FRANKFORD

Frankford — Mr. and Mrs. Lee Smith and Mrs. Mary A. Gunter of Frankford, and Mrs. Hugh Patrick of Batawa, were Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Harve Gunter, at Weslemkoon Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford Woods and children, of Trenton, visited Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Carlisle and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Carlisle, on Saturday.

"I—I, was thinking of the Digbys, that the ell might have been struck, that they were lying inside unconscious."

"That's a cheery thought, improvised to answer my question, wasn't it? Stop imagining horrors and hop out. Give me the key."

He followed as she sprinted up the steps. The key stuck. He rattled it in, the door flew.

"The perversity of inanimate things, 'he growled before it turned and the door opened. Crossing the entresol they stopped suddenly. Their eyes met.

"Did a door close?" Fran whispered. "Perhaps you did see a light in the kitchen. Perhaps it wasn't out headlights."

"Don't talk. Listen."

He gripped her arm and held her motionless beside him. No sound within the building save the splash of rain against the windows and the soft drip, drip of water on the parquetry floor from her drenched frock. From without between rumbles of thunder came the lash and beat of waves, the mournful toll of the buoy.

"Try for a light. Where's the switch?" Myles inquired close to her ear. She pressed a button in the wall. Light flooded the room and entresol.

"The Lord be thanked the powerhouse is still on the job." His voice was low but fervent. "Perhaps we didn't hear that spooky sound as of a door being cautiously closed, perhaps our jittery nerves faked it. Perhaps the Digbys left a note. Come on, let's investigate."

Democrats Retain Control Of Congress

Party Survives Stunning Defeats In Key States

Republican Surge May Hamper Truman's Program

By R. J. ANDERSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Nov. 8 — (CP) — The Democratic party survived stunning defeats in a half-dozen key states to retain control of Congress in yesterday's United States general election.

The Republican surge may hamper President Truman's "Fair Deal" program and affect American foreign policy. The Democrats squeezed through with control of the Senate and House of Representatives.

The Senate will line up January with 49 Democrats and 47 Republicans. At 9 a.m. EST the Democrats clinched control of the 435-seat House of Representatives by winning their 218th seat.

The Democrats technically had won the election. But the margin of victory was so narrow, and the Republican gains were so sweeping, that the election result clearly was a Democratic set-back.

At 9 a.m. this was the standing of the new, 82nd Congress:

Senate: Democrats retained control of the 96-seat Chamber, 49 to 47.

House of Representatives: (435 seats).

Democrats elected 218; Republicans elected 168, Undecided, 49.

Net Gain of Five.

The Republicans recorded a net gain of five seats in the Senate—they needed seven to win control. The Republicans picked up seats in Idaho, Illinois, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Utah and California, where administration stalwarts went down to defeat. They lost in Missouri where Former Democrat Donnell was beaten.

Returns early today gave Representative Richard M. Nixon, Republican, a Senatorial victory over Representative Helen Gahagan Douglas, Democrat, who was praised by President Truman for her support of his foreign policies. Nixon had attacked her as supporting left-wingers.

In Washington, Democrat Senator Warren G. Magnuson defeated Republican Walter Williams by a big margin in the last Senate seat to report.

The Senate division was the closest since 1930.

Of the few House seats remaining to be decided, the Democrats seemed to be pointed to a majority over the Republicans of about 20 seats.

In an anti-Truman administration drive Republican opponents booked over Senators Scott W. Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader, and Francis J. Myers of Pennsylvania, his assistant.

The one Republican Senator defeated, Donnell, lost to Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., in Truman's home state. The president had given belated support to Hennings after opposing him in preelection primary voting.

Horse Falls On Man's Chest Causing Death

Windsor, Nov. 8 (CP)—Ernest W. Hoag, 61, died in hospital today of injuries received when a horse fell on his chest on the farm where he worked. Fractured ribs and internal chest injuries when the horse fell on him as he was trying to mount it.

Two Fatally Injured

Pontiac, Mich., Nov. 8 — (CP) —Milton Saul, 61, of Windsor, Ont., and formerly of Edmonton, was one of two men fatally injured in a highway collision near here last night. Raymond Hassen, 63, of Dearborn, Mich., was also killed.

Mr. and Mrs. Saul moved to Windsor from Edmonton less than three years ago. Mr. Saul owned a hotel in Edmonton.

Mrs. Saul and Mrs. Hassen were injured when the car in which the two couples were riding crashed into a pole.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Nov. 8 (CP)— Sunyshine will fall in southern Ontario today from a warm moist airmass lying along the United States border. Some points may get into this warmer air for a few hours today. A disturbance near the western end of Lake Superior will bring rain and snow to northern regions. Cool air in the wake of this disturbance should bring cooler temperatures and an end to the rain to all Ontario during Thursday. However, snowflurries will remain in northern regions.

CANADA'S NEW JET MOST VERSATILE SINCE THE WAR

Five-Way Threat Say Defence Heads

Ottawa, Nov. 8—(CP)— Canada's defence department is beginning to think its big, black jet fighter, the Canuck, is shaping up as a five-way threat and possibly the most versatile combat plane developed since the war.

It was designed as a long-range all-weather interceptor fighter, an unusually-powerful two-engined, two-seater plane which could roam across the northern wilderness and strike back at any enemy bombers its radar picked up.

Now defence officials say, tests are showing its qualifications for three other potential roles, including a surprising one that would take it to sea:

1. War with the fleet air arm aboard aircraft carriers.
2. Tactical support for ground forces.
3. Long-range reconnaissance.
4. Bombing.

That prospective range of versatility, reminiscent of the Second World War's mosquito, has already spread its fame well beyond Canada's borders and raised the possibility that it will be one of this country's major contributions to the Atlantic Pact.

Still not mated with its own Canadian - designed engine, the Canuck, first flown in 1947 has never really loose, it has been officially reported as making 638 miles an hour—and capable of plenty more than that

Many Interested

Officials say the United States and a number of European countries, including Britain, Italy, a variety of complications, including dollar shortages, has so far prevented any arrangements to send it abroad.

One-Pound Baby Lives

Hamilton, Nov. 8 (CP) — Believed to be one of the smallest babies ever born in Canada, a one-pound baby girl still survives in a hospital incubator here.

The child, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Davis of Hamilton, was born prematurely at home and was rushed by ambulance and taken to hospital by police cruiser. Despite the fact that she was small and physically normal, Hospital officials say her progress depends greatly on her ability to take food. She will be in the incubator for several months.

NORWAY ATTRACTIVE

Tourist traffic in Norway in 1950 included 246,247 foreign visitors, 40 per cent more than in 1949.

SAFE STOPOVER FOR TRAVELLERS

Annual migration of ducks and geese from Canada's northland is at its peak. Thousands of migratory birds alight daily at the Jack Miner bird sanctuary at Kingsville, Ont., are fed and take to the air for the long trip south. Here Manley Miner feeds a group of snow geese, mallards, white tumbler pigeons with a few robins and sparrows pushing their way among the invited guests. — Central

Saved Worker from Gas-Filled Sewer at Cost of His Life, Medal Awarded Posthumously

Toronto, Nov. 8 (CP) — Posthumous award of a gold medal to Herbert Piercy of Sydney, N.S. was announced today by the Royal Canadian Humane Association. Piercy was honored for the rescue, at the cost of his own life, of an unconscious man from a gas-laden sewer.

The association also announced award of two bronze medals to Katherine Helen Edwards of Flin Flon, Man., and William MacDonald of Goderich, Ont. In addition 11 parchment certificates were granted.

The accident which cost Piercy his life occurred at Sydney July 11, when workers were cleaning out a sewer sump 12 feet deep. Stephen Milnick was overcome by gas and Alexander MacKenzie went to his aid but was forced to the surface.

Rescuer Found Dead

Piercy, 21, married with two children, answered the call for help and descended the ladder. He succeeded in tying Melnick to a rope and the latter was hauled to the surface. But Piercy himself was found dead at the bottom. A coroner's jury returned a verdict that death was due to a violent twisting of the neck in a fall after being overcome by gas.

Bronze Medals

Miss Edwards received a bronze medal for her part in saving the lives of June and Lloyd Bates and attempting to rescue the late Mrs. Hubert Bates from drowning at a picnic near Flin Flon last August.

A bronze medal was awarded Mr. MacDonald for his rescue of Mrs. Hazel Wettlaufer from a plane that nose-dived into the water at Goderich June 24. Mrs. Wettlaufer's husband and young son lost their lives in this accident.

A parchment certificate was awarded to Alexander MacKenzie for his part in the Sydney sewer rescue for which the gold medal was given posthumously to Herbert Pierce.

Rosemary Brightman of North Vancouver was given a parchment certificate for the rescue of Shirley McLeod in Lynn Creek, June 18.

Other parchment certificates were awarded as follows:

In Mrs. G. Burton, Henri Beauchamp, Armand Savoie and Jean Guy Arsenault, all of Montreal, for aiding the rescue of a family from their burning home at Montreal May 28.

To Cecil Legue, Algo Toulouse and James P. Troy, all of Chatham, Ont., for aiding in the rescue of Donald Baker in the Thames March 1.

To Philip Quinn of Brandon, Man., for the rescue of Eric Lakin Jr. from drowning at Clear Lake, June 5.

To Neil Duguid Christie, Port Dalhousie, Ont., for the rescue of George Burrows in the Welland canal June 30.

Unknown Elderly Woman Run Over Killed at Windsor

Windsor, Nov. 8—(CP)—Police today are seeking to identify an elderly woman who was knocked down and killed by a car at a Windsor intersection Tuesday night.

She was carrying no purse, and had no identification marks in her clothing.

Windsor Acting Det.-Insp. A. Perrati, 28, identified as the driver of the car, told police the woman walked in front of him Wiring in darkness. Perrati said he had no chance of avoiding her.

GIVES ASSIST

Toronto, Nov. 8 — (CP) There was a knock on Frank Brown's door. He dropped the keys out a third - floor window and his two visitors — policemen — let themselves in. They found Brown and six other persons drinking beer — illegally. Brown was fined $10.

AGREEMENT POOLS SCARCE GOODS FOR DEFENCE

U.S. Agrees to Include Canadian Producers

Ottawa, Nov. 8—(CP)— The broad, general principle of "equality of sacrifice" which guides Canada-United States joint economic planning for defence has been extended specifically to the field of scarce materials.

Under an agreement announced simultaneously today in Ottawa and Washington last night, the United States agrees to include Canadian defence producers in its compulsory priorities structure.

Canada, in its turn, agrees to include United States defence producers in its voluntary system, followed by strategic industries in consultation with the trade department.

Though there has been no great difficulty in United States industries obtaining Canadian raw materials, Canada has been her much-needed supplier of American steel cut by about 20 per cent, from a normal annual supply of about 1,000,000 tons to less than 800,000.

By becoming incorporated into the U.S. priorities System, Canadian defence manufacturers will have the same chance of getting U.S. steel as would any American defence producer.

A forward step in development of the joint industrial mobilization pact, the new agreement will not mean that Canada will change her present voluntary priority system to a more-formal one.

In the United States, Canada's defence orders will have the benefit of the formal U.S. system on priority ratings extended by the national production authority. In Canada, the priorities administration will be vested in the trade department. The department's projects section, under A. F. Cunningham, will take charge. Its decisions will be subject to the administration job increases.

The priorities system extends, of course, over the field of defence production. It does not mean that Canadian builders of houses, for example, will be able to get the same rating as those in the U.S.

However, if the building order originates with any of the defence departments, the priority rating of "DO" (defence order) may be granted. This applies to almost all contracts let by the government's Canadian commercial corporation, the Canadian Arsenals Corporation or the National Research Council on behalf of the Atomic Energy Control Board.

DIDN'T THINK IT FUNNY

Montreal, Nov. 8 (CP)—A. S. Pilange, baggage officer for the customs examining sheds on the Montreal docks, was on the receiving end of things Tuesday. When he arrived on the Empress of France he was greeted by a customs man he didn't know. The customs man, assigned especially by friends of Mr. Pilange, searched the latter's baggage as though he were expecting to find the Hope diamond. Mr. Pilane didn't think it funny.

85,000 Fire Bombs Burn Out Border City of Sinuiju

Red Withdrawal Continues On All Sectors of Front

Seoul, Nov. 8 — (AP) — Six hundred Allied planes today blasted North Korea all along the Manchurian border to block off red reinforcements from communist China.

But air observers reported "very heavy traffic" rolling across Manchuria toward the Yalu River boundary. They also spotted an estimated 700 vehicles already south of the river in North Korea.

As the United Nations air arm mounted one of the largest raids of the Korean war, reinforcements arrived on the Korean east coast. Elements of the United States 3rd Division landed at the port of Wonsan.

On the ground, U.N. troops pushed forward on all front. The evacuation of Sinuiju, communist border city, continued.

News Blackout

Intelligence officers at Gen. MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters clamped a surprise news blackout on developments between communist battle lines and the Manchurian border. They said the blackout would be temporary.

They declined to answer questions about the reds' ultimate intentions—whether the communists presumably are planning an all-out attack or merely defensive delaying actions or preparing a series of delaying actions.

A historic sidelight to the air war, jet met jet in a fight to the death for the first time. The battle occurred over the north Korean border city of Sinuiju, a prime target for the 600-plane assault.

An American F-80 shooting star jet shot down a Russian-made Mig-15 jet fighter while the planes sped at better than 600 miles an hour. Another red jet was damaged but escaped to Manchuria.

Pilots said the red jets tried to lure them across the border over Manchuria—a new tactic. U.N. planes have been ordered to stay clear of Chinese territory.

Drop 640 Tons Bombs

In the big raid, 80 U.S. B-29 Superforts dumped 640 tons of bombs on Sinuiju, communist concentration point for Chinese red supplies and site of an airfield used by red jets in attacks on U.N. planes.

B-26 light bombers, fighter-bombers and fighters took part in the massive assault against cities, towns, villages, bridges and troop concentrations along the Korean side of the border almost to Siberia.

A U. S. Air Force spokesman said Sinuiju, a city of 100,000, was "pretty well taken care of" by 85,000 incendiary bombs.

Nine of the B-29s carried 80 demolition bombs each — 1,000-pounders — which were dropped on the Sinuiju bridges across the Yalu between Manchuria and Korea at Sinuiju.

Observers reported "satisfactory results" but would not say whether the bridges were knocked out until photographs were examined.

Attack Convoys

Fighter - bombers attacked behind the enemy lines Monday and Tuesday, strafed at 125 vehicles, maiming south toward Chongju, on the west coast fifty miles southeast of Sinuiju.

Another flight spotted 75 to 100 trucks rolling south in the Sakchu sector near Sulbo dam. A third flight destroyed 30 trucks and many horse-drawn carts and gasoline eight miles south of Sakchu.

American artillery aided elements of the South Korean 1st Division in dispersing 700 reds flushed out southwest of Pakchon.

The South Korean 6th Division reported 240 men and 11 officers of its battered Third Regiment had been killed yesterday. The regiment, which reached the Manchurian border in the northeast, withdrawn, had been written off as lost.

Favors Germans In Integrated European Army

Ottawa, Nov. 8—CP—French defence minister Moch approved today the idea of using German troops in an integrated European army—but not autonomous German units which could become the basis for new military tyrannies.

He expounded to a 70-minute press conference his plan for using German units up to battalion size—800 men—in a European army and said France is ready to act as host at a conference that would arrange its formation.

It would, he said, be another step towards the organic federation of all free Europe, a step which couldn't come too fast to suit a France more "Europe - conscious" than ever before.

Slash of Democratic Strength Will Delay Truman's 'Fair Deal' Plans

Washington, Nov. 8 — (AP) — The election slash of Democratic strength in Congress threatened today to put on ice — for at least two years — many administration portions of President Truman's 'fair deal' domestic programs.

The conservative coalition of Democratic victory opened the way for a new coalition of Republicans and southern anti-Truman Democrats which may promptly seize legislative control when the 82nd Congress convenes in January.

Southern anti-Truman Democrats are put in the position where they again may wield the balance of power in the House of Representatives and Senate.

Late returns from yesterday's elections, with its upsurge of terror for Republicans and the tumbling of Truman's top Senate computer, showed Democrats in control in both Houses.

The House, their margin was 49 to 47. With a few scattered House races still not decided, indications were that the majority there would be about 20 votes.

The present Democratic majorities are 54 to 42 in the Senate and 259 to 169 in the House, with six vacancies and one American Labor party member. He is representative Vito Marcantonio of New York, who was defeated.

Michigan Swings Republican By Margin of 4,099

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 8 (AP) — Republican Harry F. Kelly fought to a razor-thin victory of 4,099 votes over Democratic Governor G. Mennen Williams today in one of Michigan's most bitterly batfled elections.

Reports from 4,250 of the state's 4,304 precincts gave Kelly, twotime governor during the last war a margin of 908,389 to 904,290.

Of the 111 outstanding precincts, only six came from Wayne (Detroit) County, normally a stronghold of the young Democratic governor. The 105 others nominally would vote Republican.

But the race was so close that a recount seemed a probability. The Williams camp "emphatically" said Kelly on his race, but refused to concede. No statement was forthcoming on a recount.

The remainder of the Republican ticket had an easier time than the 55-year-old Kelly. Margins ranged from 80,000 to 190,000. Democrats also re-elected all Michigan Congressmen, whether Republican or Democrat. But there will be four new faces.

Republican Ruth Thompson, of Whitehall, Mich., won over her Democratic opponent after a close race. She'll be the state's first woman in Congress, replacing the retiring Representative Albert J. Engel of Bay City.

Other newcomers will be Democrats Thaddeus Machrowicz of Hamtramck, and John T. Lesinski, Jr., of Dearborn and Republican George Meader of Ann Arbor, former counsel of the Senate investigating committee.

WOMEN'S CANADIAN CLUB OFFERS PRIZE FOR BEST STORY

Non-professional writers in Canada are again being offered an award by the Women's Canadian Club. This year, the prize of $100 will be given for the best story submitted on the subject "A Children's Story With a Canadian Background."

Manuscripts are not to exceed 1,200 words, and must be in judges' hands by February 1, 1951. Detailed information and rules may be obtained from the secretary-treasurer of the club, at 69 Bloor Street East, Toronto 5, Ontario.

WOMEN SUCCESSFULLY PASS EXAMINATIONS

Two local women have successfully passed the examinations set by the Priory of the Order of St. John for instructors.

Mrs. R. J. McKenzie and Mrs. C. Ashley have been awarded certificates which will permit them to organize and instruct classes in First Aid for the St. John Ambulance Association.

Mrs. McLuskie is superintendent of the local St. John Ambulance Nursing Division, and Mrs. Ashley is superintendent of the local Cadet Division.

Good Companions Enjoy Evening Of Bowling

Some 36 members of the Good Companions' Club of Tabernacle United Church braved the weather on Saturday evening last and gathered at the Recreational Alleys for an evening of bowling.

A survey of the scores showed a rather wide range, with some of the bowlers being classified as "A" which, according to the recreational convener, stood for "excellent", while others came into the "B" category—in other words "nice". Then there was the "P to M" group—"fair to middling".

Refreshments served at the church brought to a close a lively and amusing evening.

Peepholes In Barricades For 'Observers'

Sidewalk superintendents may be a pain in the neck to construction contractors but nevertheless such companies are well aware of the advantages of good public relations and the "point of view" of this group must also be taken into consideration the natural curiosity of passersby in any construction work that is in progress.

As evidence of this good will is the peepholes which have been left in sidewalk barricades in front of two large construction projects now in progress in the city. These are on Campbell Street, where excavation work for the new Royal Bank is in progress and on Pinnacle Street where the same type of work is being carried out on the new Loblaw store.

A solid plywood barricade in each instance keeps the public from getting in the way but thoughtful construction contractors have left several peepholes through which the sidewalk superintendents may watch the progress.

At the Campbell Street project some wag has written in chalk under the large apertures "five cents a look" while beneath a falsified knothole appear the letters "two cents a peek."

Cock Pheasant Escapes From Shooting War

A shooting war is said to be a great social leveller in the ranks of the genus homosapiens. It apparently does the same job in the feathered world.

This morning a beautifully-plumaged cock pheasant was found huddled behind a small mound of ashes on the river bank behind Eddie Thomas' Tobacco Shop.

Mr. Thomas, who scouts the river at this point every morning, discovered the handsome bird and approached within ten feet of it.

Whether the pheasant was exhausted from a long flight is not known. But instead of taking off, it accepted the safety of darkness beneath a nearby garage.

From this haven, it later departed for parts unknown at least it could not be located by searchers a few minutes later. It was believed to be hiding in the vicinity.

How the pheasant came to be there is a mystery. But opinions were voiced to the effect that the bird was a refugee from the Prince Edward County two-day shoot. It was thought to have escaped from behind the "wooden curtain", joined a flock of quail and found refuge in the comparative peace of the banks of the Moira.

Obituary

RYNARD QUACKENBUSH
(Rawdon)

An aged and respected resident of Rawdon township in the person of Rynard Quackenbush died suddenly this week on the 12th concession of Rawdon township late Tuesday evening from a heart attack. He had been in ill health for the past two months.

The late Mr. Quackenbush was born in Rawdon township and lived his entire life in that community. He was born 75 years ago being the son of the late Peter Quackenbush and Harriet M. Neal.

He was a member of the Springbrook United Church and fraternally was a member of Canada, Navy and Air Force Veterans, through Henry Drury, J. H. Lazenby and R. C. Hewson; the Canadian National Veterans, through Harold Foote, the R.C.A.F. Wing, through Les Digby, and the Red Cross, represented by Ed Turner.

The misunderstanding that prevailed recently centre around the words "the Memorial Poppy of the Canadian Legion." Local authorities emphasize that such wording in the proclamation centre around the Canadian Legion Na- tional Poppy Committee at Ot- tawa, as does all Poppy Fund advertising, be it newspaper, news reel or radio.

Conforms With Directions

The proclamation issued yesterday merely conforming with the Ottawa directions, and its counterpart was issued in newspapers all across Canada. The dissatisfaction apparently reached the Mayor's office, under whose signature the proclamation was issued, with some complaints being voiced by different groups about the wording of the piece.

Chairman of the Belleville Poppy Committee, Henry Drury, secretary Everett H. Liddle and treasurer James H. Lazenby, emphasize that the only thing Mayor H. J. Office had to do with the proclamation was to give his consent to its publishing under his name.

The committee reports that the wreath sale objective has been exceeded, and asks that when anyone approached on Saturday to wear a poppy, "donate with a smile."

Proclamation Only Conforms With Direction From Ottawa

Canadian Legion officials would like to clear up any misunderstanding in the city about Poppy Day with regard to the proclamation issued in The Ontario Intelligencer.

They point out that the Belleville Poppy Fund Committee is representative of all veterans' associations and the Red Cross in the city. Organizations represented are Belleville Branch No. 90, Canadian Legion, through Max Matthews, G. Madden and Everett H. Liddle; the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans, through Henry Drury, J. H. Lazenby and R. C. Hewson; the Canadian National Veterans, through Harold Foote, the R.C.A.F. Wing, through Les Digby, and the Red Cross, represented by Ed Turner.

C of C Sponsors Resolution Calling On Hydro to Stop Selling Appliances

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce through its representatives will present to the Ontario Chamber of Commerce now in annual session, a resolution requesting it in turn to pass a resolution that the Ontario Hydro Commission be asked to use its influence to have all public utilities under its control desist from selling appliances to the retail trade.

Secretary Freeman Burrows said Malcolm Sears was representing the Belleville Chamber at the annual convention of the Ontario body in Toronto today, Tuesday and tomorrow.

The Belleville chamber's board of directors at a recent meeting approved the resolution which stemmed from a request of the Electrical Appliance Dealers Association of Belleville.

The association's request for chamber approval of its resolution stated that the object of public utilities commissions and corporations to promote the use and development of power in communities has been accomplished.

The resolution was also based on the association's opinion that the demands for hydro electric power have exceeded the supply, and there are available to the city a number of dealers aggressively promoting the sale of appliances and who are, wholly or in part dependent on such sales for livelihood.

Letters of congratulations will be presented by Mr. Macklem to the winners of the association scholarships for 1950. They have already received their $25. Those given awards this year were Georgina Copeland, Trenton, R.R. 2; Ruth Juby, Hallowell, R.R. 2, and Myrtle Uens, Shannonville, R.R. 2 with the change in the entrance examinations, no medal for the highest marks will be given. Public interest in these meetings has increased year by year and it is expected a large number will be present at Queen Alexandra School to hear the youthful speakers.

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce representatives will present in conjunction with other Ontario chambers, its endorsation of a memorandum of the Ontario organization to be presented to the Ontario Government, requesting it to review the present Labor Relations Act of Ontario and all subsidiary regulations and rules, and also a supplementary to the memorandum which shows the great advantages thereby accruing on the part of those of labor and management who are sincerely interested in making democracy and free enterprise work in this province.

Pupils Compete In Semi-Finals Of P.S. Contest

The South Hastings Educational Association will hold its annual public speaking contest in the Alexandra School, Ann Street, on Friday evening. Preliminary contests have been held in Sidney, Thurlow, Tyendinaga, Frankford, and the RCAF Breadner School, where approximately seventy boys and girls took part. The winners of these contests will be here Friday to represent their various centres. Eleven speakers are expected to take part. The winners of this contest will represent, Hasting County at the district finals which will be held in Havelock this year instead of Brighton as it has been for several years. District finals take place on Nov. 17, in Havelock Town Hall.

Col. Vanderwater Cup

The Col. Vanderwater Cup for public speaking will be presented to the winner, while medals from the Hastings County Council will be presented to the best boy and the best girl speaker. It is hoped that this year Col. R. Vanderwater will be present to present the cup to the winner. Last year the cup was won by John Shannon, grade four, S.S. 22, Tyendinaga on "Why I Want to be a Farmer". Sheila Currie, grade seven, S.S. 8, Tyendinaga, placed second. A miniature cup which becomes the speaker's property is also given to the first prize winner.

Scholarship Awards

Letters of congratulations will be presented by Mr. Macklem to the winners of the association scholarships for 1950. They have already received their $25. Those given awards this year were Georgina Copeland, Trenton, R.R. 2; Ruth Juby, Hallowell, R.R. 2, and Myrtle Uens, Shannonville, R.R. 2 with the change in the entrance examinations, no medal for the highest marks will be given. Shopping Area In Parkwood Heights Discussed

The proposed shopping area in the Parkwood Heights district came up for further discussion at a special meeting called Tuesday evening at the city hall council chambers. The meeting was attended by the land owners in the proposed area and by about a half-dozen home owners whose property faces the proposed area.

Alderman Angus Duffy, as chairman of a special committee of council appointed to bring in a by-law with respect to the shopping area, and J. J. Trudeau, chairman of the local planning board, also attended.

No final agreement regarding provisions of the proposed shopping area were arrived at but Alderman Duffy pointed out the necessity of compromise between the the interested parties. He said that a by-law providing for a green belt around the shopping area and the building to be set back a distance of at least fifty feet from the street by by-law to be then forwarded to the Municipal Board to determine if it is acceptable. If so it would then be submitted to city council.

Prizes Totalling $1,800 Offered Cheese Makers

Cash prizes totalling approximately $1,800 are being offered to cheese makers competing in the annual British Empire Dairy Show which is scheduled for this city on December 6th and 7th.

The cheese show this year is being held in the market room of the city hall and is being held later in the week (on Wednesday and Thursday). The show is being held in conjunction with the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association convention, sessions of which are to be held at the Hotel Quinte.

Larger entry for the cheese show than that of last year is expected by J. L. Irwin, honorary president of the association. In addition to the regular association classes there will be the customary county council specials and special prizes offered by the County Cheese Producers' Association. An additional special prize of $50 by W. R. McCreary is being offered to the Central Ontario maker, who to win must have the highest scoring cheese of the show.

Well known men in dairy and agricultural fields are scheduled to speak at the cheese makers' convention session. Adrian Hoogsteen's cheese show exhibits will completed prior to the opening of the convention. Photographs will be awarded at the Wednesday evening session.

Constable Evans Begins 30th Year on Force

Known to almost everyone in the city, both young and old, Constable William T. Evans today commenced his 30th year as a member of the Belleville Police Department. He joined the force on November 8th, back in 1920.

The 30-year member of the local police force recalled that in 1920 the mobile equipment of the department consisted of a Model T Ford and a bicycle. Police chief at that time was the late John Nowlan.

Constable and Mrs. Evans have two children, a son, Don, who is at Leslie's Store, and a daughter, Marion, living in Thorold.

C of C to Sponsor Santa Claus Parade in City

The Retail Merchants Section of the Chamber of Commerce at a meeting yesterday, decided to sponsor a Santa Claus Parade to be held in the city on November 31st.

The parade will be that operated by B. G. Matlock of Rosland, Ontario, which is composed of units augmented by local floats and personnel.

A committee to handle the details was appointed and consists of W. D. Doyle, John Lewis Co., S. Martin, Percival Furniture Company and J. Walker, Walker's Men's and Boys' Wear.

It was tentatively proposed that the parade will form up in the Fair Grounds and start out at 3.00 p. m. north on Sidney Street, west on Moira Street, south over the Upper Bridge and down Front Street, east on Bridge Street to the Armouries.

Permission has been given to park the floats on the Armouries lawn providing the ground is frozen, and if not, inside the Armouries.

It was suggested that the Chamber of Commerce Tourist and Publicity Committee be asked to co-operate. Chairman of this committee, J. J. Sawyer will be contacted in this regard.

Request Enforce Closing By-law

Other business of the meeting included the reading of letters from Police Chief Walter Probert and City Solicitor K. R. Pringle with regard to the hours of store closing and the enforcement of city by-laws governing them. After discussion, the secretary was asked to write the chairman of the Police Commission requesting that the present by-laws be enforced.

Store hours for Christmas week were also discussed, resulting in the following suggestions: That the stores agree to remain open on Wednesday evenings on December 13 and 20 and the evenings of Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Dec. 21, 22 and 23.

Decision on the matter, however, was deferred so that every interested in the various trade groups could secure the views of members of their associations and also their approval to adopt the schedule.

Cows for Export Bring High Prices From U.S. Buyers

Prices ranging from $300 to $375 for grade cows intended for export are in some instances being received by farmers at district community auctions, according to the weekly crop report published by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

The report indicated a continued keen demand for both graded and purebred cows intended for shipment to the United States. There is an anticipation of enhanced milk prices with the considerable demand for milk and cheese and that the requisitioning of cheese for overseas has been eased.

Orchardists report that seldom have apples been so well stored before the stormy weather has set in.

Potatoes and turnips have been harvested and most farmers are well progressed with their fall plowing.

Compared to medium light steers and heifers sold for $18-$25; with a few good cows $19.50-$20.50. Canners and cutters brought $14-$16.50- with good bulls $22.50 $23.50. Common were downward to $18. A few medium stockers sold for $24-$27.75 with common stockers downward to $18.

Calves were steady at $31-$33 for choice vealers and common to medium vealers $28-$30. Grass calves for slaughter brought $17-$20.

Grade A hogs sold for $29.50 with sows $23-$23.50 dressed.

Lambs were steady at $27.50 for good ewes and wethers and bucks $26.50. A few sheep sold from $8-$15.50 according to quality.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 8—CP—Prices firmed from strong gains as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Industrials climbed steadily with papers and steels leading.

Abitibi, Powell River, Consolidated and International Paper all jumped with gains over $1. Algoma and Page-Hersbey both added over a point to pace a wide list of steels higher.

Base metals traded over a very broad front for strong gains. Consolidated Smelters, International Nickel, Quemont and Waite Amulet with gains ranging to $1 were a few of the ones ahead.

Western oils advances were up to 25 cents with about five gains for every loss. Key issues ahead were General Petroleum, Pacific Petroleum and Home Oil.

Golds were ahead in slightly quieter dealings than the rest of the board. Senior producers, including Dome and Kerr-Addison, gained up to 50 cents. In junior golds many of the more speculative issues traded for penny gains.

PRODUCE MARKET

Toronto, Nov. 8—CP—Produce prices quoted on the spot market here today:

Churning cream: No. 1 truck price, 56 cents; delivered 59 cents.

Creamery prints: First grade, 58 cents.

Winter Weather Hits Prairies

Winnipeg, Nov. 8 (CP)—Bitter north winds spilling out of the Yukon today brought winter weather to the prairies.

Snow was general. It ranged from light covering in the south to almost three inches in the Brandon and Yorkton areas.

Winds reached a velocity of 20 miles an hour and promised to keep temperatures below freezing throughout the day.

No Sign of Life Around Wreckage

Butte, Mont., Nov. 8. (AP)—Butte Police Chief Bart J. Riley said at 9 a.m., (C.S.T.) today that a "helicopter is circling the wreckage" of a Northwest Airlines plane missing with 22 persons aboard in the mountains east of here.

Riley said the plane is over Nine-mile canyon, which cuts up the main range of the continental divide near Homestake. He said there "was no sign of life."

The big airliner with 18 passenger and a crew of four disappeared yesterday in a blizzard shortly after it left Helena, Mont., headed for Butte. It was bound from Chicago to Seattle.

Several residents in the dense, mountainous country reported hearing a "terrific explosion".

SEVEN WORKMEN BURNED

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 8—CP—Seven workmen were burned yesterday when a bottle of nitrogen exploded at the Great Lakes Die Casting Company here.

The men were given emergency treatment in hospital, but the extent of their injuries was not immediately known.

A witness said the explosion sent flames through a die-casting room and ignited a wooden ceiling. Firemen extinguished the blaze.

AFTER A FIVE-YEAR INTERVAL

For the first time in five years, mass is celebrated in the Benedictine monastery, in Wonsan, North Korea, by Chaplain Urban Wurm of the U.S. 10th Corps. During the year when the reds were in control, the monks of the monastery were "removed," one by one. Only four remain of the 34 originally in the abbey. No one has been able to find out what became of them. — Central Press Canadian.

Large Buck Deer Chases Officers

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 8—(CP)—A 235-pound buck deer held two game conservation officers at bay for more than half an hour today after it had been rescued from the Queenston power house forebay.

Game Wardens Roy Muma of Welland County and Roy Arbuthnot of St. Catharines took the animal by trailer to a back road to release it. But the buck charged them and the officers took refuge behind a stout tree. A farmer arrived on the scene with his truck, headed straight for the animal and frightened it away.

ELIMINATE HAZARDS

Charlottetown (CP)—The Provincial government in co-operation with the Canadian National Railways is carrying out extensive brush-cutting designed to eliminate all blind crossings at highway and railway intersections in Prince Edward Island.

Head Off Questioning Of Bible Stories

Toronto, Nov. 8 —(CP) — Rev. Ernest Kuebler of Boston, education director for the American Unitarian Association, said last night that, to head off questioning of Bible stories, children should not be taught stories involving miracles until they are about 12 years old.

Addressing a gathering arranged by the education committee of the Unitarian congregation here, he said:

"Children will not question the Bible if they are not told Bible stories until they are old enough to understand the people and the way of life that produced the story."

Most Biblical study should come between the ages of 12 and 16, he said.

CANADIAN DOLLAR

New York, Nov. 8 — (CP) — The Canadian dollar was up ⅛ of a cent at a discount of 3¼ per cent in terms of United States funds in foreign exchange dealings today. The pound sterling was unchanged at $2.80⅛.

UNCONCERNED ABOUT WAR, TAXES

Around Heppenine, Germany, they call him "Adolf, the Cave Man." His name is Adolf Ellerbrock, a graduate of Hamburg University's school of architecture. With the rise of Adolf Hitler and his Nazi party, Ellerbrock decided that the world was "too depraved" and quit Hamburg for Heppenine, where he dug himself two caves for a home and moved in. After two years he married and now has a 13-year-old daughter. They live on vegetables, roots and mushrooms and none of the trio has ever had any need for the services of a doctor. He says that if everyone was like him there would be no wars, no killing. No one bothered Adolf during the last war. To him it was as unimportant as a hailstorm. Here he grinds an axe on a home-assembled grindstone in front of his cave. — Central Press Canadian.

Chinese-Led Army Approaches Tibet

Kalimpong, Northern India, Nov. 8 (Reuters) — The Chinese led "Peoples' Army" rolling across Tibet in a three-pronged drive on Lhasa, today was expected to reach the Tibetan capital almost hourly.

Reports reaching here today from Lhasa said the pro-Chinese Lamas took over the government of Tibet this week have ordered the people of Lhasa not to resist the onrushing communist troops.

The nearest column was last reported 45 miles away when it passed Phondo Dzong yesterday. The Chinese led armies are believed to be made up largely of Tibetans picked up along the way.

The pro-Chinese interim cabinet in Lhasa has ordered the garrison in the city to maintain law and order pending the arrival of the Chinese, reports said.

HUNTING ACCIDENTS

Two hunting boys filled with blood are mute testimony to what might have happened to a hunter in Northern Ontario recently. This man was fortunate — he was mistaken for a deer and lived to tell of it.

Hunting accidents are becoming more and more the rule; and not the exception to it. Carelessness with a firearm, mistaken identity and over-anxiety for a kill do not constitute excuses for accidents in the woods.

Every year safety experts plead with hunters to be more careful on the trails. And every year, it is a common thing for a man to fire at another in the mistaken idea that he has spotted a deer. In late years, the wearing of red caps and jackets has been urged on hunters, in the belief that much wild firing would be discouraged.

The result? Ask a hunter who had a quarter-pound of flesh torn from one leg and a full pound ripped from the other by bullets fired by another. The other man mistook a stampeding fawn panic for the lying of a deer, and placed a heavy calibre bullet in each leg. The wounded man must have been of extreme fortitude, because he then walked three and a half miles to get medical aid. When he got there, he was rushed to hospital, where they found "both boots full of blood."

This man, then, was lucky. He will live to hunt and shoot again. He will be around next year to sight down the barrel of a rifle again, merely because the man who shot at him saw only his legs.

Our complaint is not with the sport of hunting — for it is a sport, and one that many a man can enjoy. But, as with all sports, and perhaps more so than with others, its attendant dangers might be tragic and saddening.

The only way for a hunter to realize what may happen is to keep in the back of his mind that perhaps he is being sighted on by another hunter all the time. In this way, he may be more careful and more certain of his own target when he fires. A gun on a deer hunt can provide two sides of one question. It may give pleasure to a hunter and provide venison for his table; or, tragically, it may bring injury or death to a fellow hunter and sorrow to another's family table.

PRINTER'S DEVIL WHO BECAME PRIME MINISTER OF CANADA

(The Canadian Statesman)

The unveiling ceremonies at Belleville on Saturday by Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent of a monument to a distinguished Canadian, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, a former Prime Minister of Canada, 1894-96, recalls to mind an incident when the present editor of The Statesman, in his latetteens, had the pleasure and honor of meeting Sir Mackenzie over 45 years ago.

We were on a trip to Northern Ontario with members of the Canadian Press Association which included among others such well known editors of that period as Dr. J. Macdonald of the Toronto Globe; Geo. P. Graham, Brockville Recorder; Hal B. Cluff, Ottawa Journal-Former; Col. J. B. Maclean, Maclean Publishing Co.; Charlie Young, Cornwall Freeholder (with his red tie) and that jovial character and inimitable narrator of tales and anecdotes, George Ham of the C.P.R. publicity department.

Arriving in Cochrane the company participated the Trans-Continental Railway which was then under construction. In crossing a deep ditch stalwart and gracious George Graham offered to help frail and diminutive Sir Mackenzie across. Sir Mackenzie was then at least 80 years old, over the ditch. The proud and venerable bewhiskered ex-Prime Minister resented the proffered assistance and under his own steam hopped across the ditch with boyish satisfaction.

•This same incident was brought home very forcefully to the editor a few months ago when getting down from the bench in the shoe-shine parlor at the Royal York Hotel—the colour-black took me by the elbow and assisted me to the floor. Horrors, thought I, the editor must be showing his age!

Coming back to Sir Mackenzie, he was born in England in 1823 and came to Belleville a child. He began life as a printer's devil, (to the uninformed a printer's devil in olden days was a printer's apprentice), on the Belleville Intelligencer and rose to become both owner and editor of the paper. Now the newspaper is known as the Ontario Intelligencer.

DAIRY BARNS

Having practically put the work horse out of business on Canadian farms the people who think up new mechanical devices have turned their attention to the cow barns, and old Bossy must learn new tricks. The latest on Canadian dairy farms are "loafing parlors" and "milking parlors" and the patient cow must queue up for her choice-food. According to farmers who have tried the idea she has been an apt pupil, says Ottawa Journal.

FOOTBALL FAN

He sat on the side for the whole team
For his old Alma Mater to shout and to scream.
When a touchdown was scored he went mad with delight.
"That's showing those bums they are in for a fight!"
He shouted by forcing his voice to the top
Then drank from a bottle of something, not pop.

When our boys were gaining he knew what he'd beg.
His mildest suggestion was this: "Please, let's get!"
For imposing the penalties down on the books
He called all the referees sons of bitches and crooks.
So vicious he seemed that I thought: Can it be
He's a gentleman owning a college degree?

I chuckled to hear him. Defeat was his share.
His college was humbled, and that's hard to bear.
No voice had he left when the last whistle blew,
No longer a murder he pleaded to view.
He fett us a mild-looking college bred man,
But that is what football will do to a fan.

"Lift up your head, dear!"

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Since few women are universally attractive to men and other women, as it may be with women, so it may be with women's eyes. It may not be to others. But there is one type of unattractive woman that rouses the very widest unpopularity. She is the masterful type, the aggressive, over-bold, competent type whose expression and bearing indicate that she is preparing to stun someone from the world around her.

One of these got on the bus last night, a woman of about forty. She was tailored from top to toe. She was as chic and stylish as any model of her age. Her make-up was skilled and modest.

Her features were homely. She was one of those chunky, dark women, with short nose, wide mouth, and glowing eyes. It was her eyes and the expression of them that revealed her essential unattractiveness. She stood, after entering the bus, looking us over with a most unwarranty glare which seemed ready to take her seat, if it most probable that anybody in that bus did not react as I did to the sight of her. Man, woman and child, we must all have given her a look of instant unfavorable distinction. Even those of us who have pokerfaces must have been challenged by the expression of her eyes. It was that glowed in her eyes.

One could not help but wonder what the feelings of that smartly-dressed, self-conscious woman must have been as she pushed past and among us to a seat. What a bunch of strikers we must have seemed to her, in all her arrogance and glory, to have not merely failed to salute her appearance with interest, but to have ignored either ignored her, or to have shifted our gaze from her with obvious distaste. Yet she was probably the only stinker among us.

Attractiveness, when all is said and done, is an interior rather than exterior quality. No amount of money, no amount of brains or of taste can make a person appear attractive to others for more an instant or an hour, if the personality is unattractive.

But maybe that woman in the bus had no intention of appearing attractive. Maybe she just enjoys thinking the world is full of stinkers.

THIEF WELL FORTIFIED

Ottawa, Nov: 8 — (CP) — A thief who is well fortified against germs is sought by police here. His loot from a wholesale drug salesman's automobile consisted of 16,540,000 units of penicillin.

Police said the tablets and vials of penicillin, taken Monday from the car of Kenneth F. Stewart, are worth about $50.

WHERE THERE'S SMOKE

Yesterday, at one of those cocktail parties where only pedigreed olives are used in the Martinis, I met a movie actress who used to dance in one of my chorus lines back in the '20's. She was sporting a square-cut that looked like the searchlight on the old Albany night boat.

"Glad you're doing so well," I said. "You've really gone places since the days when you made a fast forty a week."

"Have I changed much?" she asked, lighting a gold-tipped cigarette.

"Well, for one thing," I said, "you never used to smoke buck-a-pack cigiles."

"You mean these? Sobranies!" said the actress. "Matter of fact, I started smoking them while I was working at your club. One of your customers introduced me to them."

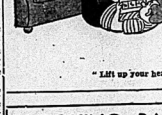
"Boy friend?"

"Yes, if a man in his 50's can be called a boy friend. Remember Big Joel?"

"The oil fella?"

"That's the one," said the star. "Know something? I probably would've married him, only I'm not for these Sobranies."

"Tell me about it," I prodded.



"Well, it's not much of a story," said the actress. "One night Big Joel threw a party at the Central Park Casino for a bunch of his pals—Jimmy Walker, Billy Sefferis, Jules Glaser—and that crowd. And it was quite a shindig Guines ben under glass hooked of champagne and gold-tipped Sobranies on every table. I was one of the only Canadian mentioned.

On May 29, 1898, Mr. John B. Harker of this city sent a letter to his uncle, who resided that Whitby, England. Mr. Harker has just received an answer to his communication and the uncle informs him that on Oct. 25 of this year, the letter which was written and sent 12 years, five months and four days ago, has just been received.

In the Dominion elections yesterday the Liberal party under the leadership of Sir Wilfrid Laurier was returned to power. Sir Charles Tupper, leader of the Conservative party was defeated. The standing of the parties as announced today is as follows: Ontario, 54 Conservatives and 24 Liberals; Quebec, 8 Conservatives and 59 Liberals; New Brunswick, 5 Conservatives and 5 Liberals; Nova Scotia, 5 Conservatives and 15 Liberals; P.E.I., one Conservative and 4 Liberals; British Columbia, 2 Conservatives and one Liberal; Northwest Territories, one Conservative and 3 Liberals; Manitoba, 6 Conservatives and one Liberal. Majority for the Liberals, exclusive of and not including Independents elected as such, totals 46. Independents elected numbered four, Hon. Hastings Mr. H. Corby defeated Mr. S. J. Young, Liberal of Prescott, by a majority of 842. In East Hastings Mr. W. R. Northrup, Conservative defeated J. M. Hurley by 71 votes. A. W. Carscallen, Conservative, Marmora, was elected in North Hastings.

"Nothing of the sort," said the movie star. "Matter of fact, I had been paid off that afternoon for a series of modeling jobs and had saved up four hundred than three in my bag."

"Then why didn't you open it?" I asked. "Maybe you'd be surprised."

"He'd have seen the ten packs of Sobranie Gold-Tips I had swiped off the tables."

MacKenzie's Column: Chinese Waiting On Formosa to Invade Mainland

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

What with all the debate about how to handle the Chinese communists, it isn't surprising that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalist forces, cooped up on Formosa, are wondering how they fit into the picture—if at all.

Chiang has some 50,000 fighting men with their air island. They are waiting for the day when fortune will give them a chance to invade the mainland and, with the guerrilla forces of Nationalists, sweep from the reds. The way things stand, Chiang has given his word to the U. S. not to attack the mainland, and in return the U. S. seventh fleet is preventing the Chinese communists from invading Formosa.

Lucky Supplies

Actually Chiang Kai-Shek hasn't enough ships for a large invasion, even if he were free to make the move. Nothing done is sufficient military supplies of all categories for such an adventure. He has enough ships so that he could smuggle arms and ammunition to guerrillas, if he weren't forbidden to do so.

Fred Hampson, AP correspondent at Taipeh, capital of Formosa, reports that the Nationalist keep on talking about invading the mainland, despite the fact that they know it is impossible now. They apparently want to get to their native soil.

As a matter of fact the Nationalist authorities never allow the talk of invading the mainland to die down. It is necessary to keep the hope alive. Formosa is involved in so many imponderables that Chiang believes an invasion of the mainland is possible soon. For one thing, Chiang couldn't afford to embark on any military adventure that would jeopardize the position of his government with the United Nations.

Well Aware

However, the Nationalist regime is well aware of the necessity of maintaining its claim as the rightful government of China. It realizes that its main business is to keep alive the national resistance and to maintain as well as possible to invade the mainland. It is out to re-establish a Nationalist government there.

And what are the Nationalists' prospects of regaining control of the mainland? That question gets us into a wide field of speculation.

I should say it would depend chiefly on whether the communists raise the general standard of living, and especially because of the menace of hunger which haunts millions of poor ones.

If the communists do this they may win the confidence of a vast, unwieldy nation which is more interested in food and shelter than in ideologies.

KIDNEY DISEASE AND PAIN IN THE ABDOMEN

Most persons have a pretty hazy idea as to the location of their kidneys. Perhaps more people have the idea that kidney disease causes pain, of some degree in the back. Very few persons seem to associate kidney disease with pain in the abdomen, yet, kidney disease often manifests itself in this manner.

Some years ago a patent medicine advertisement often appeared depicting supposed sufferers from "kidney disease," bent over and holding both hands to the small of the back. The advertising suspected that that picture did more to misinform the public than any other comparable picture I have seen. At any rate, kidney disease is frequently painless and may exist without causing any pain. It is the less severe forms of kidney disease cause no pain whatever—in the back or elsewhere also.

Certain kinds of kidney disease do produce pain in the abdomen. The victim of these pains often goes along for many years without the slightest idea as to the real nature of his difficulty. The pain may assume cramp or "colicy" character to the extent that the victim may have assumed that the source of the trouble is in the bowel.

More than one person has had his appendix removed in order to get rid of pain which was caused by disorder of the kidney. Others have undergone treatment for pain which was in the digestive tract under the impression that the stomach was at the cause of their trouble.

I want to explain that when a person undergoes a physical examination to try to discover the cause of pain, he should have special examination of the kidneys in addition to the usual routine examination and this possibility should be determined by appropriate examination.

Examination of the kidneys usually involves the administration of a dye which is injected into the circulation and which is excreted by the kidneys, outlines the pelvis of the kidneys making it possible to secure X-ray films of the area. This procedure by boiolcit itself often indicates whether or not a kidney is deformed or not functioning. If this original procedure indicates normal findings, it may not be necessary to pursue the matter further.

Often, however, it is necessary to follow up this procedure by further examination in which a lighted, narrow metal tube is carried into the bladder and from which smaller tubes are directed up to the kidneys. X-rays are made at certain points in this procedure. The procedure is not painful as a general rule.

Nearly every one knows that a stone may form in the kidney, and passing down to the bladder, cause tremendous pain. Not every one knows, however, that there are several disorders of the kidneys other than stones which also cause pain. Here again is a reason for the importance of these disorders, not only for lack of kidney function because of the highly technical nature of the subject.

In passing it might be well to point out that "bags under the eyes" are frequently caused by kidney disease. In fact, they often indicate some form of kidney disease. Thousands of persons die every year from various types of kidney disease. The incidence of "bags under the eyes" in these cases is not different from other groups. If the "bags" are associated with abdominal pain—or pain elsewhere—you will do not hesitate kidney disease.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

INNER ASSURANCE

There are people whom we meet who immediately cast a spell of hope and confidence over us. We say nothing, but there is a tasting only of bits of despair. But that person changes all. It's a quickening. The sky has cleared. The weather's fine!

What is it that makes people like that? Let us call it inner assurance—hidden faith. The reading of a Bible will not give it. Nor will that effect upon me as I read it again, as on numerous other occasions. The name "His Life Victorious Living!" You feel that it is after reading this inspiring little book. Here is a paragraph: "The deepest thing in our nature is this dumb reliance on a power which we dwell alone with our willingnesses and unwillingnesses, our faith and fears." In other words, I am not afraid of life. Believe that life is worth living, and your belief will help you rate life as worth living.

Fears are natural, but they can be overcome. The child fears, but the mother or father gives assurance, and the fears depart. Looking about us upon all the endless natural beauty in nature, we are made thankless as to the over-all love and care of a Superior Being—a Being who is there to back up the inner assurance of His watching eye.

The more faith we have in ourself, in other people, and in God, the less will our fears be. In fact we can feel sure that we will wonder where they went! It is the kind of faith that gives inner assurance. We can be better friends, better companions, and better citizens with this inner assurance—living more serenely and with greater zest.

Let us accept life, with its assurance, that ennobles us all, gives us the courage to face the astoundings." It is here that all the major decisions of life have their importance. Within ourself alone are won, or lost, the crucial battle of life. Without this inner assurance we would be mere flounderers.

KEYS — GREAT AND SMALL

Have you ever tried for several minutes to unlock a door, and then found you using the wrong key? One can have the same experience when he is cold sober. In fact most of the mistakes we have such an experience are sober.

We waste a lot of time in life trying to open doors with the wrong keys. Most people want to open the door which leads to happiness and they try first one key and then another. They try the money key, and the popularity key, and the influence key, and the liquor key. But the door doesn't open. Other people go around them, seem to be opening their doors with one or another of those keys. That is, from a distance they appear to be doing so. But a close-up examination would show that they are meeting with no more success than anyone else.

Just what are the right keys that really open the doors of contentment, happiness, usefulness and health? One of these keys is diligence. Another is self-control. There can be no doubt that the key which opens the door to popularity is thoughtfulness. Knowledge is a wonderful key, but there is a greater one still. The greatest key in the key ring of faith. It is essential for the whole group. All men can have it, and have it they must, before they can enter the door to life.

There still are only two prototypes of the plane in existence and a lot of work remains, but the A. V. Roe plant at Malton, Ont., has swung into production on orders for the R.C.A.F. running into many millions of dollars.

In the present visits by European defence ministers and military officials, the CF-100 Canuck is one of the star attractions. At Montreal Monday it put on one of its shows of ability to travel fast as well as unusually slow, to manoeuvre, to climb and, above all, to get up into the air with remarkable swiftness.

Short Takeoff Needed

It is this short takeoff which may in time make it a carrier plane. Its ability to get down to speeds around 130 raises tactical support possibilities. It is big enough—it dwarfs its sister fighter, the F-86—to take a considerable bomb load. It can stay up and, a long time that a reconnaissance role beckons too.

And, above all, it is the long-range, all-weather, day-or-night fighter that will be a main buttress of Canadian defence.

Adverse Turn of War

The Republican victories — which included the re-election of "Mr. Republican," Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio—were variously attributed to the adverse turn of the Korean war, criticism of the President's foreign-policy decisions, opposition to the Truman domestic "fair deal" program and reaction to communist-in-government charges.

Along with Lucas and Myers, veteran Democratic senators Millard E. Tydings of Maryland and Elmer D. Thomas of Oklahoma went down to defeat before Republican opponents.

All four Democrats had been strong supporters of the President's foreign policies.

Thomas, as chairman of the Senate Labor Committee, led a fight administration drive to repeal the Taft-Hartley Labor Act —one of Truman's pet legislative aims.

The other seat which had been filled by a Democrat was won by Republican Herman Welker in Idaho.

With Taft, Senator Eugene Millikin of Colorado, was re-elected. He defeated a strong "fair deal" supporter in Democrat representative John A. Carroll.

Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York, winning a third term by a substantial majority, led a parade of Republicans capturing governors' offices. Republican entries picked up posts formerly filled by Democrats in Connecticut, Maryland, Nevada and Colorado.

One of the Democratic victims was Governor Chester Bowles of Connecticut, a "fair deal" supporter, who lost to Republican Representative John Davis Lodge

Some Democrats survived the Republican onslaught, notably Senators Robert H. Lehman of New York, and Brien McMahon and William Benton of Connecticut.

Representative Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., won re-election to the House in New York, but his brother, James Roosevelt, was defeated by Republican Governor Earl Warren of California in the latter's bid for a third term.

Guy G. Gabrielson, the Republican national chairman, hailed the Republican victories as a sign that the voters are opposed to appeasement of communism — whether at home or abroad" and are "opposed to socialism in free America."

The results paralleled those of every off-year election since 1934, when Democrats riding the crest of the early new deal years bolstered their strength in Congress.

In each non-presidential year since then, the Republicans have made gains. Four years ago they took over control of Congress. But they have been unable to translate any of those gains into a presidential victory.

Defeat Serious Blow

The defeat of Lucas in Illinois was regarded as a particular blow to the administration's handling of international affairs.

Lucas had charged his victor-

CAMPBELLFORD

Talk on Cloth Given Rotarians By Manufacturer

Campbellford—Mr. Bruce McComb of the Campbellford Cloth Company, gave a very interesting talk on the manufacture of cloth when he gave his classification speech at the Monday noon luncheon at the Campbellford Rotary Club.

Mr. McComb said wool from the sheep was sorted into 13 grades. Much of the wool used in Canada comes from Australia. This wool, unlike our domestic wool, is carbonized. This carbonizing treatment dries the wool and removes all impurities, after it is clipped.

Wool is different from other materials, in that each individual fibre is a hollow tube with a sealed edge. This hollow tube holds more dye, and consequently produces a better dye job in the finished product. Wool taken from the bodies of dead sheep, does not dye quite so uniformly since the fact that this dead wool has no hollow tube, the pores closing up when the animal dies.

Cloth is made mostly for appearance nowadays. To produce the effect of rags, which the customer demands, the wool is put through a teazeling process, which partly tears it out before it reaches the consumer.

When it comes from the carding machines, the wool must weigh one pound to each 4,000 yards of yarn. It is then drawn and spun, about 10¾ turns to the inch. After spinning it is warped and woven into cloth.

Two types of dyeing employed are dyed in the wool, and dyed in the cloth. This simply means dyeing the wool before it is processed, or dyeing it after it is made into cloth.

Mr. McComb invited the club on a tour of inspection of the mill at a date to be arranged later. He showed samples of the cloth the tous Republican opponent, former representative Everett Dirksen, with holding "isolationist" views.

Senator Homer E. Capehart, Indiana Republican who had criticized severely the administration's handling of international issues and the president's "fair deal" program, won in Indiana.

The re-election of Taft in Ohio and of Millikin in Colorado, as well as the defeat of democratic Governor Bowles in Connecticut, gave signs that voters in widely-separated areas were cold to Truman's "fair deal" program.

Taft attacked the program just as vigorously as Bowles defended it.

Setback for Labor

Taft's victory loomed as a setback for organized labor's efforts to repeal the Taft-Hartley act which Labor calls a "slave labor" law. It demonstrated that sional district. Representative Vito Marcantonio, American-Labor party, went down to defeat at the hands of a Democratic-Liberal-Republican coalition candidate, James G. Donovan, a registered Democrat.

Five Mishaps On Town Streets

Campbellford—Police in Campbellford had their hands full with accident investigations over the weekend. Five mishaps on town streets, due to some extent to the slippery roadways, resulted in a considerable amount of property damage.

The heaviest involving a vehicle driven by Ray Duff of Hastings, and another driven by Eric A. Gardiner of Norwood resulted in over $100 damage, when Duff, travelling north on Front Street attempted to pass another car, and collided with a car driven by Gardiner. The latter's car received the crumpled fenders, headlights and bumper and hood.

About $700 damage resulted early Sunday morning when W. Gallagher, of Campbellford, after pulling out of a driveway on the south side of Tice Street, was struck by a car driven by Claire Palmatier. The Gallaghers car was turned in the left rear fender, and suffered extensive damage to the door, running board and trunk, while the Palmatier car received about $150 damage to the left front fender, knee action, bumper and headlight. The bumper of the Palmatier car was thrown about fifteen feet by the impact.

Constable W. E. Cargin, who investigated the accident, said that charges of careless driving will be laid against Palmatier.

Big Cigarette Haul

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 8—(CP)—Police throughout Southern Ontario have been alerted to look for thieves who took cigars and cigarets worth $16,000 from a Windsor warehouse early today.

Police said the loot was loaded into a truck stolen from A. H. Boulton Company, which also owned the tobacco.

Five doors in the warehouse were pried open as the thieves made their way to the top floor of the warehouse where the stocks were kept. Cases of cigarets were dropped down a loading chute to the street, where they were loaded on the truck.

Seek Storage For Large Crop Of Onions

Toronto, Nov. 8 (CP) — In a effort to save an onion crop grown on the Holland marsh 35 miles north of here, the Ontario government is trying to find storage space for the onions, possibly in one of the Canadian National Exhibition buildings here. The government also plans to help growers find a market for the crop.

Agriculture Minister Kennedy said today:

"There are 265,000 bags of onions out in the open on the marsh. They are covered only by canvas. They are selling for $1 for three bags and it cost the growers $1.50 a bag to produce them.

"Producers in the Holland marsh area are hard hit this year. On account of the heavy rains, crops were almost doubled in potatoes, carrots and other vegetables all over the province. The Holland Marsh people are having difficulty this year in meeting their taxes.

"If the onions can be saved markets will probably be available later in the West Indies and the Islands of the Caribbean."

Crown Witnesses Testify They Were Cut With Knife

Lindsay, Nov. 8—(CP)—Sidney Risley and Thornton Oliver testified Tuesday night at a murder trial that they were slashed with a knife on the night a year ago when Jack Loucks suffered fatal stab wounds.

Risley and Oliver, both of Lindsay, were key witnesses at the second trial of William Yurwa of Hamilton. The jury disagreed at his first trial on a charge of murdering Loucks, a Lindsay resident, by stabbing him during a brawl on the main street here.

Risley said that, while standing in a doorway, he was nicked on the elbow by a sharp instrument in the hands of a man he could not identify. He said he set out for home at once, passing a man lying in a pool of blood.

Oliver said he was watching men arguing on the street when he was slashed.

"Someone struck at me. I did not see him and I cannot recognize him."

North Star No. 7 Completes Hazardous Mission to Tokyo, One Engine Running Rough

By DAVE McINTOSH
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Tokyo, Nov. 8 (CP) —Another flight has been completed by North Star No. 7 of the RCAF in the Korean airlift.

With one engine running rough the plane landed at Tokyo's Haneda airfield to complete a tiring, hazardous mission.

Weary from their long vigil at the controls and from lack of sleep, the crew piled into a transport and headed for a downtown hotel.

The plane made landfall on Japan at Miyako, some 250 miles north of Tokyo and near the rugged inlets where the Japs used to hide their warships during the war.

Miles before the coast was reached, the I.F.F. was switched on. I.F.F. stands for information, friend or foe. A gadget transmits a constant signal identifying the plane as friendly. If the device is not working, fighters immediately come up to look the plane over.

Flies Down Long Corridor

Once over the coast, the plane turned south to fly down a long corridor to Haneda, which sits on the edge of Tokyo Bay.

A crazy quilt of fields and rice paddies flowed beneath. Far off to starboard one could see white capped peaks at the other side of the island. Rising out of the mist south of Tokyo was the 18,000-foot volcano, Fuji-San.

While pilot Doc Payne of Toronto continued to worry about the bad engine radio officer Ted Orr tuned in Moscow radio and the crew listened for a while to a report in English on a mammoth Russian grain crop.

As Tokyo came nearer, each crew member knocked off in turn for a few minutes to wash and shave in cold water, which had been brought aboard in a big milk can.

As the plane touched down, it swept by a bombed out aircraft plant. There are a good many war gashes in Tokyo but the city is so vast they are barely noticeable.

The crew reported in to operations just as another was getting ready for the return flight. They exchanged bits of information and the session ended with "see you in MoChord."

Then a 12-mile drive from the airfield to the downtown area.

Accommodation

The officer members of the aircrews live in the Marunouchi Hotel, a few blocks from Gen. MacArthur's headquarters. The hotel is run by the Australians for Commonwealth forces. The other air crew members stay at another Australian hostel, where the ground crew members also live.

The officers pay $4 a day for room, meals and laundry. Other ranks pay $0 cents.

Most of the squadron members over here have bought Japanese-English dictionaries and they take pride in ordering meals in Japanese and hailing a cab driver in his native tongue.

Occupation troops use American script for currency as well as Japanese yen, the latter worth 360 to the U.S.

It didn't take the crew long to get to their rooms and into the sack. In another 48 hours, they would be flying again.

Canadian Pilots See Airlift Continuing

Tokyo, Nov. 8 (CP) —Canadian pilots on the Korean airlift see their job as continuing indefinitely.

Some say that even if the Korean war ends soon, the United States will continue to use the air-freight-train service to help stockpile arms in the Far East. One such stockpiling point is believed to be in the Philippines.

A lift to Manila would eliminate the present weather-hazardous route through Alaska and the Aleutians to Tokyo.

Living Standard Due to Freedom Of Enterprise

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 8 — (CP) — The Chamber of Commerce in Canada's primary purpose today is to keep citizens aware that their present standard of living is due to freedom of enterprise, Ivor Wagner of Owen Sound, said today.

Mr. Wagner, president of the Owen Sound Transportation Company, was speaking at a luncheon meeting of the Ontario Chamber's annual convention here.

He called on all Chambers to remain strong.

The trouble with our present system, he said, is that most people come to take it for granted and it becomes "flabby and lazy." The Chamber's job is to see that this does not happen.

GOOD FISHING

Oslo (CP)—Most of the large Norwegian fleet which has been fishing off western Greenland has returned to report fishing most satisfactory. It is estimated the 1950 catch there will total 12,000 tons of cod, about twice as much as last year.

No Hope Held For Survivors in Airliner Wreck

Chamonix, France, Nov. 8 — (Reuters) Four French Alpine guides today reached the wreck of an Indian Constellation airliner just below the summit of 13,781-foot Mont Blanc where it crashed with 48 persons aboard Friday.

The guides had struggled through the deadly hazards of biting cold, blizzards and avalanches because an order to abandon the quest, dropped to all rescue parties by parachute, had not reached them.

Binocular - equipped watchers on iff Chamonix saw them moving around the wreckage and then ski down to a refuge hut where they had spent the night.

There was no hope here that the guides might have found someone alive in the Air-India Constellation because it was thought no one could survive five nights in temperatures about 50 degrees below zero.

Bride Honored

The girls of the Red Triangle Club held a shower, Monday evening in honor of Mrs. Margaret Argyle, who was married recently. The guests gathered at the home of Miss Muriel Jobson, 141 King Street, and spent an enjoyable evening, of party games. Prize winners were Misses Doris Laval, Olive Hall, Muriel Jobson, Mrs. Argyle and Mrs. Prewer. Delicious refreshments served by the hostess topped the evening off.

During a short business discussion, the group discussed plans for a membership drive to take the form of a club dinner to be held at the "Y" in the near future, combined with a small bazaar and a program.

Mrs. G. L. Lewis Addresses C.G.I.T. On "Care of the Hair"

The regular meeting of the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church C.G.I.T. was held in the Sunday school rooms of the church, on Monday evening. The meeting was opened by the vice president, Lois Wilson owing to the absence of the president, Margaret Wilson, due to illness.

Games took up the time until the meeting was called to order. Mrs. G. L. Lewis, of the O.S.D. staff, gave a talk on "Care of the Hair". The address was followed by an open discussion of individual hair stylings.

The minutes of the last meeting were read, followed by the treasurer's report and a worship service taken by Mrs. Weir. Business on hand was discussed and the suggestion was made that the C.G.I.T. have a white elephant booth at the coming bazaar.

MARRIED YOUNG

Fourteen or fifteen years was considered the marriageable age for girls in French Canada two centuries ago.

WEDDINGS

ARBUCKLE—ZEBEDEE

In Frankford United Church manse, on Saturday, October 28, Jean Viola Zebedee, daughter of Mr. Gilbert Zebedee, Belleville, became the bride of Robert Warren Arbuckle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Arbuckle, Batawa.

The bride wore a navy suit with grey accessories and a corsage of pink roses. She was attended by Phyllis Arbuckle, of Belleville, wearing a gray suit with navy accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Mr. Wayne Arbuckle, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

A reception was held at the Dutch Mill Inn, Trenton. The couple will reside in Batawa.

HAY—SIMPSON

Allan's Mills.—Roses, potted plants in pink and white with background of evergreens and ferns, formed an attractive setting in Stanwood United Church, on Saturday, for the marriage of Birdie Rosemary, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Simpson, of Allan's Mills, and Reginald L. J. Hay, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Hay, of Meyersburg. The Rev. H. E. Beare officiated.

Mrs. Gerald Thompson played the wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white French lace over slipper satin, fashioned with long fitted sleeves set back. Her full length veil of embroidered tulle illusion fell from a crown of white carnations.

Miss Audrey Hay, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, wearing a gown of blue taffeta, fashioned styled similarly to that of the bride, matching hat, mitts and bouquet headdress of pink rosebuds. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses.

Little Cindy Lou Simpson, niece of the bride, was flower girl, wearing a frock of white rayon net over pink taffeta, styled as the bridesmaids'. A wreath of headdress of rosebuds and carried a basket of pink rose buds.

Mrs. D. Lain, sister of the bride, was soloist, wearing a floor length gown of white brocaded satin, matching Juliet cap and mitts, and a corsage of pink roses. She sang before the bride entered the church, "O Perfect Love" and "God's Prayer" at the conclusion of the ceremony and during the signing of the register, "O Promise Me".

Mr. Ralph Hay, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, and the ushers were, Harold Taylor and Denzmore Lain.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the luncheon was served to the friends of the bride, the Misses Carole and Maxine McArthur, Betty Redden, Frances Lisle and Shirley Dutton.

The bride's mother chose a wine chiffon velvet dress, navy hat and accessories with corsage of white carnations, while the bridegroom's mother wore navy sheer, with navy and grey accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

For a trip to Montreal, Watertown, N.Y., the bride was wearing a powder blue wool dress and powder blue velvet hat, navy coat and accessories with corsage of white gardenias.

BUCK—MEIKLEJOHN

Allan's Mills.—A pretty Autumn wedding was performed by Rev. H. E. Beare at the parsonage on Saturday, when Lillian Marie, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Meiklejohn, became the bride of Stuart David, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Buck, of Hastings, in a double-ring ceremony.

The bride looked lovely in a floor length gown of white slipper satin with inserts of lace, and sweetheart neckline. She wore a three-quarter length veil which was caught to a headdress of orange blossoms and she carried a cascade bouquet of red Better Time roses, white 'mums and maidenhair fern.

Her bridesmaid, Miss Esther Meiklejohn, was dressed in mauve tissue faille, with mitten to match and she carried mauve 'mums and maidenhair fern.

The groomsman was Ronald Buck, brother of the groom.

A receipting was held at the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Bogart Linn. Mrs. Linn received, wearing a black crepe dress with white accessories and corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Buck, mother of the bridegroom, assisted wearing a grey crepe dress with wine accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Prior to the wedding supper, appropriate music was rendered with Harold Taylor at the piano.

Those who were included, Mrs. Clarence Thomson, Misses Marian Wright, Jean and Ruth Morton, Ruth Milne, Shirley Dunk, while Blanche Gibson and Mrs. Cecil Linn poured tea.

The bride's gift to the bridesmaid was a compact. The groom's gift to the bride was a chest of silver and to the groomsman, a pocket knife.

Guests were present from Toronto, Blackwater, Tweed, Keene, Peterborough, Campbellford, Stirling and Springbrook.

Rev. E. M. House Ph. D. Guest Speaker at St. John's United Church 58th Anniversary

Tweed—Last Sunday St. John's United Church Tweed celebrated their 58th anniversary with large congregations in attendance both morning and evening. The Rev. Everett Mackenzie House, M.A., S.T.M., Ph.D., D.D., minister of Bloor St. United Church, Toronto, was guest speaker, who took as his topics "Reaction or Response", in the morning and "The Church and the Broken Hearted" in the evening.

Rev. A. L. Sisco, B.D., minister, introduced the speaker and welcomed him to Tweed United Church.

Special Music

The senior and junior choirs, under the leadership of Mr. S. H. Connor, had prepared special music for the day. The seniorYear's choir sang as an anthem, "The Lord Is My Shepherd" with Mrs. Ray Sharp taking the solo part at the morning service. At the evening service they gave the anthems, "The Lord Is My Light" Mrs. C. Sharp taking the solo and "Saviour, Now The Day Is Ended" with Mrs. H. Connor taking the solo parts. Mr. Fred Porter was at the organ. The junior choir delighted their listeners with two anthems, "How Lovely Are Thy Messengers" and "My Wondrous Saviour" at the morning service, and in the evening service they sang "Jesus Saviour" and "Softly the Silent Night". Mrs. H. Connor accompanied the juniors at the piano.

Mr. Porter played for his organ postlude "Thou Crownest the

Six Seniors, Seven Juniors Take Part in Speaking Contest at Melrose

Shannonville. — Six seniors, Grade 7 and 8, and seven juniors, Grades 2 to 6, took part in the public speaking contest, held at Melrose on Monday evening.

Senior winners were Sheila Currie, Sheltler's School, first, and Jimmy Stafford, second. Sheila's topic was "Every Inch a Queen", while Jimmy spoke on "Why Farmers Need an Education". A Winning Orators Junior winners were, Pat McGurn, first, who spoke on "A Thrill That Swept the World", and Evangeline Reilly, Melrose, second, whose topic was "Edgar Guest".

The first named three will represent Tyendinaga township at the South Hastings Educational Association finals in Queen Alexandra School, Belleville, on Friday last.

Mrs. Phillips, principal of S.S. No. 1, Shannonville, and president of the Teachers' Association acted as chairman and introduced the speakers in alphabetical order.

A variety of interesting topics had been chosen and a great deal of credit should go to the teachers and parents for the interest they have taken in the children' efforts.

The senior-speakers and their topics were as follows: Sheila Currie, "Every Inch a Queen"; Jeanine Mondeville, "Florence Nightingale"; Teresa Pitt, "A Canadian Heroine"; Jimmie Stafford, "Why Farmers Need an Education"; Dorothy Walsh, "Pasteurization of Milk"; Richard Walsh, "Communism".

The junior speakers and their subjects were: Clare Brush, "Canadian Anderson"; Larry Burns, "Being a Boy"; Jean Walsh, "The Brownings"; Joan MacDonald, "Baby Bird Goes Shopping"; Pat McGurn, "A Thrill That Swept the World"; Evangeline Reilly, "Edgar Guest"; Paul Sweetman, "Ontario Apples".

Reeve Presents Prizes

The prizes were given by the Tyendinaga township council and presented by Reeve Walsh, the seven juniors were tied and Mr. Macklem gave $1 so that each received $2, the seven seniors each received a cheque for $1.

Mrs. Reilly, music supervisor, arranged the numbers, "Six Little Milk Maids"; six junior girls of S.S. No. 5, and "The Farmyard Song"; senior members of S.S. No. 11.

Mr. Macklem, school inspector of the area, also one of the judges, spoke briefly. As well as Rev. Father Bryson, of Read, and Rev. W. L. Scott, of Shannonville, Mrs. Phillips thanked all who had in anyway helped to make the contest a success. The evening was brought to a close by singing The National Anthem.

Local Artists Exhibit Paintings and Handicraft At "The Little Gallery"

For the past several days there have been on display at The Little Gallery, Pinnacle Street, under the sponsorship of Charles R. Bone, artist and operator of the Gallery, a fine exhibition of arts and crafts by local artists, including oils, sculpture, ceramics, pottery, weaving and needlecraft.

Those exhibiting oil paintings, comprised landscapes and portraits, are: Mrs. H. Robinson, Gladys Simpson; Mrs. J. G. Hornsby; Stanley Lockard; Mary Moult; Mary Quinn; Carm. Murdock; R. Cowan; Phillips; Edward Hill; M. Miniatures, and Charles R. Bone.

Three fine pieces of sculpture, done in different mediums, each perfect in form and in execution, were displayed by Mr. Eakins. Mr. M. Miniature showed a delicately sculptured head of a Chinese; while the splendidly modelled head of a child, in pastel and ceramics, was shown by Doreen Chant. Mrs. Pepper had a lovely ceramic display of floral pieces, delightful bookends, roses, dishes, forget-me-nots, some singly, others charmingly grouped, beautifully executed. Her natural delicate colors. Carm Murdock also showed some splendid ceramics, the flowers and the exotic, colorful and distinctive. Two local poets, Charles Pepper and Roger White had exhibits of their original poetry; Mrs. Allen Cameron showed some fine woollen samples of the nearly-forgotten art of weaving as practised in the long-ago when "homespun" and "alpaca" were the clothes of the day. Some dainty pieces of needlecraft were shown by Mrs. Melville Redner in tatting and crochet.

Good Composition and Color

The landscapes showed good composition and color appreciation. The Picton Road overlooking the Bay, was rich in color, restful in composition and true in detail, exhibited by Gladys Simpson. Another interesting painting was that of a girl with a green hat and gloves, by Mary Quinn. This demonstrated a fine sense of anatomy, was a good color, and pleasing in expression. Mary Moult's scene of autumn were ripe in color and caught the mood of the season with the trees and the distant hills. Two interesting and colorful pictures showed old houses with barns which were realistic showing depth, shown by Mrs. Robbins. Carm Murdock's showed rhythm and pleasing color appreciation.

A pair of wild ducks, by Stanley Lockard, done in poster-like design, showing foliage and stream made a distinctive study. A particularly pleasing tint in color, somewhat on the modernistic trend, but escaping the extremes was that by Edward Hill, which depicted a U-shaped grey tree-trunk with vividly splashed leaf-wings of bright scarlet and one of yellow; a clear, crisp bit of work, pleasing and attractive. Another picture whose appeal lay in the drawing and its deep reddish browns was that by Phillips, showing the rear view of an apartment building with three flights of a winding stair, which exhibited the distinctive type of work by the artist. The coastal scene by Mrs. J. G. Hornsby, portraying the boatman mending his boat at the coast, was restrained in color, but of a freshness that invited all the ozone wafting in from the water.

Of the all art exhibitions, the ultra modern, and "impressionistic" was also in evidence, in some instances as grotesque as ever, being neither "fish nor fowl", but a joy forever, even though cleverly executed. One of these, entitled "Storm" depicted a thunder storm being viewed through a window in the apartments of the house, a sort of double-action picture, those inside were looking from the inside out; while the observer was looking from the outside. In the storm clouds were depicted in swirls of color in the upper left hand corner, pieces of rain pouring down. A rather difficult thing to show, successfully.

Wins $200 Award

A large painting in somewhat sombre colors, by Robert Cowan, a student at the Ontario College of Art, was the prize "Time of Limbo," showing a group of children of varying types, and expressions, reminding one of the primitive stages of art in the Italian work on paintings of Altamira. This particular painting was the prize offered by Bone of the Soroptimist Club to help furnish a sitting room for the ladies in the new Home for the Aged. Another showed a bowl of smiling sunflowers, realistic, recalling to mind that poem of Stephen Foster's, "When All Those Sunflowers Turn Their Faces" and the lines, "As the sunflower turns to her lord when he sets, the same face that she turned when he rose."

Definition of "Art"

Perhaps there are some who ask, what is "art"? Art has been defined as "the expression of the emotions and creative imagination in terms of line, form and color." In the more restricted sense it deals with portraiture, architecture, drawing and painting. Again, it might be defined as "the outward visible expression of the invisible, inward impression produced by a person, place or thing.' Hence, why the im; ession of a certain scene may be expressed in different ways and degrees by different observers. One may depict it with "the light that never was on sea or land, the artist's fancy and the poet's dream," while another will reproduce the same thing in a realistic fashion, bereft of its ethereal attributes. Both are true representations of the scene as impressed upon the soul of the observer.—Jetsir.

Wordsworth's 'Michael'

An example of this to the ordinary observer is found in the interpretation of Wordsworth's "Michael," by Charles R. Bone, the outstanding painting of the exhibit. Here, the artist lays the emphasis on the grief of Michael, the father, rather than on that of Michael, the shepherd; and is not, as one might suppose, concerned with cloak and staff, or gilting down, his collie at his feet; but accents and treats, clad in a sorrowful manner, the letter telling of Luke's defection.

In the unutterable grief at the loss of the son in whom his heart had delighted, unconscious of either cloak or staff, he wants to be alone with his sorrow; and what more natural was that he should take to the spot where he and Luke had toiled together, where he had so often sat and builded for the future, with Luke looking down to that place he gazed, and there, beside the unfinished sheepfold, he fights his way to peace and resignation.

Lovely Painting

The drawn, grief-etched countenance, the closed eye-lid pressing back the tears, the downward holding of the fatal letter, all speak poignantly of the sword thrust, that has pierced his soul. Yet through it all, Michael remains standing, strengthened by the knowledge that "there is a comfort in the strength of love, 'twill make a thing endurable that else would overset the brain, or break the heart." He carries out the covenant made with Luke before his departure for the distant city "whatever fate befall thee, I will love the to the last, and bear thy memory with me to the grave."

Michael lived for several years after that, going about his duties among the hills, and at the ripe old age of 91, was "gathered to his fathers." A lovely painting, fraught with deep emotional interest, tenderly executed.

All the exhibits showed fine talent, each in their own particular medium. Belleville should be proud of her artistic citizens and do all possible to encourage this love of the beautiful by visiting these cases of creative art, in this war-weary, drab world of today.

Centenary-Aikens Club Sponsors Masquerade Party

Centenary—A successful Hallowe'en masquerade party was recently held in the Centenary School sponsored by the Centenary-Aikens Home and School Association. Mrs. Harold Hollomby, president, and her executive were in charge of this event. A. C. Arbuthnot, George Bush and Mrs. Douglas Holton judged the costumes as fancy and original. Ladies winning were, Mrs. Charles Keary and Miss McKeown. Men, Charlie Keary and Mr. Harold Hollomby; girls: Gwen Radford and Sharon Jeffery; boys Neil Bain, Roy Rosbes.

Mr. Harold Hollomby was chairman for the games and stunts which were enjoyed by everybody. There were candy apples and jelly beans, for everyone to eat.

When the program was finished Mrs. Edwin Hunt, retiring president was given a pipe and tobacco by Bruce Christie and Charlie Smith on behalf of the Home and School members, Mrs. Hollomby gave her announcements.

Refreshments were served to end this happy evening.

Now! Proof that BRUSHING TEETH RIGHT AFTER EATING WITH COLGATE DENTAL CREAM HELPS PREVENT TOOTH DECAY!

2 Years' research by LEADING UNIVERSITIES proves that test groups brushing teeth right after eating with Colgate Dental Cream showed amazing reduction in tooth decay!

Under the direction of eminent dental authorities, one group of college students always brushed their teeth with Colgate Dental Cream right after eating—while another group followed their usual dental care. The average of the group using Colgate's as directed, and using Colgate's correctly, was a startling reduction in the number of new cavities—far less tooth decay. No other group developed new cavities at a much higher rate.

Research shows that decay is caused by mouth acids which are at their worst after eating. So, when you brush your teeth with Colgate's right after eating, you help remove acid mouth acids before they can harm enamel.

FURTHER PROOF FROM SCHOOL CHILDREN

Leading Canadian dentists examined and tabulated over 2,000 children in corrective dental habits. In addition to diet changes where required, the children were told to brush their teeth after each meal.

The results! 16% fewer children with tooth decay! Cavities dropped from an average of 5 per child to just over 3! —a 35% more effective corrective dental care that prevented either loss of teeth or serious dental troubles later in life! . . . The same children with no defects—increased by 200%!

CLEANS YOUR BREATH AS IT CLEANS YOUR TEETH!

Scientific tests prove that in 7 out of 10 cases, Colgate's instantly stops bad breath that originates in the mouth! Colgate's active penetrating foam goes into hidden crevices between teeth—helps clean away decaying particles—stops repugnant saliva odors—removes the cause of much bad breath!

HELP YOUR CHILDREN AVOID TOOTH DECAY!

Insist that your children always brush their teeth right after eating with Colgate Dental Cream. They'll love Colgate's delicious double-mint flavor, it's easy to get them to use Colgate's correctly.

Teacher for Over 40 Years Dies

Peterborough, Nov. 8. (CP)—Mary O. O'Connell, more than forty years a teacher on the staffs of the Peterborough schools, died at her home here Tuesday.

Miss O'Connell was a graduate from Toronto University and held a commercial specialist's degree. For many years she taught in the Separate Schools of the city and St. Peter's high school. For the last 16 years, until her retirement six years ago, she was on the staff of the Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational school.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Is he in the army—should she wait?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My boy friend is in the army, before he went away, he asked me to wait for him and marry him when he comes back. I did not want to give him a definite answer, so I told him I wanted to think it over and that I would write and give him the answer later. So afterwards, I wrote and told him I felt it was impossible to decide anything until he came home.

Now he seems provoked with me, I'm only 16 and I think I'm too young to make up my mind about anything so serious. What can I possibly do to make him understand, and change his attitude?

"Ronny"

Dear "Ronny":

When a young man cares about a girl, it's only natural that when he has to leave her he would like to feel that she'll be waiting for him; when he gets back. At the same time, I think you did the right thing in not making any definite promises. It is far better to have matters stand that way than for you to promise something you might have to take back later on.

A girl of 16 can't possibly be sure that her feelings won't change in the course of time, and it's not fair for anyone to ask her to promise that they won't. It's right that she assure him of you, and boys, too, should be free for a long time to go out with all the young people they can, so that they can learn something about each other before it is in a better position to make up their minds when they want to marry when the time comes.

Try to make this young man realize this, and emphasize to him the fact that you want him to be equally free while he is gone. In that way, neither of you will be hurt if the other finds someone else.

Wants to accept her boy friend's faith—his parents disapprove

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am in love with a wonderful fellow. I am over 21, so I think that I can be sure of my own feelings, and well enough to love with me.

My problem is this. My parents are of different faiths, and so I have never had a faith of my own, because it was very hard to choose one under the circumstances. As a result, I am willing to accept my boy friend's faith but his parents do not approve of this, and will not approve no matter what I do.

I love this boy very much, and I just can't go on this way. What am I to do?

Z. C. B.

Dear Z. C. B.:

My advice to you is for you and your young man to go together to the pastor of his church and talk the situation over with him. I can't see any reason in the world why the young man's parents should not be willing to accept you when they learn what a fine girl you are. Then, too, you should join him in his own faith. It seems to me it would be an excellent thing to do, since you are now without any church connection at all. If your own parents approve it, then it seems to me everything should work out well.

I feel sure that if you do as I suggest, the gentleman with whom you talk should be able to convince the boy's parents that you are doing the right thing.

Black Velvet Vogue

By ALICE ALDEN

THE velvet touch is with us to lend elusive charm and warmth to almost any type of costume. Black velvet is used for this beautiful afternoon dress designed by Peg Fischer. It is banded with a graceful scroll of velvet that rises high at the front above the tiny hem which is underscored by a chenille-dotted brow veil. Here is a nice young hat with a slightly pixieish charm despite its dressy intent.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking?

Nuts can now be used to make cheese.

Filbert nuts supply an enzyme that produces an American cheese of richer, cleaner flavor. Cheese ripens faster when the newly discovered nut extract is added to pasteurized milk before it is processed into cheese. Details of the new method were recently reported before the American Chemical Society in Chicago.

For making a cheese soufflé, use fully ripened or aged Canadian cheese.

Be sure your guests are seated at the table when you remove the soufflé from the oven so that you can serve it while it is brown, high and steaming hot.

Soufflés rise when the air incorporated in the beaten egg whites expands in the oven. Great care must be taken to fold the whites into the soufflé mixture, that is, gently lift the mixture over the whites but do not stir it.

Soufflés are impressive looking but inexpensive. To make a soufflé that is lively and interesting add chopped chives and deviled ham to the cheese mixture.

Cheese and Ham Soufflé
Serves 4-6.

4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
1 cup hot milk
1 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
1-2 teaspoon dry mustard
4 egg yolks
1 teaspoon finely chopped chives or onions
1 1-2 cups grated old Canadian cheese
1 3-ounce jar deviled ham
4 egg whites

Melt butter in a heavy saucepan. Remove pan from flame. Stir in flour, Gradually stir in hot milk. Add salt, pepper and mustard.

Return pan to a slow flame and cook five minutes stirring constantly. Sauce will be very thick.

Remove pan from flame and stir in slightly beaten egg yolks. Add chives, Canadian cheese and deviled ham. Mix well. Turn mixture into the top part of a double boiler and cook over slow-morning water, stirring frequently, 15 minutes.

Remove from fire. Cool completely.

Preheat oven 20 minutes at 325 degrees.

Beat egg whites until stiff and fold into mixture using a down, over, up motion with mixing spoon.

Turn mixture into 1 1-2 quart greased baking dish or casserole. Place baking dish in a pan of hot water. Bake 50 to 60 minutes or until firm when touched lightly. Serve at once.

GOOD MANNERS

Here they come . . . 1950's Christmas cards

Do you know . . .

That . . . reverent religious Christmas cards are continuing to increase in popularity? One has there been such a wide variety of impressive religious cards as this year . . . this year when our hearts and spirits need so much, so very much, the religious comfort and inspiration. The finest creative talent has been devoted to the designing of Christmas cards reflecting the true spirit of the Holy Season. The star-lit splendor of The Nativity, the gentle Madonna, the tender Child, adoring angels, a youthful shepherd watching his flock by night. The Three Wise Men with their earnest, searching faces.

And there are cards with the traditional religious symbols—church steeples, church bells, worshippers entering a church for the Christmas service, windows, glowing stained glass windows of a church. You will find many beautiful reproductions of great paintings of famous Madonnas, many of the religious cards carry Biblical quotations, some printed in gold-or-silver and some with illuminated initial letters. Other cards express their Christmas messages with prayers or petitions from the Psalms. And on many of these cards the Lord's Prayer; "Glory to God in the Highest. And on Earth, Peace, Good-Will toward men."

It is estimated that over 300,000,000 religious Christmas greeting cards will be exchanged this year. And it is extremely impressive and thought-inspiring to note that the increase in the demand for these religious Christmas cards is paralleling the increase in church attendance reported by religious leaders recently.

That: Christmas cards this year pay straightforward and enjoyable tribute to the cherished traditions of Christmas, to the endearing symbols of Christmas . . . Santa Claus, Christmas trees, holly and poinsettia, winter scenes, snow men, and the other traditional designs in the Christmas pageant. The careful survey made by the Greeting Card Association shows that, in this classification, the Christmas floral designs—holly and poinsettia—lead in popularity, over 14 per cent of all the Christmas card designs having floral themes. A close second in popularity are winter scenes; eleven and one-half per cent think this popularity is, interestingly, a newcomer to the design study—the beautifully - lettered greetings such as the one high-hearted word "Greetings", and "Merry Christmas", "Season's Greetings", and similar captions. Over 9 per cent of the 1950 designs are devoted to this attractive type of Christmas greetings. Variety in popularity are Christmas candle designs . . . and these are closely followed in popularity by Santa Claus creations, Christmas bells, engaging little animals and birds, and a world of appealing designs with charming little children as the central theme. Then, continuing the Christmas pageant, are snow men . . . and wondrous Christmas tree designs, heart-warming and dramatic, some in clever cut-out techniques and many in radiant colors.

That: There are quite a number of boxed assortments . . . of cards along a single theme. Reproductions of famous paintings. Currier and Ives prints, the Charles Dickens series, country scene by Grandma Moses, cards of children and for children, alluring little dogs and playful little kittens, the gentle animals of the forest, birds singing their Yuletide greetings.

That: There have never been so few cards carrying the abbreviation "Xmas". For which, most grateful thanks; The beautiful, inspiring word Christmas should always be spelled in full . . . in printing, engraving, in handwriting.

That: Color plays an increasingly important role in the Christmas card designs this year. There have been so many improvements recently in graphic arts processes that there apparently is no limit to the attractive color ranges that can be found in the 1950 cards. Glowing Christmas reds and greens radiate the holiday atmosphere . . . and there are delicate pastel shades, lovelier than ever.

That: You should have the good and sure taste to check . . . any limitation to those with any smart slick, wise-cracking, trying-to-be-funny horrors that are still with us, although in greatly-diminished numbers. If you are tempted to buy them, remember, please remember, how grimly inappropriate they will be when they arrive at Christmas time.

That: It is gloriously evident in the Christmas cards this year that today we wish to express our Christmas greetings with cards that have an appealing, straightforward simplicity. From the simple, friendly 5-cent cards to the costly, but still simple-in-design cards.

That: There will be an estimated 1,500,000,000 Christmas greeting cards of all kinds sent this year. What a powerful round-robin to carry messages from heart-to-heart . . . of devotion, of comfort, of hope. . . greetings everywhere for "Good Will".

NOT REAL THING

Ladysmith, B.C. (CP)—A productive oyster was an impostor and at the Oyster House of John Malamas. A fisherman discovered 300 "pearls", many like seed pearls and others larger. But an expert said they were nothing but "blister" pearls of no commercial value.

BEAUTY

Teeth and gums need exercise

Maybe the cave-lady had something on us in the way of beauty practices. Maybe she gnawed bones, grew sound teeth because of that primitive habit. Of course we don't, nowadays, being so long ago, and no beauty records were kept. Anyhow, nobody cares. But the members of the dental profession tell us that, in order to preserve our teeth, we should be highly-energized chewers.

We eat too much soft food and wash it down with liquids, giving the teeth an easy life. They are supposed to work. Hard, crusty bread is good for them, also raw vegetables—such as carrots, turnips, cabbage hearts. They bring the teeth together with pressure that reacts upon the gums. The gums must be kept in a healthy condition if the teeth are to be sound.

Chewing stimulates the circulation of the blood streams in these delicate tissues. Without brisk circulation they become pale and spongy, lose tone. Pale, bleeding gums are a signal that you should make an appointment with your dentist. The condition may be due to one of several causes, especially the accumulation of tartar.

Scientific dentistry is doing wonderful things for victims of tooth decay. Teeth that have been broken down through neglect can be built up to resemble the original so perfectly that even an expert cannot detect the difference. Spaces caused by loss of teeth now are bridged over in ways undreamed of in the past. Cavities that used to be filled with unsightly metal now are filled with clever enamel inlays. In that respect, the world is a better place for us than it used to be.

The structure of some teeth is far more delicate than that of others. Extremes of heat or cold that affect a fragile tooth will have no effect upon a strong one.

Our best weapon against tooth troubles is the toothbrush. It must be used properly. Motion should be away from the gums, since harsh pressure against the tissues might cause abrasion. Where there are abrasions there is a possibility of infection.

We are told that, to be extra careful, the brushing should be done immediately after each meal. Certain food elements, left in the mouth, can change in character within a few hours' time, producing chemicals that cause havoc. It is necessary to clean the teeth before retiring. As for the effect of diet on the teeth, there is a difference of opinion, yet all dentists advise plenty of milk, because of the calcium content.

GLACIERS RESPONSIBLE

The location of good farming soil in various parts of Canada resulted from centuries of glacial action.

They're here again — all Canadians favorite fruit — juicy, rosy-red apples. The pick of this year's crop has just arrived at Empire, and our mouth-watering beauty is bursting with crisp flavor and good health. You'll want to eat them "as is" .. bake them in pies and cakes .. prepare them in many other popular ways. Apples add zest to the menu any way you fix them, and at these low prices you'll want several pounds.

MADOC

Rebekah Lodge Holds Successful Bazaar

Madoc—Bright, sunny skies and unusually unseasonable summer weather greeted the ladies who attended the afternoon tea and bazaar sponsored by Oakdale Rebekah Lodge, on Wednesday afternoon last, which was held in the spacious home of Dr. and Mrs. Grant Fraser, Madoc. The library, dining-room, and double living-rooms made a perfect setting enhanced by soft lights and numerous vases of chrysanthemums of various hues. The hostesses for the event were Mrs. G. Fraser and Mrs. George Hill.

The tea table was lovely with its fine lace cloth, silver bowl of variegated 'mums, and silver candelabra holding pink and green candles. Presiding over the silver tea services for the first hour were Mrs. Robt. Bristol and Mrs. Blanche Alexander, P.D. D.P. They were followed by Mrs. Clarence Graham, of Tweed, District Deputy president of Belleville district, and Mrs. Judson McGowan, immediate Past District Deputy, and Mrs. Geo. Hill, newly elected Noble Grand, of Oakdale Rebekah Lodge. Those who served were Mrs. Harry Tufts, Mrs. Everett Cassidy, Mrs. Warren Hill, Mrs. Ernie Lough, Mrs. Art Brady, and Mrs. Howard Stickwood. Mrs. L. Howorth replenished the sandwich relish, and cookie plates from time to time. Mrs. C. Farrow, Miss Annie Holmes, Mrs. Will Parks, Mrs. Getha Cretney, Mrs. Ben Miller and Mrs. Bert Bailey carried out the numerous duties in the kitchen.

Fine Fine Articles

The bazaar table was in charge of Mrs. Dave Blakely, Mrs. Art Reid and Mrs. F. Hollrid. Here you could purchase aprons of every size and style, fine lace doilies, knitted baby clothes, gloves, doll's clothes, dainty pin cushions, pot holders, tea towels, lace cloths, tiny umbrellas made from colored handkies, knitting bags, crib quilt, and other articles.

Also in connection with the bazaar was a "hidden bargain" table. These articles were attractively wrapped and each contained something worth the value marked on the outside of the package. Needless to say, the element of curiosity aided in disposing of all these packages.

The home cooking table displayed many tempting products. You could choose from an array of cakes, tarts, muffins, fancy cookies, jams, jellies, pickles, McIntosh apples, lemon pies with meringue piled high, appetizing apple pies and delicious looking jars of various other kinds, homemade cream candy, chocolate fudge and doughnuts.

Treasurer for this highly successful event was Mrs. P. Holland. Visitors were present from Tweed, Stirling, Belleville and Wellman's Corners.

A delightful tea carefully planned and successfully culminated.

Women's Activities

SHANNONVILLE W.M.S.

The monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of Shannonville United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Wood on Thursday last with sixteen ladies present. Mrs. Sam Elliott, group leader, opened the meeting by reading the call to worship and the Scripture Lesson from John 17, and a poem written by Dr. Kagawa of Japan, "Living Christ, Living Christ". The theme for the month was, "One in Christ".

A reading, "A Thanksgiving Message" was given by Mrs. A. Greatrix.

Mrs. L. W. Scott had charge of the business period, and thanked the members who had assisted her in the worship service at the W.M.S. rally held at the Tabernacle Church in Belleville, in October. A letter of thanks was also read from the secretary, from Mrs. Albert MacDonald for the card of sympathy she received at the time of her husband's death. Roll call showed that several calls had been made on the sick during the month.

Mrs. Everett Stration, treasurer, reported that $139. had been sent away, leaving a balance of $39.46 on hand. The annual assessment, a slate of officers for 1951, with but few changes being made in the list.

Mrs. A. Greatrix, temperance secretary, gave a suitable reading on this subject, and Mrs. D. Hinchey reported a Mission Band organized at Milltown school with 13 members. There are now four Mission Bands in this district working through the schools: Shannonville, with, Mrs. Stanley MacDonald as leader; Shetlers, with Mrs. George Curry; Spencers, Mrs. Archie Greatrix; and Milltown, Mrs. Damon Hinchey. These four leaders are assisted by the co-operation of the teachers of these schools.

The study secretary, Mrs. Damon Hinchey read a list of projects from which to choose. There is a great need of warm clothing for relief work, as well as used garments in good condition. Mrs. Robertson took the next chapter of the study book on Japan, which told of churches and Christian colleges being built in Japan, and Christians are showing great faith and a spirit of sacrifice in this work.

Thanks were extended to the hostess for opening her home for the meeting, after which refreshments were served by Mrs. Wood and her assistants. The next meeting will be held at the parsonage, mite boxes to be brought then.

Certain Exhibits Not Allowed To be Shown

Picton, Ont., Nov. 8 (CP) — Mrs. Beatrice Hilditch said Tuesday she and other Crown witnesses at the second murder trial of James Fosbrey read over statements they made at earlier hearings while waiting to testify.

Under cross-examination from defence counsel R. D. Nourse, Mrs. Hilditch admitted that copies of previous testimony had been handed Crown witnesses, but she said she "didn't know" who had distributed them.

Earlier, Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven had ruled inadmissible as prejudicial to the accused certain Crown exhibits.

Barred as exhibits were a hunting knife, blood-stained clothing and police photographs taken at the scene of the slaying in Napanee a year ago. Fosbrasy was charged in the knife-slaying of his wife Nov. 28, 1949.

Fosbrey, a former member of the Royal Air Force, pleaded innocent at the opening of his second trial Monday, when a jury of 10 farmers, a baker and a taxi driver was chosen.

At the first trial, held in Napanee, Fosbrasy was sentenced to be hanged Sept. 21. He won an appeal and a change of venue to this town 25 miles southeast of Belleville.

Admits Stabbing

Defence Counsel R. D. Nourse admitted to the jury that Fosbrasy had stabbed his wife "at least four times." Mr. Justice Treleaven ruled that "any evidence which is merely confirmatory of the admission is not necessary; nor is it properly admissible if there is any possibility of its operating on the minds of the jury to the prejudice of the accused."

Phillip Gardner, Napanee Salvation Army officer, identified he interviewed both Mr. and Mrs. Fosbrasy the day of the slaying, knew of their engagement and got the impression that Fosbrasy "was passionately in love with Mrs. Fosbrasy."

Fosbrasy married her in Kingston in 1944 while training with the RAF.

Fosbrasy's father-in-law, John Currat, told the court Fosbrasy took Stanislaw Steinbach home for supper several times and later accused his wife of adultery with Steinbach.

He said he had never heard a row of any kind in the Fosbrasy home adjoining his until after Steinbach had been introduced to Mrs. Fosbrasy.

Mrs. Hilditch testified that Fosbrasy had several times accused his wife of having an affair with "the Pole."

Residents Tell Of Brawl on Lindsay Street

Lindsay, Ont., Nov. 8 — (CP)— Two Lindsay residents testified Tuesday they witnessed the fatal stabbing of Jack Loucks on the main street of this Victoria county town a year ago.

They were called as Crown witnesses at the second trial of William Yuzwa of Hamilton on a charge of murdering Loucks. The first trial last February ended in a jury disagreement.

Yuzwa and three brothers, Paul, James and John Zahodnik, were arrested outside Peterborough, 22 miles east of here, following the stabbing of Loucks and five other persons in Lindsay. All were charged with murder, but the charges against the Zahodniks were later withdrawn and they were convicted of assault.

Wesley Aldred, a laborer, testified he saw a man identified as Joe Kearns of LIndsay yelling "Why don't you come out and fight?" at Yuzwa as he sat in a truck. Loucks, also on the street, went over to the truck and asked "What do you want, boys?"

Yuzwa answered "I own this truck and you fellows keep away from it," Aldred said. He said Loucks appeared to have been drinking.

Aldred said Yuzwa later got out of the truck and met three men coming out of a nearby cafe. They came over and stood in front of Loucks.

Grabbed His Mouth

"I saw the backs of Yuzwa's arms go forward," Aldred said. "Loucks grabbed his mouth with his left hand — he staggered and threw blood on the sidewalk.

"Loucks headed west maybe 50 feet up the sidewalk and then out into the road, whenever he took his hand away from his mouth there was a stream of blood."

Herbert J. Hardy of Lindsay said he had just entered a car with two friends near the café when "there seemed to be a bit of an argument between five or six men.

"Someone came down from the west toward the group . . . when he got opposite the group an arm swung out and struck him. He immediately went back toward the west, travelling backward."

He said he thought it was "just another street brawl" and went home. He did not learn until the next day that Loucks had been killed.

Newly-Married Women Hard Hit By Regulations

Ottawa, Nov. 6—CP—Chiselling on unemployment insurance by newly-married women will be made tougher under new labor department regulations coming into effect Nov. 15.

The regulations will not hit at working wives but will clamp down on those who quit jobs for marriage and then try to collect unemployment benefits without intending to return to work.

Under the new regulations, jobless benefits will be obtained as usual by married women:

1. Who have lost employment because of layoffs due to shortage of work.

2. Who have lost their jobs within two weeks before marriage or at any time after marriage because of an employer rule against retaining married women.

3. Whose husbands have died, become wholly or permanently incapitated, or separated from them.

But those who are not covered by the three exceptions will be automatically disqualified from receiving benefits for the first two years of marriage unless they supply proof that they are willing able for employment.

This proof will consist in working at least 90 days in employment other than for immediate relatives. If a woman has not been employed at the time of her marriage, the 90 days may begin any time after that. If she is employed when she is married, the 90 days will begin only after she has left the job.

58 SHIPS HELD UP

Montreal, Nov. 8. (CP)—Some 50 ships were held up Tuesday night through a break in a 12-foot sill in St. Catherines Locks of the Lachine Canal. The break caused water to leak through the lock gates.

Department of Transport engineers said they expect to have normal ship traffic moving today. About 20 ships are waiting to move into Montreal harbor and another 30 are waiting to start their up-bound trip.

GOLDEN SIDEWALK

Lillooet, B.C. (CP)—Crews of workmen are pouring gold-bearing cement for more than a mile of sidewalk in this town 200 miles northeast of Vancouver. The gravel was taken from the famous banks of the Cayoosh Creek, but the workmen don't bother panning the stuff. Old-timers say it wouldn't yield more than a few dollars for 12 hours' work.

ADDED STARTER

Special trains bearing Western Canada horses and cattle entered in the Royal Winter Fair arrived in Toronto Monday night. Early Tuesday morning there was an added starter in the person of this new calf. CITY REBUILDS

Reconstruction of the St. Lawrence southshore city of Rimouski, which was almost wiped out by a disastrous fire last May, is progressing rapidly. The new buildings, as this photo shows, are modern steel, brick and stone structures being built on the ashes and ruins of the fire-ravaged city. Most of the burned buildings were of wooden construction. Federal and provincial grants and a coast-to-coast public appeal speeded up the giant rebuilding job, now more than three-quarters completed. — (CP Photo.)

I Hear Adventure Calling

By Emilie Loring

"Not in this wet frock. I would wait downstairs. Leave this door open. If you hear any kind of sound, yell."

"No. I would be willing to swear, though, that when I first stepped into this gallery the cabinet was closed. I went to the kitchen door of the Digbys apartment and stood in the dark listening. Except for the fury of the storm outside I heard nothing stirring, not even the white cat. This door may have been slightly ajar when I first saw it and the impact of my feet on the floor swung it open. The enamels on the shelves look as if they might be worth their weight in gold, figuratively speaking."

"Figuratively speaking, they are."

"Isn't the cabinet kept locked?"

"Yes. Here's the key to it and the catalogue of its contents. Before I left for my swim this morning I gave them to Gene in case anyone showed a purchasing interest in the enamels. She was to return them to my desk in my office. It was there."

"Check your list."

Back and forth from jewel-toned enamels to the catalogue travelled her eyes. She checked again, whispered:

"The most valuable piece is missing."

"Sure?" She nodded. "Any chance that Gene would take it out to show a customer and forget to put it back? Customer. That's a thought. She may have sold it."

"She wouldn't do that without leaving a memorandum. She knows to a cent the value of each article in the Gallery. If she had sold it she wouldn't leave the door of the cabinet open."

She glanced around the gallery. "Nothing else seems to be miss—Look!" She pointed to the fireplace above which hung Stuart's Washington—"The wood was laid ready for lighting. It has been disturbed." It had. It was scattered as if a piece had been hastily stirred.

"What do you make of that?" she whispered.

"Can't figure it out; if the glass in the cabinet door had been smashed it would be evident that a stick from the fireplace had been used on it. It wasn't. It—"

"There's the phone! Gene calling, probably. Maybe you are right. Maybe she did sell the enamel. I'm so relieved it was possibility, my heart has spread wings."

Myles stood close behind her as seated in an English Regency painted armchair at an Empire card table in the entresol she answered the call.

"The Sargent Galleries." Fran answered the phone.

"That you, dearie?"

"It's Mrs. Betsy on the verge of tears," Fran whispered over her shoulder. "Fran Phillips speaking, Mrs. Digby."

"The Lord be praised you're home, dearie. My poor dear Lem's mother was having one of her spells and we must come at once. We left at about two in a hurry. Miss Gene was there and her sister-in-law, the widow, when the call an' she said for us to beat it an' they would look after everything. A fell kind of uneasy because there was a strange man with them, you know how girls are these days—"

"What young man?" Fran listened. Myles whispered:

"What goes that has whitened your face?"

"Just a minute, Mrs. Betsy." She covered the receiver and spoke over her shoulder. "She doesn't know who the man was with the girls but just as she and Len were leaving, Barth, the waiter, who helped with the tea appeared. When they told him why and where they were going, he asked if he couldn't stay and help at the gallery."

"Ask if he did. Quick. I can hear everything she says."

"Did he stay Mrs. Betsy?"

"I can't say dearie. We were so anxious to get away we didn't stop to find out. Autos were coming and going when we left. Lots of folks to see the new pictures, I guess. An' what d'you know, when we got to Lem's mother's, there she was merry as a grig, surprised enough to see us, said nobody had sent for us."

"What did you make of that?"

"We didn't stop to make anything of it, dearie, we lit out for home. Suspicioned some devilry was afoot, the papers are full of such tricks. We got on a rough road detour, our gas tank sprang a leak and before you could say Jack Robinson every drop was gone. I sat in the car while Lem walked three miles to a filling station. Are you there, dearie?"

"Yes. Go on."

Fran listened with an undercurrent of speculation running through her mind. Barth, waiter, ex-bulber, perhaps finger man, had appeared as the Digbys were leaving—in response to a faked call — where was the £5,650 painting—had he been after that? Was the missing enamel a red herring drawn across the trail. If only she knew where the Constable was and could check—

"The gas fellas wouldn't drive Lem back until he had to. Got it against the storm," Mrs. Betsy was continuing her saga. "He was all in when he reached me, I got him to my sister's. The doctor says if he keeps quiet tonight he'll be fine in the morning, but, oh dear—"

"Stop and get your breath, Mrs. Digby. He will come through all right."

"Sure. Yaint him I'm worrying about, there's two things. I'm whispering. I don't want Lem to hear, he's mad as hops. I was so upset I left the key in the outside of the kitchen door. Get it quick. And the other thing is, you shouldn't stay alone in that place all night with all the valuables, not after that fake call that came for us."

Myles seized the phone.

"She isn't alone, Betsy, and she won't stay here tonight. We're getting out as soon as this storm lets us." The wire faithfully transmitted her croon of satisfaction.

"I'm that thankful you're there Myles, I could cry. Get supper in our place. There's cold chicken in the icebox and—" He cradled the telephone.

"They've shut her off. The Digbys are out of this picture tonight. You'd better phone your boss. Tell him what has happened and that Silas hasn't reported yet. He'll carry on from there."

After a lengthy conversation she rose from the table.

"Mr. Sargent was annoyed almost to inarticulateness. I could hear his gasp of agony when I reported that the enamel was missing. He is furious that Silas Pond hasn't shown up. He roared that a watchman shouldn't let a little blow like this stop him. He is coming himself to take over, will bring the deputy sheriff and it may take time to get him. Ordered me to remain on duty till he arrived. Said I'd better go to Rocky Point for the night, I shan't go."

"You'll go there or home with me. Nat would love to have you."

"I'm not leaving. I'll lock myself in upstairs—"

"Remember we found the door of the cabinet swinging!" She nodded. "Remember that the exbutler arrived just as the Digbys were leaving in reply to a faked message? I see by your eyes that you get me. I heard Betsy say she left the key in the outside of the kitchen door. Someone came in that way. Someone opened the Louis XV cabinet and stole an enamel. Who? If after those reminders you still intend to spend the night here, I stay too."

"Don't be absurd. You couldn't."

"Couldn't I? Want to be shown? Will you go or stay?"

"I'll go to the Sargent's. You are something of a dictator, aren't you?"

"So Sinclair, to whom you are 'practically engaged' implied, I've gained my point. I usually get what I start for. Remember that. We'll have time to raid the icebox before your boss comes and when he does come, watch out. Don't lead with your chin. Wait for him to ask questions. After which warning, en avant, soldat."

"I keep wondering why that man Barth appeared just as he did," Fran said as they reached the threshold of the Digbys kitchen. Myles snapped on the light. "We know that the young man whom Betsy said came with Gene and Matilde Sargent was Blake, so that mystery—"

"I'll be darned. Look!" The last word was a whisper. Myles pointed to the floor. Muddy footprints crossed the marbelized black and white linoleum from pantry to window, from window to the entrance door upon which he had pounded for admittance not so long before.

"They're still very wet." Fran's whisper matched his for earnest. "This proves that a door did close, we didn't imagine it. They key is on the inside, Mrs. Betsy said she left it in the lock outside. Remember the glint of light you saw in the kitchen when we stopped the car?"

U.S. May Ask U.N. Council To Demand Withdrawal of Chinese Reds From Korea

By STANLEY JOHNSON

Lake Success, N. Y., Nov. 8 (AP) — The United States may ask the United Nations Security Council today to demand withdrawal of Chinese communists forces from Korea.

The council met in emergency session to take up Gen. MacArthur's charges that the Chinese reds are fighting alongside the North Koreans.

The U. S., it is learned, has prepared a resolution including the order for the red withdrawal, but its introduction may be delayed by two factors:

1. A need for further consultations with other delegations in order to present a unified front against expected Russian obstruction.

2. The probability that the council will be tied up in a procedural wrangle over inviting red China to send a representative for discussion of MacArthur's charges.

At every previous council session dealing with Korea or China, Russia's Jacob A. Malik has demanded that a representative of the communist Peiping government be invited to be seated to repeat that demand today. The Council already has asked the reds to appear Nov. 15 to present charges that American "sealing off" of Formosa constitutes aggression.

An informed source said the United States is not adverse to hearing what the reds have to say but would like Malik to "summon" them to explain their conduct — not "invite" them to participate in discussion.

If the question of red Chinese representation is raised, and if last-minute consultations show other delegations in favor, the U. S. plans to introduce a resolution which would:

Asked Not to Assist

1. Call on all governments to refrain from assisting the North Koreans. This repeats an earlier demand that Russia vetoed in September.

2. Specifically demand withdrawal of Red Chinese fighting alongside the North Koreans. It will leave no doubt that the Chinese reds are meant.

3. Request the U. N. Korean commission to consider urgently all questions relating to the Korean-Manchurian border.

The third section of the resolution is in line with one adopted by the Korean interim committee last night.

Sponsored by Carlos P. Romulo, of the Philippines, that document, in effect, assures Peiping that allied forces will respect the integrity of the Korean-Manchurian border. It would ask its commission in Korea to proceed to the area to survey conditions.

An American spokesman said its purpose is to reassure the Chinese communists if they are worried about the integrity of their frontier. Many Diplomats hope it will induce Peiping to withdraw its forces without a new military action by U. N. troops.

Two Canadians yesterday took prominent part in debates in the political and Palestine committees.

L. B. Pearson, Canada's external affairs Minster, said the dominion "is not inclined to distrust to the judgment and charter of the U. N. than a set of rigid definitions in deciding what is and what is not aggression.

Direct Aggression

In an address before the U.N. political committee on the duties of states in the event of the outbreak of hostilities, he said a Russian proposal for defining aggression fails to take into account indirect aggression, disputes over matters of fact, and the changing face of modern warfare.

Aggression of the old type, where a country declares war and marches across a frontier without attempting to conceal or excuse the fact, "may be out of date as the Charge of the Light Brigade."

He said that under Russia's proposed definition, France and Britain's declaration of war on Nazi Germany in 1939, despite a provoked attack on aggressive would have made them aggressors.

Similarly, the western powers' action in fighting the Berlin blockade could have been described as aggression under the Russian terms.

Koreans Aggressed

In the Korean war, Pearson said, the U.N. commission on Korea said the North Koreans aggressed in crossing the 38th parallel, But Russia insisted that it was north Korean territory that was first invaded.

Hughes Lapointe, Canada's politico-general, called on the Ad Hoc Committee for a permanent settlement of Palestine's refugees. He told the committee that Canada has supported relief programs so far provided. But "we should like to be reassured that any further contributions... will be utilized within the framework of permanent reintegration of the refugees, and will not be regarded as merely in the nature of stop-gap assistance..."

"The Canadian government," he said, "is anxious to see a final and permanent solution to this problem... (it) would be prepared to consider the extension of further assistance...on the distinct understanding, however, that such assistance would be designed to facilitate the final transition of the refugees from their present status to permanent reintegration...."

Thomas E. Dewey Wins Third Term As N.Y. Governor

New York, Nov. 8 (AP) — Governor Thomas E. Dewey yesterday won his third term as Governor of New York in a smashing election victory that re-established him as a power to be reckoned with when the Republicans choose a 1952 Presidential candidate.

The rout of New York State Democrats was virtually complete except for the re-election of Senator Herbert H. Lehman, the 72-year-old veterans champaigner who rode to victory on the Democrat-Liberal ticket.

More than 5,250,000 persons voted—a record for an election in a non-Presidential year. There were 6,443,317 registered, and eligible to vote in the state.

Dewey defeated Representative Walter A. Lynch, 56-year-old Democratic-Liberal candidate, by a shifting of about 1,000,000 votes.

In the Senatorial contest, Lehman had about a 250,000 vote margin over Joe R. Hoey, who broke down of exhaustion in the closing days of the campaign and went defeat in a hospital bed.

A feature of Dewey's triumph was his sudden, unusual jump in the esteem of big city voters.

The 48-year-old Governor has said he will not run for president again—after two defeats at the hands of presidents Roosevelt and Truman. He has endorsed Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as his choice for Republican presidential candidate.

This year's campaign was New York's bitterest in years, but Dewey rolled well with the punches. His cool, haughty pose of 1948 was replaced by easy-going, down-to-earth manner that paid off handsomely, making him the first Republican to win a third term as New York Governor.

Liberals Open Convention in Toronto Thurs.

Toronto, Nov. 8 (CP) — The Progressive Conservatives move out of Toronto today and the Liberals take over.

The Progressive Conservatives, ruling party in Ontario politics with 37 of the 90 seats in the provincial legislature, wound up their annual meeting yesterday with a speech by Premier Frost, who said that Ontario needs both skilled and unskilled workers to meet the growing industrial demands of the province.

The vanguard of some 900 delegates began arriving today for the Ontario Liberal leadership convention which opens tomorrow and winds up Friday afternoon with the selection of a new leader to succeed Farquhar Oliver.

Mr. Oliver, who announced more than a year ago that he wanted to retire after two years at the party helm, has continued as House leader of the legislature's 13 Liberals.

A sense of urgency gripped early arrivals among the Liberals, who feel there is a possibility of a provincial general election in 1951—two years before the normal expiration of office ends. However, Mr. Frost said in an interview yesterday that "I am not under terms of thought to calling an election."

Mr. Frost's speech was, in a sense, a report on his stewardship since he took over the reins following the resignation of George Drew to take up the post of high commissioner to Britain.

The Premier said the government has adequate power, specific industries for 15,400 workers and that the Hydro-Electric Power Commission has already issued an additional 2,000 men within the building trades.

Bring From Britain

The workers might have to be brought in from Britain, Mr. Frost suggested. His government had already made its needs known to federal authorities and "further requests would be given at a forthcoming conference at Ottawa.

After the war, Ontario embarked on an air immigration scheme under which Britons by the thousands were brought to the province.

Mr. Frost spoke of the government's record in providing hydro, expanding power production, improving forestry practice, building new schools and improving old ones, constructing highways and encouraging industrial production.

As for the Liberals, five members are certain debate in the leadership race: John G. Brown of Kitchener, member of the legislature for Waterloo South, Campbell Calder, member of the legislature for London; Arnott Hicks and John J. Sullivan, both of Hamilton; William Thomas, a lawyer who has a farm near Oshawa and represents Ontario constituency in the House of Commons.

It appears highly probable that Norman O. Hipel of Preston will yield to pressure from some sections of the party and become a candidate. He is a former cabinet minister and former President of the Ontario Liberal Association. Harry Cassidy, director of the school of social work at the University of Toronto, and Charles W. Cox, legislature member for Fort William, are possible candidates.

In addition to choosing a leader, the Liberals will consider a statement of aims and policies of the party in Ontario and will hear an address by Hon. C. D. Howe, Federal Minister of Trade and Commerce.

Mother of Man Who Disappeared Dies of Seizure

Toronto, Nov. 8 (CP) — Mrs. Agnes Ryan Greene, 60, mother of a Toronto man who disappeared under mysterious circumstances three months ago, died suddenly of what a seizure in a theatre lobby. Relatives said Mrs. Greene, who died Aug. 8 of her only son, school teacher Alfred Greene, was a "great shock" to her.

Greene vanished at the same time as Mrs. Hazel Rosenson, a pretty, black-haired brunette who was a former pupil in his night-school English class. His bloodstained automobile was found in Rosedale ravine here with its keys still in the ignition. Police who checked on a theory that the couple had gone to Mrs. Rosenson's native Australia, now believe Greene and the woman are in the United States.

Defence Safety For Dominion Will Cost $500 Million Yearly For Next 5 Years Says Speaker

Canada will have to pay $500,000,000 annually for the next five years, over and above pre-Korean plans, for defence safety. That's the opinion of Col. W. W. Goforth, economic expert who spoke to the Kiwanis Club at yesterday's luncheon.

Col. Goforth, who served in both wars and was connected with the setting up of the Defence Research Board said that the above figure was a minimum and that there was "every probability that it will be quite likely increased by as much as 100 per cent." Furthermore, the figure quoted applies to 1950 dollars only, and thus will make payment tougher with further inflation.

"We are about to be the share on the same scale as the United Kingdom and the United States, then she must spend not six or seven per cent of her national income on defence", the speaker said, "but 13½ per cent of her national income."

½ of Every Dollar

"One-eighth of every dollar in the next five years", he said, "will be devoted to defence safety measures." If said war, Col. Goforth continued, "would take one-half of the national income and that pace could not be maintained without a permanent weakening of the country's economic strength."

Recognizance that the world is closer to war has brought restoration of the defence plan and pattern presented to the government by the Chiefs of Staff at the end of World War II. Canada, on the assumption that a natural peace would follow the cessation of hostilities, had cut her defence resources down to half of what the defence experts had recommended.

"We cut away most of the muscle", Col. Goforth said. "Now we are beginning to replace the muscle, not to the standard we need, but to the standards set in 1945 by military, air and naval leaders", he said.

Odds Against War

"The odds are still heavily against a full scale, world war III in the next few years", he continued. Col. Goforth said that the odds had narrowed considerably with the Korean uprising, but that there need not be a war. Quoting eminent authorities, he said that the next shooting war would be a 25 per cent effort all across the country.

Col. Goforth told the Kiwanians that Canada's armed forces needs will be met by a "balanced force of three or four fully equipped and trained groups, with less emphasis of these groups the long range interceptor type. "All of this would have to be ready to go at any moment", he said.

Naval forces would have to man a full convoy flotilla for each ocean, and a small flotilla for Arctic and sub-arctic waters. This would mean a modernization of some World War II ships "now completely obsolete", he said. "The army", he said, "even without full scale war, must have a force in readiness of at least two divisions."

Toronto is Target

"Belleville need not worry about being the target for an atom bomb," Col. Goforth said. Toronto is the number three atom bomb target in Canada, and ranks in the first 25 on the North American continent. Communistative sources now believe that Russia has approximately 25 atom bombs in her possession, he said.

"The Canadian people must look for higher taxes and more self-denial," Col. Goforth said. Estimates of men in the highest circles in Ottawa and Washington are that for the next 12 months, inflation will take a 12 per cent hike in the United States, a 10 per cent jump in Canada and an eight per cent climb in the United Kingdom.

The 10 per cent Canadian inflation "assumes that indirect measures of control, but not a straitjacket, will be applied, and applied at the proper time", Col. Goforth said. He said that the universal question of where the money would come from can be answered two ways — taxes and self-denial. "In the latter," he said, "the people of Canada will have to treat the country's crisis as they do a family crisis — give some things up."

Tweedsmuir Quoted

Col. Goforth quoted Lord Tweedsmuir, who once said that "no free society can survive until the rule of law many is also the rule of the best" — the "best" in the old Greek tradition of the people who are always given over to his generation than he has taken from it.

Col. Goforth was introduced by Fraser Fulton, program chairman and thanked by Jack Walton, Doug Sinclair and Phil Huddleston led the sing song.

Places Manitoba's Flood Loss at $23,000,000

Winnipeg, Nov. 8—(CP)—Premier Campbell last night estimated the cost of Manitoba's spring flood crisis at $23,000,000, and said he believes Federal government will "substantially increase" its $12,500,000 rehabilitation contribution.

The premier gave the estimate to a special session of the legislature, called to pass judgment on the provincial government's handling of the crisis last spring.

The opposition accused the government of "steamroller" tactics. Progressive Conservative Britons by linked in a coalition government with Liberal Progressives and one official opposition, lined up with C.C.F. speakers in asserting the premier used "undemocratic" procedure.

Government spokesmen, led by Premier Campbell, said the opposition was exaggerating its case and seeking "ulterior motives."

Mr. Campbell said that when he presents the budget speech later in the session he will provide the house with a detailed account for the money spent and how much more will be needed.

"For the time being, I am able to report the most recent and reliable flood cost estimate which sets the costs the province will bear, in whole or in part, at $23,000,000," Premier Campbell said.

Major item in the premier's estimate was $12,000,000 to the Red River Valley Board towards restoring the flooded homes and premises of private individuals.

"We already have received from the federal government $7,500,000, with a definite promise of $5,000,000 more," the premier said. "And, depending upon final determination and classification of flood costs in this province, we believe that this figure will be substantially increased."

Shiming Cadillac Has Turned Into A Red Herring

Ottawa, Nov. 8—(CP)—Out of a clear sky, a check, identified as a Cadillac, landed into a red herring.

It's a bit of blennial black magic which Mayor Adecious (Eddie) Bourque figures shouldn't happen to a mayor.

It's the sort of thing that happens every civic election, but Mayor Bourque is evincing hurt surprise that one of his colleagues aldermen on city council are "trying to make a political red herring out of a Cadillac."

The suave, moustached chief magistrate is nearing the end of his first term in office. The car is, of course, only one of many "red herrings" and "political foothalls" which have magically appeared on the capital scene as the Dec. 4 civic election looms.

The whole question of the car came up about two months ago, when city council decided to replace the city's old executive car —about four years old—with a new one. Upkeep on the old job was getting too high, it was said, so the new car was purchased for $6,091.50.

Storms Calm Down

The issue which arose at the time of the decision gradually calmed down, and Mayor Bourque finally got delivery. He took local newspaper men for a drive, explaining that he had been used to driving the finest in automobiles all his life, knew all about them, and loved a good motor.

All was well, until at a council meeting this week Aldermen Grant Shaw complained that the $6,091.50 was never included in the civic estimates. When money for other things was sought, council had been told such money had not been available to legislatures. Besides, Alderman Shaw added, the council passed the Cadillac item after Controller Harry Cassidy had left the room.
